Minor Construction Projects Keep Crews Busy This Summer

The university's growing pains--resulting from an increase in faculty, new academic needs and anticipated growth in student enrollment--have kept university craftsmen and contractors busy this summer. With the start of the academic year only 10 days away, the pace accelerates in several projects.

Twenty faculty are awaiting installation of five mobile units which will provide temporary quarters until the new faculty office building is built. The trailers, to be located between the Student Services Building and the Child Care Center, will be ready for occupancy Sept. 16. One unit has arrived from Cal Poly, San Luis Obispo and four are being leased from a manufacturer in Bloomington. Each unit will have four individual offices. The trailers will be situated in a U-shape, with decking connecting all five, according to Bob Lohnes (Plant Operations). The mover will set up the units and install the decking. Campus crews already have laid the wiring and telephone conduits in the ground. Concrete sidewalks and exterior lighting will be put in after the units are installed.

Working drawings for the $2,106,000 faculty office building are to be completed this month by the architects, Ray Kappe and Clelio Boccato of Santa Monica. After Department of Finance approval of the plans, bids will be sought. The present schedule calls for bids to be opened Nov. 15, construction to start Jan. 1 and completion by May 1987. The two-story building will be located between the Administration Building and the Library.

In addition to the usual office remodeling, plant operations crews have created the new Advising Center in the former home of the Services to Students with Disabilities Office (PL 107) and have moved the disabled students center to the former site of the snack room (PL 101). They are constructing a new darkroom for the graphics sequence in the Art Department. Bids for construction of a broadcast booth for the Communication Department will be opened Sept. 12. The facility will be in the Creative Arts Building.

Approximately $31,000 in lighting improvements will be made throughout the campus. The project includes about 30 new lights and increased illumination in others.

Work on the Commons this summer included carpeting of the lower level, repair of movable walls and painting of the kitchen and food service areas. Architects Harnish, Morgan and Causey are preparing plans for enclosing a portion of the lower patio to create a new dining room. The work in the Commons is being done by outside contractors through the university Foundation.

Projects still underway include bringing additional air conditioning to computer labs in the Pfau Library, installing solar panels to heat the physical education pool, installing fresh-air economizers in the basement and first floor of the Library to utilize outside air in ventilating the building and redesigning all doors in the handball court.

A proposal to switch the men's and women's restrooms in the Administration Building, to provide additional facilities for the women, is in the office of the architect for preparation of working drawings.

Delivery of a new 20-passenger, covered tram for giving tours is expected shortly.

Employee Fee Waiver Deadline Sept. 12

Thursday, Sept. 12 is the deadline for employees applying for the course fee waiver program, which substantially reduces the cost of taking career-related courses at any CSU campus. Depending upon the course-load and the arrangements made by the individual bargaining units, employees can save $137-$141 on the average. More information on the fee waiver program is available from Carlos Marquez in Personnel, Ext. 7205.

CSU Trustees To Examine New Eligibility Index

The CSU Board of Trustees will hold a public hearing Tuesday, Sept. 17 at 9 a.m., or as soon as the business of the board is completed, to discuss a proposal to amend the system's "eligibility index" for high school students. The proposal would permit students to qualify for college on the basis of their high school performance through the end of their junior year. The current standard determines eligibility based on the grade-point average earned through the first semester of the senior year.

Dr. Ralph Bigelow, CSU associate dean of educational support services, says this would bring the system's practices in line with other major universities and enable admissions offices to inform applicants of their eligibility earlier than is possible now. In addition, it would provide a basis for advising those students who are not quite eligible and informing them of the conditions they must meet during their senior year in high school in order to qualify for admission to Cal State.

Written comments regarding the proposal should be directed to Dr. Bigelow, 400 Golden Shore, Long Beach, CA 90802-4275 and must be received by Sept. 17. Inquiries can be made by contacting Dr. Bigelow at ATSS 8-635-5547.

Physical Education Department Deletes Recreation In Title

Effective Sept. 1, the Physical Education and Recreation Department dropped the "recreation" from its title since it no longer will offer recreation courses or a minor in the subject. Dr. Reg Price, department chair, said this is being done in order to avoid being misleading to incoming students who are looking at the department for a possible major.

Dr. Price said interest in the department is growing since the introduction of the physical education degree in 1983. Last spring, 61 persons were enrolled in the curriculum and 13 graduated. Enrollment so far indicates some 30-40 freshmen and transfer students will be joining the 48 who are expected to return this fall.

James Ducey Takes On Tennis Coaching Duties

James Ducey will take on men's and women's tennis coaching responsibilities in addition to his duties as men's basketball coach. He replaces Michael Muscare, who resigned to become men's tennis coach at Cal State, Fullerton. Dr. Reg Price, athletic director, said Ducey has extensive tennis instruction experience in addition to his basketball coaching background.

Roberta Stathis-Ochoa Receives Assignment To Cal Poly, Pomona

ties as an Administrative Fellow at Cal Poly, Pomona during the 1985-86 academic year.

Dr. Roberta Stathis-Ochoa is preparing to take leave from her position as special programs coordinator in the Office of Academic Programs from Sept. 9-June 30 in order to assume her duties as an Administrative Fellow at Cal Poly, Pomona during the 1985-86 academic year.

One of 12 people selected for the systemwide program, Dr. Stathis-Ochoa will be working with three mentors while on the Pomona campus, including Dr. Hugh LaBounty, president; Dr. James Bell, vice president of student affairs; and Dorothy Roberts, director of business affairs.

"I'm very excited about the opportunity to work on such a large regional campus," Dr. Stathis-Ochoa commented. "In my interviews I have been very impressed with their commitment to academic excellence and their team approach to education."

"I'm sure the experience I will gain from working in both business and student affairs as well as working directly with the president will give me a different perspective and I hope at the end of the term, I will be able to certify some competencies that will serve me well in looking for further academic challenges."

During her administrative fellowship, she will teach education courses in the evening at Cal State, San Bernardino.

The CSU Administrative Fellows Program is designed to provide opportunities for upward mobility in academic administration particularly for women and minorities. Candidates are usually transferred to a campus other than their own. The fellows are assigned to mentors at the dean's level or above and are given assignments which will provide opportunities for career development eventually leading to administrative, managerial or executive positions.

ROTC Announces Staff Changes

Cpt. Stephen J. Heynen is the new adjunct associate professor supervising the Military Science Program, replacing Maj. Stuart D. Lyon, who departed in June for the Defense Language Institute in Monterey.

Heynen, who has been with the program as an instructor since December 1983, recently was selected for promotion to major. The change in rank should become effective by summer 1986.

A double graduate of Cal State, Heynen earned his B.A. in general psychology in 1975 and an M.B.A. in 1982. He is an infantry officer and a graduate of the prestigious Army Rangers School in Georgia.

Cpt. Thomas C. Zeigner will be the new adjunct assistant professor of military science. He is coming from a post as executive officer of the Longhorn Army Ammunition Plant in Texas and is assigned to Cal State through June 1988. Zeigner received his B.A. in English from the Virginia Military Institute in 1976 and a master's in criminal justice administration from Troy State University in 1982. He has served as an ordnance officer in Turkey, Korea and the U.S. He will instruct two classes per year for the military program, while Heynen will teach one class a year.

The ROTC program offers students the opportunity to receive Army Reserve Officer training along with a bachelor's or master's degree. The program expects fall enrollment to rise to 50 cadets, which would be the largest group of students since the ROTC regional extension center was established on campus in 1981.

Military obligation is not incurred until the beginning of the junior year. After graduation and commissioning as a second lieutenant, a three-year, active military career begins in the Army, Army Reserves or Army National Guard. The service career can be chosen from a variety of fields, including aviation, communication, finance, law enforcement and the medical professions.

Commons Rooms Are Renamed

The individual dining areas in the university Commons are being given new designations to make them more identifiable to university personnel as well as off-campus groups who use them, announced Dr. Judith Rymer, executive dean for university relations.

Under the new designations, the President's Dining Room will become the Oak Room and the New Dining Room will be known as the Eucalyptus Room. C 104 A&B will be dubbed the Panorama Room A&B, C 125 will be titled the Pine Room and C 219 will be renamed the Alder Room. The patio area to be enclosed to form a dining room will be called the Sycamore Room. Small signs will be prepared for each room.

National Security Studies Receives Renewed Grant

The National Security Studies (NSS) special master's program has received another $500 from the National Strategy Information Center, which is a New York-based non-profit institution dedicated to the study and research of strategy. Dr. Richard Ackley, NSS director, said the money will be put toward supplemental teaching materials and provisions for some guest lecturers. Dr. Ackley said the university has been receiving the grant for about 12 years, dating back to when a single course in international security and defense strategy was offered here. The NSS degree program was instituted in 1983.

Coyotes Gear Up For Second Season

The coaches of cross country, soccer and volleyball are looking forward to the second season of intercollegiate athletics at Cal State, which boasts an expanded and more rigorous schedule for each team this year, said Dr. Reginald Price, athletic director.

Tom Burleson, men's and women's cross country coach, anticipates an "outstanding season" for the women's team, where "we're twice as strong as we were last year." Burleson noted that it will be a young team comprised of four freshmen, one transfer student, one new senior and only two returning seniors. The men's team will be made up of four returning runners and three new students. The teams will travel to Cal State, Fullerton for their first invitational meet Saturday, Sept. 14.

Carlos Juarez, the new coach of the men's soccer team, expects a "successful year" in spite of the tougher schedule. Based on his observations during practices, which began for all sports Sept. 1, Juarez said the players have a "good attitude and are working hard, which makes it enjoyable for me." Although the team has lost two of its key players from last year, the experience gained from at least 10 players who are returning and the addition of five freshmen will make the team competitive, Juarez said. The soccer team faces Pomona-Pitzer College, "a strong Division III team," for its first game Saturday, Sept. 14 at home.

Naomi Ruderman, women's volleyball coach, said she looks forward to a "great season with good talent" on the team. With one senior, five returning players and four new students, Ruderman said this is a "young, enthusiastic group." The team will kick off the season with some informal competition with area junior colleges in a scrimmage here tomorrow. Official competition will get underway the following weekend with a tournament Sept. 13-14 at Whittier.

The volleyball team also will host its first tournament Oct. 12, which will be co-sponsored by the Soroptomist Club of San Bernardino, a women's service club. The tournament will pit the Coyotes against Whittier, Claremont and Masters Colleges.

Holiday

The campus will be closed Monday, September 9, in observance of Admission Day, a state holiday.

Professional Activities

Dr. Dalton Harrington (Biology) presented a paper on "Newly Isolated Compounds from Chara Globularis Thuill" at the annual meeting of the Botanical Society of America phytochemical section in Gainesville, Fla., Aug. 12.

Community Service

Dr. David Lutz (Graduate Programs), presented a workshop on "Developing Effective Performance Appraisal Systems" for a training meeting of supervisors in the Department of Public Social Services Aug. 15 in Rancho Cucamonga.

Noteworthy

An article written by Dr. Naomi Caiden (Public Administration), "The Boundaries of Public Budgeting: Issues for Education in Tumultuous Times," has been published in the July/August issue of Public Administration Review.

Dr. Amer El-Ahraf (Academic Resources, Health Science) has been appointed to the National Council on Hazardous Waste and Toxic Substances. He also recently was appointed a regional editor of the "Food Protection Report," published in Washington, D.C. In addition, he will be listed in the 1986 issues of "The First Presidential Edition of Biography of the Year" and "The International Who's Who of Contemporary Achievement."

Congratulations

The university community extends congratulations to Julie Wong (Public Affairs) on her marriage to David Duncan of Sacramento Aug. 31 at the University of California, Riverside cooperative extension garden. The couple will reside in Sacramento after Oct. 4.
