CHANCELLOR CALLS BUDGET 'POSITIVE'

The 1984-85 budget presented by Gov. George Deukmejian to the Legislature Jan. 10 "is the most positive funding proposal for the California State University in several years," said Chancellor W. Ann Reynolds. It includes a 21 percent increase in general fund appropriations.

Dr. Reynolds lauded the governor's proposal to reduce student fees by approximately $42 per student during the next academic year and to increase student financial aid. The chancellor earlier had recommended a $90 a year decrease.

"Although the governor's budget does not incorporate our entire fee reduction request, it does represent a historic effort to minimize the fees charges to California residents," the chancellor said.

The Governor's inclusion of almost $100 million for employee compensation increases, while not entirely responsive to the CSU's request, represents a major effort by the administration to overcome the lag in compensation levels for faculty and staff, the chancellor said.

"I regard faculty salaries among the highest priorities for the CSU. It is important, indeed critical, that California again reach a competitive level in faculty salaries. ... We will continue to work with the governor's office on the issue of recruiting and retaining qualified faculty, particularly in the high demand areas of engineering, computer sciences and business," she said.

The governor's proposal also includes $6 million for instructional equipment replacement, $10.5 million for special repairs and deferred maintenance projects, and $13 million for program change proposals requested by the board of trustees.

"Additional funds for instructional equipment replacement and for added technical support will have a significant impact on our programs in engineering, computer sciences, and other equipment-intensive disciplines. Funds for faculty recruitment and development would enable us to become more successful in employing new faculty in hard-to-hire disciplines--and provide a program for improving computer literacy of faculty and students," she said.

ENROLLMENT UP OVER LAST WINTER

After the first two days of registration, 5,085 students, a 5.52 per cent increase over last winter, were enrolled.

The FTE of 3,921 shows a 7.17 percent increase over winter 1983.

Both figures will fluctuate until census date, the last day to drop classes. Winter quarter figures traditionally are down from the fall term and this quarter's head count and FTE both are 9.6 percent below the second day of registration fall quarter.
