KEEPING IT REAL

What We Owe Tyisha Miller

"When you have a voice, you also have a moral obligation to use that voice for good."

- Leandra Medine

Tyisha Miller was only 19-years-old when the Riverside police ended her life with a hail of bullets—the young woman paid a high, inexplicable price for falling asleep in her disabled car.

The tragic end to Miller's life was endemic of the relationship between African Americans and those in authority that has persisted and is epic in America.

In Miller's case, as in almost every instance of questionable police behavior, the circumstances surrounding her shooting death, were initially lost in a fog of mis-information proffered by police officials.

Riverside Police riddled Miller with bullets as she sat asleep in her disabled car with a gun resting—possibly for protection—in her lap.

When Miller's cousin arrived on the scene to assist her, the cousin found Miller unconscious and unable to wake her up, the cousin called 911 expecting an ambulance, but the police arrived instead. Within minutes of their arrival, Miller was shot to death—nearly two dozen bullets tore through the vehicle.

The police version was muddled with the usual obfuscation. Had Miller reached for her gun when she was startled awake? Did she or did she not shoot at the officers? While the community sought answers to these questions, the police chose to focus instead on what they do so well—bait and switch. What was her background? What did the toxicology report show? Was she drunk? Were there drugs in her system? Always, always, blame the victim.

Yet, it was the autopsy report that told the real story—12 bullets entered Tyisha's body, including four that pierced her skull and the five others that penetrated her back.

Miller was a teenager, only 19 years-old. Falling asleep in her car was not a crime and should not have cost her, her life. So, why did she have to die? Certainly, the question is rhetorical because she did not have to die. Yet, far too often stories like Miller's have continued to lead the news—though the circumstances may be different, the outcomes are sadly the same. How many young Black women and men have died during questionable encounters with police since Miller's life was cut short 20 years ago?

If the last three years are any indication, the number is far too high—although Blacks make up about 13 percent of the population, they account for 23 percent of those fatally shot by police since 2015.

Someone asked, What have we learned since the killing of Tyisha Miller? Each and every year since her death has only served to reinforce what Black Americans have known since they were first chased by "patty-rollers" during generations of slavery—that the mindset of White supremacy is rooted in the ideology that Black lives do not matter. That Blacks are assumed guilty, that they are perceived by many police and some officials as less than... as unworthy of... as a threat.

As a community, as a nation, we owe it to the memory of Tyisha Miller and the thousands of others known and unknown who have succumbed to such tragedies to double our efforts as we continue to challenge the mindset of White supremacy in our cross-generational efforts to put an end to the unjust and legalized slaughter of Black Americans.

We must stop appointing, electing and selecting those who perpetuate the mindset of White supremacy to positions of power and authority.

This week, as a community, let us remember to call the name of Tyisha Miller—a young woman gone too soon. Let us continue to close the gap between our communities and those who are sworn to serve and protect us. Let us continue working toward the promise of, "justice for all."

Of course, this is just my opinion. I'm keeping it real.

New Year's Resolutions

Riverside – Nearly 50 percent of Americans will make a resolution for the new year. Not surprisingly, nearly 37 percent of the resolutions are related to increasing the amount of exercise one hopes to complete in the coming year. Unfortunately, according to those who study the phenomenon of resolution making, about 22 percent of all those New Year's resolutions never make it through the second week. And, by the time the calendar turns to February, about 40 percent have given up on their commitments. Not surprisingly, nearly 60 percent of all New Year's resolutions never make it to July. However, among those who remain doggedly committed to their personal promises—while most required several attempts (some as many as six), before they attained success—at least 40 percent succeeded on their first try. According to some experts, the primary reason so many resolutions fail is a lack of clearly defined goals.

What We Feed Our Children

Nation

During most of 2016, the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) coordinated with the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) and the Food and Drug Administration (FDA) in preparation for a major initiative to test food for residues of glyphosate (a key ingredient in the pesticide Roundup® by Monsanto).

According to an in-depth report by the Huffington Post, the testing was scheduled to begin April 1, 2017, and called for the collection and testing of 315 samples of corn syrup from across the United States between April and August—however, the testing never happened.

Last year under the stewardship of President Donald J. Trump, the USDA quietly dropped the testing plan even though the World Health Organization and the State of California have both confirmed a link between glyphosate and cancer.

The use of Roundup® in America has increased exponentially from 11 million pounds in 1987 to nearly 300 million pounds in 2016, and earlier this year Monsanto was ordered to pay $289 million in damages in the company's first ever Roundup® related cancer trial. The lawsuit was filed by a man who claimed the company's glyphosate-based weed-killers, which includes Roundup®, caused his cancer.

Recently, California Congressman Ted Lieu, (D - 33rd District), called for a probe by the Department of Justice into Monsanto's actions.

A recent report found glyphosate is in children's breakfast cereals, including Cheerios, Lucky Charms, and Quaker Oats. The report, a collaboration between the organizations, Food Democracy Now! and the Detox Project, provided the first ever independent and FDA-registered laboratory food testing results for glyphosate residues in iconic American food brands. High levels of glyphosate were found in some of the nation's most popular brands. The report is available online at:

GLYPHOSATE: UNSAFE ON ANY PLATE

ALARMING LEVELS OF MONSANTO'S GLYPHOSATE
FOUND IN POPULAR AMERICAN FOODS

"For the first time in the history of the world, every human being is now subjected to contact with dangerous chemicals from the moment of conception until death...These chemicals are now stored in the bodies of the vast majority of human beings, regardless of age. They occur in the mother's milk, and probably in the tissues of the unborn child."¹

—RACHEL CARSON, SILENT SPRING

"Glyphosate was significantly higher in humans [fed] conventional [food] compared with predominantly organic [fed] humans. Also the glyphosate residues in urine were grouped according to the human health status. Chronically ill humans had significantly higher glyphosate residues in urine than healthy humans"²

—MONIKA KRUGER, ENVIRONMENTAL & ANALYTICAL TOXICOLOGY

"Analysis of individual tissues demonstrated that bone contained the highest concentration of [14C] glyphosate equivalents (0.3–31ppm). The remaining tissues contained glyphosate equivalents at a concentration of between 0.0003 and 11 ppm. In the bone and some highly perfused tissues, levels were statistically higher in males than in females."³

Affordable Care Enrollment – Deadline Jan 15

Despite a federal judge in Texas invalidating the Affordable Care Act, California health officials and local health care professionals are reminding tens of thousands of residents the recent ruling has no immediate impact on the health care program.

For most people, the deadline to enroll in or change a 2019 health insurance plan has passed. But you may still be able to enroll for 2019 two ways: with a Special Enrollment Period or through Medicaid or the Children’s Health Insurance Program (CHIP).

So what do all the changes coming from Washington mean for Californians looking for coverage through Covered California? Here’s what you need to know.

You have three months to enroll. The Covered California open enrollment starts on Oct. 15, 2018, and goes until Jan. 15, 2019. The same insurers are still participating. Covered California includes plans from 11 different insurance providers, including large companies like Kaiser Permanente and Anthem Blue Cross, as well as smaller companies. These are the same 11 insurers that participated last year, and they offer plans at four different coverage levels, bronze, silver, gold and platinum.

Premiums have gone up. Average premiums for Covered California plans have gone up 8.7 percent from last year.

Covered California said the repeal of the individual mandate penalty added on average 3.5 percent to premiums due to concerns that the removal of the penalty will lead to a less healthy and costlier consumer pool.

But advocates say consumers could avoid that rate hike by switching to a lower-cost plan in the same coverage level. You may be eligible for subsidies through Covered California.

Covered California says about 90 percent of its consumers are eligible for financial assistance to help pay for their insurance coverage.

Californians with a household income between 138 percent and 400 percent of the federal poverty level and who qualify for other public health coverage (like Medi-Cal) are eligible for a tax credit to help reduce the cost of their monthly premiums.

There are multiple ways to sign up. You can enroll online, download a paper application, or you can be walked through the process in person or over the phone.

Important DMV Changes for 2019

Sacramento

The Department of Motor Vehicles (DMV) highlighted several new laws and/or changes to existing laws that become effective Tuesday, January 1, 2019.

AB544: Vehicles—High Occupancy Vehicle Lanes

Low-emission and transitional zero-emission vehicles have enjoyed access to high-occupancy vehicle (HOV) lanes for about four years regardless of the vehicle occupancy level. Effective January 1, 2019, the green or white decals that authorized their HOV access will no longer be valid. However, vehicles issued a green or white decal between January 1, 2017 and March 1, 2018 can apply for a red decal that will grant them access to HOV lanes until January 1, 2022. The DMV will also issue light purple decals in 2019 that will grant access to HOV lanes until January 1, 2023.

AB 516: Temporary License Plate Program

Licensed dealers of new and used vehicles in California will be required to attach temporary paper license plates on a vehicle at the point of sale if the vehicle does not already display license plates. The temporary paper plate must contain a unique number and expiration date. The intent of this new law is to reduce the number of toll violators and improve safety for law enforcement.

SB 179: Gender Identity Female, Male, or Nonbinary

Individuals applying for a California driver license or identification card can now self-certify their chosen gender category of male, female or nonbinary in the application. Those who select nonbinary will receive a card with an “X” in the gender category.

Creating Financial Empowerment for Disabled Californians

Sacramento

Hundreds of disabled residents in Riverside and San Bernardino Counties can now benefit from a new and innovative state program for the disabled launched last week by California State Treasurer John Chiang.

Established under the mandates of the federal Stephen Beck Jr. Achieving a Better Life Experience (ABLE) Act, CalABLE allows for tax-advantaged investment accounts to help qualified individuals with disabilities and their families save for disability-related expenses. Anyone can contribute to an individual’s CalABLE account; however, all contributions combined cannot exceed $15,000 in any given tax year.

Additionally, the funds in the account are not considered when determining eligibility for means-tested federally-funded benefits such as Supplemental Security Income (SSI) and Medicaid. It is important to note that a person can only be the beneficiary of one CalABLE account

CalABLE will allow individuals with disabilities to open tax-advantaged savings and investment accounts and contribute significantly more than the $2,000 disabled individuals are currently allowed to save under guidelines defined by many other government programs.

As noted above, under CalABLE, eligible individuals can contribute as much as $15,000 a year—up to a maximum of $529,000—to a CalABLE account and still maintain such benefits as Medi-Cal and CalFresh. Those who wish to remain eligible for SSI can also contribute the annual $15,000, but their maximum is limited to $100,000, without those funds counting as assets.

In a Tweet on Friday Chiang noted, “Living with a disability should

NAACP Riverside Branch 1059 Installs New Executive Officers

Andrea M. Baldrias
Contributor

The National Association for the Advancement of Colored Peoples (NAACP) Riverside Branch 1059 celebrated the installation of the organization's new executive officers on Monday evening, December 17th.

The NAACP's mission is to advocate for political, education, social, and economic equality of rights for all citizens, as well as eradicate racial injustice. The Riverside Branch 1059 has been fulfilling this mission for the local community for 77 years.

The new executives were sworn in by the Honorable Irma Poole Asberry of the Superior Court, County of Riverside. Each officer was sworn in via the official NAACP oath.

The officers sworn-in included: Dr. Regina Patton Stell (President), Sharron Lewis-Campbell (1st Vice President), Natasha Ferguson (2nd Vice President), Mary Welch (3rd Vice President), Nina Moore-Halliburton (Secretary), Colleen Hairston (Assistant Secretary), Charles Walker (Treasurer), and Maudie Wilson (Assistant Treasurer). Members At-Large include: Monrow Mabon, Jalani Bakari, Evie Stell, Terrance Major, Johnnie Corina III, and Madelyn Millen.

In her opening statement, Dr. Regina Patton Stell promised, "We are going to make a greater imprint. We have been talking about how we want to be more inclusive. ... We are going to try to engage as many people that want to go forward with this branch as we can. I am talking about being more inclusive and more open. I assure you everything we need is in the house. We have within us, a power that can surely conquer any obstacles."

The organization is currently advancing initiatives like their Economic Sustainability taskforce, Education partnerships, Toy Give-Aways, Youth College partnerships, and many other community-centered projects. They are working to bring more transparency and integrity to the organization by providing public access to the budget.

Dr. Regina Patton Stell highlighted, "There is little doubt that, under our predecessor, the Riverside branch did great things. My vision is that we will continue in the same vein and in the same direction. I think the only difference will be that I want to embrace and enlarge the number of people that make the vision work. There are so many challenges politically, regionally, and nationally that I feel the job is huge, but it's doable. We have many people in this community with talents that we have not tapped into...It's really a Riverside County branch" she explained. "I think having 32 years under the Riverside County Office of Education, I have a good idea of how to reach out to the county to grow and lead the team to do this. I am a team builder and I'm a connector, so that's what I'm going to do...I'm excited."

The organization is looking for a larger venue to accommodate their expanding membership. Until then, they will continue to meet at the

NEW LAWS

More Order in the New Year

S.E. Williams
Contributor

Whether identified as, laws, regulations, statutes, enactments, acts, bills, decrees, edicts, bylaws, rules, rulings, ordinances, dictums, commands, orders, directives, proclamations, pronouncements, dictates or flats, California has a lot of them and as of January 1, 2019, several more become effective.

Following is a partial list of what will change in the coming year. The plethora of new laws address issues in a variety of areas that range from the minimum wage to the #MeToo movement, to employment, human trafficking, civil liberties and beyond.

SB 3: Minimum Wage Increase

The California statewide minimum wage for nonexempt employees will increase to $12.00 for employers with 26 or more employees and $11.00 for employers with fewer than 26 employees.

Also, because executive, administrative, and professional employees must satisfy a salary threshold requirement to maintain their exempt status under California law—i.e., twice the state minimum wage for a 40-hour week regardless of how many hours he/she works—they also benefit when the minimum wage is increased because the salary threshold is also increased. As a result, effective January 1, 2019, the new threshold will be $960 per week, or $49,920 per year.

In addition, commissioned inside salespeople, who qualify as exempt when they earn more than 1.5 times the state minimum wage and their compensation represents commission earnings, will now need to earn more than $18 per hour to maintain their exempt status.

SB 224: Personal Rights—Civil Liability and Enforcement

The types of relationships that can be subject to a claim for sexual harassment is expanded to include lobbyists, elected officials, directors, producers, and investors. It generally applies to work relationships where one person holds himself out as being able to help someone establish a business or professional relationship directly or with a third party. It is now also unlawful to deny or aid, incite or conspire in the denial of rights of persons related to sexual harassment actions.

“Discipline and strict enforcement of the policies and the laws of the land may be seen as harsh strictness borders on oppression and this often leads to resentment of the people. However, adv citizens who will never take authority seriously.” - Financial News

SB 820: Settlement of Sexual Harassment Claims

Settlement agreements entered into after January 1, 2019, prevent disclosure of information pertaining to claims of sexual assault, sexual harassment, gender discrimination or related retaliation that have been filed in court or before an administrative agency. At the claimant's request, the settlement agreement may include a provision that limits the disclosure of his/her identity or of facts that could lead to the discovery of the claimant's identity.

SB 826: Female Directors on Corporate Boards

Publicly-held domestic and foreign corporations with principal executive offices in California must have a minimum of one female director on their boards by the end of 2019. By the end of 2021, these corporations must meet the following minimums: (1) if it has six or more directors, the corporation must have a minimum of three female directors; (2) if it has five directors, the corporation must have a minimum of two female directors; (3) if it has four or fewer directors, the corporation must have at least one female director. The Secretary of State must also publish statistical information on its website concerning the gender composition of the Boards of Directors of publicly-held corporations.

SB 954: Disclosure Regarding Confidentiality Prior to Mediation

An attorney representing a person participating in a mediation consultation or mediation, must provide his or her client with a printed disclosure regarding the confidentiality restrictions of mediation and obtain a printed acknowledgement signed by the client that the client understands the confidentiality restrictions.

SB 970: Human Trafficking

By 2020, hotel and motel employers with 50 or more employees must provide at least 20 minutes of training on human trafficking awareness to employees who are likely to come into contact with victims of human trafficking. These employees include reception employees, housekeeping employees, bell desk employees, and other employees who regularly interact with customers. The training must occur within 6 months of hire and once every two years thereafter.

SB 1252: Copy of Payroll Records

Modifies language of current California law which gives employees the right to inspect or copy their payroll records within 21 days of the request by clarifying that they have the right “to receive” a copy. Thus, upon request, the employer must now provide a copy of pay statements, as opposed to requiring the employee to copy payroll records themselves.

SB 1300: California Fair Employment and Housing Act (FEHA) Amendments

FEHA amendments effective January 1, 2019, include a provision that makes it unlawful for an employer to require an employee to release a FEHA claim in exchange for a bonus, raise, or continued employment; employers are now liable for any kind of unlawful harassment by non-employees (not just for sexual harassment as under existing law) where the employer knew or should have known of the harassment and failed to take appropriate remedial action; and subjects employers to certain statements of legislative intent that makes it harder for employers to prevail on harassment claims (e.g. a legislative declaration that harassment cases are rarely appropriate for resolution on summary judgment, and a declaration that a single act of harassment may suffice to support a finding of a hostile work environment).

SB 1343: Sexual Harassment Training for All Employees and Small Employers

Expands the requirement to provide at least two hours of sexual harassment prevention training to all supervisors and managers every 2 years, or within 6 months of an employee becoming a supervisor or manager to include employers with at least 5 employees. The amendment also requires employers to provide at least one hour of training to non-supervisory employees by January 1, 2020, and once every two years thereafter.

SB 1412: Criminal History Inquiries

The exception for employers who are required by federal or state law to inquire into an applicant's or employee's criminal history is tightened and will now only apply where an employer is required by law to inquire into a particular conviction or where an employer cannot by law hire someone with a particular conviction.

SB 1976: Lactation Accommodation

Existing law requires employers to make reasonable efforts to provide a location other than a toilet stall to be used for lactation. Effective January 1, 2019, that location must be something other than a bathroom, preferably a permanent location but that it can be a temporary location if (1) the employer is unable to provide a permanent location due to operational, financial, or space limitations; (2) the temporary location is private and free from intrusion while being used for lactation purposes; and (3) the temporary location is not used for other purposes while being used for lactation. Also, an agricultural employer may comply by allowing an employee to use the air-conditioned cab of a tractor or truck.

implementations by many but viewed as a necessary tool by others. Some say that overflowing advocates of stern application of the rules debate that lenient measures result in uncooperative

AB 1565: Contractor Liability

Clarifies a law enacted last year that made certain direct contractors performing work in California liable for unpaid wages by their subcontractors. The amendments to the law effective January 1, 2018 provide requirements that must be met for a direct contractor to withhold payments to a subcontractor for “disputed sums.” In order to withhold payment, the contractor must specify in its contract with a subcontractor all items of information that will be requested of the subcontractor, such as payroll records and other information related to hours worked, etc.

AB1619: Statute of Limitations for Sexual Assault Claims

Adds Section 340.16 to the Code of Civil Procedure which establishes the statute of limitations for filing a civil sexual assault action as ten years after the alleged assault, or three years after the plaintiff discovered or reasonably should have discovered that an injury or illness resulted from the alleged assault, whichever is later.

AB 1654: Private Attorneys General Act (PAGA) Relief for Unionized Construction Employers

Authorizes workers in the construction industry to waive remedies provided under PAGA and instead authorizes construction industry employers to resolve such disputes by entering into a collective bargaining agreement with a labor union.

AB 1919: Anti-“Price Gouging” During Emergencies

Landlords cannot raise rents by more than 10 percent within 30 days of a declared disaster. Effective January 1, 2018, the law is expanded to include new rentals that were not on the market at the time of the emergency within the types of goods and services that are price-controlled in the immediate aftermath of an emergency. The law also makes other related reforms to limit rent increases and evictions following an emergency.

AB 2034: Human Trafficking

Employers who operate an inter-city passenger rail, light rail, or bus station are required by January 1, 2021 to provide at least 20 minutes of training on human trafficking awareness to all employees likely to encounter human trafficking victims.

AB 2282: Pay History

Amends and clarifies California’s salary history ban. Employers need not provide pay scales except to applicants who have completed an initial interview and who, upon their request, have asked for this information. Neither current employees nor every applicant is entitled to pay scale information. Employers are expressly authorized to ask job applicants about their salary expectations for the desired position and can make compensation decisions based upon an employee’s current salary so long as any wage differential resulting from that compensation decision is justified by one or more specified factors, such as a seniority system or merit system.

AB 2334: Occupational Injuries and Illness, Employer Reporting Requirements—Electronic Submission

The Division of Occupational Safety and Health is currently prohibited from issuing a citation more than six months after the “occurrence” of the violation. Effective January 1, 2018, an “occurrence” will continue until it is either corrected, the Division discovers the violation, or the duty to comply with the requirement that was violated no longer exists.

AB2338: Talent Agencies Required to Provide Sexual Harassment Education (AB 2338)

Talent agencies must provide educational materials on sexual harassment prevention, retaliation, and reporting resources to adult artists and minors aged 14 to 17 and their parents and legal guardians, within 90 days of retention. For adult model artists only, talent agencies are required to provide materials on nutrition and eating disorders. Talent agencies must retain records for three years showing that the required educational materials were provided.

AB 2587: Disability Compensation—Paid Family Leave

The seven-day waiting period for employees who are eligible for benefits under the Paid Family Leave Act is eliminated. The Paid Family Leave Act provides benefits to employees who need to take time off work to care for a seriously ill child, parent, parent-in-law, grandparent, grandchild, sibling, spouse, or registered domestic partner. Such benefits are also available to new parents who need time to bond with a new child entering their lives either by birth, adoption, or foster care placement.

AB 2605: On-Call Rest Breaks/Petroleum Industry

The law provides that unionized workers in safety sensitive positions in the petroleum industry may be required to remain on call during rest breaks. This is an industry-specific exception to the California Supreme Court’s recent unfavorable ruling in Augustus v. ABM Security, which held that employees cannot be required to remain on call during rest breaks.

Lest We Forget . . .

"What counts in life is not the mere fact that we have lived. It is what difference we have made to the lives of others that will determine the significance of the life we lead."

VOICE Staff

Each December as the clock ticks down toward a new year, it is appropriate to take a moment to reflect on those who passed our way, touched our lives and during the year, made their transitions to higher ground.

This year the inland community bid farewell to several leaders whose presence in the community was impactful and who will be remembered for their contributions.

Frances Grice

On New Year's Eve 2017, Frances Grice, a longtime champion of civil rights, mentor and motivator to dozens of community leaders and public officials in the inland area passed away. Originally from Detroit, MI, Grice arrived in the area in 1962. Over the years she became a key figure in the fight for integrated schools within the San Bernardino City Unified School District. In addition to her role as a civil rights advocate, she founded the Operation Second Chance technical school in 1967. The school provided a job training program for young adults on the west side of town. She also played a key role in San Bernardino receiving the 1977 All-America City award. These are just a couple of examples of Grice's tireless efforts on behalf of residents in the inland region. Grice was 84 years old.

Paul Eaton

The longtime mayor of Montclair, Paul Eaton, passed away Tuesday, July 23. Eaton, who served as the city's mayor for 23 years, was not only the longest serving mayor in City of Montclair, but in the Inland Valley overall. The mayor started his public service in 1954 when he became a reservist with the Army National Guard. He was a founding member of the Montclair Community Action Committee, an advisory board to the City Council on social, cultural, educational and recreational programs.

Waudieur "Woodie" Rucker Hughes

On July 23, the Inland Empire Community mourned the loss of its beloved Waudieur "Woodie" Rucker Hughes. For nearly twenty years, Hughes served the community as NAACP president. Yet, her service and commitment to her community extended beyond far beyond that role. She also served as Child Welfare Attendance Manager/District Coordinator for Homeless Education for the Riverside Unified School District from which she recently retired.

A celebrated activist, educator and mentor, Rucker Hughes left a legacy of selfless service and commitment for others to follow.

NAACP Calls for National Facebook Logout to Protest User Privacy Infringements

Andrea M. Baldrias

Contributor

Tuesday, December 18th, the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) President and CEO Derrick Johnson announced a branch-wide digital protest titled #LogoutFacebook.

The NAACP website explained, "The #LogoutFacebook is a protest – a way to signify to Facebook that the data and privacy of its users of color matter more than its corporate interests and that as the largest social network in the world, it is Facebook's corporate social responsibility to ensure that people of color are well represented in their workforce and recognize that users of color have a right to be protected from propaganda and misinformation."

On the official NAACP Facebook page, Johnson explained that over the last year the NAACP had concerns about user privacy and data mining. On Monday, December 17th, two distinct reports commissioned by the Senate Select Committee on the 2016 Russian Influence Campaign were released. The reports detailed the Russian Internet Research Agency's (IRA) digital strategies around the 2016 election which disproportionately impacted and targeted communities of color, with emphasis on the Black community.

"Facebook's engagement with partisan firms, its targeting of political opponents, the spread of misinformation and the utilization of Facebook for propaganda promoting

Presley assumed his seat in the senate representing the 34th Senate District which included parts of Riverside and San Bernardino Counties, after defeating the incumbent, Craig Biddle. Biddle was a trained and passionate French horn player who had initially planned to pursue the life of a musician. That all changed when he Repeat offenders of driving under the influence (DUI) and first DUI offenders whose violations resulted in injury, will be required to install an ignition interlock device (IID) for a period ranging from 12 to 48 months. Individuals whose driving privileges are suspended under the Administrative Per Se law can obtain an IID-restricted driving privilege and receive credit toward their required IID restriction period if they are later convicted of a DUI. Administrative Per Se laws provide an entirely separate layer of consequences an individual can encounter for drinking and driving, on top of the criminal charges they may face for driving while under the influence. disingenuous portrayals of the African American community is reprehensible” Johnson expounded.

According to a report by cybersecurity firm, New Knowledge, there was a nexus of media campaigns that targeted the suppression of both the Democratic and African-American vote. The campaigns targeted those who were inclined to research topics like Black Lives Matter (BLM), Malcolm X, and other Black politics. The strategies used were the spread of misinformation about Clinton, and the misuse of BLM imagery.

On the same day, Facebook announced an update on the civil rights audit commissioned in May following the release of the two reports. “Two independent reports commissioned by the Senate Select Committee on Intelligence released Monday on the Russian Internet Research Agency’s use of technology around the 2016 election suggest that the IRA’s efforts had a disproportionate impact on communities of color. We take this incredibly seriously, as demonstrated by the investments we’ve made in safety and security” Chief Operating Officer, Sheryl Sandberg explained.

The NAACP Riverside Branch #1059 was one of 2,200 branches nationwide that participated in the logout. Branch President, Dr. Regina Patton Stell commented, “We’re not going to participate in entities that compromise our privacies...You’ve got to hold someone accountable. The election was pretty much stolen so we will not be supporting Facebook.”

In addition to the weeklong logout, the NAACP is contacting Congress to further investigate Facebook and returned a monetary donation from Facebook. To learn more about #LogoutFacebook, visit <https://www.naACP.org/>.
