Hiring Freeze In Effect

A freeze on filling vacant and new positions, ordered by the Chancellor's Office June 30, has left a number of campus departments unable to replace temporary appointments which expired with the end of the fiscal year.

Dale T. West (Personnel) said the freeze, which resulted from the $50.7 million budget reduction facing the CSU, gives the Chancellor's Office time to review the implications of the cut.

Banned for an indefinite period are appointments to new or vacant permanent positions, to new or vacant temporary positions and extensions of 30-day emergency appointments, West said.

The recruitment process continued for state positions which were posted at the time of the freeze; however, no offers of employment are being extended, he added.

The Purchasing Office also has been directed to suspend purchases of equipment until the impact of the budget reduction is known, said Kathy Shepard (Purchasing). Requisitions for supplies and services are being processed.

At the CSU Board of Trustees meeting Tuesday, Chancellor W. Ann Reynolds declared a fiscal crisis in the system and said layoffs or reductions in faculty and staff, curtailed growth or restricted access by students might be unavoidable without relief from Sacramento.

New AD Resigns

Daryl Ann Leonard, who was appointed as the university's first full-time athletic director June 23, resigned the position July 11 after spending four days in San Bernardino.

Ms. Leonard, a former athletic director at the University of Wisconsin, Milwaukee, reportedly was discouraged about finding suitable housing and the move from the midwest to California.

The search committee is reviewing files of other finalists and expects to bring additional candidates to the campus for interviews.

The new position of full-time athletic director, reporting to the university president, is to begin Sept. 1.

U.S. Awards Campus $50,000

Two grants, totalling more than $50,000, are being awarded to the university by the Commission on the Bicentennial of the U.S. Constitution to fund special conferences.

A week-long seminar for teachers, "Our Constitutional Heritage: Applications in the Classroom," will be held July 25-29 with the support of a grant for $22,503.

A January conference on "Congress and the Separation of Powers" received $27,635 in funding.

Dr. Phyllis Maxey (Education), co-director of the Civic Education Enhancement Project, will lead the July institute. Her goal is to make the ideas in the Constitution more accessible to teachers so they can translate them to their students.

Dr. Dennis Mahoney (Political Science) wrote the grant application for the January institute. Dr. Cynthia Hinckley (Political Science) will be the planning director.

The Commission on the Bicentennial customarily awards only one grant per institution. The two grants reflect on Cal State's "reputation as a place where serious study of the Constitution occurs," said Dr. Mahoney. Several faculty members have published journal articles and attended conferences on the U.S. Constitution. Mahoney also is co-author of a new book, "The Framing and Ratification of the Constitution."

Upward Bound Hosts Youth

If the students on campus this summer seemed younger than usual, it could be they really are high school students.

The Upward Bound Program, directed by Denise Benton, currently has 47 high school students living on campus. They were selected for the annual six-week, summer program which provides academic, cultural and social stimulation for low-income, first-generation, college-capable students who have demonstrated a potential to succeed in college.

The students, chosen from nine high schools in the San Bernardino area, receive 10 high school credits at the completion of the program. The courses they take include oral communication, SAT preparation, college preparation, leadership, math, English and computer literacy.

Speakers from campus who have met with the group include Vice President Robert Detweiler (Academic Affairs), Dean Sidney Ribeau (Undergraduate Studies), Cita Jones (Financial Aid) and Marco Cota (Relations with High Schools).

Two events sponsored by the program are open to the campus community and the public. They are a talent show, to begin at 7 p.m., July 20 in PS 10 and the awards banquet, at 7 p.m., Aug. 4 in the Upper Commons. The speaker at the banquet will be a former Upward Bound student, Norman Whitmore, who now attends Harvard.

The cost is $1 for the talent show and $5 for the awards banquet. Reservations should be made with the Upward Bound Office, Ext. 7209.

High School Program Reorganized

The High School-University Program, designed to encourage students to enroll in Cal State courses before graduation from high school, is being decentralized, with the responsibilities shifted to various offices, announced Don Kajcienski (Enrollment Services).

"The program will no longer be advertised; however, the campus will still accommodate high school students interested in the program," he said. "The initial contact office now will be the Pre-College Outreach Programs Office, Ext. 7608."

Marina Kyritsis, the previous coordinator, has been assigned to other duties in the Office of Enrollment Services in addition to her continuing responsibilities for marketing and support.

The number of high school students enrolled in college courses on campus averaged 35 per quarter during the last school year.

Evening Concerts Provide Variety

Contemporary gospel music, light classical chamber music and acoustic guitar will be featured in the Wednesday evening concerts during the coming weeks.

The campus community and the public are invited to the free programs, which begin at 7 p.m., on the Lower Commons plaza. Family picnics on the surrounding lawns are encouraged.

The Fontana-based group Daz Patterson and the West Coast Singers will present traditional and contemporary gospel music Wednesday, July 20. Patterson, the manager and lead singer, went to Africa last year on a singing-service mission. The group's first album, "Shout for Jesus," was released in 1987. A second album is planned.

An evening of light classical chamber music will be presented Wednesday, July 27 by the university-organized Faculty Woodwind Quintet. The members of the quintet are Mary Lee Keays, horn; John Gates, clarinet; Gordon Lazarus, oboe; Sara Andon, flute; and John Campbell, bassoon.

Strings of Glass, an acoustic guitar duo from Marin County, will entertain Aug. 3 with a variety of classical, jazz and cultural styles.

Anthropology Major In Egypt On Internship

Chris Beekman, a senior majoring in anthropology, is studying at the University of Zagazig, Egypt, this summer under an internship program in archaeology.

The internship program and the assistance given to the student were made possible because of the agreement between Cal State, San Bernardino and Zagazig University, explained Dr. Amer El-Ahraf (Academic Resources). The host university is providing free lodging and perhaps meals for the Cal State student.

"We obtained the permission of the Egyptian Antiquity Authority to implement this program," explained Dr. El-Ahraf. Several academic administrators from Zagazig University, who have visited the San Bernardino campus, helped secure the permission, which was more difficult because Beekman is a student, he said.

Beekman, who will be working on several sites near Zagazig University, did field work in Ecuador last summer. A honor's list student, he is vice president of Alpaca, the anthropology club.

Stop-Smoking Program Available

Information on a new program offered by a nationally known center for the control of smoking is available at the Personnel Office.

Therapists will conduct the five, consecutive, one-on-one, hour-long sessions during or after work hours, said Dee Thomas (Personnel). The rate of $395 extends to family members of employees, she said.

Further information is available from the Personnel Office, Ext. 7205.

Creative Writers Take Note

A new magazine, published by a Cal State alumnus, Tom Favorite, is seeking manuscripts for the first issue to be produced this fall.

Short stories, 1000 to 1500 words, and poetry, 100 to 300 words, are solicited. Deadline for submission is Aug. 20. The manuscripts should be submitted to Group Three Publishing, 255 North D Street, Suite 407, San Bernardino 92401.

News Briefs

Research by Dr. Diane Halpern (Psychology) and a colleague at the University of British Columbia is included in the seventh edition of The Baseball Encyclopedia, the leading baseball reference work. Among the things they noted after studying baseball players' statistical averages, according to an item in People magazine, was that right-handed people seem to live longer than lefties--by an average of about eight months.

Native American Indian paraphernalia and original musical compositions by Irving Berlin are on exhibit in the Pfau Library.

The display cases on the first floor contain Indian wedding attire, pottery and ceremonial items compiled by Paul Littlecoyote, a descendant of the Miniconjou Sioux tribe. The exhibit will be available through the end of July.

Approximately 45 original scores by Berlin, representative of his early work, are on display on the third floor through the summer.

Community Service

Officer Bill McCullough (Public Safety) won gold and silver medals at the 1988 Police Olympics in Bakersfield in June. He placed first in the 3000-meter steeplechase and second in the 5000-meter race. McCullough, no stranger to track events, was a silver medalist in the steeplechase at the 1979 Pan American games.

Dr. J. C. Robinson (Academic Personnel) spoke to the Uptown Exchange Club July 13 on "U.S.-Latin American Relations."

Officer Sam Sarmiento (Public Safety) received a certificate of appreciation June 7 from the Del Rosa School for his volunteer service to the school.
