Urgent Action Needed—Hate Against Black Students in Schools

A new report, covering the five year period 2018 - 2022, highlighted over 30% of juvenile victims of hate crime experienced the offense while at school. In 2022, 66% of the race-based hate incidents occurring in U.S. schools targeted Black students. (Graphic by Chris Allen, VOICE)

When claims of “Racism as a Public Health Crisis” rang out in 2020 calling for an overdue plan of action to heal its victims as COVID-19 and the murder of George Floyd collided with a new generation of activists, their sense of urgency for change was palpable. Conditions in America compelled them to pick up the torch of justice as they breathed new life into the struggle for equity and equality,

Despite these efforts and the municipal declarations made in response, some of the most important areas of concern, including acts of racism against Black children and youth, remain unchanged. In fact, acts of hate perpetrated against them have increased exponentially according to the just released Hate Crime at Schools report that explored incidents of hate at schools across the country for the years 2018-2022.

During the five year study period over 30% of juvenile victims of hate crimes in the country experienced the offense while at school. And in 2022, according to the report, data shows 66% of the race-based hate incidents that occurred in U.S. schools that year targeted Black students. To time with Black History Month, the Tanya Weddemire Gallery is set to exhibit the incredible talents of four pioneering black artists

The LA Art Show returns to the Los Angeles Convention Center from February 14-18 to kick off the city's 2024 art season. The fair debuts with an Opening Night Premiere Party on Valentine's Day hosted by award-winning actress Lucy Hale in collaboration with LA Art Show's new charity partner, American Heart Association, celebrating its centennial. The LA Art Show will donate 15% of proceeds from every ticket to the American Heart Association's Life is Why™ campaign.

Guided by the leadership of producer & director Kassandra Voyagis, LA Art Show promises another spectacular international exhibitor lineup from countries including the Philippines, Italy, Israel, Peru and South Korea: "With over 100 galleries, museums and nonprofits exhibiting this year, we continue our commitment to creating the most comprehensive contemporary art experience possible." says Voyagis. "This year's show will celebrate art—globally and locally—and inspire important dialogue."

Programming to Ignite Dialogue:

Curated by Marisa Caichiolo, the Fair's non-commercial program, DIVERSEartLA is partnering with seven international art institutions to explore the intersection of memory, humanity, and AI. Amongst the participants, the Nevada Museum of Art will present "The Journey" by contemporary artist Guillermo Bert and The Museum of Contemporary Art in Bogotá presents "Mythstories" by multimedia artist Carlos Castro Arias.

LP Gallery from South Korea will feature renowned artist Dain Yoon known for painting on her skin to create surreal self-portraits that often trick the eye with 3D shading. Dain Yoon's pieces are playful yet profound, reflecting her emotional states and the complexity of identity. Now living in the U.S., her work showcases a creative evolution from processing the challenges she faced as a young woman in South Korea to embracing a more stable, confident persona in her new environment.

To time with Black History Month, the Tanya Weddemire Gallery is set to exhibit the incredible talents of four pioneering black artists, exploring a range of themes, including identity, culture and resilience: Guy Stanley Philoche "Give Us Our Flowers", Serron Green "Invisible", Gregory Saint Amand "Play Time" and O'Neil Scott "Distant Memories".

Fostering Talent:

Fabrik Projects Gallery in Los Angeles welcomes 'The Soul of Your City' exhibition, the culmination of a global photography competition aimed at capturing the hidden spirit and true identity of cities through the lenses of local photographers. 'The Soul of Your City' competition was born out of a desire to explore and reveal the unseen aspects of urban living and winning works will be showcased.

Stronger Together Now (STN), a nonprofit that hosts community events in the Inland Empire, is suddenly faced criticism and questions about the future of its events held in the City of Redlands as expressed at the Redlands City Council Meetings on December 19, 2023, and January 16, 2024.

Martin Guerrero, told the city council at its January 16, meeting, “Why? Because of one word—inclusion.”

“This word triggers fear in those who believe supporting all communities and cultures threatens their individual existence,” Guerrero opined while explaining how the organization is creating space and collective care where everyone belongs, and it is not threatening anything.

Guerrero stated the city council had couched their criticism as more about business and commercialization to avoid the inclusion issue and keep their voters.

Public speakers at the December 19, 2023, and January 16, 2024, city council meetings raised objections to the fact that Stronger Together Now has featured a drag queen as a singer at one of their events.

Guerrero understood critics considered the event a public display and were concerned it would indoctrinate students. The drag performer is part of STN’s Lumos Festival, a Latina, Hispanic, Mexican, Marikana, and Indigenous Celebration, and drag is part of their history, Guerrero explained while acknowledging that not everybody is comfortable with that history. Many at the city council meetings questioned STN’s ties to the City of Redlands to which Guerrero responded that six of its board members live in the City of Redlands, however, they do not have a “brick and mortar” place of business in the city. STN used a Rialto address, as their physical address. A physical address is required for a business license in the state of California.

Others at the meetings questioned why STN held events in the City of Redlands. According to Guerrero, it is due to the strong community support and donations they receive, which STN uses to distribute to other nonprofits serving the Inland Empire, and at free giving markets

What better way to enter Black History Month than by having one of our local heroes recognized at the national level?

On March 2, 2022, Congressman Pete Aguilar introduced legislation renaming the Del Rosa Post Office to honor the late Dr. Margaret B. Hill. Public speakers as well as city council members at the city council meetings, questioned STN's nonprofit status, which Guerrero said can be easily verified here. STN was asking the Redlands City Council for approval for a street closure and a waiver of its $1,969 cost for two different events being held in the city.

Black Students #1 Target of Anti Bias Attacks at School, New Report Shows

A composite image with a textured, brownish-gold background. On the left, a dark, multi-story school building is visible. In the foreground, a young Black student wearing a backpack and a plaid shirt stands on a sidewalk, looking towards the school. Overlaid on the right side of the image is a large, semi-transparent word cloud. The most prominent words in the cloud are 'violence', 'hate', 'crime', 'terrorism', 'abuse', 'danger', 'aggression', 'terror', 'criminal', 'bully', 'murder', 'suicide', 'assault', 'racism', 'discrimination', 'bias', 'intimidation', 'harassment', 'threats', 'weapons', 'explosives', 'fire', 'bombing', 'kidnapping', 'stalking', 'sexual harassment', 'sexual assault', 'stalking', 'harassment', 'threats', 'weapons', 'explosives', 'fire', 'bombing', 'kidnapping', 'stalking', 'sexual harassment', 'sexual assault'. The word cloud is rendered in various shades of gray and white, with some words appearing in larger, bolder fonts than others. The overall composition suggests a connection between the school environment and the themes of violence and bias represented in the word cloud.

Even as many Americans turn their focus to Black History Month, it is difficult to ignore the increase in hate continuing to manifest across the country and nothing can be more concerning than the cruel impact this can have on the psyche of Black children, youth and young adults. Yet, the recently released Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI)

The report, which covered the five year period 2018 to 2022, highlighted that over 30% of juvenile victims of hate crime experienced the offense at school, while nearly 36% of juvenile offenders of hate crimes committed the heinous acts on school campuses.

overall hate crimes report, where more than half of race-based crimes in 2022 targeted Black people.

The hate crime offense most commonly reported during this period was intimidation followed by destruction, damage or vandalism of personal property. The next category in magnitude of incidents reported, was simple assault.

Total reported hate crime incidents and offenses in schools increased from 7,181 incidents in 2018 to 11,643 incidents in 2022. According to the FBI report, the hate incidents at schools compared to the overall incidents of reported hate crimes fluctuated over the study period with a notable drop in 2020 that possibly resulted from school closures due to the COVID-19 pandemic.

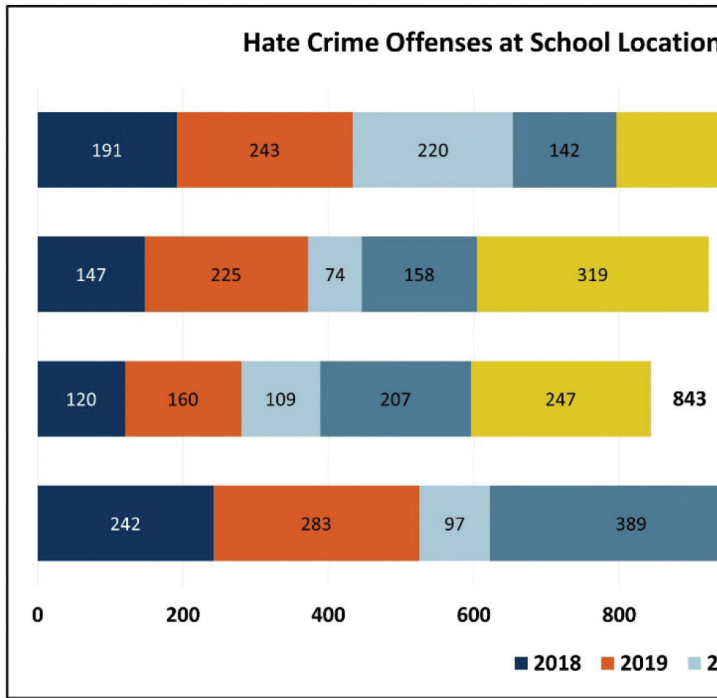

The percent of all reported hate crimes at school ranged from a low of 3.9% in 2020 to a high 10.0% in 2019 and 2022. Regardless of the fluctuation in this regard, what remained consistent was the incidents of hate crimes occurring in schools retained a third place ranking as the location where reported events of hate most commonly occur following those that happen at places of residence or on the road.

The report further revealed the fourth quarter of the calendar year, October through December, to be the period when most hate crimes at schools occur, with October standing out as the most common month, averaging 4.1 offenses per day.

Prior to 2010, School/College was the only school data collected as the location of a criminal offense and was used for all school locations, regardless of the age or advancement of enrolled students. In 2010, however, two additional categories were added, Elementary/Secondary and College/University. This was done to distinguish the demographics of the enrolled students at the location of school-related offenses. Although agencies are encouraged to specify Elementary/Secondary or College/University when identifying schools where hate incidents occur, the original comprehensive School/

The FBI’s Uniform Crime Reporting (UCR) Program has collected and published data on hate crime incidents in accordance with the Hate Crime Statistics Act of 1990 for more than three decades.

The rising incidents of hate across the country and its impact on schools appeared already on the radar of California Governor Gavin Newsom when he announced on September 23, 2023, state plans to support victims and help prevent acts of hate by launching the first major statewide multilingual “CA vs Hate” awareness and education campaign, while also reminding educators about the importance of anti-hate awareness inclusion in education.

At the time Newsom said his action was motivated by “recent high-profile incidents,” including the horrific murder of a shop owner in Cedar Glen, located in the San Bernardino mountains. The new investments and resources are intended to further the fight against hate by building on the state’s existing efforts to empower diverse communities and address discrimination.

“As hate-fueled rhetoric drives increasing acts of bigotry and violence, California is taking action to protect those who are targeted just for being who they are,” said Newsom. “We’re bolstering our support for victims and anti-hate programs and tackling ignorance and intolerance through education to prevent hate from taking hold in our communities.”

The actions announced by the governor included $91.4 million to 173 local organizations across the state to support victims, provide resources, and facilitate anti-hate prevention measures as well as the state’s first major statewide media campaign entitled “CA vs Hate” that includes print, radio, and digital ads to run in English, Spanish, Chinese, Vietnamese, Tagalog, Korean, Tongan, Mixtec, and Hmong. The ads are designed to focus on traditionally hard-to-reach communities.

The effort also includes a letter to all public school leaders in the state highlighting the legal responsibilities to ensure ethnic studies curricula. The curricula is intended to give students a chance to “see” themselves in the fabric of the state.

“An attack on any of our communities is an attack on everything we stand for as Californians,” declared Newsom.

At a press conference in Oakland on Jan. 29, Attorney General Rob Bonta joined Sen. Nancy Skinner (D-Berkeley) and Assemblymember Buffy Wicks (D-Oakland) to announce two pieces of legislation designed to protect children online.

The bills are Senate Bill (SB) 976, the Protecting Youth from Social Media Addiction Act and Assembly Bill (AB) 1949, the California Children’s Data Privacy Act.

Skinner authored SB 976, which addresses online addiction affecting teenage users, while Wicks’s bill, AB 1949, takes on big tech by proposing data privacy and children rights protections.

“Social media companies unfortunately show us time and time again that they are all too willing to ignore the detriment to our children, the pain to our children, the mental health and physical challenges they face, in order to pursue profits,” Bonta said.

SB 976 would allow parents to control the nature and frequency of the content their under-18-year-old children see on social media. Notifications from social media platforms would also be paused from

The Black Voice News team is proud to announce its exhibit in partnership with the San Bernardino County Museum, Power of the Press: Black Voice News @ 50, is being extended to early May, 2024.

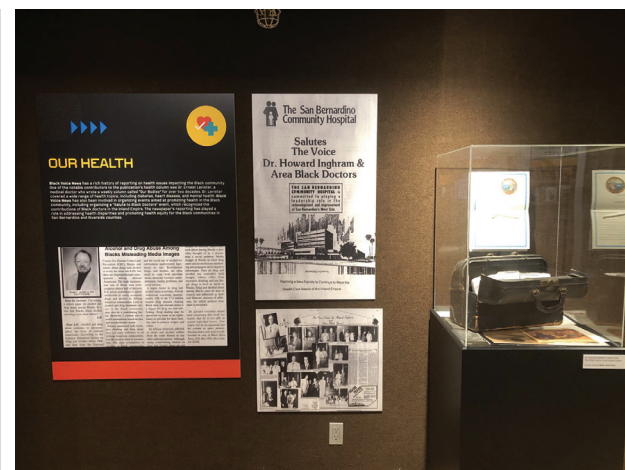

The exhibition, which commemorates the publication's 50 years of service as a source for community news and information in the Inland Empire, documents the transformation of Black Voice News from a printed community weekly newspaper to a digital solutions focused, data reporting news organization.

According to Museum staff, the exhibition has been well received and is a wonderful vehicle for students to learn about the impact of the Black community in the region as told through the eyes of the reporters who document it.

The exhibit not only highlights the work of Black Voice News reporters as local government watchdogs but as recorders of Black life in the Inland Empire, including profiles of leaders making a difference in communities across the region, coverage of community events, mapping community assets, and reporting on the fight for social justice and racial equity.

Highlights of the exhibit include chronicling the power of the Black church, illustrating the impact of Black-led non-profit organizations, and documenting the legacies Black professionals, including doctors, educators, elected leaders,

Over the years Black Voice News has maintained a spotlight on issues related to equity in the nation's health care system and the role of Black doctors has been essential in the telling of this story as highlighted in the The Power of the Press: Black Voice News @ 50 exhibition at the San Bernardino County Museum. business owners and corporate executives.

Publishing in the spirit of the Black Press, the Black Voice News not only has a duty to “plead the cause” of the Inland Empire’s Black community. “We work to deliver on this mandate by giving voice to the voiceless, serving as a beacon in the storm of injustice, defending the rights of those that have been discriminated against and unjustly treated, and all the while, keeping a vigilant eye on those who have sworn to work for the public good.”

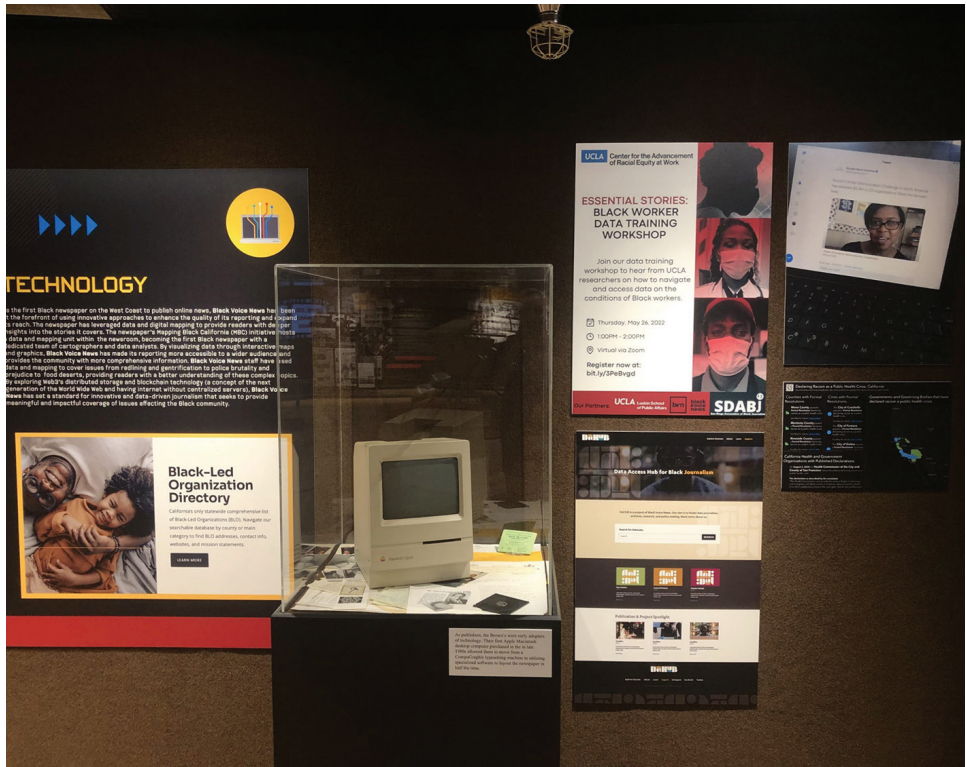

For those who have not yet done so, we encourage you to visit the exhibition and bear witness to 50 years of Black Voice News successfully pleading the cause of the Inland Empire’s Black community.

The San Bernardino County Museum is located at 2024 Orange Tree Lane, Redlands, CA. It is closed on Mondays but open 9:00 AM to 5:00 PM Tuesday through Sunday. For more information call (909) 798-8608.

Anti Bias Attacks at School.

Sadly, the findings were not an aberration. Cumulatively, the numbers not only reflect findings revealed in the FBI's overall hate crimes report, they also are reflective of the incidents of anti-bias hate against Black students each individual year of the five year study period.

While considering these results it struck me that while we may lament and opine about the reality in the data, maybe as a Black community, we need to do less contemplating and more noise making. When Asian hate crimes increased during the pandemic, the nation lost its mind and threw everything but the kitchen sink at getting attention on the issue. When immigrant children were placed in cages during the Trump administration, it drew international condemnation. When hate crimes against the Muslim community spiked in the wake of 9/11, the national media paid attention and supportive communities rallied in response. And, whenever tensions rise in the Middle East or extremists spout words of hatred against the Jewish community, many Americans are apoplectic in demanding an end to anti-semitism.

But, when year after year, incidents of anti-bias hate against Blacks outpace every other group by leaps and bounds; when year after year acts of hate against Black children, youth and emerging adults at schools outpace other groups in great numbers, we must ask ourselves, where is the similar outrage? Where are the calls to action? Where are the national and statewide anti-hate campaigns? Where is the federal/statewide funding to focus like a laser on this issue?

Yes, there is funding for anti-hate campaigns and such campaigns are certainly warranted. But where is the specific, targeted effort to put an end to the hatred aimed at our children, our youth, our young adults, Black people in general, being experienced and tallied year after unrelenting year?

I don't mean to imply that major incidents of hate against Black people are ignored. Certainly, there is always an outpouring of response when occurrences like the massacre at Mother Emanuel Church or the slaughter at the Buffalo grocery store or the COVID-19 pandemic, or the murder of George Floyd or, or, or. But, when it comes to the death of Black dignity, Black mental health, by a thousand cuts year after year, there is silence.

We in the Black community should be demanding more attention, more mitigation, more funding focused specifically on this issue. Consider this—bias motivated hate crimes against Blacks in schools went from 237 in 2018 (the highest among any group) to 547 in 2022 (again the highest in any group). This reflects a 230% increase in anti-bias crimes against Blacks in the nation's schools. Again, where is the outrage?

I don't mean outrage without reason. I mean outrage against the threats to the future of Black children.

These acts of hate go far beyond just hurt feelings. A policy statement from the American Academy of Pediatrics (AAP) issued in 2020, declared, "Racism is a social determinant of health that has a profound impact on the health status of children, adolescents, emerging adults, and their families."

The statement further noted that evidence to support the continued negative impact of racism on health and well-being through implicit and explicit biases, institutional structures, and interpersonal relationships is clear.

In 2023, a study published by the American Journal of Psychiatry showed that racial inequities (including trauma) can lead to changes in the brain structure of children causing conditions like post-traumatic stress disorder.

The AAP policy statement stressed the importance of acknowledging the role of racism in child and adolescent health. It noted how such acknowledgement will empower pediatricians and other health professionals "to proactively engage in strategies to optimize clinical care, workforce development, professional education, systems engagement, and research in a manner designed to reduce the health effects of structural, personally mediated, and internalized racism and improve the health and well-being of all children, adolescents, emerging adults, and their families."

This is great, but we should be preventing such psychological/emotional damage even more aggressively than we are working to mitigate it.

Although the Hate Crimes at Schools report was not disaggregated by state, the need for targeted awareness, prevention and mitigation exists. Experts note how such acknowledgement is important and yet, when strategies for anti hate programs are funded and discussed, the historical fact that Blacks continue to be the most attacked group in the area of anti-bias overall, and Black children, youth and emerging adults specifically, year after year, it is rarely, if ever mentioned as a stand alone concern, let alone highlighted as an area of critical importance. It is usually swallowed up as part of the general concern.

Take for example consider this press release from last May titled Governor Newsom Announces the Launch of CA vs Hate, a New Statewide Hotline to Report Hate Acts in California, although Black Americans were ticked off on the list of communities targeted, there was nothing in the memo that pointed out their status as being consistently the most targeted group year after year; or this press release issued in June, 2023, from the CA Civil Rights Department titled, In First Month Since Official Launch, California vs Hate Receives 180 Reports of Hate Acts Across California and Connects Californians with Support, not a mention of the need to focus on anti-Black bias.

In September 2023, Cal Matters reported that although Blacks in the state of CA only represent 6% of the population, they represent about 30% of its reported hate crime victims and yet "the Black community appeared to receive only a fraction of the grants the state is disbursing." These comments were made in reference to the $90 million in grant funding California is spending to fight hate.

Based on the data, there is little doubt the Black community has a right to demand more.

Of course, this is just my opinion. I'm keeping it real.

If you are the victim of a hate crime, please contact your local law enforcement agency. For additional information please visit oag.ca.gov/hatecrimes.

based in the city that are having to pay increased fees for the use of space in the city.

Additionally, Broome objected to having his tax dollars support an organization like STN, that had a drag queen at an event in downtown Redlands, and that parents, who may not want their kids to be exposed to drag queens, were not notified of the drag queen's participation.

"I don't think the city should waive fees for STN, a group based in Rialto, while they are raising fees for residents," public speaker Joshua Hall expressed at the December 19, meeting, while also objecting to having drag queens in a public park describing it as social engineering and indoctrinating children into the LGBTQ+ lifestyle.

During public comments at the council's December meeting, Michael Paisner, Chris Bishop, Janelle Guerrero, and Pollyanna Flores expressed their appreciation of STN, whose work provides important value to the community and attempts to break down barriers to assist marginalized people and bring communities together

During this meeting, Mayor Eddie Tejada, Mayor Pro Tem Paul Barich, and City Council Members Denise Davis, and Jenna Guzman-Lowery, all voted in favor of waiving the fees, with Mario Saucedo voting no, thus waiving the fees for STN's Giving Sunday Event which was held on January 28, 2024, within Ed Hales Park.

During public comments at the council's December meeting, Tyler Smith voiced his support of the group's efforts to be a positive force, adding how the Giving Sundays events promote peace, unity, and inclusion within the community.

Saucedo objected to approving the waiver of fees for STN based on the number of events STN was requesting and what he viewed as the events becoming more of a commercial endeavor.

Mayor Pro Tem Paul Barich expressed concerns about whether STN has business licenses and health certificates, however, expressed his intent to attend the event.

Also, during the January meeting, Mayor Eddie Tejada, Mayor Pro Tem Paul Barich, and City Council Members Denise Davis, Jenna Guzman-Lowery, and Mario Saucedo all voted in favor of waiving the fees for STN's Giving Sunday Event to be held on February 25, 2024 at Ed Hales Park.

truly embodied our District's mission of 'Making Hope Happen' as evidenced by the countless stories of Dr. Hill going above and beyond in service to this community," said Danny Tillman, Board President of the San Bernardino City Unified School District. "I thank Congressman Pete Aguilar for his effort in carrying on her legacy to live on in the community she cared so much for."

Dr. Hill's dedication to the children and youth of the community was recognized beyond the halls of academia as noted by Alton L. Garrett, President of Westside Action Group. "Dr. Margaret Hill was the consummate educator. Her daily work to better the lives of the children of the San Bernardino Community was an act of dedication and love. If it takes a Village to raise a child, then Dr. Hill was the Elder of that Village. It is an outstanding tribute to her and her family, to have the Del Rosa Post Office renamed in her honor," said

Terrance Stone, CEO of Young Visionaries Youth Leadership Academy appeared to sum up the sentiments of the broader inland region. "Just like the United States Post Service, when you think of these words "Neither snow, nor rain, nor heat, nor gloom of night stays these couriers from the swift completion of their appointed rounds," we also think of Dr. Margaret B. Hill. She was a pillar in our community and a perfect example of caring, love, community and work ethic and we are proud to have her name on our local post office."

Including among others endorsing the post office renaming are the National Sorority of Phi Delta Kappa – Delta Rho Chapter, Athletes for Life, First Five San Bernardino Commission, Black Cultural Foundation, Kiwanis of Greater San Bernardino, San Bernardino African American Policy Advisory and Time for Change Foundation.

Skinner stated that the longer that kids are on their phones during the day, the higher the risk for depression, anxiety and other related issues.

Bonta and 33 other attorney generals had previously filed a lawsuit against Meta, owner of the popular social media applications Instagram and Facebook. The filing claims that the company purposefully uses algorithmized content that harms younger audiences.

"Social media companies have the ability to protect our kids, they could act, but they do not," Skinner said.

The Child Data Privacy Act would strengthen existing protections for data privacy under the California Consumer Privacy Act (CCPA). The lawmakers argue that the law does not have effective protection for those under 18 years old.

"In a digital age where the vulnerabilities of young users are continually exploited, we cannot afford to let our laws lag behind, our children deserve complete assurance that their online experience will be safeguarded from invasive practices," Wicks said.

Join us in this concert as we celebrate Black History Month by showcasing talented Black composers whose compositions feature complexity, musical messaging, and sheer beauty. Don't miss these memorable pieces that will nurture your spirit and soul.

The program will include music by Florence Price as well as from the movie Selma.

The orchestra will perform the world premiere of Concerto Cinematique, featuring its composer and violinist, Chris Woods. This commission for the Riverside Philharmonic is sponsored by patrons Kathy Wright and Dwight Tate.

"The concerto became not only an expression of my deepest thoughts, feelings, and aspirations but also a way for me to inspire others to find meaning through their art and creativity."

- Chris Woods

We'll conclude the concert with the ground-breaking Negro Folk Symphony, the 1934 masterpiece by William Dawson. Filled with passion and skill, this piece has emotional intensity comparable to pieces by Mahler and Brahms, while adding Gershwin-like jazz rhythms to create a layered musical complexity.

Don't miss these musical gems!
