KICK-OFF EVENT LAUNCHES LONG-RANGE FUNDRAISING CAMPAIGN

PARTNERSHIP 2000

Nearly 60 community volunteers and university leaders will meet on campus next week to participate in a kick-off event designed to launch a major campus-wide fundraising drive, reports Vice President Judith Rymer (University Relations). The drive, titled "Partnership 2000: Building on the Cornerstone of Knowledge," is a series of several mini-campaigns being implemented to address a vast array of university needs from physical facilities and endowed chairs to equipment, scholarships and faculty professional development. "The purpose of the kick-off event is to provide key volunteers with an overview of Partnership 2000 even though many already are involved at the school or program level," says Rymer. "We want everyone to have an overview of this university-wide fundraising program, which comes under the Partnership 2000 umbrella. "It's important for all of the volunteers working on different projects to become acquainted with the many fundraising projects currently underway or in the planning stages," contends Rymer, who chairs the Partnership 2000 steering committee. "We hope this will be a motivational event for both volunteers and the key university employees involved with the drive. It will provide a good opportunity for these individuals to learn about the

"Embracing progress and growth, the university's most formative years are at hand: By the end of this decade, the campus' physical space for classes and community programs will virtually double. The university's academic programs will heighten in sophistication with the addition of 16 degree programs, two-thirds of which will be at the graduate level. Nearly 20,000 students will be served by the university at the dawn of a new century. Your involvement now in the life of the university will make a noticeable difference in the character and quality of Cal State in the 21st century. Opportunities abound, as never before, for you to influence the development of the university and its areas of distinction. The effectiveness of Cal State's ability to contribute toward the quality of life in the Inland Empire depends upon your investment and commitment today."

university's needs." Faculty, student and alumni representatives will be on hand for the May 27 event to present testimonials regarding the need for and importance of private financial support and to convey how this support can assist a growing campus like Cal State. The event also will provide an opportunity for university officials to review Cal State's case statement with volunteers. The case statement is a new publication developed by the Public Affairs Office designed to help volunteers in the cultivation and solicitation of donors.

Both President Anthony Evans and Rymer emphasize that the success of the Partnership 2000 drive is important to both the university and the communities we serve. As Evans indicates in the case statement, "Embracing progress and growth, the university's most formative years are at hand: By the end of this decade, the campus' physical space for classes and community programs will virtually double. The university's academic programs will heighten in sophistication with the addition of 16 degree programs, two-thirds of which will be at the graduate level. Nearly 20,000 students will be served by the university at the dawn of a new century.

"Your involvement now in the life of the university will make a noticeable difference in the character and quality of Cal State in the 21st century," continues President Evans. "Opportunities abound, as never before, for you to influence the development of the university and its areas of distinction. The effectiveness of Cal State's ability to contribute toward the quality of life in the Inland Empire depends upon your investment and commitment today."

In discussing the kick-off, Rymer adds, "We want to reiterate with our volunteers what the university means to the community in terms of providing a quality education and preparing knowledgeable graduates, many of whom will be entering the regional work force."

According to Rymer, Partnership 2000 encompasses both a dedicated core of long-time volunteers, as well as those individuals who are just now joining the university's on-going fundraising efforts. Key volunteer groups engaging in the Partnership 2000 drive include the University Advisory Board, the Foundation Board of Directors, the executive committee of the Athletic Association, the Alumni Association Board, the executive committee of the School of Business & Public Administration's Board of Councillors, the Coachella Valley Center Advisory Board and the Pfau Addition Library Supporters (PALS). Individuals seeking more information about Partnership 2000 may contact Rymer at Ext. 5004.

PROFESSOR KHOKHLOV RETURNS TO RUSSIA AFTER 38 YEARS OF EXILE

Psychology professor, Dr. Nikolai Khokhlov, is returning to his homeland 38 years after he left Russia on a special mission to the West and ultimately sought solace with the American government, taking up residency in the United States.

A former KGB officer, Khokhlov was declared an enemy of the state and sentenced to death by Russian officials after his departure in 1954. "The Secret Police chased me throughout the world and tried to assassinate me," he states. He lived with that spectre for years, eventually starting a new life by joining the faculty at Cal State, San Bernardino in 1968.

It was not until the Soviet Union's transition from Communism to democracy began to occur that Khokhlov's life began to change within the past year. "In March (1992), President Yeltsin signed a private bill in my name absolving me of responsibility...and ordering the High Ministry of the Military to formally rehabilitate me."

He began a three-week visit May 14, during which time he expected to give a series of interviews to the Russian-equivalent of Time Magazine, as he puts it, and to a major publishing house and movie studio in his homeland.

"The wait has been so long I no longer have the energy to be excited," he commented just a few days before leaving San Bernardino. He will spend some more time with his son, Alyushka, who was a mere infant when Nikolai left the USSR. They were reunited for the first time last year when Alyushka visited Cal State as a guest lecturer in gerontology. He oversees gerontological research at the University of Moscow.

Nikolai looked forward to "meeting the new friends I've made during telephone conversations" and "experiencing the places I used to go to as a child."

His greatest joy is that "a piece of my life has been given back to me. It is quite a change to be a hunted enemy of the state and open prey of the KGB and then suddenly invited back by decree of the President. "A year ago I wouldn't have predicted it," he reflected.

And yet, in his lectures to classes at Norton Air Force Base over the past 15 years, Khokhlov has made predictions that have come to pass about the decay and demise of the Communist government. He recalls making such predictions as early as 1981. His classes have dealt with the psychological factors associated with the Soviet state. His service as an honorary instructor at Norton AFB recently earned him a certificate of special recognition for his contributions to military education.

Khokhlov will return from Russia in mid-June.

"MADWOMAN" TO CLOSE OUT THEATRE SEASON

Students (from left) Bill Lane, Edie Scriven and Keri Hostetler rehearse for "The Madwoman of Chaillot" opening May 29 in the University Theatre.

"The Madwoman of Chaillot," a zany farce about a woman's struggle to defeat evil profiteers and keep her town beautiful, opens Friday, May 29 in the University Theatre.

Written by playwright Jean Giraudoux, the play is his poetic "reaction to the corruption of Paris between 1939 and 1944," wrote one reviewer. "Yet it speaks...of the whole Western world" and of those profiteers who will trample over anyone to make money, if that's what it takes.

"The evil people in the play are those most people revere," says Dr. Sue Rudisill (Theatre Arts), who directs the play. "The president of a corporation, the broker, the baron—they would destroy all the beauty around Chaillot for their own profit."

The madwoman, Countess Aurelia, is played by Edith Scriven of Grand Terrace. The play has been called a "comic fantasy," and probably for good reason, says Rudisill. By sheer act of wit and will, the countess and the people of Chaillot rid their world of the evil profiteers, and so restore their "island of beauty." "It's a play that describes a situation as opposed to prescribing an ending," she says.

"The Madwoman of Chaillot" runs May 29-31 and June 3-7. The May 31 and June 7 shows are 2 p.m., Sunday matinees. Tickets are $8 for general admission, $5 for senior citizens and CSUSB alumni with an Alumni Association membership card, and $3 for students. Evening shows begin at 8:15. All performances will be held in the University Theatre located in the Creative Arts Building. For tickets, call the Theatre Arts Department at Ext. 5876.

CALL FOR COMMENCEMENT VOLUNTEERS

Anticipating a record crowd of nearly 15,000 graduates and guests, the Office of Alumni Affairs is seeking volunteers to assist with this year's Commencement ceremony on Saturday, June 13. Each year, staff in the schools of Education, Business & Public Administration, Humanities, Natural Sciences and Social & Behavioral Sciences assist at receptions for their schools. Approximately 65 additional volunteers are needed to help staff information booths, work registration tables, serve as ushers, assist faculty and guests in the gym, and help direct students and guests from parking areas to the ceremony and school receptions.

Staff volunteers may be awarded compensatory time off (CTO) from their respective departments for helping from approximately 3-8 p.m. Interested individuals should check with their immediate supervisor and then register with Mary Colacurcio (Alumni Affairs) at Ext. 5008. Management and supervisory personnel also are encouraged to volunteer.

Three short Commencement training sessions will be held to inform volunteers about their various roles. Sessions are scheduled as follows:

Monday, June 1	9:30-10 a.m.	Sycamore Room, Lower Commons.
Tuesday, June 2	9:30-10 a.m.	Sycamore Room, Lower Commons
Wednesday, June 3	2-2:30 p.m.	Eucalyptus Room, Lower Commons.

All volunteers are requested to attend one of these sessions. More information is available by calling Ext. 5008.

CAMPUS REACTS TO KING TRIAL VERDICT

In reaction to the Rodney King verdicts, members of the Black Student Union organized a campus rally on April 30 to allow members of the campus community an opportunity to vent their response to the legal decision and subsequent L.A. riots. Approximately 250 members of the campus community gathered for the peaceful event where over 40 individuals spoke. Many voiced their concern for future race relations and echoed a call for individuals to work within the system to bring about social changes through education and voting power.

WOMEN'S BASKETBALL SIGNS SEVEN RECRUITS

Four high school seniors, including two from Riverside County, and three Los Angeles-area community college basketball players have been signed by the women's team for the 1992/93 season, announces Luvina Beckley, head coach.

The incoming freshmen from Riverside County, Mary Alice Lott, a 6'0" forward from Palm Springs High School, and 6'4-1/2" forward Darlene Wilson of Rubidoux High School, were the two leading scorers in the county, Beckley notes. With Lott's average of 22.6 points and 14 rebounds per game and Wilson's 20 points and 14 rebounds, Beckley expects the new players to add depth to the CSUSB team.

"Lott is just a phenomenal player, the most fundamentally sound player that I have brought in," Beckley comments. "Shooting 80 percent from the free throw line, she (Lott) has a great understanding of the game." During her high school career, Lott earned three consecutive MVP awards, 1st team honors in the league, and 2nd team All-CIF and 2nd team All-Riverside County. She also played volleyball and ran track for Palm Springs High School, where she holds the discus and high jump records.

The other freshmen recruits include Shanon McGlothlin (5'9-1/2", guard, Notre Dame High School) of Sherman Oaks and Nicole Crimmins (5'4", guard, St. Louise de Marillac) from Chicago. Calling McGlothlin one of her "prize recruits" because a Division I school was attempting to sign her, Beckley says Shanon averages 16 points, 6 rebounds and 5 assists per game and was her team's leading scorer in blocked shots. She was the MVP for her conference and made 1st team All-League.

The community college transfers include Tammy Booker (5'5", guard, El Camino), Kim Young (5'10", guard, Los Angeles Harbor) and Ytteb Bowl (5'10-1/2", forward, Ventura). Booker, who led her conference in steals and assists, averages 15 points, 14 assists and 7 steals per game. Young averages 29 points and 11 rebounds per game and has played on the All-State team. Bowl was her team's second leading scorer and rebounder with 14 points and 8 rebounds.

Beckley feels the new lineup will enable the Coyotes to "press a lot more with an aggressive defense," which she expects to be the best in the conference in the upcoming season. Returning players for the 1992/93 season will include Kim Hansen, Cheryl Few, Christa Ramirez, Carolin Sprinkel and Kelly O'Brien.

TWO GOLFERS EARN HONORS

Cal State golfers Rich Zapata and Greg Wilson have been recognized with District 8 All-Division honors for their performances during the 1992 season, reports Bob Smith, head coach.

The sophomores are among the six best scoring players in the division, explains Smith, adding that they will travel with three other teammates to the national playoffs in Spartansburg, SC later this month.

"Zapata has been our mainstay all year long," Smith remarks, noting that during a recent tournament in Portland, OR, he scored 74, 76 and 78 in three rounds on a 72-par course. "He put in a mighty good two days' work."

Wilson, who scored 70, 72 and 73 during the tourney, was the tournament medalist, finishing 1 over par for 54 holes.

"We play well as a team, and we have a good chance" at the nationals, Smith says, acknowledging that the NCAA Division II competition will be tough. Ryan Smith, Brad Sondecker and Mark Andrews round out the CSUSB complement for the finals which will be held May 19-22.

GERONTOLOGY SCHOLAR VISITS CAMPUS

Focusing on intergenerational issues, one of the nation's most distinguished scholars in the field of gerontology, Dr. Abraham Monk, will share his expertise during a two-day campus visit in June, reports Dr. Rosemary McCaslin, director of the university's Social Work program.

Monk, a professor of social work and gerontology at the Columbia University School of Social Work in New York City, has conducted extensive research on intergenerational relations, housing and sheltered environments, long-term care, pre-retirement preparation, post-retirement adjustment and policy formation concerning families of the aged. The scholar arrives on campus June 2 to lead a panel presentation titled "Older Persons as a Community Resource: Can Older Volunteers Help High Risk Youth in the Inland Empire?" Two representatives of the San Bernardino County Department of Mental Health, Lance Morton and Ann Stewart, join Monk for the presentation at noon in the Recital Hall of the Creative Arts Building. Morton, who directs the county's Phoenix Services program, works to find appropriate role models for high risk youth, and Stewart directs a county outreach program for the healthy aging known as AgeWise.

That evening, Monk will give a free public lecture at 8 p.m. in the Upper Commons, addressing the "Problems and Potentials of an Aging Society: Bringing Generations Together." Both the lecture and panel presentation are free and open to the public. Monk's campus visit concludes on Wednesday, June 3, with a luncheon and consultation session for faculty members from noon-3 p.m. in the Sycamore Room of the Lower Commons. The future directions for gerontology at CSUSB will be the focus of this three-hour session.

A fellow and former vice president of the American Gerontological Society, Monk is the recipient of numerous awards, including a Fullbright Senior Scholarship regarding his work on aging, and has served as a consultant to many international, national, governmental and voluntary service organizations in the field of aging. The former director of Columbia University's Brookdale Institute on Aging, Monk also served as associate director of the Long Term Care Gerontology Center of Columbia University's Faculty of Medicine. He recently was named Resident Scholar of the National Academy of Social Insurance in Washington, D.C., and is the author of over 100 scholarly publications addressing aging issues, social policy, social planning and "evaluative" research.

Monk received his undergraduate education at the National University of La Plata (Argentina) and earned graduate degrees from Columbia and Brandeis universities. His campus visit is being sponsored by the School of Social and Behavioral Sciences and the Intellectual Life and Visiting Scholars Committee.

BUSINESS STUDENTS RECEIVE SCHOLARSHIP SUPPORT

Representing the Western Association of Food Chains (WAFC), Jack Brown (third from left), president and chief executive officer of Stater Bros. Markets, recently presented a $5,000 scholarship award to Cal State business students. Scholarship recipients and their majors include, from left: San Bernardino resident Gina Lindblom, information and decision sciences; Moreno Valley resident Sharon K. Debolt, accounting; San Bernardino resident Cheryl Grizzell, business administration; and Norco resident Christina Burns, management. Also on hand for the presentation was President Anthony Evans (third from right). Sarah Taylor (not pictured here) of San Bernardino, who majors in business administration, also received a WAFC scholarship. Over the past 10 years, WAFC has provided over $53,000 in scholarship support to Cal State students.

NEW MASTER'S DEGREE IN URBAN PLANNING

Oriented toward mid-level planners seeking to advance their professional skills, a new master's degree in urban planning will be added to the Cal State curriculum, beginning with the fall 1992 quarter, announces Dr. James Mulvihill, program director and professor of urban planning/geography.

The new interdisciplinary program is the only one of its kind offered in the Inland Empire and is specifically tailored for individuals currently employed as urban planners or those possessing substantial work experience in the planning field. "The courses in the program have been developed with attention to their usefulness to planners," says Mulvihill, who describes the program's offerings, such as development finance and land management, as "hands-on courses that have a direct application to the day-to-day work of urban planners."

A typical urban planner develops plans for future city growth and reviews current housing, commercial and industrial proposals to assure overall quality and conformance with established policies, explains Mulvihill.

He contends that career opportunities abound for future graduates due to the fact that the Inland Empire is one of the fastest growing regions in the nation. He states that students pursuing the program can seek employment with public and private planning organizations, city and county planning and engineering departments, solid waste management organizations and private environmental consulting firms.

"Given the great amount of undeveloped mountain and desert areas within the Inland Empire, this program seeks to provide students with a solid understanding and appreciation of the impact of urban activities on these fragile environments that are essential for urban planners in the region," notes Mulvihill.

Approximately 30 students are anticipated to enter the program this fall. Additional information on the university's new master's degree in urban planning is available from Mulvihill at Ext. 5522.

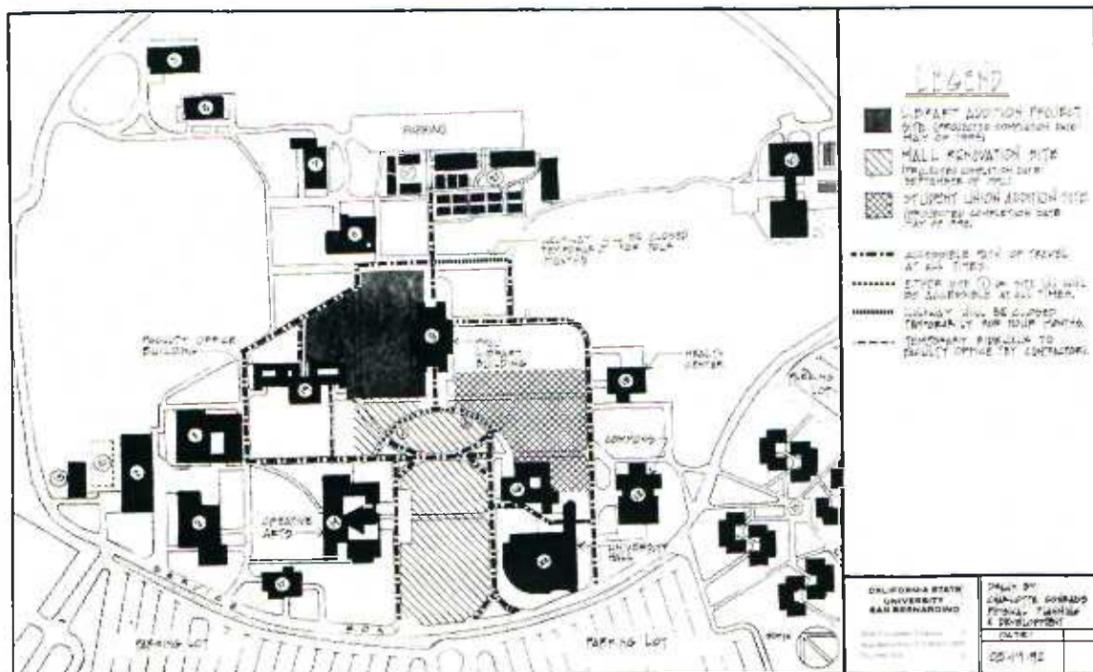

PROMINENT CONSTRUCTION LEADER RECEIVES UNIVERSITY RECOGNITION

Martin Matich, president of the Match Corporation, a major Inland Empire construction firm, is the recipient of this year's Arrowhead Distinguished Chief Executive Officer Lecture Series Award. He was recognized for outstanding leadership in the local business community at a special luncheon held May 8 by the School of Business and Public Administration.

CONSTRUCTION UPDATE LIBRARY CONSTRUCTION ALTERS ACCESS TO CAMPUS' NORTH SIDE

In preparation for construction of the John Pfau Library addition, a fence has been erected around the job site, located on the building's west side, that will impact access to the campus' north side, reports Vice President David DeMauro (Administration & Finance). "During the next 24 months, access to the north portion of the campus will be altered, requiring individuals to walk around the construction site," explains DeMauro. The pedestrian walkway between the Faculty Office Building and John Pfau Library will be eliminated as part of the construction of the new addition. However, the library's elevated patio area will remain open throughout the construction period, as will the two north-south pedestrian walkways adjacent to the mall area. Although campus employees and students will be slightly inconvenienced by having to walk around the fenced area, "Every reasonable effort will be made to maintain access around the construction site," contends DeMauro.

To address access to the south (front) entrance of the library, one of the two pedestrian walkways leading to the building will remain open at all times, notes William Shum (Physical Planning & Development). During the initial construction phase, the western wing road will be closed, but the eastern wing road will remain open. Later, as construction continues, it will be necessary to close the eastern wing road and reopen the western wing road. Informational signs will be posted near the construction site to help direct pedestrian traffic, adds Shum.

"Every reasonable effort will be made to maintain access around the construction site"

The north-south service road, extending from the Commons/University Hall area that connects to the library, modular buildings and Physical Sciences Building area, is now complete and will remain open for pedestrian and service vehicle traffic throughout the library addition project. The map that accompanies this story, prepared by the Physical Planning & Development staff, details which campus walkways are currently open to university pedestrians.

Construction of the library addition, which officially began with a May 21 groundbreaking ceremony, will necessitate the removal of the grove of Alder trees currently located on the west side of the library. According to DeMauro, many of the 25-year-old trees are beetle infested and rapidly approaching the end of their normal life spans. They will be replaced with Camphor trees, which have a much longer life expectancy.

Sweeney and Dr. John Sachs of the University of South Alabama are charged with developing a "Best Practices" position paper addressing eligibility criteria and issues of assessment related to the proposed new definition. The paper is intended to provide guidelines for State Departments of Education once the new definition becomes enacted. The task force reports to the Council for Children with Behavioral Disorders and the National Special Education and Mental Health Coalition.

A NOTE OF THANKS

Alice Braune (Grounds Maintenance) extends sincere appreciation to the many campus employees who provided contributions to help fund her son's trip to China last winter.
