KEEPING IT REAL

One Man's Fight to Stay Alive

When Governor Gavin Newsom issued an executive order in response to the clemency application of Kevin Cooper recently, I'm sure the governor understood such action would be met with applause by some, and stark criticism by others.

Convicted in 1985 of a quadruple homicide in Chino Hills, Cooper was only 26-years-old at the time he was arrested for the murders. His life's journey to that point, might be tragically familiar to some. Raised by foster parents who abused him, Cooper spent time in a mental facility; had a lengthy criminal history and was also an escaped inmate by the time he was charged in this case.

Subsequent to the Chino Hills murders, Cooper's life took another unfortunate turn when he was sentenced to death for his alleged killings of Doug and Peggy Ryen, their 10-year-old daughter, Jessica and their 11-year-old neighbor, Christopher Hughes. The Ryen's 8-year-old son, Joshua, managed to survive his injuries.

Although there is compassion and continued calls to secure justice for the victims, those who believe in Cooper's innocence wonder, at what cost? I agree with those who say the price of justice should never be exacted from the innocent. I and others believe if there is any chance Cooper may be innocent; if there is new DNA technology that can help prove his innocence or guilt; and if there is available evidence to test or retest—why not take the extra step, and test it? That's exactly what Newsom has ordered.

Since Cooper's conviction more than 30 years ago, concerns continue to hover over his conviction rooted in conflicting testimonies and allegations of evidence tampering.

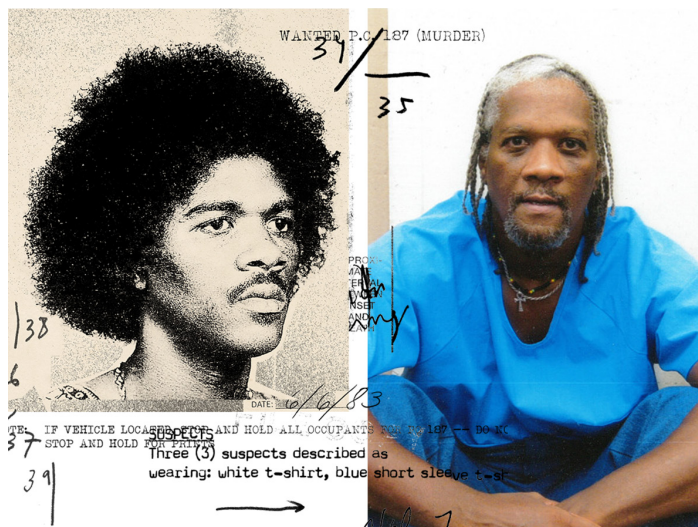

According to investigators, three weapons were used in the Chino Hills attack and Joshua Ryen (the sole survivor) stated in sworn testimony, he remembered seeing three attackers whom he initially identified as being White, and in later testimony admitted they might have been Hispanic. Also, according to several contemporary reports, when Joshua saw a picture of Cooper on television, he said Cooper "was not the killer." At trial however, he would change both his mind, and his earlier statements. Under oath, Joshua identified Cooper as the lone murderer.

A female witness also came forward and turned over bloody clothing she claimed belonged to her former boyfriend—a violent criminal. Later reports indicated the clothing was purportedly destroyed by the police.

There are also questions regarding a bloody footprint of a Pro-Ked Dude tennis shoe found at the crime scene. During the trial jurors were told this shoe was only issued for prisons and other institutions. Since that time, a prison warden has said that was not true, the type of shoe in question was sold at Sears and similar stores. In addition, an inmate housed at the same institution as Cooper, said he had issued Cooper a pair of P.F. Flyers, not Pro-Keds.

As citizens, we have granted the criminal justice system enormous powers to arrest people, take them to jail, charge them money bail, gather evidence, decide what charges will be filed against them and prosecute them, etc. It is a good system when it works as it should.

Minorities/Women Laid Off More Often

San Bernardino – When it comes to layoffs, women and minorities are often treated differently. A report by CNN NewSource recently confirmed this finding.

Although many corporations continue to address issues related to diversity, their focus is usually centered on issues related to hiring, recruitment, promotion and work/life balance, but when it comes to making decisions about who to layoff, etc. many businesses still have work to do in this regard.

According to the report, when companies experience difficult times, women and minority workers too often find themselves labeled as “redundant or non-essential more frequently than their White male colleagues,” and as a result, are the ones most often laid off.

Commenting on the report, Alexandra Kalev, Associate Professor of Sociology at Tel Aviv University noted, “We see that they get in, but they remain in their segregated positions, assigned to support or non-core management jobs or they’re assigned to line management in failing parts of the company, failing lines, struggling locations,” Kalev says. “So that’s not integration. That’s not inclusion. That’s exactly one big reason why they lose their jobs when downsizing comes.”

Ramos to Lead Select Committee of Native American Affairs

San Bernardino

Last year Assemblyman James C. Ramos was elected to represent San Bernardino County's 40th Assembly District and in the process, earned a place in history as the first California Native American elected to the State Legislature.

Late last month, Ramos was appointed by Speaker of the Assembly Anthony Rendon to serve as Chair of the Select Committee on Native American Affairs. Ramos' appointment also marked the formation of this committee—another first.

"As Speaker of the Assembly, I am grateful for the background, experience, and dedication that Assemblymember Ramos brings to the Democratic Caucus," Rendon said. "I admire his dedication to the Inland Empire and his efforts to advance the discussion on Native American cultural preservation. I am proud to appoint Assemblymember Ramos to Chair the Select Committee on Native American Affairs."

Ramos who previously served as Chairman of the San Manuel Mission Band of Indians, sought to create the Select Committee to help identify opportunities to strengthen ongoing

NEWS IN BRIEF

Section 8 Enrollment in San Bernardino County is now Closed

San Bernardino – A short window for new enrollment in the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development rental assistance program in San Bernardino County, closed on Monday, February 25.

During the application period, thousands of San Bernardino County residents applied to participate in the rental assistance program commonly identified as Section 8. The nearly 18,000 applications will now be vetted, and the applicants placed in queue for processing. These new applicants will be prioritized behind the nearly 2,000 applicants from the county's previous open enrollment period.

Municipalities across the country handle the enrollment process differently. Riverside County for example does not set aside specific periods for sign up. Instead, individuals can sign up for housing assistance at any time although the waiting lists to be placed in Section 8 housing moves at a consistent pace across both counties in the inland region.

The Art of Guiltless Relaxation

Life is downright stressful. Relaxation has become a luxury for most of us. But most of us don't know how to relax. It may seem crazy that we need to "learn how" to relax.

Shouldn't relaxing come second nature to us?

We spend so much time and energy trying not to be lazy that it seems counter-productive that we need to learn to take time to relax.

Sadly, most of us get caught in a whirlwind of productivity that is hard to escape. You may already know "HOW" to relax, but what most of us really need to learn is how to let go of the guilt that comes with letting yourself relax.

If you fall victim to "relaxation guilt" just know that relaxation is something your body needs. Just like food, air, water, and sleep; down time is something we need to live. We need relaxation to be calm, creative, focused and patient with ourselves and others.

Separating yourself from your busy world is a great way to start your time relaxing. It's easier to not have guilt about relaxation when responsibilities are away from you. They will be there waiting for you when you return.

Get away from your to do list or work that has to be done. Get out in nature. Take a walk and breathe in fresh air.

Get a massage, read a juicy novel, stretch; take a coffee break or a nap break. Do something that makes you feel good.

Guilt can affect our mind, body and spirit. A positive way to counteract this is to think more positively about relaxation using positive affirmations. Keeping your affirmations in present tense helps you stay in the present moment, and using "I am" makes the statement powerful and personal. You can make up your own or try this one.

I am a calm and relaxed person. I am taking time to relax for my health and wellbeing. Repeat your affirmation often until it become second nature – just as relaxation should be.

As County Officials Ponder Fee Adjustments, Registrar of Voters Seeks to Lower Recount Fees

San Bernardino

County departments and other agencies have calculated and documented changes to their fee schedules and presented them to the board for consideration on February 26.

Proposed changes include the addition of 84 new fees for 2019-20. The added fees are primarily the result of service needs in Airports, County Museum, Land Use Services and County Fire.

The departments also proposed the deletion of 201 service fees for the same period in the following county departments—Clerk of the Board, Regional Parks, Land Use Services, Board Governed County Service Areas and County Fire.

One departmental request that stood out was submitted by the county's Registrar of Voters. According to Interim Registrar of Voters Bob Paige, the department continuously reviews operational costs and fees by systematically assessing the needs of each unique election with three different sets of analyses: logistics, poll worker and roster, and ballot order, to keep consolidated election costs reasonable while striving to ensure minimal lines develop on Election Day.

Although fee schedules are adjusted by all county departments periodically, this year Page recommended San Bernardino County consider lowering its recount fees noting this could be accomplished by excluding all overhead related costs.

The suggestion was in response to constituent concerns that the county's fee schedule was higher in San Bernardino than neighboring Riverside. Also, during the election last November at least one San Bernardino candidate who lost by a handful of votes decided to forgo a recount challenge because it was too costly.

Page requested the reduction in recount fees be adopted and implemented by the board in time for a special election in San Bernardino scheduled for May 7.

Interim Registrar of Voters Bob Paige

Although fee schedules are adjusted periodically the recently requested adjustments were initiated partly in response to constituent concerns that San Bernardino's fee schedule was higher than in neighboring counties.

The Registrar of Voters, in consultation with the County Administrative Office and County Counsel, has also requested authority to discount or waive fees for media organizations, qualified non-profits, and educational institutions if such waiver or discount serves a public purpose.

A public hearing regarding the fee ordinance is scheduled for March 19, and the board is expected to make a final decision during its April 2 meeting. See a list of proposed fee changes at <http://cob-sire.sbcounty.gov/sirepub/cache/2/2ux45yprferpkbqbyufem015/234564202282019044654637.PDF>.

Newcastle Quarantine Boundaries Extended

Sacramento

Since May 2018, staff from the California Department of Agriculture and the U.S. Department of Agriculture have worked collectively to eradicate virulent Newcastle disease (VND) in Southern California.

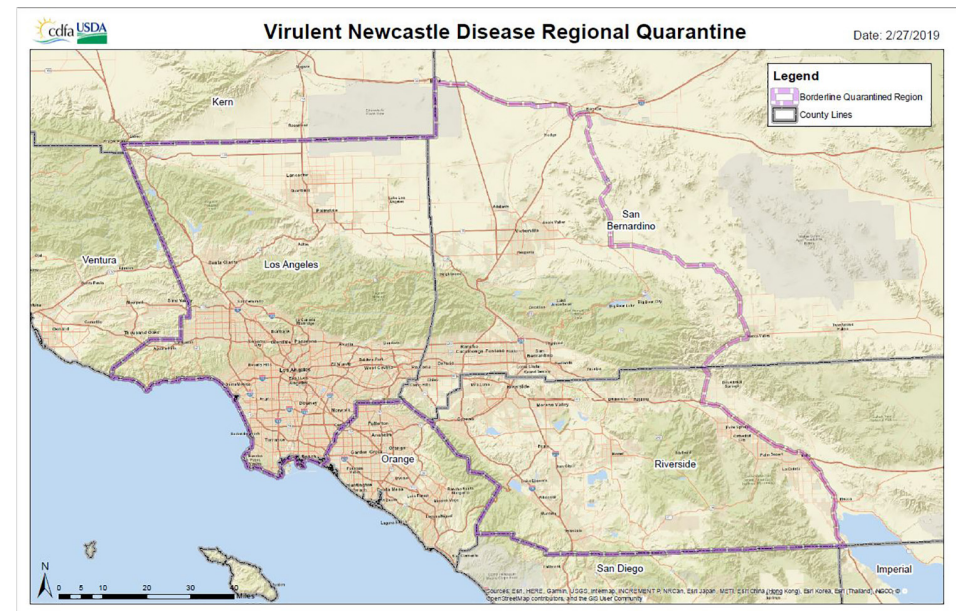

Officials confirm the highly contagious virus has resulted, or will soon result, in the euthanasia of more than one million birds in Riverside, San Bernardino, Los Angeles and Ventura counties.

As state and local officials continue to wage this battle, last week California State Veterinarian Dr. Annette Jones modified Southern California's quarantine area to further restrict bird movement as work continues to eradicate VND.

The quarantine mandates the reporting of sick birds and prohibits poultry owners from moving birds in all of Los Angeles County, and in large areas of San Bernardino and Riverside counties. The impacted communities in Riverside County include Eastvale, Menifee, Mira Loma/Jurupa Valley, Norco, Nuevo, Perris, and Riverside City. Impacted communities in San Bernardino County include Fontana, Hesperia, Highland, Muscoy, and Ontario.

The modified quarantine extends from the northern and southern borders of western Riverside County to the Salton Sea—including the Coachella Valley—and as far east as Yucca Valley in San Bernardino County, with a northern boundary of State Route 58 at the Kern County line.

VND is a nearly-always fatal respiratory infection in poultry. Birds may seem healthy but will die within days of being infected. There is no cure. The virus is also transmitted by people who have VND on their clothes or shoes, and by equipment or vehicles that can transport the disease from place to place.

There are no human health concerns provided that any meat or eggs are cooked properly. People who come in direct contact with the virus may develop conjunctivitis-like symptoms or run a mild fever. These signs generally resolve without treatment however, medical care should be sought if symptoms persist.

The only way to stop the virus and eradicate the disease is to euthanize birds. This includes all infected birds as well as birds within heavily-

The Census Bureau is Hiring—Apply Now

Riverside

The Census Bureau is hiring temporary employees for the 2020 Census. The jobs will provide weekly pay, competitive pay rates, flexible hours, and paid training. The Bureau is hoping to hire thousands of people across the country to assist with the 2020 Census effort.

The 2020 Census will provide an opportunity for individuals to earn an income while also assisting the inland community—the census not only help determine each state's representation in Congress, it will also direct how certain funds are spent for schools, hospitals, roads, and more.

A variety of jobs are available including openings for census takers, recruiting assistants, office staff, and supervisory staff. To be eligible, applicants must be at least 18 years of age, have a valid Social Security number and be a U.S. citizen. Candidates must be available to work flexible hours, which can include days, evenings, and/or weekends.

Most jobs also require employees to have access to a vehicle and a valid driver's license, unless public transportation is readily available. In addition, those who apply must also have access to a computer with

Restore Our Parks and Public Lands Act Passes U.S. Senate 92 to 8

Andrea M. Baldrias

Contributor

On Tuesday February 12, Congress passed the Restore Our Parks and Public Lands Act. The act will amend title 54 of the United States Code, to establish, fund, and provide for the use of funds in a National Park Service Legacy Restoration Fund to address the maintenance backlog of the National Park Service, and other purposes. The bipartisan measure passed 92 to 8 amongst senators of various political ideologies and affiliations.

This legislation protects 1.3 million acres of wilderness and includes the prohibition of motorized vehicles and paving roads. It also puts certain prohibitions on hunters and fish anglers and protects approximately 620 miles of rivers across seven states. In addition, 370,000 acres of land in two national parks, including Yellowstone, will be withdrawn from mining.

The legislation reallocates 50 percent of the revenue from federal mines (both on-shore and offshore) towards conservation efforts. The Congressional Budget Office projects that taxpayers could save $9 million.

In California, the bill will protect a total of 350,000 acres between Mojave National Preserve and Death Valley, while increasing the acreage of Death Valley and Joshua Tree.

Additionally, “the Fund would be established for five years, from FY2019-FY2023, with annual revenue capped at $1.3 billion with the following breakdown:

- 80% to national parks maintenance backlog
- 65% of the Fund would go toward the repair of non-transportation resources (historic structures, visitor facilities, trails, water utility systems, and assets that impact disability access, health and safety, access and recreation)

Auditor-Controller Attacks Fraud, Waste and Abuse in San Bernardino County

S.E. Williams
Contributor

Late last month the San Bernardino County Auditor-Controller/Treasurer/Tax Collector (ATC) Ensen Mason released the first ever ATC Fraud, Waste and Abuse (FWA) Hotline Report.

The report, which covered calendar year 2018, was promised as the first in what will be an ongoing series of annual FWA Hotline reports to the residents of San Bernardino County.

When Mason was sworn in as the county's ATC during a ceremony at the San Bernardino DoubleTree Hotel on Monday, January 7th he promised the crowd of nearly 200 civic leaders, friends and neighbors in attendance, to be both open and transparent. Mason defeated former San Bernardino County ATC Oscar Valdez in the June 2018 primary election.

"Communication with the public as well as stopping government fraud, waste and abuse are my fundamental priorities in office," stated ATC Ensen Mason.

The ATC which employs about 336 professionals in nine divisions, is considered the financial foundation of San Bernardino County government. In his role as ATC, Mason oversees the county's investment pool which contains approximately six billion dollars. In this role, he also serves on the Board of Directors of the San Bernardino County Employees'

Retirement Association, which is responsible for the management of more than ten billion dollars in employee pension funds.

"San Bernardino County residents deserve prompt, efficient, and friendly service along with the benefit of the doubt in transacting any business with our office," Mason said that day. "They also deserve an ATC fully committed to ending fraud, waste, and abuse of their hard-earned tax dollars."

Mason is now delivering on that commitment. "The public has a right to know what this office is doing to clean up San Bernardino County government, he said when the report was published. "We serve as their watchdog over misuse of taxpayer dollars and fraudulent spending practices."

Within the ATC's scope of responsibilities is a charge to perform operational and compliance audits of departments, offices, agencies and special districts within the county; to provide county management with objective appraisals as to the status of operations of the audited organizations; and to evaluate internal controls, assess business risks, and make constructive recommendations to add value and to improve county operations. In addition, the agency is also responsible for administrating the auditor-controller’s fraud, waste, and abuse hotline.

A 2014 Report by the Association of Local Government Auditors (ALGA), noted how fraud in government was identified 40+ percent of the time as the result of an anonymous tip. The next two closest detection methods included management reviews and the work of internal auditors at rates of 15 percent and 12 percent respectively.

The ALGA report highlighted that Government and Public Administration rated second among industries that most often fall victim to fraud. It stressed, “Corruption, asset misappropriation, and financial statement fraud are the three types of fraud that impact local governments the most.”

Fraud is costly and identifying it can be difficult according to the ALGA. As noted, one of the most effective means of identifying fraud/waste is through anonymous tips. Mason’s publication of San Bernardino County’s first ever ATC Fraud, Waste and Abuse (FWA) Hotline Report is seen as a step in the right direction.

“The FWA Hotline received 86 cases in 2018,” Mason reported. The most common categories of complaint were welfare or other fraud, employee relations, customer relations policy issues and accounting/audit irregularities. According to Mason, sixty-one cases were closed after investigation while 25 remained open into 2019.

Of the 61 cases closed, twenty-nine were referred to the appropriate county department for action, 22 were determined to be unfounded or not sustained, five were sustained after investigation and appropriate action taken, one was referred for legal action, one was exonerated and three occurred in other jurisdictions and were referred by ATC for action there. Forty-six of these cases were resolved by ATC staff within 90 days, 13 cases took between 91 and 180 days, and two cases took between 181 and 270 days. Mason reported, “No case took more than 270 days to resolve.”

The case investigations also revealed a wide range of problems. For example, one fraud case concerned allegations that a county department had mishandled a federally funded project, and then attempted to cover up its mishandling by deliberately making inaccurate statements on official project documents.

The investigation revealed that critical design elements were missed by the contractor when he/she bid for and won the contract. This resulted in the need for a change order.

Mason reported, “The change order and resulting extra costs to the county would not have been necessary if the designers had followed proper quality control and quality assurance procedures.” Closer quality control procedures were put in place as a result of this audit to ensure this type of shoddy business practice doesn’t happen again.

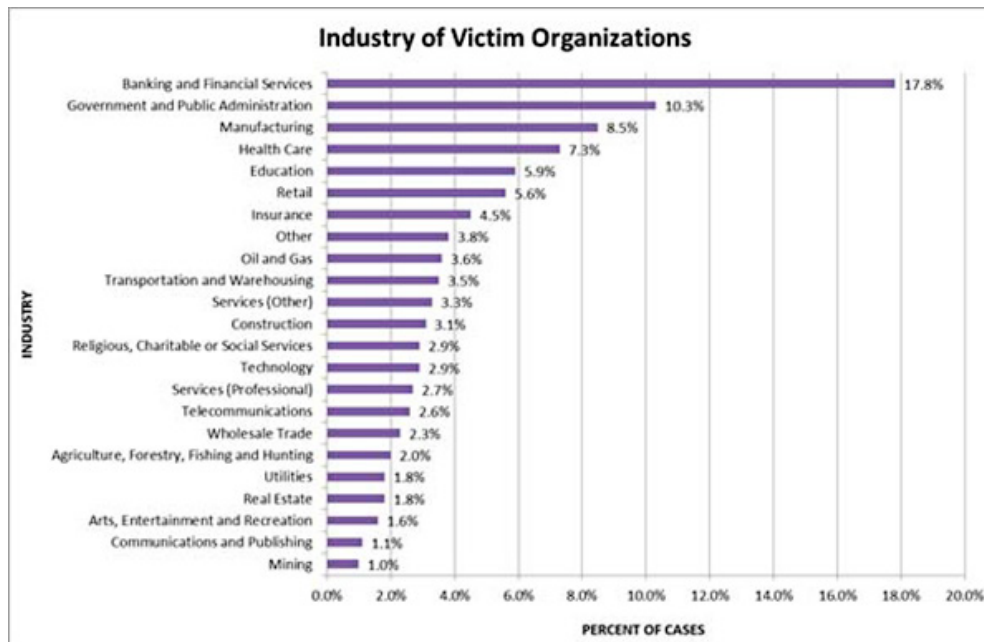

In another example which involved allegations that a sub-recipient of contract funds from the Department of Public Health had created false medical records and treatment plans, an investigation revealed the records in question were incomplete and non-compliant with important quality control requirements—endangering both patients and public health. The employee at the center of these allegations was terminated.

Experts believe identifying fraud can be difficult to prove when it involves an intent to divert resources for personal gain. And when someone steals from the government, they are also stealing from you—the taxpayer.

Everyone can make a difference by helping to put a stop to fraud, waste and abuse. County employees and others are encouraged to report suspected fraud; misuse of county resources by vendors, contractors, or county employees; and violations of county policy.

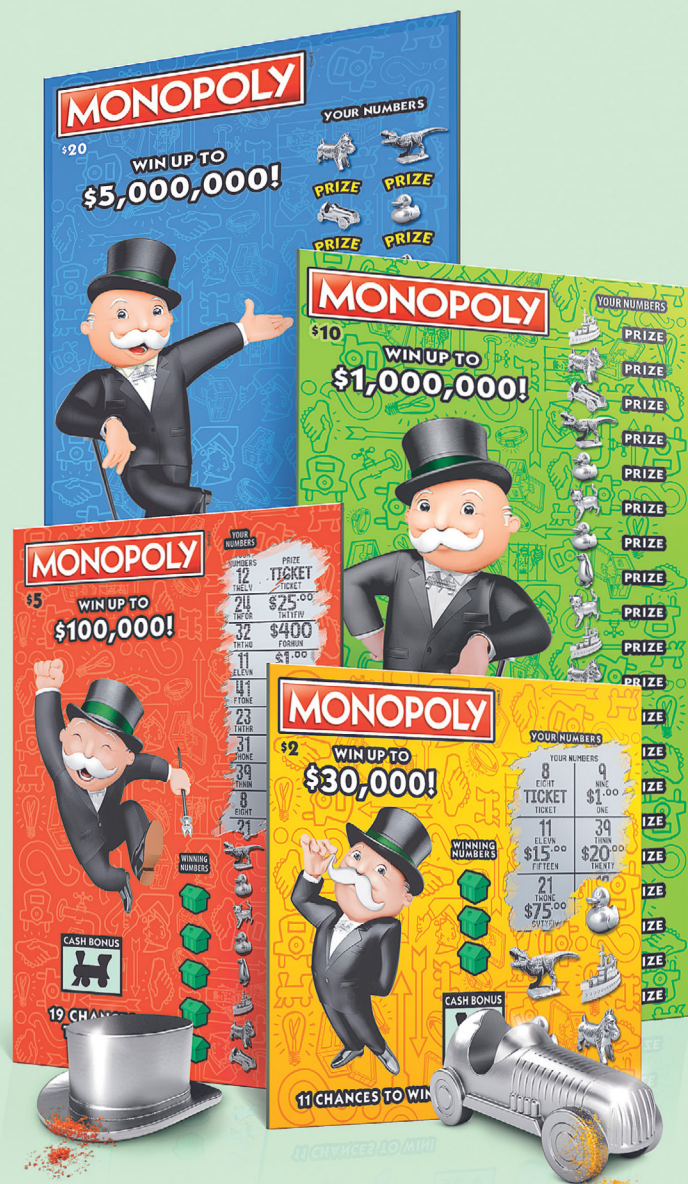

“Members of the public are encouraged to call our Fraud, Waste and Abuse (FWA) hotline at 1-800-547-9540,” Mason stressed. The hotline is available 24 hours a day, seven days a week. Or, an employee or constituent can choose to file a report by sending an email to fraudhotline@atc.sbcounty.gov. “We will investigate and get to the bottom of the problem,” he committed.

HUD Secretary Ben Carson Highlights Local Opportunity Zone

Mayor Warren with U.S. Secretary of Housing and Urban Development Ben Carson (Pictured R) With Anna Ulibarry at CityLink Facility

Fontana

Late last month Dr. Ben Carson, head of the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD), visited the CityLink Water of Life Community Church, part of an opportunity zone in the City of Fontana. Opportunity Zones are low income areas identified as having the potential to spur economic development.

Commenting on the opportunity zone programs Carson stated, “The Opportunity Zone programs provide much needed capital to revitalize areas that would not otherwise be revitalized,” he noted adding, “As you start to see development, other people will come in.”

Carson, who also serves as the Chairman of the White House Opportunity and Revitalization Council, toured The Water of Life Community Church because it is one of the organizations that currently receives funding through HUD’s Emergency Solutions Grant which provides valuable resources which include rent assistance, a food pantry, a thrift store and a mobile medical clinic.

Before touring the Water of Life Community Church facility, Secretary Carson met at city hall with Fontana Mayor Acquanetta Warren, members of the city council and select community leaders for a round table discussion.

HUD recently announced the low-income housing tax credit financing pilot program will now include new construction and substantial rehabilitation of multifamily projects only.

Observers are hopeful this approach will help speed up the application process for developers who want to use the low-income tax credit to build apartment projects from the ground up while also reducing the processing time for developers looking to rehabilitate old buildings in identified Opportunity Zones.

Although the HUD Opportunity Zone program remains popular, there are some critics who believe the tax incentive program is not going to many of the areas across the country that are most in need.

I declare that all the information in this

But as we know, there is little justice in the nation's criminal justice system for people of color. Black and Brown communities also know all too well what can happen when officers, prosecutors (and on occasion, judges) are not honest—it can result in innocent people being arrested, convicted and in the worst case, put to death. Cooper's case was prosecuted by the San Bernardino County District Attorney's office—need I say more?

In 2001, Cooper became the first Death Row inmate in California to get post-conviction DNA testing. The tests appeared to support his guilt—the DNA on the blood spot at the crime scene, on cigarette butts in the ashtray of the Ryen family car and a blood-stained t-shirt found on the road near the scene all appeared to support his guilt.

In response, Cooper claimed he was a victim of a police conspiracy. His attorney, Norman Hile, believes Cooper's blood was planted on the T-shirt and claimed a more sensitive DNA test would show who wore it. He has previously expressed his belief the evidence was planted by investigators to frame a young Black man who escaped from a jail east of Los Angeles just days before the murders.

In 2004, the 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals issued a stay of execution in Cooper's case and wrote, "No person should be executed if there is doubt about his or her guilt and an easily available test will determine guilt or innocence." The court called for more extensive DNA testing.

In December 2018 former Governor Jerry Brown ordered the testing of four pieces of crime scene evidence. Newsom has now expanded on Brown's order and requested the testing of additional evidentiary items. The testing will include the strands of hair found in the young girl's hand, DNA re-testing on a tan t-shirt; an orange towel; and the handle and sheath of a hatchet purportedly used in the murders. The retesting on the t-shirt will look to see if a preservative agent is contained in the blood—that will show if the blood was placed on the shirt after the fact as Cooper and his attorney have claimed.

Newsom said in part he hopes ". . . to determine whether Kevin Cooper's DNA, another suspected person's DNA, and/or the DNA of any other identifiable suspect based on a match in the FBI's Combined DNA Index System (CODIS) database, is present on the items tested."

Last April, the Innocence Project reported among the 37 states participating in the Innocence Project, there was a total of 356 DNA exonerations since 1989—fully 62 percent of those exonerated were Black. In addition, at least 20 of the exonerees were death row inmates.

By calling for expanded DNA testing in the Cooper case Newsom is demonstrating his understanding of the important role DNA plays in the quest for true justice in the criminal justice system, "Especially in cases where the government seeks to impose the ultimate punishment of death," he said. "I need to be satisfied that all relevant evidence is carefully and fairly examined."

I am against the death penalty; yet, if it is to be legally applied, I certainly agree with Newsom that the state must be satisfied all relevant evidence is "fairly" examined—something African-Americans must continue to fight for at every turn.

Of course, this is just my opinion. I'm keeping it real.

infected areas.

The quarantine requires bird owners to allow diagnostic testing, to isolate poultry from other species, to cease exhibitions, to stop the shipping and receiving of birds, and to enhance biosecurity.

"By modifying the quarantine area in Southern California, we are building upon an ongoing effort to eradicate virulent Newcastle disease," said Dr. Jones. "The primary way that VND spreads is by people moving sick birds. Extending the prohibition of bird movement across a larger area is the next logical step in being able to stop the spread of the virus and to eradicate the disease."

Since May 2018, staff from the California Department of Agriculture (CDFA) and the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) have been working in joint incident command to eradicate VND in Southern California. The highly contagious virus has resulted, or will soon result, in the euthanasia of more than one million birds in Los Angeles, Riverside, San Bernardino, and Ventura counties.

Birds from four poultry industry producers in Riverside County and two poultry industry producers in San Bernardino County have also been infected with VND and all birds in those facilities have been or will be euthanized.

For more information about movement restrictions, biosecurity, and testing requirements, please call the Sick Bird Hotline (866) 922-BIRD (2473) or email SFSPermits@cdfa.ca.gov.

Scott Perryman, Senior Vice President and Administrator of Children’s Hospital, expressed his gratitude to San Manuel for its historic generosity. “We enthusiastically join San Manuel in a commitment to improve healthcare in our community for generations to come.”

In honor of this landmark gift, the fifth floor of the hospital’s new adult acute care and Children’s Hospital facility will be named the San Manuel Maternity Pavilion. The pavilion will enable the hospital to continue its efforts as the leader in high risk birth care in the region, with approximately 50 percent of births at the hospital being high risk.

“Their generosity will help us transform maternal care to the benefit of each mother and baby that Loma Linda University Children’s Hospital cares for,” Perryman concluded.

In addition to the generous San Manuel donation, the evening’s gala event raised an additional $1.6 million in hospital donations.

The Serrano Indians are the indigenous people of the San Bernardino highlands, passes, valleys and mountains who share a common language and culture. The San Manuel reservation was established in 1891 and recognized as a sovereign nation with the right of self-government.

working relationships with tribes throughout the state.

The scope of the Select Committee will focus on critical issues facing Native American communities including but not limited to cultural preservation, domestic violence, youth suicide, opioid abuse, missing Native American women, mental health, and education attainment.

Ramos plans to carry out the scope of this mission by conducting a series of information hearings and roundtable meetings in the 40th Assembly district and other member districts. He also plans to conduct fact finding tours, complete committee white papers, and propose potential legislation when appropriate.

“It is a great honor to represent the Inland Empire as the first California Native American elected to the State Legislature,” Ramos shared. “I never thought as a child, growing up in a trailer on the San Manuel Indian Reservation, that I would one day have the privilege to serve in the Assembly and to be the Chair of the Select Committee on Native American Affairs.”

Concluding his comments Ramos affirmed, “I am thrilled to lead the Select Committee on issues affecting the Native American community and hope to be a voice for all native peoples in California.”

- 35% would be used to restore transportation-related assets (roads, bridges, and tunnels)
- 10% to United States Fish and Wildlife Service’s National Wildlife Refuges maintenance backlog
- 5% to the Bureau of Land Management’s public access and recreation maintenance backlog
- 5% to the Bureau of Indian Affairs’ Bureau of Indian Education’s school construction and maintenance backlog

According to the Washington Post, “Perhaps the most significant change the legislation would make, is permanently authorizing a federal program that funnels offshore drilling revenue to conserve a spread of sites that includes major national parks and wildlife preserves, as well as local baseball diamonds and basketball courts. Authorization for the popular program, the Land and Water Conservation Fund (LWCF), lapsed months ago due to the partial government shutdown and other disputes. Liberals like the fact that the money allows agencies to set aside land for wildlife habitat. Conservatives like the fact that taxpayers don’t have to foot the bill for it.”
