University Employees Lauded For Efforts During First Week

The university's staff and faculty are to be commended for their efforts during "the rigors of the first week" of fall quarter, particularly in light of the computer failure on the second day of walk-through registration, notes President Anthony Evans.

"I suspect that not one office escaped the impact" of last week when nearly 4000 students came to campus to register, Evans said. In spite of the technical failure, "we encountered few adversities and I am all the more appreciative of the excellent staff we have. We are very fortunate to have the people we do.

"Some of the students were in line for six to eight hours and there was such sensitivity (to their needs) on the part of faculty and staff," he remarked during an Administrative Council meeting on Monday.

Personal Safety Measures Stressed by Campus Police

Now that fall quarter is in full swing, Campus Police Chief Ed Harrison is urging all university employees and students to observe safety practices while on campus.

Persons who are on campus during the evening are encouraged to use the campus escort service by calling Ext. 5165. A campus patrol aide will walk or drive individuals to their car or dorm room.

"The university has added many new emergency phones since last spring for your convenience," Harrison said. Distinguished by their red cover, 13 emergency phones are located on the exterior grounds and inside campus buildings. To make the exterior phones more visible, blue shades are being placed on the lights above six phones in heavily trafficked areas: two are between the main parking lot and the perimeter road, one between the Faculty Office Building and the Library, another at the southwest corner of the Physical Sciences Building, one behind the Biology Building and another between the Commons and the Health Center. The other outside emergency phones are located on the first and second floors of the Faculty Office Building, the Physical Education pool, the P.E. field, the Physical Plant, outside the Housing Office, the bus stop shelter and the information kiosk.

"Campus patrons also are encouraged to use the buddy system when walking to and from classes and offices," Harrison continued. Any suspicious behavior or circumstances should be reported to Campus Police immediately, he stressed.

The campus emergency phone number is Ext. 5911.
Student Enrollment Continues To Surge

More than 11,000 students had registered for fall classes as of Monday, Oct. 2, resulting in the largest campus population ever, reports Registrar Jo Ann Von Wald.

Although the current headcount of 11,004 is expected to decline somewhat as students drop classes before the official "census date" of Oct. 18, Von Wald said the enrollment as of Monday represents an 11.5 percent increase over the same time last year. The current full-time equivalent enrollment of 7846.1 is a 3.36 percent increase from last fall and reflects the adjustment in the workload of many students in light of the course credit conversion, she added.
