STUDENTS' OVERSEAS STUDY COULD DISPEL MYTHS

Nine Cal State, San Bernardino students are headed overseas this summer as participants in International Programs, which sends students abroad to study at about the same cost as it takes to attend a California State University school.

Most students think it costs much more to go to school in another country, says Aurora Wolfgang, Cal State associate professor of foreign languages, who coordinates the program on campus and is trying to dispel some misconceptions about who can—or should—study overseas. "What's more, she adds, financial aid often is available, and any grants or loans students earn here travel with them.

Another false notion is that "Cal State students don't see themselves as the kinds of students who go abroad," Wolfgang says. Some have the impression that only the well-off, Ivy League-types take such trips. Not so, she says. "You also don't have to be a foreign language major, says Wolfgang. "We have many programs where you don't have to speak a foreign language," such as the ones for the United Kingdom, Canada, and even Sweden, where students take a course in Swedish after they arrive. For such programs as the German, French or Spanish ones, students can have as little as one class done and still be eligible.

And "we have programs for almost every major," Wolfgang adds. This year's batch of students is a good example.

Six students will travel to France. They are: from San Bernardino, Constance Taeng, a French literature major; Jack Lape, an anthropology and French major; Lena Barannia, a business administration and French major from Victorville; Rialto resident Valerie Johnson, a liberal studies and French major; French literature student Robert Viera of Loma Linda, and Bri Fernandez, a Moreno Valley student working on her master's in French.

Going to Spain are liberal studies major Todd Berman of Chino, and San Bernardino resident Jeffrey Sperry, a liberal studies and Spanish student. Brenda Gazzar, a political science major from Barstow, will study in Israel.

ORANGE SHOW EXEC JOINS BUSINESS SCHOOL

Alton Garrett, Jr., director of sales for the National Orange Show Events Center in San Bernardino, will assume his new position as director of development and alumni relations for Cal State's School of Business and Public Administration June 1.

In his post, Garrett will lead fundraising activities in support of the university's business programs. His also will coordinate the annual giving, alumni relations, corporate and foundation relations and major gifts programs.

Garrett has been affiliated with the National Orange Show for six years, most recently overseeing the development of sales and utilization of facilities at the events center.

Prior to his work at the Orange Show, Garrett served in the military for 27 years, retiring from the U.S. Air Force in 1989 as Chief Master Sergeant. He received numerous decorations and awards during his military career.

Active civically, Garrett is a commissioner for the San Bernardino Municipal Water Department, vice chair of the San Bernardino Private Industry Council, a member of the board of directors for Arrowhead United Way and a member of several civic panels and service groups. He is in his second term as president of the San Bernardino Kiwanis Club.

A graduate of Southern Illinois University at Carbondale with a B.S. in education education studies, Garrett also is pursuing a master's degree here. He says he is looking forward to his new challenges both professionally and personally.

COMMUNITY SERVICE

Dr. Robert Blackey (History) spoke to the Jurupa Valley High School sophomore class about “Witchcraft: History and Perspective” on May 19. On April 1, Dr. Patty Domingues (Sociology) spoke to women from the Disciples of Christ Church and the United Church of Christ in Redlands about the misuse of religion as a means of perpetrating women’s oppression.

Dr. Judith Rymer (University Relations) was the featured speaker at the Option House annual hanger held May 20. Her talk was titled, “Sometimes You Lead and Sometimes You Follow.” In April, Dr. Bob Senour (School of Education) spoke to the California Retired Teachers Association about “Technology in Education.”

THE BULLETIN BOARD

CLASSES, TAXES AND WAIVERS

The bad news is the IRS now considers employee dependent fee waivers for grad courses and employee waivers for “career development purposes” as (surprise) taxable income. The good news is “job-related” grad level courses taken by employees are not taxable. Stay tuned for more details, says the Accounting Office.

TWO NUNS A ‘MINI’ WINNER

The 10-minute comedy, “Two Nuns” by Linda Stockham (Anthropology, Geography), is one of a handful selected for production in the Lake Arrowhead Performing Arts Company’s mini-play contest. The plays will be performed June 9-11.

LAST MINUTE CALL FOR VOLUNTEERS

One more time... Commencement needs YOU. Staff volunteers can still sign up to assist at graduation ceremonies June 17. Call Pam at Ext. 5006 for more information about the morning or evening time slots.

THAT’S (CHEAP) ENTERTAINMENT

They say if you use the books only two or three times they pay for themselves, and it’s not too late to buy an Entertainment Book from the Athletics Department. The 1995 discount books sell for just that—$19.95—and contain coupons for everything from bowling to restaurants to movie theatres. Call Ext. 9011.

EDITORIALLY INCORRECT

So proficient, perhaps, at faking political affiliations has been the Model U.N. student team that The Friday Bulletin mistook for being the Model Arab League student team in the lead story of May 19. What’s more, Phillip Taylor (Political Science) was said to be an advisor for the Model Arab League team, which he is not. In truth, he is the advisor for the Model U.N. team, which also won big honors when it represented Belgium at a major competition in New York in late April. The team captured a “distinguished delegation” award for finishing in the top ten colleges among 200 nationwide.

NEWS

Congratulations to Jennifer Campbell (Purchasing), who gave her husband, Kevin, a special birthday present May 19 when she delivered Paige Janes at 5 pounds, 10 ounces and 17 3/4 inches long, and Alexandra Jane at 5 pounds, 9 ounces and 18 1/8 inches. Born at Lorna Linda Hospital, Paige came at 11:39 p.m. and Alexandra at 11:42.
