CSUSB
Boycotts ‘for rights’

The CSUSB campus remained quiet while Monday morning was held. Many in the San Bernardino community believed the event at CSUSB was not as peaceful as it seemed on the surface.

Over a million demonstrators took to the streets all across the country in what is being called the largest civil rights protest since the sixties.

Services to Students with Disabilities getting out there

CSUSB also provides specific services on campus through the Services to Students with Disabilities. "Equal access is vital for students with disabilities to participate in the academic environment. They also strive to provide quality services and accommodations in a timely and efficient manner. Services to Students with Disabilities are committed to ensuring access and program access and ensuring awareness and understanding of students with disabilities across the CSUSB community," said Beth Jackson, the interim director of services to students with disabilities.

Jackson also states that Services to Students with Disabilities have recently made a multi- tude of new and additionally benefi- cial improvements within the services to Students with Disabilities by hiring an additional counselor who has reduced the wait times for students with psychological disabilities to receive service. Additionally, Services to Students with Disabilities has improved the timeliness of delivery through additional staff and procedures in order to improve their services.

Stuart Green performs

Ashley A. Jones Chronicle Staff Writer

CSUSB's Department of Music welcomed music professor Stuart Green as he performed a classical guitar recital on behalf of the "First Wednesday" concert series.

The recital was held in the Performing Arts Recital Hall, accommodating a great number of students and faculty of diverse individuals.

"I love to play guitar," Green said. "I wanted the chance to get excited and involved, music is one of the few things in life that can bring you happiness and a joyful well-being." Green is a member of the Department of Music faculty and is also a student of diverse individuals.

The concert event took place in the Performing Arts building. Green and Cabalo performed 17 song selections from a variety of well-known composers. Some of the composers included: "Imagens do Nordeste," "Ministros do Rio Leito" and "Boliviana" from Brazilian composer Celso Machado; "Prelude & Figurine No. 5 in D Major" from Russian composer Dmitri Shostakovich; and "Overture to the Opera "La Clemenza di Tito" from European composer W.A. Mozart.

Green has been a teacher with the CSUSB Music Department for many years. He began studying music at the age of seven. His interest in guitar playing developed in his last ten years. He expressed that his greatest satisfaction is teaching classical guitar and being able to pass on the tradition and creating a community. He said, "I want to build a bond that the state may pass; it will not be very favorable to the campus because only an approximate 50 percent of the bond itself will be offered to CSUSB. A possible use of the money is the Performing Arts complex because it needs to be presented better, according to Green. It is good, a good experience."

Green said that there will be a bond that the state may pass; it will not be very favorable to the campus because only an approximate 50 percent of the bond itself will be offered to CSUSB. A possible use of the money is the Performing Arts complex because it needs to be presented better, according to Green.

As of now, Karnig does not know the budget but said, "It will approximately be about 3.5 to 3.6 million," and dispersed to additional areas but is negotiable. Additional money will be distributed to other programs such as Nursing. This year is going to be challenging for us as an enrollment goes. CSUSB may lose money. Last year we were one percent short of the target enrollment. Although the area is growing, people are not necessarily going to college. Despite efforts to increase interest in education and enhance enrollment, the San Bernardino Unified School District ranked last in graduation rates. Karnig says that some of the reasons for this are: urbanization, demographics and mobility problems. There was an approximate 90 percent difference in attendance from September to June.

Karnig emphasized that good mentors help for encouraging and the development of self worth, Clubs and organizations, such as Key Club, are valuable because it spoke of the importance of higher education to children.

Karnig said that when he was younger he cared more for the "respect of friends over [his] respect of family."

Something that has also been a prevalent factor for children and adolescents is their own discipline and sacrifices for school. Karnig said, "The less you get you are less inclined to be happy making music. He concludes by saying it's most rewarding when the viewers enjoy themselves." He concludes by saying it's important for students to find a way to be happy making music. He encourages them to continue practicing and enjoying playing.

Green and Cabalo's next concert event will be in the summer of 2006.

The new technology, known as BrainPort, operates by tracking microelectrodes in the tongue, which serve to take outside sensory information and connect it to the brain. The brain then interprets this information and, essentially, forms a sonar system within your head.

Developed by Dr. Paul Bach-y-Rita, a neuroscientist from the University of Wisconsin and founder of Wicab, Inc., BrainPort has been 30 years in the making. It was originally designed to be attached to the back, but Bach-y-Rita discovered that the tongue served as a better sensory conductor in practice. At this point, BrainPort is roughly the size of a hardcover, but it is still in development and there have been attempts to shrink the device to a size able to fit onto a belt for portable use. If this is accomplished, the implications could be astounding.

"As the proposed balance-applications, BrainPort device substitutes for the lack of combinational input by transmitting information about head position, as sensed by an accelerometer, to an electrode array placed on the tongue," said a representative of Wicab, Inc., the biomedical engineering company that owns the BrainPort trademark.

Testing has shown that blind subjects had enough sensory information arising from the BrainPort to catch balls thrown at them and find doorways when walking without any other assistance. Those who lost their balance from inner ear ailments and Parkinson's have found some success in reorienting their abilities.

Investigations applied the device for giving them the ability to sense the intricacies of a murky underwater crime scene that was a mystery before the device was made. The advanced sonar system creates a mental image of a terrain that previously had been visibility using the eyes alone, allowing agents searching for bodies or evidence to accurately navigate their crime scenes.

Those with vision that is still to be restored from the BrainPort's restoration of sensory abilities. Autism has been shown to greatly improve sensory function, which is thought to contribute greatly to cognitive and social difficulties. With compensation for the sensory dysfunction, autistic people have the potential to gain abilities that were once unknown to them.

BrainPort is planning to demonstrate BrainPort for military officials this year. If all goes well, they will put it on the fast track to put them in military use by the end of the year. Science fiction may soon become reality.

In contrast - Catholic vs. Protestant

Jessica Achorn
Staff Writer

If you are anything like me, you grew up in a Christian home not knowing what the differences are between Catholicism and Protestantism, which is one of the three main branches of Christianity. You might want to find these minutes and become enlightened.

Today, the word Protestant is defined as "to be against." Originally, the term means, "to be a witness," with the profane "testifying for." In general, the early Protestants formed the term as those who advocated a formal separation from the Roman Catholic Church.

Martin Luther, who believed that the Catholic Church had over-complicated the gospel with traditions as well as distorted the message of salvation, headed the reform. He, along with the other reformers, wanted to return to the simplicity of the gospel and what they believed was the correct interpretation of "Justification" before God.

The Protestants devised the five solas, which outlined and defined the seen in their beliefs differed from the Catholic Church. The five solas of Sola Scriptura (scriptural alone), Sola Fide (faith alone), Sola Gratia (grace alone), Sola Christus (Christ alone), and Sola pistis (faith alone).

Sola Scriptura (scriptural alone) was hundreds of years in the making. Wilbur E. Dabbs elaborated on the process by saying that they recognized the bread and wine before the priest in the moment of consecration as "something spiritual happens, become more than a symbol." Catholicism admits that Martin Luther was not such a bad guy and he was right to question the use of indulgences. According to Father, "It was a valid move," but it was wrong.

Catholics do not believe that they can have faith in the bread and wine before the priest, yet they have not expressed any desire to reconcile with God. Martin Luther was right to question the use of indulgences in the Catholic Church.

If you are anything like me, you grew up in a Christian home not knowing what the differences are between Catholicism and Protestantism, which is one of the three main branches of Christianity. You might want to find these minutes and become enlightened.

Purgatory is a belief of the Catholic faith that is still very alive and well today in the world.
Silent Hill was a major bust; writer Jodelle Ferland and Radha Mitchell, is in Silent Hill looking for some sleep. Not being the first time this happens, her mother Rose (Mitchell) realizes that when her daughter is gone and everywhere around her is covered in ash. She starts looking for her daughter and finds herself in and out of a hellish world, which is seemingly brought about by loud screams and total darkness. Rose starts running into demons, and with the help of the cop, who is also stuck in the city with her, she starts to learn the truth of what really happened in Silent Hill. There was one scene in which a woman’s skin is completely ripped off her body by a demonic character. There were no scenes that really matched the audience and made everyone jump, which should be standard in a good scary movie. The movie just wasted blood and violence to try and scare everyone. There was no real suspense or shock at all.

I have to admit that I have never played the game Silent Hill, and I’m not a fan of horror films in general. But this is one of the worst movies I have seen in years. I hate how many scary movies out little kids go to see a scary now. I agree that little kids can be made to look creepy, but why does every scary movie have to have a little kid in it?

This movie is really something you enjoy, you might like this one. But if you just go for the scares looking for a good time, I would suggest saving your money and waiting until X- Men comes out.

MANY STRENGTHS. ONE MISSION.

Jewel says ‘Goodbye’

Jewel says Goodbye in Wonderland. Goodbye yellow brick road. There is a difference between dreaming and pretending. That is not love in your eyes. It is a reflection of my body searching for what’s been missing in my life, truly capture her emotions. These lyrics express a way for her to escape the boring world and find something that is missing in her songs. This song is a direct beat to the chorus and the chorus has a good rhythm. The song, “Stephenville, TX” basically reviews her life from when she was growing up living in Alaska, to now residing in Southern California. The album is. Jewel has a talent singer because she expresses her true feelings. Even though she has had to overcome obstacles trying to pursue her music career, she writes songs with such emotion.

I highly recommend this album because all the songs are songs that you like Jewel’s old stuff, you will definitely enjoy every song.

Capote is one of those rare movies that does not necessarily keep you at the edge of your seat but still holds your attention. Phillip Seymour Hoffman plays the role of Truman Capote, the flamboyantly gay writer who visited a small town in Kansas in 1959 to write an article. He ended up writing one of the most popular books of the 20th century, "Cold Blood." The movie begins when Capote sees a story about a family that was murdered in Kansas. He calls his editor and goes down to Kansas to do some research for his article. He takes off for Kansas with his longtime friend and research assistant Harper Lee (Catherine Keener).

The first person Capote meets in town is Alvin Dewey (Chris Cooper), the town's sheriff. When Capote inquires about the murders, Dewey says, "I don't care if you catch who did this." Capote says, "I care." It seems that Capote will not get any interview with Dewey. But Dewey's wife, a big fan of Capote, invites him to dinner where he is able to catch Dewey's secrets in revealing secret information.

Capote then goes to a funeral home to see if he can get any more insider information. He sneaks into a room and opens the victim's suitcase to discover their hands were wrapped in cotton. In a twist, the murderers were arrested, tried and convicted. Capote hands money to a prison warden to get unlimited access to murderers Perry Smith and Richard Hickock.

Capote builds a friendship with both Smith (Cillian Murphy) and Hickock (Mark Pelligrino), gaining their trust and forming a strong bond with Smith. Capote felt as if they had the same childhood struggles, moving from place to place and being raised in dysfunctional families.

"If I leave here without understanding you, the world will see you as a monster. Always, I don't want that," said Capote to Smith trying to pump him for information. Although Capote and Smith were becoming friends, Capote's behavior would mess up the friendship.

"Capote's first love was himself. He spent hours at parties in New York, being among the best dressed and the book he had yet to write. Finally, Capote starts writing his book and takes off to Spain before getting any details of the murder from Smith. He later returns to Smith to find out the murder details in what was one of the biggest twists in the movie. Capote is one of the best movies I have seen in a long time and I definitely recommend it.

The hottest place to be on April 29 and 30 was the Coachella Valley's 7th annual music & arts festival in Indio. The festival over 40 different artists perform in 2 days on 5 different stages, and a bunch of art installations on display. It would be the equivalent to Woodstock, the California way with the sweltering heat, mountains and palm trees.

If you have never been to Coachella, it is like a buffet of music, so much to choose from and not enough room on your plate to fit it all. So you get 2 days to choose as much as you can.

I started off with a little Dance: "I Dream" Marley with a dash of Sugar Ray, a hint of Franz Ferdinand, Eagles of Death Metal, a side of Atmosphere, and topped it off with Daft Punk. I wanted to go back for more on Dance Marley, Atmosphere and Daft Punk. It was just enough to get me hungry for more.

The next day was even more delicious. Beginning with Malayoja, Streat-Rokey, Blue Party, Polk Oakfield, Gnarls Barkley, Dagsh Planets, Madonna, Massive Attack and still had enough room for Colored Cumbria. I did not even have room for this to Gnarls Barkley were Coc La Green and Dinger Mizza. They had not served up Dagu Planet in 10 years, but it was well worth the wait.

As far as desserts go, there were so many desserts all over the place. A Coachella classic Tesla coil sculpture, which shoots millions of electrons volts into the nights sky. There was a life size Japanese robot that was an interactive sonic drum symphonic named Metatron Transformer rolling around the venue.

New edition to the festivals interactive installations was the Cyclicled Bike Rodeo. This was a pedal powered carnival and consisted of a steely toy, carousel and cycloflage. There were also igloos-like domes all over the place where exhibits inside of them.

This years Coachella festival had an unusual twist to it since it featured mainstream artists like Madonna and Kanye West. This just helped Capote be a well-rounded affair and make the main steam open its eyes to this no longer little festival in the Desert. The best thing that has been said about having such a massive congregation of art and music is that everyone who goes to the festi-

SAAB fights college drop-out rates

A new organization helps young black males to take full advantage of a bright future ahead of them. The Student African American Brotherhood (SAAB) has helped to ensure the continued academic success of African American males by helping 80% of SAAB participants pursue their dreams to the present year, and helping 60% of SAAB participants graduate.

Over the years, SAAB has grown through strong leadership and personal dedication; African American college men can achieve personal and academic success.

This organization is not a club or fraternity, but an addition to the Student Union, which will help benefit African American students at Cal State San Bernardino. They are involved in many programs such as mentoring high school students, financial planning and much more. Some of their programs for members are financial, spiritual and personal development.

This was the third official year that CSUSB hosted a National Day of Prayer at the school's flagpole. Smith prayed for the national and local governments, President and First Lady Bush, the troops at home and overseas, the local police, all the faculty of the university, as well as Dr. Albert Kanu.

"Prayer for our nation is a mandate," said Smith. "We are to pray for our leaders, whether we voted for them or not. Prayer brings peace. We need peace. [That's why we] need prayer in the U.S.

The event opened with a song of worship and was preceded by the Pledge of Allegiance, which was led by CSUSB Police Lt. Jimmy Brown.

"This is not a political or rebellious rally," said Steve Wiggles, formerly of Big Ten Radio, who led the songs of worship. "This is an event to pray for our nation.

"I used to go to 'See You at the Pole in high school," said CSUSB senior Leslee Miskinis.

"What better way is there then to spend a part of my day than to be encouraged by prayer?"

Lilliana Hernandez, committee member of the CSUSB National Day of Prayer, said that she was "praying to the Lord and He led me to host this event on campus."
"Our organization introduces our members to aspects of corporate and professional America, creating opportunities for interactions with accomplished individuals, creating a support network on campus, active involvement in the Latino community, cultural awareness through education for this and future generations," said Yvette Vazquez, member of LSBA. Every month, LSBA hosts some type of event.

This month, they will be hosting their first-ever Corporate Mixer that will be held at the university's Santos Mosnell Events Center, from 6-9 p.m. on Wed., May 10.

The purpose of the Mixer is to develop a sense of communication with various companies. There will be representatives from local and national corporations including Target, Enterprise, Beneficial Financial, Amherst Buick, and Wells Fargo.

In addition, there will be many members from the 13 California State University campuses. These companies give network opportunities to LSBA, since it is linked with the large United Latino Students group.

Corporate Mixer attendees will also have the opportunity to participate in a business card-collecting competition.

Another event that LSBA will be hosting is their art show on May 21, which will be held in Redlands; the location is still to be announced.

Also on their list of upcoming pertinent events is a social on May 25 at Trinomas Club in the city of Riverside. On June 2, LSBA will host their Casino Night. Casino Night will be held at an attorney's house, where a small fee will be charged to enter.

"LSBA is providing their students with a great asset to their college experience by providing them with the privilege of performing as galleries," said Vazquez.

Their associated advisor, Dr. Tom Rivers, always has a task for them. LSBA participates in community service such as, "I'm going to college."

Students may attend their weekly meetings on Wednesdays at 6 p.m. in room SMSU 210-211. A $15 charge for the year, and the ability to commit, is all that is required to become part of LSBA.

Those interested may also find pertinent information on their myspace.com account: LSBA at CSUSB. This is their virtual website where many pictures and events are being posted regularly.

"Objective reporting" just a dream

Opinions & Editorial

"On-air pandemonium broke out in response to the opposing viewpoints regarding the boycott and rally of May 1. A television news report and a political radio show argued with Gemperle’s firing, and their response was that they were being denied the opportunity to voice their opinions for the media.

"This is your country, you are being denied the opportunity to voice your opinions for the media!" said Tom Volda, a reporter for Fox 11. Yes, he was arguing with the reaction that you come from! Ken Chenapau, hosts of a Los Angeles-based political commentary program, The John and Ken Show, which airs on KFI AM640.

"I think there may be the sentiment of the people in the media’s, there is no right, however, to make those claims. The trend among opinion leaders is to deliver objective results in the citizens of Southern California."

Now what your stance on the issue of immigration, you are "wowed" on impartial and dispassionate reporting.

Furthermore, I think that the intense emotion, attacks and temperatures involved in this particular point of time in our history warrants information to be reported free from opinion so that we can make our own decisions about the future of our country. Unfortunately, the media has failed in this respect.

Despite the ethical commitments of news reporters, it is sometimes difficult to maintain the integrity of the information prevalent in the media.

While I believe that the trend is important to publicize, such as that of a certain political style for reporting. I also believe that it is equally important to make your audience aware that what you are saying is opinion instead of fact. I understand that it is human nature to make judgments on our information. I also understand that we have a narcissistic tendency to believe that those judgments are right and should be followed by everyone we can tell so that they may change their ways.

As a reporter, I believe that it is the duty of reporters to ignore those predeterminations and report the news accurately and objectively. I’m not saying it’s easy, I’m simply saying that they knewingly agreed to do so when they entered that particular profession. It should not be abandoned at any cost.

When news reporters start reporting their personal feelings and beliefs, they are doing a disservice to you, the audience. They are not only writing to persuade you under the radar, but they are literally saying that you do not have the mental capacity to decide for yourself or our country.

When Troy Volda will deliver an FCC-mandated apology for his actions — scheduled before press time — I don’t expect the change that he violated his obligation to report neutral news. Even if you agree with every word I am saying, I encourage you to stop trying. I urge you to go out and gather as much information as you can and then divest your sources so you can make your own判断.

"Most of us would have automatically formed some kind of opinion on the above discussion from the store or breviary, and we have already, in other words, judged it by the way we have come to this conclusion."

"We can go to work, we can go to the community, we can go to the nation to make judgments based on what we know."

"In other words, we were first attracted to the cover of the book. The attraction to the cover then causes you to purchase and open the book, or the very case, to let the man or woman to speak to him."

"I do not think a lot of people understood the importance of presenting the information in a way that they want to be perceived. There are still many people who to some degree enjoy the reactions of others because of their appearance."

"We should believe that before we have our judgments on other things, it is in our human nature to have our judgments on first impressions and these first impressions are based on our cover."

"Now, of course, we live in a society where a book is judged by its cover and first impressions will affect sales for many years."

"Failure is something people do not like to experience. Failure is most often something you do not learn from, but it can be an opportunity to learn."

"In the world of contradictions, failure is not an option, yet, they are not perfect, and they occasion-fail. When it comes to your life, occasionally, is not good enough. Most of the common casualties out there is the commonly."

"If you truly care about yourself and your health, then it is very possible, it is called making a sacrifice. People are afraid of failure, yet it is something they are making a job."

"The point of sacrifice is that this is the gateway to success. Sacrifice is the best way for you."

"It is possible and can be done, but only if you really want to make it, you expect that you will not have an unwanted pregnancy or contract an STD. No one wants having your health as much as you do."

"But if you happen to be a sacrifice, it's less concerning, and it fails, remember the necessity of abstinence from a health point of view.

"Really, what does giving out a condom have to do with your life?"

"This is the topic of sacrifice, or you have an unwanted pregnancy or contract an STD. No one wants having your health as much as you do."

"Society is less about heaven and more about being a young father or having a stable life."

"Giving lives, and a lot of kids are being sent to the hospital because their parents were not responsible. We owe it to each other to be safe."

"In a world of contraceptives, there are only a few condoms that are effective."

"If a condom is going to fail, it is realistic to know that it is going to fail."

The off-season provides CSUSB men’s soccer team a time to train and fundraise for the upcoming season. The team does their spring conditioning usually without the coach. This allows them the chance to do things on their own and grow as a team. They also practice without the seniors from the last year. Coach Noah Kooiman said he likes to empower the younger players to do more for the team. He likes to open up leadership roles, for the players who feel they are ready to lead.

The team is not training as hard as they would during the regular season. Kooiman said he thought it was more important for the athletes to work on keeping up their grades. He doesn’t want to have to lose players to ineligibility due to bad grades.

The other thing the team is going to work on in the off-season is fundraising. Kooiman said he hopes to raise $15,000 - $17,000 for next season.

The team will be working together on a car wash that will hopefully put forth some good money towards their goal. Along with the car wash, each player will have to send three letters to people and ask for donations for the program.

The team will also be hosting a soccer camp July 10-12. Team members will teach many youth on how to play soccer.

Kooiman and his team get to play some off-season games. The scores of these games don’t have any influence on the season. It is only for them to go out to practice and grasp what kind of team they will have.

The team ended last year with nine wins, ten losses and two ties. They made it to the CCAA and lost their first game to Cal State Dominguez Hills in overtime.

Lorenzo Loson and Oscar Garcia are two key players who will be returning for next season. Kooiman is in his second season as head coach of the CSUSB men’s soccer team.

With expectations always high, CSUSM's Women's Cross Country team has to continue to make strides this year. After finishing fifth in conference and 15th in region last season, the team is looking forimportantscores andconsistentlyhighperformances for the success of All-American Tanya Zefeldt.

Zefeldt holds school records in the 5,000 and 6,000 meter races and finished 25th in the 2004 NCAA National Championship. Coach Tom Burleson, in his fifth season as coach, is not worried about the prospect of losing a quality runner like Zefeldt.

"Obviously, when your num­ ber 1 runner leaves you, changes are going to take place. People are expected to see who will step up," Burleson said.

The top five runners this year for Burleson are Senior Rebecca Seithurst, Juniors Holly DiGennaro and Meghan Holt, and Sophomores Kari Brandt and Kristen Southworth. However, the team finds itself in a fortunate position. Coach Burleson believes that any of the five runners has a chance to be a top-five runner.

Also, the team's dynamic has changed since the departure of Zefeldt. The squad remains focused and dedicated.

That dedication has carried over into the classroom as well. The Coyotes achieved an average of 3.86 GPA in the fall of 2005. The GPA was the highest of any Division II women's team in the nation. Grades are a top priority for the team, and it makes it a point to recruit with that in mind.

For the first time in a few years, the Coyotes will travel out of state for an invitational this season. Coach Burleson counts the meet in Salem, Oregon as the event the team is looking forward to the most. Ten girls will make the trip, and Burleson says it's an opportunity to further build on the cadence already established. Watch for the cross country team's efforts at excelling on and off the track this August.

The CSUSM men's golf team earned a trip to the Division II National Championship Tournament.

The Coyotes have a tough road ahead of them, that returners and new-arrive scorer with the toughest situation in return. One being the fact that the "Voices split another series, this time against Chico State.

With this past year, the Coyotes dropped from a tie for the final spot to make the tournament to a tie for fifth place with Cal State Stanislaus.

Another reason the Coyotes are in this spot is because five of the team's starters are being walked up in one of their first five series.

The teams that make the tournament will be not be off until after their win-loss record, but rather by their winning percentage.
