State Lottery Money Allocated

Cal State, San Bernardino has received a total of $202,571 in state lottery funds for the current fiscal year, reports Business Manager Leonard Farwell. Earlier in the year, the university received an advanced expenditure authorization for: master teacher stipends $25,650; master teacher scholarships $19,520; and computing support for instructional access $15,892. At the beginning of February, the campus received the remaining funds: $128,816 for instructional equipment replacement and an additional $12,693 for instructional access computing support.

Allocations for master teacher stipends were proposed by the CSU Chancellor's Office and approved by the state legislature, according to Dr. Ernest Garcia, dean of the School of Education.

According to Dr. Amer El-Ahraf, associate vice president for academic resources, funds for instructional equipment replacement will cover items such as an audio analyzer, offset litho press, three photometer telescopes, Halide test meter, oscillator, frequency counter, two Macintosh, two Apple imagewriters, a Macintosh PC, an external hard disk drive for the Macintosh, and an image writer/printer. Allocations for instructional computing access will be used for such things as electronic data processing (EDP) equipment rental, maintenance and repair, EDP communications equipment, and furniture and workstations.

The total lottery-funded 1985-86 budget adopted by the CSU Board of Trustees amounted to $13,136,000. Funds were allocated in similar categories: instructional equipment replacement $7,000,000; instructional computing access $2,773,034; master teacher scholarships $513,000; and master teacher stipends $675,000. In addition, other allocations were given to a number of other campuses or the Chancellor's Office: experimental clinical supervisors $801,000; local time sharing $1,263,966; and inter-university consortium for educational computing $110,000.

Employees need to have an approved job development plan on file in order to attend regular university classes under the program. Job-related courses must be approved by the employee's supervisor.
