Contract To Help Transfer Students

Students transferring to Cal State, San Bernardino from Riverside Community College now are eligible for contracts guaranteeing their acceptance here.

The program gives prospective Cal State students the opportunity to complete a transfer contract with the university. The contract is both an evaluation of the student's academic work to date and a listing of other courses which can be applied toward a major at Cal State.

The contract is valid as long as the student maintains continuous enrollment at the community college named in the agreement, explained Cheryl Smith, director of admissions. The goal is to make most effective use of students' time at the community college and to ensure they fulfill Cal State's lower-division general education requirements there.

The two reasons behind the formal agreement are the frequent misunderstandings of general education requirements and the confusion over prerequisites for majors, Ms. Smith said.

The CSU believes maintaining an effective transfer program is vital because more than half of all students earning bachelor's degrees in the CSU are transfer students.

Cal State President Anthony H. Evans sees the transfer contract as an important step in facilitating the student's matriculation into a four-year university. "We are eager to build upon an already strong relationship with Riverside City College in an effort to meet the comprehensive educational needs of citizens in Riverside and San Bernardino counties," he said.

RCC President Charles Kane expressed pleasure at working with Cal State on the project, noting "I feel this transfer contract is a very positive step toward assisting our students to attend Cal State."

The university is working toward similar agreements with other community colleges in the region, Ms. Smith said.

The Transfer Services Center will administer the contract program as it has the primary recruitment role at community colleges.

Open Enrollment Switched to May

The annual health benefits open enrollment period, when employees may change or add programs, is being switched to May, according to word just received from PERS by Marjorie Callaghan, benefits officer in Personnel.

"As a result there will be no open enrollment period in September 1989 for health plans," she stressed.

The open enrollment for dental plans will continue to be in September. Vision open enrollment will be in 1990.

The PERS Board of Administration authorized the earlier period to give enrollees an opportunity to evaluate benefit and premium changes well before they take effect in August, she said. The health plan booklets, which contain general information on all plans, will be distributed to all enrollees before May 1.

"As the booklets will be mailed directly to the employees' homes, it is critical that the Personnel Office has the correct addresses on file," Ms. Callaghan stressed.

The official dates for the open enrollment for health plans will be May 1 through June 16. Any changes in plans will be effective Aug. 1. New premiums will be reflected in the July pay period (the pay check dated Aug. 1).

Further information will be available from Personnel as it is received from PERS.

Dance Art Company in Residence on Campus

Dance Art Company from San Francisco, will be on campus April 7-10, 13 and 16 to present a demonstration, three master classes and a public performance.

Duncan Macfarland and Clare Whistler have established themselves as one of the most visible and artistically excellent dance duos in the state, said Gilda Gant (Physical Education), who is coordinating the event.

They have compiled a repertory of more than 30 works by some of California's most noted choreographers in addition to commissioning original pieces, she said.

During a lecture/demonstration, beginning at 8 p.m., Friday, April 7 in the Recital Hall, the dancers will introduce a wide array of styles of modern dance and choreographic processes. Admission is $5 general and free to Cal State students and faculty.

The guest artists will conduct master classes in beginning/intermediate ballet, modern and improvisation/choreography Saturday, April 8. The classes, held from 10 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. in the small gym, are free to Cal State students and faculty. The charge to the public is $5 per class.

The major performance will begin at 8 p.m., Sunday, April 16 in the Recital Hall. Admission is $8 general, $4 for students and senior citizens and free to Cal State students and faculty.

Preregistration is required for the master classes. Tickets for the demonstration and concert may be purchased at the box office an hour before the performances. Further information is available from Ms. Gant at Ext. 5351.

Macfarland and Whistler have performed in the Bath Festival in England, the Spoleto Festival in Australia and the Mudrain in Belgium. This is their first concert in the Inland Empire.

CSU Chooses New Insurer

The automobile and homeowners insurance available to CSU employees through payroll deduction now is being covered by California Casualty.

After competitive bidding, the CSU switched from Travelers Insurance on April 1.

A field representative from the new insurer, Dan Barclay, will be on campus from noon to 2 p.m., Monday, April 10, Wednesday, April 12, Monday, April 24 and Thursday, May 4 to answer questions, said Marjorie Callaghan, benefits officer in the Personnel office.

Louise Burton Wins Fulbright

Dr. Louise Burton, special education coordinator in the School of Education, has received a Fulbright fellowship to Japan.

During her three months of research at Tohoku University in Sendai, Dr. Burton will survey 40 special education students and their families to determine their level of satisfaction with the Japanese educational system. She will use a model tracking system which she developed with the Riverside County Office of Education for the State Department of Education.

Dr. Burton, an authority on education of the handicapped, will also lecture on special education issues while in Japan. A book she co-authored, The Severely and Profoundly Handicapped, has been translated into Japanese and Spanish.

A member of the Cal State faculty since 1982, Dr. Burton also coordinates a federally funded, special education program for teachers in the high desert. The research fellowship will begin in September.

Richard Rodgers Re-created in Musical

A former jazz pianist and college president, now back in the entertainment field, will present a one-man show on the life of composer Richard Rodgers April 7-9.

Curtain time for his presentation, "The Sweetest Sounds," will be 8:15 p.m., on Friday and Saturday, April 7 and 8 and 2 p.m., Sunday, April 9 in the Theatre.

1989-90 Bulletins

The Bulletins (catalogs) for the coming school year have arrived from the printer and are on sale in the Bookstore.

The latest edition of the annual publication has a new look. The page size is larger, an increasing trend among colleges, and the interior format has been revised.

"The entire academic section of the catalog had to be redone because of the university's change to the 4/4 curricular pattern next year," said Edna Steinman (Publications). "Thus this became an ideal time to take a fresh look at the familiar catalog."

The Office of Academic Programs is responsible for collection and preparation of all copy for the Bulletin. The Publications Office is responsible for design and printing. Pictures were from the files in Audiovisual Services and the Publications Office.

Outstanding Profs

Faculty members from the Fullerton and Northridge campuses were named by the CSU Board of Trustees as the 1989 outstanding professors.

They are Dr. Harris S. Schultz, math professor at Fullerton, and Dr. Patricia C. Keith-Spiegel, professor of psychology at Northridge. Both will receive $2000 awards from the CSU Foundation.

Nominees from the other 14 participating campuses, who will receive $500 awards each, include Dr. Helene W. Koon, Cal State, San Bernardino's outstanding professor for 1989.

Advisory Board

Newest members of the university's Advisory Board are Barbara Leonard and Gordon Quiel, both of San Bernardino.

The 13-member board meets periodically with Cal State administrators to increase understanding between the community and the campus.

Leonard, who served on the Advisory Board earlier, and Quiel, a former San Bernardino city councilman, replace Lois Carson, executive director of the Department of Community Action for Riverside County, and Claude Noel, a Victor Valley developer.

Telephone Training

Training tapes on single-line and multiline telephone instruments are available in Audiovisual Services for mini refresher courses, reports Dr. R. A. Senour.

"Anyone wanting to review the information on operation of the instruments may call AV at Ext. 5060 for an appointment to have the tapes and a telephone available for use," he said. "New employees may schedule the tapes and an instrument for the initial instruction by calling the same number."

Each session takes about an hour.

Census Takers

With the 1990 census around the corner, the Census Bureau is recruiting enumerators—also known as census takers—to count the American residents who fail to return the mail forms.

Students, homemakers and others interested in temporary, short-time jobs are being recruited, said Fred Cordova, a retired Cal State employee who is a project supervisor for the Census Bureau.

Tests to qualify for the jobs will be administered on campus from 9 to 11 a.m., Wednesday, April 12 and from 2 to 4 p.m., Tuesday, April 25. The test, to be in the Pine Room of the Commons, consists of 28 questions to be answered in a half hour.

To confirm attendance, anyone interested must call the Census Bureau Office in Riverside at 781-2350.

The bureau will begin hiring in mid April and the jobs will last from two to six months. The pay is $6.27 an hour plus 22.5 cents mileage.

Bowlathon

Op Ed Pieces

The San Bernardino Sun is interested in soliciting written viewpoints from Cal State faculty and staff for publication in The Sun's editorial section.

Editor Arnold Garson, who joined The Sun in November, said his staff is in the process of stepping up community input so that the newspaper becomes "the marketplace for ideas in San Bernardino County." He believes Cal State personnel could contribute greatly toward that goal, said Cynthia Pringle (Public Information), Ext. 5007.

"If you have an idea you would like to develop or have questions about length and content, I will work with The Sun and help you submit your material for publication," she said.
