ATHLETES NAMED ACADEMIC SCHOLARS

Fifteen CSUSB athletes have been named CCAA scholars. The awards are given annually to student athletes who maintain a 3.4 or better GPA for the entire academic year.

The recognition that our athletes have received is a tribute to their effort and to the help that we are receiving from academic support programs like ACE.

Cal State soccer player Roberto Pedace was singled out for special honors. Pedace received the highest conference academic award given annually—Male Scholar Athlete of the Year—given to a senior athlete who maintains a high academic standard throughout his academic career and an equally high athletic standard.

Pedace forged a 3.64 grade point average while at Cal State. He graduated this past June with a degree in economics. On the soccer field Pedace was a two-time, All-Conference starter and a member of the Far West Regional NCAA team. He now is enrolled in a graduate fellowship program at the University of California, Riverside.

All 15 of the Cal State Academic Scholars will be honored on Jan. 13, 1994 at a special half-time presentation during the Cal State-CSU, Bakersfield basketball game.

INTERNATIONAL, WRITERS LECTURE SERIES TO OPEN UP NEW WORLDS

The International Lecture Series will hold two talks per quarter beginning with a presentation by Dr. Ellen Gruson (Anthropology). She will speak Thursday, Oct. 14 on "Women and Islam in Sudan and Saudi Arabia" at 4:15 p.m. in the Student Union Multicultural Room.

The series, says Elsii Fernandez, director (International Student Services) will emphasize international topics and is open to all staff, students and the general public.

The series is sponsored by International Student Services and the Multicultural Center.

The craft and business of writing for the movies will be the special topic of another series called "Writers at Work."

The three-part series opens with script writer Randall Johnson, who worked on the film "The Doors," speaking on Oct. 6 in the Eucalyptus Room. On Oct. 11 Kevin Kennedy, director of the Chesterfield Film Writers' Project, will speak in the Sycamore Room. Universal Studies development director Gary Grant will also speak in the Scramble Room on Oct. 20. All three talks begin at 8 p.m.

MEN'S SOCCER RANKED NATIONALLY

At the start of league play on Sept. 29, the CSUSB Coyotes were ranked eleventh in the nation in Division II of the NCAA with a 6-1 record.

The Coyotes are led by senior forward Rolando Uribe, who has scored five goals in the first seven games. Sophomore Wendell Bryant is the team's second leading scorer with four goals and two assists.

The Coyotes' next home games are scheduled for Saturday, Oct. 2 against Cal State, Los Angeles, and Wednesday, Oct. 9 against Cal Poly, San Luis Obispo. For further information about future matches, call the Athletics Office at Ext. 5012.

A REASON TO CELEBRATE

One by one David DeMauro (Administration and Finance) called them up to the podium and presented each with individual plaques, complimentary theatre and basketball tickets and cash awards. They are the 1993 employee recognition award winners whose names will be engraved on the perpetual plaques displayed in the Student Services Building.

The Excellence in Performance awards—given for specific, single and effective contributions—were presented to Peggy Clark (Financial Aid, second from right) and AnnMarie Deasy (University Relations, far right). Clark played a key role in enhancing the financial aid office's computer system, while Deasy designed a streamlined graduation registration process that eliminated two of the three steps for students.

Given to those whose performance has proved exceptional over the course of a year, the Outstanding Employee awards went to Carol Smith (Biology, far left) and Fred Roybal (Physics Plant, second from left). Roybal has demonstrated his "uncommon loyalty" in the university by returning to campus to correct emergency power outages and free elevator riders from stuck elevator cars. Smith has worked through lunches or on weekends to meet deadlines, "proud of our efforts," says Deasy who will assist his president for the entire year for Smith and Roybal, who also were awarded one of the campus's most coveted possessions—reserved parking.

MASTER'S PROGRAM REACCREDITED

Accreditation of the social work program at Cal State, San Bernardino has been restored by the Council on Social Work Education's accreditation commission. The program will remain accredited to February, 1996.

The commission's decision was based on changes the social work program has made in course waiver and credit transfer policies, the clarification of state policies on granting advanced standing to master's students, efforts to bring research content into practice courses, and improved efforts to incorporate cultural diversity and women into its curriculum.

AFFORDABLE COUNSELING

Suffering from work-related stress? Are you depressed, or struggling with an eating disorder? Are you looking for tips on personal growth?

Adults facing any of these issues may now receive individual, confidential counseling through the CSUSB Community Counseling Center under the supervision of Dr. Ed Teyber (Psychology), director of the center. Qualified graduate students conduct 50-minute sessions for a charge of $10. Sliding-scale fees, however, are also charged.

The center focuses on counseling for individuals and offers referrals for those in search of drug or alcohol addiction treatment. For more information, call Ext. 5569.
