Two separate public safety incidents in January—a man who fell outside of the library and ultimately died, and a woman who was approached in a campus parking lot by a man with a gun—involved private citizens on campus. Both continue to be investigated by local authorities as well as campus police.

Shortly after 7 p.m., Jan. 18, campus police responded to a report of a man down on the landing outside of the library. Witnesses had seen him staggering prior to falling. He received CPR at the site and was transported to St. Bernardine Hospital, where he later died. The coroner’s office has ruled the death accidental pending an autopsy that will be conducted in about two months. reports Ed Harrison, chief (Public Safety). The victim, Kenneth Puentez, was here to visit the Community College of the Inland Empire, it is believed.

Shum says that the structural strength of the older buildings on campus went beyond seismic code requirements by 50 percent during that time, which is what experts from Cal Tech in Pasadena recommended. Their recommendations were based on the nearness of CSUSB to the San Andreas Fault.

In the 1960s, Shum says that when the Cal State system was considering three sites at which to establish a new campus in the Inland Empire, it chose San Bernardino ahead of Fontana and Loma Linda.

The university recognizes these 12 CSUSB employee/volunteers who volunteered to Cal State, Northridge to assist with various patrol and security duties following the Jan. 17 earthquake.

In California, there is no such thing as an earthquake-proof building.

But after the 6.6 Northridge quake that took chunks out of freeways and severely damaged buildings—most presumably built or retrofitted to updated structural codes—campus personnel have been left wondering whether or not it is even possible to construct a building that is least earthquake safe.

Two separate safety incidents now in hands of local authorities

In another incident, a book vendor was approached in parking lot D near Jack Brown Hall at 2:10 p.m., Jan. 25 by a white man, who opened his jacket and appeared to be carrying a revolver. The victim, Megan Donnelly, escaped unharmed and called campus police, who apprehended the suspect, David Allen Winger, 27, of Cedar Glen. Although no gun was found, he has been detained in San Bernardino County jail, booked on charges of carrying a firearm on campus. Campus police suspect he may have been planning a carjacking.

Chief Harrison says campus personnel have queried him informally about the uncertainty and the climate of public safety on campus.

"I understand that people are frightened," says Harrison, noting that regional and national news stories of crime seem to have contributed to heightened peoples’ anxieties. "Overall we have seen an increase in auto-related crimes, but for the most part, this campus has been generally free of any violent crimes against persons."

STUDENT UNION TO CUT RIBBON
In correlation with Homecoming week, Cal State will hold a ribbon-cutting ceremony to celebrate the opening of its new Student Union addition. The dedication ceremony will be recognized at half-time. (Word has it that seating is limited and early Bird is the key reason for it.)

GIVING CAL STATE STUDENTS EDUCATIONAL EXPERIENCE
is, of course, the key reason for making the CD, says Gonzalez. He assisted in its production by equipment from the University of Redlands. By Cal State Technician Dan Robinson.

The new disc is being sold in the university bookstore and the Music Department office.

SYMPHONIC BAND RELEASES FIRST CD
The first compact disc ever recorded by California State University, San Bernardino music students is on the market, says Cal State assistant professor of music, Luis S. Gonzalez. Performing under Gonzales' direction in the Cal State Recital Hall, the CSUSB Symphonic Band recorded the 52-minute CD in 12 hours over a two-day period.

It includes Gustav Holst's Second Suite in F. Op. 28, a "standard that every wind group should play," believes Gonzalez, and John Parkinson's 20th century piece "Epiphanic," which contains some extreme changes in volume that capture the nature of the composer's feelings about the Vietnam War.

Giving Cal State students educational experience is, of course, the key reason for making the CD, says Gonzalez. He assisted in its production by equipment from the University of Redlands. By Cal State Technician Dan Robinson.
