KEEPING IT REAL

Defeat over Citizenship Question May Add Fuel to President's Ire

Since taking office the Trump administration has been in overdrive attempting to stem the inevitable rising tide of color washing across this nation that will eventually wretch power and control from a “white supremacy” mindset that continues to cripple the nation.

The administration and its supporters have sought to fend off this inevitability by demonizing dark people, working to restrict the power of their vote and equally as suppressing—adding a citizenship question to the 2020 census to assure an undercount of immigrants and minorities.

The inclusion of a citizenship question was one of the most powerful weapons in the administration’s arsenal of strategies and tactics designed to limit the political power of the country’s growing minority communities. It was clearly intended to maximize the undercount of minorities that historically occurs whenever an enumeration is taken.

Census undercounts are debilitating to minority, mostly poor communities as it impacts the number of federal dollars allocated to them for important programs and can limit their share of congressional representation.

The threatened inclusion of a citizenship question stirred added fear in the hearts of immigrant communities already under attack by the administration and helped forge a strong coalition of minority groups determined to prevent it.

The potential question raised red flags among immigrant families where some have documents and others do not. Such fear was certain to result in fewer immigrants being counted even though the constitution expressively states everyone in the country at the time of enumeration—both citizens and non-citizens—must be included. The question was one more blatant attempt to undercut people of color.

The American mindset of white supremacy includes the perpetuation of fear among its arsenal of options to limit the scope of political power certain to accrue to the rising tide of color washes across this nation.

Whether limiting the number of Black and Brown immigrants allowed to enter the country, suppressing minority votes through gerrymandering, reducing the number of early voting days or purging voter roles on the one hand, or working to reduce participation in the census on the other, such actions serve as perfect book ends to one of their most successful and sinister strategies—the imprisonment of hundreds of thousands of Black and Brown men, women and children.

The imprisonment of minorities in America serves a dual purpose. Firstly, the nation’s prisons, disproportionately filled with minorities, are usually located in predominately White, sparsely populated areas. When the census is taken, it gives these communities the benefit of a larger share of federal dollars because their populations are boosted by Black and Brown prison inmates.

These communities also benefit from congressional seat allocations—again, because of the inflated population counts resulting from the prison populations in their jurisdictions. Yet, those elected to represent these regions are predictably Republican and rarely represent the interest of those incarcerated or people of color in general.

In the meantime, the populations of minority communities from which these inmates originated are reduced. As a result, their allocation of federal program dollars and congressional representation is restricted/reduced pushing these communities further into poverty with less congressional representation to advocate for their interests.

The strategy of mass incarceration takes on an added level of exploitation when you consider the privatization of these prison facilities that has allowed large corporations to charge exorbitant fees to house inmates who are usually kept in deplorable conditions, fed substandard food, charged outrageous fees to make calls, provided limited medical care and often mentally and physically abused.

They are further victimized by being forced to work for pennies on the dollar while the companies who contract for their services make millions. And even after they have served their time, they remain locked out of the political discourse because as ex-felons they are not allowed to vote, and have difficulty securing employment and/or housing. This cycle of exploitation is graphically and aptly described in Michelle Alexander’s seminal work, The New Jim Crow: Mass Incarceration in the Age of Colorblindness.

America’s prison industrial complex has fulfilled the wildest dreams of white supremacists even exceeding benefits previously reaped from the institution of chattel slavery.

On Giant Leap for Mankind: 50th Anniversary of Apollo 11

Riverside – On July 16, 1969 Apollo 11 launched from Cape Kennedy in Florida carrying Commander Neil Armstrong, Command Module Pilot Michael Collins and Edwin “Buzz” Aldrin to take their place in history. On Saturday, July 20th the world will mark the 50th anniversary of the mission’s highlight when nearly 65 million people watched Armstrong’s grainy, televised image and heard his crackling voice describe the event as he took “...one small step for a man, one giant leap for mankind.”

The primary objective of the Apollo 11 missions was to fulfill a national goal set by President John F. Kennedy on May 25, 1961 to perform a crewed lunar landing and return to Earth. He rallied national support for the program during a 1962 speech at Rice University in Houston, Texas. “We choose to go to the moon,” he declared regarding the Apollo missions, “not because they are easy, but because they are hard...”

The Colonies—San Bernardino County’s Very Costly Albatross

San Bernardino

The Colonies scandal that has morphed into a continuing saga is once again in the news. Last week U.S. District Court Judge Jesus Bernal ruled county officials must hand over communication documents accrued during the long years it took to settle the Colonies case.

In August 2017 defendants charged in the Colonies case, which included former Assistant Assessor Jim Erwin, developer Jeff Burum, former Supervisor Paul Biane and Mark Kirk (the former chief of staff to retired County Supervisor Gary Ovitt) were found not guilty of all charges.

In the case that dragged on for eight years, state and local prosecutors alleged Burum conspired with the other defendants in a bribery scheme that resulted in the historic $102 million settlement in 2006 related to the county-built flood-control channels that emptied into the

THE COLONIES PROJECTS

Colonies Partners LP developed a 434-acre housing tract and shopping center, Colonies at San Antonio and Colonies Crossroads, which were the subject of a marathon corruption trial. Jurors on Monday acquitted three of four defendants, but a jury for the fourth hasn't yet reached a verdict. The case involves a $102 million settlement that San Bernardino County paid to Colonies Partners in 2006 that ended a legal battle over flood-control improvements in Upland.

Colonies property. The settlement favored Burum’s Rancho Cucamonga Colonies Partners LLP at the expense of the county.

In the criminal case it was alleged Burum made $400,000 in political contributions to the other defendants as well as to former Board of Supervisors Chairman Bill Postmus. Postmus eventually made a deal with prosecutors and testified against the others.

In the wake of their exonerations, the former defendants filed civil lawsuits against the county seeking a combined total of $102 million dollars in damages. Although the suits were initially filed against former California Attorneys General Jerry Brown and Kamala Harris, San Bernardino County District Attorney Mike Ramos, investigators in the District Attorney’s office who were involved in the case and other

Funding for Veteran Job Assistance

Riverside

The Riverside County Veterans’ Employment-Related Assistance Program (RivCoVEAP) will receive $488,635 in funding from the Workforce Innovation and Opportunity Act.

According to program officials the funding will be provided to eligible applicants through March 31, 2021.

“As a Navy veteran, I know it can be tough to adjust to life after military service,” said Supervisor Chuck Washington, a former Navy officer and aviator. “These funds will help us facilitate the transition to civilian life for 100 deserving veterans, benefitting employers and workers alike and strengthening our community.”

The program will serve 100 veterans and eligible spouses in various categories, including service members who were recently separated, disabled veterans, War on Terror campaign veterans, Gulf War II-era veterans, and veterans with significant barriers. The County anticipates that many RivCoVEAP recipients will intersect one or more of the priority groups listed.

Summer's Fresh Fruit and Vegetable Bounty

Nothing evokes memories of childhood like eating fresh watermelon at the family picnic table. Who doesn't love the anticipation of the fresh fruits of summer – juicy strawberries, raspberries, cherries, blueberries, grapes, peaches, nectarines, apricots, cantaloupe and of course watermelon.

In California, we are fortunate to have many of our favorite summer fruits and vegetables ripening in our back yard. Fruits provide important vitamins and minerals, antioxidants and enzymes. They also contain phytochemicals or plant nutrients which help boost immunity, have a protective effect against cancer, and help protect against heart diseases and circulatory problems. Stay healthy this summer by simply enjoying all the fresh fruits and vegetables the season has to offer.

All those sweet and savory flavors that bring back memories of picnics on long hot days or sunset barbecues. They are wonderful eaten just as they are, or lightly steamed, but they are so versatile that they're not just great for a full meal – avocados, bell peppers, corn eggplant, zucchini and

Redlands Mourns the Loss of Barbara Wormser

Redlands

Former Redlands City Councilwoman and local humanitarian Barbara Wormser passed away Sunday, July 7, 2019, she was 82.

Wormser is being remembered for her service to the city as a member of its governing council from 1985 to 1989 and especially for her 1990 founding of Inland Harvest, which helps feed the area's hungry. Today the organization's volunteers pick up surplus food from restaurants, markets and more, and deliver it to community organizations from Yucaipa and Redlands to San Bernardino, Fontana and Riverside. According to reports, Wormser was so personally committed to this effort, on occasion she drove more than 100 miles in a single a day to make food deliveries.

In addition to her time on the city council and her work with Inland Harvest, she served as a member of the San Bernardino County Regional Parks Advisory Commission from 1990 until 2016 and held several leadership positions in service organizations including the Redlands YWCA, the Redlands Sister Cities Association, Friends of A.K. Smiley Library, the Redlands Symphony Association and the Zonta Club of Redlands. Over the years Wormser was honored with several awards for her efforts.

However, her community involvement did not end there. Wormser was also a founding member of the University of Redlands Town and Gown; a chairwoman for the United Way Homeless Task Force; and served on the board of directors for Redlands Community Hospital, the Redlands Bicycle Classic, and Friends of Armacost Library on the campus of the University of Redlands.

Wormser and her husband Laurence, owned several small businesses in the region including Redlands Camera, Professional Photosystems Corp. and Audio

60 Freeway Truck Lanes Project

Riverside

Anyone who has taken the 60 freeway from the 10 toward Moreno Valley has seen the changing landscape along the route between Gilman Springs Road to 1.4 miles west of Jack Rabbit Trail.

The $138.4 million-dollar project is widening a 4.5-mile section of State Route 60 through the county's Badlands between Moreno Valley and Beaumont. Because the project lies within mountainous terrain with a curving alignment and steep grades it appears to be a herculean effort; however, it is designed to improve safety, efficiency and reduce traffic congestion.

The project includes the construction of an eastbound truck climbing lane; the construction of a westbound truck descending lane; widening shoulders to standard widths which includes 12-foot exterior shoulders and 11-foot interior shoulders; the establishment of two wildlife crossings and placing wildlife fencing; and improving motorist sight distance by flattening roadway curves.

Project construction began in June and is expected to take about two and a half years to complete. As a result, construction is expected to continue through late 2021.

During construction, one westbound lane will be closed for approximately six months, which should allow the project to be completed up to a year earlier. Freeway Service Patrol roadside assistance will be operating during the six-month closure. Up to four weekend closures and nightly lane closures will also be needed.

The initiative is fully funded by a combination of state, federal and local sources, including Measure A, the voter-approved half-cent sales tax for

Community Indicators Report:

San Bernardino County's Population and Social Characteristics

San Bernardino recently published its 2018 Community Indicators Report which provides residents and businesses with an annual assessment of how the county is doing across a range of indicators.

The report takes an objective look at the county from several perspectives including the economy, schools, healthcare, public safety, the environment and overall quality of life. This is the first year the county has exclusively published a digital version of the report.

Due to its expansive nature, The IE Voice/Black Voice News will explore key areas of the report over time beginning this week with a look at the county's changing demographics.

In 2018 the county's total population was 2,174,938 and it is projected to grow by 28 percent between 2020 and 2045.

In terms of absolute growth, all age groups in the county are projected to increase at varying rates between now and 2045 from 7 percent among young children ages zero to five to 100 percent growth among seniors ages 65 and older. In addition, the percent of the county's population that are ages 65 and older will grow from 12 percent of the county's population in 2018 to 19 percent by 2045.

State Audit May Unravel and Reveal Truth Behind WVWD's Tangled Web of Alleged Corruption

S.E. Williams
Contributor

Last week Dr. Michael Taylor current president of the West Valley Water District (WVWD) Board of Directors announced an impending audit of the agency by the California State Controller's office.

The audit comes on the heels of a series of incidents at the agency which included the misuse of ratepayer funds, unjustified firings of staff administrators, claims related to improper hiring of unqualified individuals based on political and/or personal relationships, contracts awarded as quid pro quo, reports of corruption by former Board President Clifford O. Young, and the list goes on.

The plethora of complaints regarding alleged misdeeds and mounting allegations, accusations and counter complaints by board members and agency officials have done little to assuage concerns of rate payers who have watched agency dollars paid out in the thousands to settle lawsuits, pay attorney fees, and used to reimburse C. Young for inappropriate expenses he charged to the agency.

As the chief financial officer for the State of California responsible for the accountability and disbursement of the state’s financial resources, the controller also independently audits government agencies that spend state funds and administers the payroll system for state government employees. As such, it is required to audit special districts to ensure appropriate accountability.

Taylor said he welcomes the audit. “Transparency is key to ensure rightful spending and effective delivery of service,” he offered.

This of course, is something Don Griggs, President of the WVWD Rate Payers Association (RPA) has continuously advocated for. When asked about the state controller’s audit Griggs declared adamantly, “We have been pushing for the audit since the beginning and we more than welcome it.”

Hardy Brown Sr., Publisher Emeritus, The IE Voice/Black Voice News, who has also been a strong ratepayer advocate for transparency, echoed Griggs’s comment in this regard. “This is what I wanted them to do since we (RPA) met with them last year,” Brown stressed. “An audit of the West Valley Water District by the State Controller’s Office is welcomed news to my ears and will help restore the agency’s integrity.”

Brown continued, “The public lost confidence [in the board] after we exposed the abuse of power and misuse of ratepayers’ money for personal benefit under the leadership of Dr. Clifford Young and Greg Young former President and Vice President [respectively] of the West Valley Water District.”

Taylor appeared to validate the concerns expressed by Griggs and Brown in a further statement when he acknowledged, “[M]y tenure has shown me that the previous district leadership under Director Dr. Clifford Young likely will demonstrate a failure of responsibility and ethics under his direction. Simply, his leadership was not fiscally prudent.”

To support this declaration, Taylor pointed to allegations outlined in a lawsuit against C. Young that detailed his alleged engagement in unethical hiring practices that violated district protocol. Suzanne Cook, former WVWD executive sued C. Young stating, “I was shocked that Dr. Young would purposefully violate the code of conduct for personal benefit.”

Taylor continued, “Young rejected job candidates recommended by the district’s interview panels and pressured the general manager to hire his preferred candidates, many of them Young’s former colleagues from Cal State San Bernardino.” Taylor quoted this assessment from a June 2018 report by the Inland Valley Daily Bulletin regarding the lawsuit against C. Young.

“With credible reports of misconduct,” Taylor concluded, “the new leadership team of West Valley Water welcomes this state audit.”

Commenting on the current direction of the WVWD Board of Directors since Taylor assumed the role of president after C. Young was removed from his role as president by a majority vote of the board, Brown stressed, “Even though much progress has been made under the new leadership, full confidence by the ratepayers has not been restored.”

Brown pointed to a series of unresolved concerns. “The District Attorney is still investigating Dr. Young for his inappropriate use of ratepayers funds to host a political celebration party to thank campaign workers—the event was held December 7, 2017 at Sierra Lakes Country Club in Fontana.”

According to Brown, C. Young also reportedly used ratepayer money to print campaign mailers during his 2017 re-election campaign and allegedly hired campaign workers on the WVWD payroll during his tenure as president.

“All of those things are wrong,” Brown charged, “as well as an abuse of power and a violation of public trust.” He concluded, “The controllers audit will tell elected officials not only at WVWD—but others in the Inland Empire—that you cannot ignore the public and use public funds as your personal ATM.”

Cognizant of Brown’s sentiments as well as those of Griggs and others, Taylor asserted, “It is my sincere Corruption. You must fight it.” - A. K. Anthony hope that there will be a demand for accountability following this audit and that any misappropriation of funds will be re-paid. Clifford Young must be held to the standards that every official on this board is required by law to abide.”

At Taylor’s direction, the Board of Directors previously approved an independent audit by an outside private company. Taylor, Vice President Kyle Crowther and Director Don Olinger voted in favor of the audit while Directors C. Young and Greg Young opposed it.

Taylor said he is grateful for a thorough review of the agency’s finances and he looks forward to the results of both audits.

In the meantime, C. Young has gone on offense. In February he and two close associates—a former chief financial officer and a current board secretary—filed Whistleblower complaint seeking to recover for the WVWD what they identified as one million dollars in alleged misappropriated funds.

The suit named several defendants including WVWD General Counsel Robert Tafoya, Special Counsels to the agency including Clifton Albright and his law firm, Albright Yee & Schmit; Martin Kaufman and the Kaufman Law Firm; and WVWD consultant, Robert Katherman. The suit also named as co-conspirators, Directors Taylor and Crowther, WVWD General Manager Clarence Mansell and Assistant General Manager Ricardo Pacheco.

The suit alleges a vast conspiracy that involved kickbacks, bribes, fraud and lucrative contracts in exchange for campaign contributions, free trips, gifts and NFL tickets, etc. By its nature, the suit has cast dispersions on the credibility of those named as conspirators and co-conspirators in contrast to C. Young’s own alleged wrongdoings.

C. Young has already come up short when his actions were closely examined by independent third parties. For example, in mid-October 2018, the Public Integrity Unit (PIU) of the San Bernardino County District Attorney’s Office provided a written assessment to WVWD attorney, Bradley Neufeld, Esq. Varner & Brandt, LLP, regarding two complaints against C. Young. The complaints involved Young’s receipt of reimbursement from WVWD in the amount of $1378.58 for travel expenses for a business trip to Washington, DC in 2016 that was ultimately cancelled and a reimbursement in the amount of $538.41 for fees on his personal LinkedIn account for 2016.

PIU Deputy District Attorney Carlo A. Dicesare reported—based on the department’s investigation which included previous communications with Neufeld—it was their understanding that, “[Young] without admitting any liability, acknowledged the payments in question were inappropriate.”

The DA noted the PIU took at “face value” the representation by Young’s attorney that the payments were inadvertent but also issued a caution to C. Young and WVWD staff reminding them, “...of their obligations to scrupulously safeguard public funds.”

Also, between February 14, 2019 and March 6, 2019 at the request of the WVWD, the law firm Milon Plusas LLP (Plusas) investigated allegations against C. Young bought by Griggs on behalf of the RPA. The complaint was based on their very detailed report which laid out a compelling case (including documents) in support of their claim C. Young misused ratepayer funds to pay for a political event on December 7, 2017.

Plusas concluded the district’s own documents were enough to establish conclusively the reimbursement to C. Young was requested and made, declaring the fact this occurred, “was not in dispute.”

The Plusas investigation was referred to the Office Public Integrity Unit of the San Bernardino County District Attorney’s for follow-up.

Ratepayers now look to the future results of the State Controller’s audit in the hope it will help untangle the web of accusations, allegations, reports of mismanagement and misuse of public funds in a way that will assure the future protection of ratepayer funds.

“The West Valley Water District serves over 80,000 residents and we pride ourselves not only on our efficiency but proper stewardship of ratepayer dollars as well,” said Taylor. “I am confident that any outside review will demonstrate and prove our commitment to customer service and safeguarding customer payments, along with allocations of finances from our state partners.”

The IE Voice will continue to follow this story.

“Transparency is key to ensure rightful spending and effective delivery of service...With credible reports of misconduct, the new leadership team of West Valley Water welcomes this state audit.”

San Bernardino County Museum Opens New Outdoor Gardens

San Bernardino

Last Saturday, the San Bernardino County Museum's restored native gardens that offers interpretations and stories about the plants featured there.

The Desert Garden is located at the museum's entry. It features plants that play an essential role in the survival and success of all other local organisms. California is home to thousands of native plant species that are found nowhere else in the world; however, changes in our climate are threatening the survival of many of these species. The exhibit is fully bilingual with interpretation in English and Spanish.

The Ethnobotany Garden is located off the museum's interior courtyard. It highlights plants historically stewarded by the local tribal community. Many plants are an important source of food. In addition, some of the plants in this region have been traditionally used for their medicinal properties. With the advancement of science and technology, plants still play an active role in how humans heal. The garden highlights some of them.

Curator of Integrated Science, Jessika Vazquez, spent months researching and developing stories about the Desert Garden and how the plants impact the regional eco-system. "Every part of a plant has a role in its own survival and success as well as in our survival and success. We are very happy to be able to showcase the connection between us and our natural resources, in this case plants. She shared adding, It's especially exciting to be able to share these stories with our Spanish speaking community."

Tamara Serrao-Leiva, curator of Anthropology, who consulted closely with Morongo's Malki Museum, said, "The ethnobotany garden is a shared space. Animals, plants, and humans come together here and live in harmony. It is important to remember that our relationship to the land is symbiotic, and our health is integrally tied to the health of the land, whether it's physically, emotionally, or spiritually."

The San Bernardino County Museum is located at 2024 Orange Tree Lane in Redlands. The museum is open Tuesdays through Sundays from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. General admission is $10 (adult), $8 (military or senior), $7 (student), and $5 (child aged 5 to 12). Children under five and Museum Association members are admitted free. Parking is free. For more information, visit www.sbcounty.gov/museum. The museum is also accessible to persons with disabilities.

NEWS BRIEF

Breaking Ground

Redlands - On Friday July 19 the San Bernardino County Transportation Authority (SBCTA) will hold a formal groundbreaking ceremony to celebrate the mainline construction on the Redlands Passenger Rail Project which is already underway.

The celebration is scheduled to begin at 10:00 a.m. near the corner of Third Street and Stuart Avenue in Redlands and is open to the public.

The Redlands Passenger Rail Project will add a nine-mile rail connection between the University of Redlands and the San Bernardino Transit Center, a multi-modal transit hub that provides access to all points west.

When completed, the project will house the Arrow commuter line, featuring specially designed low-emission passenger trains that ultimately can be converted to zero-emission vehicles. The zero-emission units would be the first of their kind in North America. The system is expected to be operational in 2021.

For additional information regarding the groundbreaking and to download a printable invitation and location map, please visit www.redlandsrailproject.org.

HEALTHY LIVING

tomatoes also go brilliantly with meat and fish to create really light salads and refreshing al fresco "outside dining".

Watermelon is a great source of hydration -- just look at its name. The red-fleshed fruit is composed of about 92 percent water, and also contains the nutrients beta carotene, lycopene and vitamin C.

Finding good affordable produce at the grocery store is easy with a little advance planning. To help the environment and your wallet, identify a farmer's market in your area. Most times they are cheaper and have better quality of fruits and vegetables.

So, it's important to at least reduce your risk in selecting bad fruits and vegetables by knowing what to look for. Before purchasing your fruits or vegetables, make sure you do not select any that have bruises or are damaged. Clean them off with running tap water when you are about to use them, not before. Depending on what fruit or vegetables, water can hasten deterioration.

When you do not refrigerate, fruits and vegetables will ripen quicker on the counter and most times taste better. Do not use the same cutting board to cut your fruits or vegetables that you use to cut meats with.

In a nutshell, summertime fruits and vegetables are pure enjoyment. So enjoy this delicious treat while filling up on important nutrients!

KEEPING IT REAL

I present all of this to highlight the attempted inclusion of a citizenship question on the 2020 Census not an isolated tactic disguised as a way to "make America great again," but rather part of a broader strategy that has evolved over decades to maintain power and control—fueled by a white supremacy mindset. The nation's evolution to a country where most of its citizens are people of color has been foretold since the 1890s. Even the description "minority-majority or "majority-minority" is a way of verbally undermining what is really happening—America will soon be a country with a "White-minority" population—for some White Americans, certainly not all, just the sound of the phrase "white minority" is frightening.

The question is, why? Why is there so much fear? Afterall, people are people...we are all created equal. Isn't that what Thomas Jefferson wrote... "We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal." Isn't that the cornerstone of American democracy? It is the same cornerstone white supremacists have failed to embrace regarding people of color.

This week the Trump administration and its supporters suffered a humiliating defeat when they were unable to navigate around the Supreme Court's exposure of their laughable rationale for adding a citizenship question to the Census—they tried to insist it was to protect voting rights.

Last Thursday the president was forced to admit there was no way around the ruling. Trump did so by boasting in lieu of a citizenship question he would now demand the Commerce Department gather immigrant data by collecting the information through reports, etc., even though everyone knew the department was previously tasked to do so regardless of the census.

Some scoffed at the president's weak and failed attempt to "snatch victory from the jaws of defeat." Once again, everyone saw the emperor has no cloths.

The defeat however may only prompt the president to take more aggressive actions to save face. As a result, the worst may be yet to come—what's happening in immigration prison camps today may be a mere foreshadowing of greater challenges, even beyond his call to round up and deport thousands.

Trump does not display the type of personality that can graciously or even ingloriously accept defeat. Instead, he may be prone to take more vengeful actions to assuage his bruised and childish ego. Everyone should remain vigilant.

Of course, this is just my opinion. I'm keeping it real.

like graduating from college,*
finding a job,* and moving into a new apartment.

Financial Health Conversations offer free, personalized guidance from a Wells Fargo financial health banker, who can provide tips that may help you grow your savings, manage your debt and improve your credit. So you can take small, manageable steps toward your biggest achievements.
