In San Bernardino, Timing is Everything

Since the beginning of the month we have witnessed newly elected officials taking the oath of office at all levels of government; and now is the time to begin the work of the people. In San Bernardino however, it seems city leaders are running out of time. After the failure to pass charter reform in November and without a clear plan to emerge from bankruptcy after 28 months, the pressure to produce results is exposing some potential weaknesses in leadership.

First, the San Bernardino City Council rejected Mayor Carey Davis' request to extend the contract of his Chief of Staff Michael McKinney that expires at the end of the year. The $125,000 contract with McKinney's public relations firm MICA PR, instead of McKinney as an individual, was viewed by some as a potential conflict of interest.

Shortly after that, Mayor Davis called for the resignation of City Manager Allen Parker, who refused the request. Critics claim that the timing of the request was suspicious. According to Mr. Parker the mayor had asked him to advocate for Mr. McKinney and Mr. Parker refused. It could be retaliation, it could be bad timing, or it could be due to the mayor's political inexperience. Or possibly all three.

Then a special meeting of the City Council was called to discuss Mr. Parker's performance. Although the mayor requested the resignation, only the City Council can dismiss the city manager by a two-thirds vote.

On the city website Mayor Davis lists "restoring fiscal sanity...emerging the city from its current fiscal condition, creating economic opportunities... and increasing the quality of life" for residents as the agenda for his first term. He is also identified as a "newcomer to public service and municipal politics" and it shows. His lack of political savvy is obvious in this recent series of missteps, as well as in his failure to generate the needed support to defeat the public safety union's campaign to destroy the charter reform initiative.

Councilman Rikke Van Johnson told me that the city couldn't afford any "sideshows" as it progresses through the bankruptcy process. The time to change city managers was when the mayor first took office, Councilman Johnson added, this is the wrong time, referring to the bankruptcy process. He also believes the mayor is not working to build coalitions, to educate the City Council on his vision, or build relationships to move the city forward.

Someone recently suggested to me that Mayor Davis is like the guy you date right after the big messy break-up but before you find the one you want to spend the rest of your life with. He's adequate and sufficient for the moment. Yes, he helped you clean up the mess you made of your life, but he isn't the one you believe you can't live without. He was the right person at the right time to get the wrong person out of your life, but you're not sure that he's the right person to take you into your future.

San Bernardino has had its heart broken for too many years now, and needs more that just a transitional boyfriend to help it recover...let's see just who Mayor Davis turns out to be.

San Bernardino Symphony receives National Endowment for the Arts Grant

San Bernardino

National Endowment for the Arts (NEA) Chairman Jane Chu announced that the San Bernardino Symphony is one of only 163 nonprofit organizations nationwide to receive an NEA Challenge America grant. Each will receive $10,000. The Symphony's award will support "Music for All Ages," a community engagement project designed to stimulate the imaginations of diverse audiences.

"It is very rewarding to be nationally recognized for the efforts that we have been making toward reaching the diverse audiences in our communities," said Symphony Board of Directors President Dr. Judith Valles.

The need for this project is significant in the San Bernardino area where 28% of households have incomes below the poverty level and 90% of students qualify for free or reduced-cost school lunches. In the midst of this richly diverse, yet underserved community, the Symphony has long served as a vitalizing force, presenting excellence in classical music programming through concerts and music education programs since 1928.

In fact, the San Bernardino Symphony is the longest-running professional orchestra in the region. Their 2014/15 season – themed "By Request: The Music You Want to Hear," was especially designed to include music suggested by audience members. This concept – considered novel in an industry known for adherence to traditional classical offerings – has so far proven advantageous. The Symphony's opening concert, "Virtuosity" received exceptional reviews and their up-coming "Home for the Holidays" concert has been extremely popular at the box office.

"Our mission is, essentially, to provide accessible music and music education," said Symphony executive director Dr. Anne Viricel. "The first part of that mission is to present concerts that are interesting, relevant, affordable, and that will attract a wide breadth of audience members, many for the first time. Our goal is to be the first place that comes to mind when people think of fine music in the Inland Empire."

The Symphony has also partnered with local school districts for most of its 86 years. In fact, over 90,000 students have been introduced to orchestral instruments through the Symphony's efforts and thousands more have benefitted from their music enrichment programs and workshops, and from their annual free student concerts for the schools.

"Our relationship with the San Bernardino City Unified School District is incredibly important to us, and it will be vital to the success of this initiative," said Viricel.

Scheduled for April 11, 2015 at the historic California Theatre in downtown San Bernardino, the "Music for all Ages" project advances both

Hospital Holiday Event Feeds 675, Provides Free Jackets, Flu Shots and Wellness Information

Dignity Health St. Bernardine Hosts 20th Annual Thanksgiving Dinner and Health Fair
San Bernardino

Dignity Health St. Bernardine Medical Center recently celebrated its 20th year of providing an early Thanksgiving dinner to those who might otherwise go without. Nearly 800 community members turned out for the event, held at St. Bernardine's Family Focus Center. Over 120 hospital employees and volunteers served turkey and all the trimmings, provided free flu shots, dental checks, blood pressure checks and shared wellness educational materials at several health fair booths.

"Many in our community struggle with very difficult financial situations," said Linda McDonald, vice president of Mission Services for Dignity Health Inland Empire. "Our mission calls us to reach out into the community to show caring and generosity which demonstrate St. Bernardine's core values of dignity, collaboration and stewardship. It is in this spirit that we are pleased and honored to have served 675 community members," added McDonald.

During the festivities, families also had the opportunity to select a free jacket or sweater donated through the hospital's annual jacket drive. This is the seventh year St. Bernardine Medical Center has included the "Share the Warmth" holiday boutique in conjunction with the Thanksgiving dinner and health fair. "A significant donation of jackets, coats and sweaters from generous community members allowed nearly 800 individuals in need to choose fashionable winter warmth at our holiday boutique," said McDonald.

Additionally, through the hospital's Thanksgiving community outreach activities, 120 needy families were "adopted" by St. Bernardine departments and were provided a box full of ingredients for a traditional Thanksgiving feast that they could prepare at home.

"It's a wonderful feeling to know that you are able to bring joy and comfort to individuals and families who otherwise may not have had the opportunity to enjoy a turkey dinner," said McDonald. "The generosity of our employees, family members, friends and community volunteers demonstrates the caring and compassion that we feel for those in our community who have fallen on hard times," concluded McDonald.

Bus Drivers Approve Omnitrans Contract Offer Wages to increase 2.75% in 2014 and 2015

San Bernardino

Omnitrans bus drivers voted to approve a three-year labor contract offered by the transit agency to increase wages and benefits in 2014 and 2015, alleviating any fears of Omnitrans service disruptions due to a strike.

The drivers, represented by the Amalgamated Transit Union (ATU), Local 1704, voted 265 to 38 on Tuesday, December 2, to ratify the contract offer. A wage increase and stipend were approved by the Omnitrans Board of Directors at their meeting today (December 3, 2014). Acceptance of the full Memorandum of Understanding will go before the Board in January.

Drivers will get a 2.75% wage increase immediately and 2.75% more in April 2015. The employee benefit allowance will increase from $970 per month for all ATU members to a new tiered plan. Employees with a single or 2-party health care plan will receive $1,025 per month. Employees on a family plan get $1,145. In September 2015 the allowance will increase to $1,075 per month for employees on single or 2-party health care plans and remain at $1,145 for those on a family plan. A $900.00 stipend will be paid to all actively working operators.

"This successful vote shows that the majority of our coach operators supported this fair and generous offer," said P. Scott Graham, CEO/General Manager of Omnitrans. "We know that our customers who make 50,000 daily trips on Omnitrans buses are relieved that the service they depend on will continue uninterrupted."

Martin Luther King Jr. Middle School Student and Teacher Attend the First San Bernardino Hackathon

Sam Bernardino

By Angela M. Coggs

On Saturday, November 22 Mobile Commerce Digital Technology Alliance (MCDTA) hosted a S.T.E.M. (Science Technology Engineering Math) Skills Workshop. The workshop, “Hack the Web: Make a Website in a Day” was held from 10 am to 3 pm in San Bernardino. A local non-profit S.G.D.I.G. provided laptops for the day. The hackathon was geared toward middle and high school students.

The goal for this event was to get youth from underserved communities interested in S.T.E.M. related careers and entrepreneurship. “Bringing events like this to the community is critical for the economic future of San Bernardino,” said Cynthia Frazier, Founder of MCDTA. Students who develop a strong S.T.E.M. foundation today will face a much brighter tomorrow,” she continued.

During the workshop, the participants learned how to navigate the basics of idea creation, web design, coding, and internet safety. The students were excited about learning new concepts and making their own websites. Studies show that high quality, well-facilitated S.T.E.M. activities encourage youth to be curious, ask questions, and make connections with the world around them. Also, S.T.E.M. skills are needed to compete in the 21st Century job market.

aspects of the organization’s mission in a way not previously realized at a Symphony concert.

The work will begin months before the event when top art students are invited to take part in special workshops led by Viricel, a long time professor at the University of Redlands, and local artist Michal Madison, known for paintings that evoke movement and emotion. There, they will learn the historical and contextual backgrounds of the pieces and learn Madison’s interpretive artistic process. Then, listening to the various selected pieces (Beethoven’s Egmont Overture, Brahms; Concerto for Violin and Violincello, and Mendelssohn’s Scottish Symphony), they will create unique works of art based upon their individual understanding of the music.

The artwork will be incorporated into the April concert event both as part of a curated show during which members of Symphonie Jeunesse will perform. Further, the student art work will be projected above the orchestra during the presentation of the music. Audience members who are familiar with the music will then have the opportunity to experience it anew through the eyes of participating young artists. The young artists will be challenged to visualize the music in new ways they can translate through their unique media, then see their work come alive through the orchestra performance. Those audience members new to symphonic music will draw inspiration from the students’ work, from the 12-to-20-year-old musicians of Symphonie Jeunesse, and from the Symphony’s professional musicians. Perhaps most important in our underserved community, all will be encouraged to see the music – and perhaps the world – in a new more cohesive and inclusive way.

Chu said, “I’m pleased to be able to share the news of our support through Challenge America, including the award to the San Bernardino Symphony. The arts foster value, connection, creativity and innovation for the American people and these recommended grants demonstrate those attributes and affirm that the arts are part of our everyday lives.”

The Challenge America category supports projects that extend the reach of the arts to underserved populations whose opportunities to experience the arts are limited by geography, ethnicity, economics, or disability. For a complete list of projects recommended for Challenge America support, please visit the website at arts.gov. Follow the conversation about this and other NEA-funded projects on Twitter at #NEAFall2014.

The San Bernardino Symphony presents a full subscription season, as well as many concerts performed throughout the region. This season, the San Bernardino Symphony will also be featured in Lake Arrowhead, Loma Linda, Fontana, Rancho Mirage, Riverside, and at San Bernardino’s Roosevelt Bowl. Remembering A True Pioneer Dr. Barnett Grier

Community leader, activist, and longtime Riverside resident Dr. Barnett John Wesley Grier is being remembered by the community he called home. Dr. Grier and his wife Eleanor Jean Grier had been active leaders in the city and had been honored with the naming of the Concerned Citizens of UCR as well as the Grier Pavilion at Riverside City Hall. Dr. Grier passed away last month at the age of 99. He would have celebrated his 100th birthday in March.

Born March 17, 1915 to Joseph Grier, a slave in his early years and of Native American and African descent and Rebecca Green, of German and African descent, Dr. Grier was the youngest of eleven children, and was nicknamed "Snappy" when he was a child because he was speedy when completing tasks and errands growing up on a Charlotte, North Carolina farm.

In 1935, he received his Bachelor of Science degree in Mathematics and Physics from Johnson C. Smith University in Charlotte. This was followed one year later by a Master's Degree in Mathematics and Theoretical Physics from the University of Michigan. He became an instructor at Fayetteville College and a Professor of Physics at Shaw University, where he met his future wife, Eleanor Jean. Throughout the years that followed, he spent countless hours tutoring students in their homes, frequently assisting his wife, an early childhood educator.

Dr. Grier later became a physicist at the National Bureau of Standards in New Jersey and Washington D.C. and in 1951, relocated

Enjoying The Nutcracker at the California Theatre

Hardy L. Brown

The first Nutcracker ballet was brought to San Bernardino by Judy Noerr in 1976. It was the combined efforts of the San Bernardino Valley Community Concert Association, the City Unified School District, and hundreds of volunteers, including my friends The Morris and Savage families, who gave of their time and talents to make her dream of a ballet in San Bernardino come true.

The first production was performed to taped music, but the following year, the San Bernardino Symphony Association Board and their conductor, seeing the quality of the performance, chose to be a part of the production. That year the production was presented directly under the auspices of Community Arts Productions, a community-based nonprofit corporation dedicated to the support and promotion of quality performing arts productions. Each year something has been added to the Nutcracker to make it the production you will see today.

In 1987, to appropriately reflect the diverse communities the performers represented, Community Arts Productions and the Dance Company changed their names. Community Arts Production became the Inland Dance Theatres, Inc. (IDT), and the Dance Company is now known as the Inland Ballet Theatre Company (IBT).

The generosity of individuals, organizations, government agencies, and businesses, along with a grant from the San Bernardino City Fine Arts Commission has helped assemble productions far beyond the scope of most young companies.

The Story

Imagine that you are at the theater seeing the Nutcracker for the first time ...

Peyton is third from the left

"Staring through the large door at Siberhaus Manor, Clara and her brother, Fritz, long for the party to begin. Soon their parents allow them inside the living room that proudly boasts the glittering cloak of Christmas. Only moments later, the guests begin to arrive and the merriment begins. Clara's Godfather, Herr Drosselmeyer, a toymaker, entertains the guests with two life-sized dolls. He gives Clara a nutcracker. The strange little nutcracker also captures Fritz's attention. When Fritz attempts to wrench the doll from his sister's hands, he breaks it. Sadly, Clara lays the broken nutcracker under the Christmas tree before she is sent upstairs to bed.

Unable to sleep, Clara sneaks back downstairs to find her nutcracker. With only a flicker of light from her candle, the strangeness of night overcomes her as the clock strikes twelve. She falls into a deep haunting sleep with the nutcracker wrapped in her arms.

As she sleeps, an army of huge mice led by the Mouse King invades the room. They quickly set about removing all of the furniture as if to make room for the Christmas tree, which has begun to grow. Suddenly the packages spring open and out march the toy soldiers, bunny, Raggedy Ann and Andy, now grown to human dimensions. The nutcracker is transformed into a life-sized figure by Drosselmeyer, who urges battle with the soldiers. The Mouse King deals heartlessly with the poor nutcracker, and is about to finish him off when Clara rises to his defense and kills the Mouse King.

At this very moment, the magical nutcracker changes once again, this time into a prince who happens to resemble Herr Drosselmeyer's nephew."

Now while this is not all of the Nutcracker story, it will give you a taste of what the story is all about and what they have been doing for 38 years in San Bernardino. However my focus will be on my granddaughter, Peyton who performed as an angel, toy soldier, and a guest during Act 1 of the play.

Ever since Peyton could walk she has entertained us at the house by singing and using her great grandmother's four-pronged cane as her microphone. She still uses it when she comes over to visit. We keep it standing by the television so it remains in sight all the time.

Peyton has expressed a desire to be in the entertainment field ever since she could talk and she has recently reinstated that desire to her grandmother. So with her great performance in the Nutcracker, she is well on her way.

Congratulations Peyton and the entire cast of over 40 in kicking off the Christmas Holidays for us in San Bernardino.

to Riverside where he worked for many years at the Naval Ordnance Laboratories in Corona as an electronics engineer for the Missile Division and Fleet Analysis Center, as well as the Naval Weapons Center in Corona. Later as a department head, he had key responsibility for the development of the Navy's sidewinder missile project and supervised a staff of many employees.

During his long career, Dr. Grier worked as a chemistry, physics or real estate instructor at Fayetteville State, Shaw University, University of California, Riverside, La Verne College and Riverside City College. Additionally, he worked as a real estate broker, insurance agent, and television repairman. After his retirement from the Federal Government, he returned to school and obtained his Ph.D. in Christian Ethics from the Claremont School of Theology, completing his dissertation on the life of Howard Thurman.

Dr. Grier was one of the presidents and a life member of the Riverside Branch of the NAACP; Chairman of the Committee to elect Johnny Sotelo to the Riverside City Council; Precinct Coordinator of the Committee to elect Jack Clarke to the Riverside City Council; member of the Riverside Board of Realtors, recipient of the Greater Riverside Urban League Lifetime Achievement award; a member of the Institute of Electronic and Electrical Engineers; Vice Chairman of the Riverside Housing Improvement Committee; on the Board of Directors of the Home of Neighborly Service; recipient of the Outstanding Black Citizens award; recipient of the Navy EEO Achievement Award; and recipient of the Urban League Pacesetter award.

Dr. Grier's additional accomplishments include serving on the Riverside County Grand Jury, was the Vice President and Founding Father of the Board of Directors of the Riverside Habitat for Humanity; a member of the Board of Directors of the Riverside Coalition; a founding Board Member of the Riverside African American Historical Society; a member of the Dr. Barnett and Eleanor Jean Grier Concerned Citizens of the University of California, Riverside; Chairman and member of the Riverside Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors; member of the Youth Service Center Board; member of the Riverside Coalition on World Hunger; founding member and former Chairman of the Martin Luther King Walkathon Committee, and an active church member for many years at Allen Chapel AME Church and Vine-Life Christian Fellowship Church.

By the year 2000, Dr. Grier donated $100,000 to Johnson C. Smith University on behalf of the Class of 1935 and in acknowledgement of his roots, that includes a city street in Charlotte, North Carolina called Griers Grove Road. The donation was also given in memory of his father, mother and brother, Paul to establish the JPR Grier Scholarship. Dr. Grier was the class agent and last surviving member of the 1935 alumni. The endowment was established to enable scholarships for students who demonstrated and continue to demonstrate financial need, community concern and academic distinction.

In 1995, his autobiography was published by the Riverside Museum Press, entitled "Trek to Equality," a historical account of the years he and his wife worked tirelessly to overcome racial injustice in California. Later, as a result of their shared efforts, dedicating their lives to the service of others, Barnett and Eleanor Jean were recognized, along with other honorees, and the Grier Pavilion at Riverside City Hall was dedicated in their honor. The Pavilion serves as a tribute and place to learn about the city's diversity and civil rights history.

Dr. Grier joined his wife, Eleanor Jean, on November 12, 2014, and is survived by his sister-in-law, Sylvia Walkey Grier; his children, Eleanor Grier McShan, Barnett Grier, Jr., Jackie Grier Wright; grandchildren, Calvin Ethan McShan, Heather Jean McShan Metoyer, Paul Grier, Barnett Grier III, Amber Grier Gibbs, Coral Wright; great-grandchildren, Quinn Metoyer, Mya Gibbs, Alana Gibbs, Milton Gibbs III; sons-in-law, Calvin Nolan McShan, Clifford Wright, Elon Metoyer, Milton Gibbs II; daughters-in-law, Sanceria Farrow Grier, Jetta Winkfield Grier, Antoinette Bowie, Aileen Goddard; and a host of additional family and friends.

Riverside –

The Past, Present & Future

for Buyers and Sellers

By Eric Lawrence Frazier

From 2008 to 2013 the residents of every city in Riverside County witnessed a “Foreclosure Armageddon.” Riverside was being dubbed the foreclosure capital of the world with San Bernardino right behind. There was a feeding frenzy of real estate gurus, house flippers, and reality TV shows showing people how to buy foreclosures and “flip that house”. There were bus tours for domestic and Chinese foreign investors driving through distressed neighborhoods in Riverside every day of the week to buy and flip real estate. Cash buyers were so dominant in the Riverside market that first time homebuyers were forced to stand on the sidelines and watch everything get bought up while home prices soared to new heights.

So now what? If over the long run house prices increase at a faster rate than the median household income or rents, it is very likely market correction in house prices will take place. The other option would be an increase in income or rents, which is highly unlikely to happen in our current national and local economic state. Many things have improved in the local and national economy but there is not enough economic activity and wage growth to support what has happened to real estate values in Riverside County and the rest of the state. Inventory is up and will continue to rise because many sellers are opportunistic, never listen to their real estate agents and are always late to the party. They should have listed their property a year ago. Now they will sell at the buyer’s price or not sell at all, and that is what is happening currently in Riverside.

The good news is that prices are still affordable for many people and if you are in the market to buy a home - a place to live and raise a family, then buy now - right now. What you may lose in value in a market correction you will gain in lower mortgage payments. You have to pay rent or a mortgage to live anywhere, so why not pay an affordable mortgage payment. But if you are speculating then you are asking for trouble -- especially if you are new to investing.

The experience and successful speculators are essentially gone and you have less competition today to buy. In 2015, cash buyers will not dominate the market like they have in the past because there is still a lot of uncertainty in the real estate market and economy. Most buyers are looking for steals not deals.

The California Association of Realtors (CAR) is predicting that California real estate will increase 5.2% in 2015. Is CAR right? Real estate is going to get more expensive but the real question remains where in California will prices rise?

Remember real estate is a local phenomenon. What happens in Los Angeles or Orange County

Inland Lawmakers Take The Oath of Office

Returning and New Inland Lawmakers Sworn-in at Ceremonies Across the IE (Part One)

After the recent November election, state, government, and local officials were sworn-in during the first and second week of December, bringing some new faces to seats previously held by longtime civil servants. The community also witnessed newly elected State Senators Jeff Stone and Connie Leyva, Assemblymember Marc Steinorth, San Bernardino Supervisor Curt Hagman's swearing in along with returning officials representing the Inland region. The Voice will publish the swearing-in ceremonies of municipal leaders next week.

1-Hagman and Rutherford

Newly elected Supervisor Curt Hagman and returning Supervisor Janice Rutherford were sworn in to office at the San Bernardino County Government Center joined by friends, colleagues, and family. Supervisor Hagman joins the board after serving the California State Assembly from 2008 to 2014, representing communities in San Bernardino, Orange, and Los Angeles counties. Supervisor Rutherford was sworn in to her second term as supervisor. She began her first term in November 2010.

2-Inland Assemblymembers Appointed to Lead Committees

Returning Inland leaders - Assemblymember Cheryl Brown of San Bernardino will chair the Aging and Long-Term Care Committee and Assemblymember Jose Medina will lead Higher Education.

3-Assemblyman Freddie Rodriguez, D-Chino

The voters have decided and re-elected Freddie Rodriguez to another term representing the city of Chino as their Assembly member.

4-New state Sen. Jeff Stone, R-Temecula, was sworn in by Chief Justice Tani G. Cantil-Sakauye on the floor of the Senate Chambers at the Capitol in Sacramento on Monday. Last month, Stone, a former Riverside County supervisor, was elected to represent the 28th State Senate district, which covers the southwest county and the Coachella Valley.

5-Assembly member Eric Linder

Assembly Member Eric Linder, R-Corona, was sworn in to represent the 60th Assembly District in the California Legislature for a second term. Assembly member Linder states that he is humbled by the support he received and looks forward to representing the community. Linder's area includes the communities of Corona, Eastvale, Jurupa Valley, Norco, & Riverside.

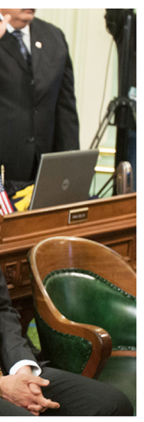

6-Assembly member Marc Steinorth

Assemblyman Marc Steinorth, R-Rancho Cucamonga, took the oath of office as the new representative for the 40th Assembly District in Sacramento. Upon being sworn in, Steinorth reaffirmed his commitment to his legislative priorities by immediately coauthoring legislation to halt a regressive tax increase on gas and diesel fuels resulting from recent state agency regulations.

7-Sumpter Elected New President Of County Board Of Education

Newly Elected Board Members Brown, Garnett Sworn In

Mark Sumpter was elected the new president of the San Bernardino County Board of Education in a unanimous vote. Sumpter, who was the vice president of the Board, takes over the position of Laura Abernathy Mancha, who was president for the past year. In addition, Alen Ritchie was elected vice president of the Board, also in a unanimous vote. Sumpter, Hardy Brown II and Sherman Garnett who was also sworn into office are the first two County Board members elected into office that are African American. Brown has served on the board since being appointed in January 2014.

does not necessarily translate to what is going to happen in Riverside. Also it depends on what a normal market looks like. Will we achieve equilibrium (equal sellers and buyers) and see prices stabilize? It's possible but I think unlikely. First remember that current property values are not sustainable based on median income in Riverside County. This is why properties are staying on the market longer and we are seeing price adjustments happen more frequently. Everyone is waiting for the next big thing to happen to put us in another tailspin, i.e. congress behaving badly, rapidly rising interest rates, more changes in monetary policy, the congressional budget, the deficit or a terrorist attack on US soil or war. Investors like certainty.

Based on current home prices compared to the median household income in Riverside, we have already achieved unsustainable home price levels and a market correction is inevitable. How paradoxical was that time when prices were falling and values and interest rates were at an all time low and no one could buy because of impaired credit and no cash -- especially for African Americans and Latinos. Now two to four years later when home prices and interest rates are higher, the very people who were priced out during the boom are shut out in the bust because they still do not have the cash, income, or the credit. It's a macro economic problem.

In addition, when inventory hits its highest level in the future, all of the properties once purchased by hedge funds will return to the market. That has been the behavior of most Wall Street firms. They hold on to stocks, bonds and real estate trying to squeeze out the very last bit of profit, because of greed and get caught holding too much and react by dumping it all and putting the market in a panicked freefall.

Over the last 12 months ending October 2014, 28,529 foreclosures were completed according to CoreLogic's State Foreclosure Data October report. California ranked number three behind Texas and Michigan with Michigan being number one with 45,356 completed foreclosures. California is tied for 5th place with Arizona as far as seriously delinquent mortgages at a rate of 2.1%. Alaska leads the pack at 1.6%. The serious delinquency rate gives us a glimpse into the future that foreclosures will continue to decline and ultimately become a rare event. Banks have learned the hard way that it is better to negotiate with the seller and approve a short sale than to beat down the seller with the legal action of a foreclosure proceeding.

Riverside only had 5,643 completed foreclosures over the same period of time which is nowhere near where it was during the crisis and comparatively speaking we are in the middle of the pack compared to other metropolitan areas.

Where are investors now? The smart ones are sitting on the sidelines waiting to see what happens next and buying performing and non-performing notes and commercial property. There are many not so smart investors still running the streets looking for great deals and you can see an occasional bus tour on the highway, but the banks have caught on and as a result there are no steals. A few good deals but their margins are thin and the risk is much higher. Many investors are buying houses at market price because they are great rentals and long term investment is at 8% to 12% ROI.

Property values, especially in Riverside are extremely affordable and profitable for cash investors because of high rents and high demand. This is not good news for first time homebuyers. The percentage of first time buyers in October remained at 29% for the fourth consecutive month and represents less than 30% of buyers in 18 of the past 19 months according to Yun Lawrence, Chief Economist for NAR. This is the lowest level for first time homebuyers in almost 30 years.

How is this possible with an improving job market and low interest rates? How is it possible in Riverside which in the minds of many is the last stop to affordability -- being one hour from just about anything else you need in life that you can't find in Riverside?

It is possible because we are still in recovery. So what is coming down the road for Riverside? Not much. There is new construction but not enough, and new home construction will not pick up if builders have to compete with too many resale's coming on the market and increase foreclosure activity which is a possibility. There is enough stock right now to get into a resale or new sale and interest rates are still low.

What are buyers waiting for? Another Foreclosure Armageddon? I hope not. The power to buy is now.

ATU represents roughly 420 Omnitrans bus drivers. The new starting wage rate is $15.89 per hour. Most drivers will earn the top rate of $21.29 per hour. With the monthly benefit package of up to $1,145, this calculates to about $58,000 annually. Omnitrans and ATU began negotiating terms of a new three-year contract in January 2013. The prior contract ended March 31, 2013. The new contract ends in March 2016.

The union rejected two previous contract offers in March and October 2014. Omnitrans employs about 650 people. The transit agency has experienced only one strike in its 38-year history, a three-day walkout way back in 1980.

have fewer absences, have better behavior and get higher grades. It is evident when students are not afforded out of school opportunities; they are at a tremendous disadvantage. This is why events like the Hackathon are very important and will ultimately prove to make a positive impact in the community. Success is also more probable when parents and teachers get involved and invest in their children and students ongoing progress.

Michelle Frahm, Computer Elective and Math 7 teacher at Martin Luther King Jr. Middle School attended the event. Several of her students were offered scholarships from Applied Principles for Service to attend. “This opportunity is great for students to explore different technologies in a context outside home and school. Teaching students about how web design is beneficial for business use and may help inspire our young entrepreneurs.”

It was refreshing to see a teacher come out on a Saturday morning and support her students outside of school. Frahm also provided some insight and helpful tips to the students during the workshop. “As a teacher in a low SES (Title 1) school, I am always looking for opportunities to bring the real world applications of technology into the student’s lives to help them gain experiences they may not otherwise get.”

One of Frahm’s students, Valentina Ornelas, who attended the event, really enjoyed the workshop. “I had a lot of fun creating my own website. I liked working with the other students that I met today and hearing their point of view.” When asked what she learned in the workshop that really resonated with her she did not hesitate to answer. “I liked when she (Frazier) explained computer related vocabulary that I heard before but was not sure what all of them meant. She explained it so we could understand it.”

Eighth grade student, Sakinah Nash-Bey, who attended the event with her younger sister, enjoyed the event and learned a lot. “The program was very informative and fun at the same time. The part I most liked was when we all got in a group and were brainstorming ideas for a website as a team. Hopefully, we’ll get to attend more of these programs.”

Students from several school districts, including Moreno Valley, Rialto, and San Bernardino, participated in the one day event. They worked as a group to come up with an idea for a website, and developed it together. Everyone worked hard and did their part to see the website come alive. Students also gave an oral presentation before receiving their certificates. The next hackathon is scheduled for January 31, 2015.
