Points of View and Concerns Surrounding Claremont Institute's Honor of Sheriff Chad Bianco

Riverside Sheriff Chad Bianco to be honored by ultra conservative Claremont Institute. (source: makecaliforniagoldagain.com)

Rumor has it that the Claremont Institute (CI), an organization some describe as a conservative think tank and others as an institution of far right ideology, located in Upland, CA, will present Riverside County Sheriff Chad Bianco with its 2023 Sheriff's Award.

Depending on one's point of view this can be perceived as either a high honor or a dubious distinction. I suppose were I a right wing extremist I would celebrate Bianco for this accomplishment. Afterall, as everyone enjoys recognition, especially someone who perceives they've done a good job and earned the honor.

I acknowledge Bianco has tons of supporters who probably perceive this recognition as well deserved. Others, however, are concerned—not so much about the ceremonial recognition—but more importantly about the message it conveys.

To present such an award to the Riverside County Sheriff while he remains in the throes of a

Pasadena Businessman and News Publisher Joe C. Hopkins Remembered for His Courage and Leadership

Assemblymember Chris Holden honors Joe and Ruthie Hopkins at the state capitol for the MLK celebration on January 12, 2018, Asm. Brian Dhale, Asm. Ian Calderon.

Solomon O. Smith California Black Media

Last week, the Pasadena community lost a towering symbol of leadership and courage, Joe C. Hopkins. A lawyer, activist, publisher, husband and father, Hopkins passed away on Oct. 31 after decades of dedicated service to the community.

Hopkins was a prominent presence in “Dena,” the local nickname for the Pasadena/Altadena area. A resident for over 40 years, Hopkins, and his wife Ruthie, are deeply embedded in their local community, establishing meaningful relationships with people from diverse backgrounds. Their influence extended beyond Pasadena, inspiring and shaping California’s Black political and social circles in numerous ways.

Hopkins was born in Altus, Oklahoma. He relocated to California in 1967, settling in Altadena in 1969. He earned his Juris Doctorate from Glendale University College of Law and in 1982 he began his legal practice which he later moved to Pasadena in 1986.

Hopkins was a man of conviction who fearlessly defended what he believed in. It was his strength of character and clarity of perspective that made him an effective leader.

Hopkins once held the position of president of the West Coast Black Publishers Association and was the president emeritus of the San Gabriel Valley Black Business Association. He founded the Pasadena/Altadena Black Lawyers Association and headed the Pasadena Black Expo from 1990-1992. He started the Pasadena/Altadena Journal, the first and only Black publication in “the Valley,” a region located north of Los Angeles that spans several other

San Fernando Valley cities, including Burbank, Studio City, Glendale and Sherman Oaks.

Hopkins’ accomplishments have been acknowledged numerous times: He received the Appreciation for Outstanding Contributions in Business from the Altadena NAACP Branch in 1990, the Citizen of the Year Award from Omega Psi Phi Fraternity in 1992 and served as the Community Grand Marshall of the Pasadena Black History Parade in 2000. In 2006, he was awarded a Certificate of Special Congressional Recognition from Congressman Adam B. Schiff (D-CA-30). Additionally, he has been honored with numerous special recognitions from various city, state and national organizations.

The FBI recently released the 2022 nationwide crime report, which showed a decrease in violent crime, mirroring numbers seen before the pandemic.

Murder and non-negligent manslaughter recorded a 2022 estimated nationwide decrease of 6.1% compared to the previous year.

Rape across the country decreased by an estimated 5.4%, and aggravated assault in 2022 dropped by more than 1% in 2022.

Every step forward is a cause for celebration, but let us not forget the importance of remaining vigilant on our journey towards progress. With $1.027 million in grants awarded to 67 non-profits, the Fund is making a profound impact in Riverside and San Bernardino counties

Even though violent crime has decreased, property crime has increased around the country by 7.1 percent while Burglary/breaking data stayed the same, and Larceny-theft offenses increased by 7.8 percent. Motor vehicle theft increased 10.9 percent.

Two years after the pandemic, we are seeing violent crime decrease around the United States, but property crime is rising.

In California, Theft and Burglary are rising way above the national average.

According to the FBI Crime Data Explorer,

Hate Crimes Increase Nationwide, Racial Bias Remains Prevalent

The FBI's recently released 2022 nationwide crime report showed 14,631 law enforcement agencies submitted incident reports. There were 11,634 criminal incidents and 13,337 related offenses reported as being motivated by racial, ethnic, ancestral, religious, sexual orientation, disability, or gender bias. (123RF.com) car thefts in California reached 471.9 per 100,000, and the national average for car thefts was 282.7 per 100,000.

In June, Black Voice News in partnership with Mapping Black California released its Mapping Hate in California dashboard that provides a five year perspective (2016 to 2021) on hate incidents, crimes and accountability from a statewide and county perspective. If you have not already done so, we encourage you to investigate this report.

California has historically been lower than the national average regarding property crime. It wasn't until 2015 that California surpassed the nation's average.

Crimes like rape and homicide in California have seen their number decrease below the Trigger warning: This article discusses reproductive loss.

Starting Jan. 1, 2024, employees will be allowed to take up to five days off following a reproductive loss event without any job repercussions under Senate Bill 848.

Authored by Sen. Susan Rubio (D-Baldwin Park), Gov. Gavin Newsom signed the bill in late October, a month recognized as Pregnancy and Infant Loss Awareness Month.

Because I experienced loss myself, my specialty is [reproductive loss]. Over a 10-year span, I endured eight losses.

A few of them were stillbirth. Some of them were miscarriages. And some of them, they passed inside, like their heart stopped beating.

- Yvonne McComb

Under SB 848, a reproductive loss event is defined as “the day or, for a multiple-day event, the final day of a failed adoption, failed surrogacy, miscarriage, stillbirth, or an unsuccessful assisted reproduction...” The bill does not state whether the reproductive loss leave is paid, but prevents employers from retaliating against employees who do take reproductive loss leave.

Yvonne McComb believes this bill is a great start to recognizing and acknowledging the physical, mental and emotional impacts of reproductive loss on birthing people and their families. McComb is a birth, bereavement and postpartum doula who has experienced reproductive loss herself and didn’t have the opportunity to take leave during her losses.

In 2020, U.S. Centers for Disease Control and Prevention data found that Black and Native Hawaiian/Pacific Islander women experienced some of the highest rates of stillbirth, more than twice the rate of white women. (Graphic by Chris Allen, VOICE)

Recurrent pregnancy loss is the loss of two pregnancies in a row. About 1 in 100 pregnant people (1%) have repeat miscarriages, according to the March of Dimes.

“Because I experienced loss myself, my specialty is [reproductive loss]. Over a 10-year span, I endured eight losses. A few of them were stillbirth. Some of them were miscarriages. And some of them, they passed inside, like their heart stopped beating,” McComb shared.

Her own experiences dealing with loss and lack of education on care after multiple miscarriages led to her becoming a bereavement doula. McComb took matters into her own hands when no one would give her answers about her losses and potential causes. At one point, she reviewed her own medical chart to learn more about what was going on.

A miscarriage, also called early pregnancy loss or spontaneous abortion, occurs when there is pregnancy loss before 20 weeks. According to Planned Parenthood, eight out of 10 miscarriages happen in the first 20 weeks of pregnancy. A stillbirth occurs when a baby passes away in the womb after 20 weeks of pregnancy.

The Inland Empire Community Foundation hosted a celebration of the Black Equity Fund, reaching a milestone of over $6 million dollars raised to support Black-Led organizations located in San Bernardino and Riverside counties. The event also recognized Dr. Robert “Bob” Ross, CEO of The California Endowment, the first to invest in the fund when it was launched in 2020. JOIN US FOR THE AMERICAN SHERIFF'S DINNER

We cordially invite you to join us for an evening of patriotism and conviviality, as we honor the work of longtime patriot and tireless defender of America's founding principles, Riverside County Sheriff Chad Bianco.

Special remarks will be provided by Former United States Attorney General, Senator Jeff Sessions. Reserve your spot now to be a part of this remarkable evening!

Claremont Institute (CI), located in Upland, CA, will present Riverside County Sheriff Chad Bianco with its 2023 Sheriff's Award on Thursday, November 9, 2023. (source: archive.ph)

County Sheriff's Department, appears highly political and contrived.

And these are only the most recent concerns circling Bianco as he prepares to accept the Claremont Institute's honor. By now the community is very familiar with his history, including being hauled into court during the peak of COVID 19 for failing to implement protocols in county jails warranted to protect the lives of the people entrusted to his care in county jails as well as his own employees who labor within those facilities.

There is also the times he seems to forget that he is elected to serve all the people not just those who agree with his politics.

The way Bianco flaunts his political ideology makes it clear the idea of county sheriffs being non-partisan has gone the way of so many other things is this hyper-partisan political environment.

Regardless, we much acknowledge that Bianco is entitled to his point of view just as we are entitled to ours. Among one of the many ways he often goes astray is when he allows his political point of view to influence the administration of his duties as a non-partisan elected official.

The Claremont Institute honor will be bestowed on Bianco during the launch of the organization's annual Sheriff's Fellowship program. As reported recently by the Guardian, the fellowship centers on a far right ideology rooted in the belief local sheriffs should embrace the philosophy of so-called "constitutional sheriffs" that assert their authority overrides that of the government.

Regarding one's point of view, CI describes Bianco as follows: "Sheriff Bianco believes in service above self, and hopes that his priorities of God, family, and service will provide meaningful guidance and direction as the Sheriff's Office engages in an unprecedented change of culture to positively influence and engage the Riverside community." That is certainly their point of view. Meanwhile, many in the Riverside County community see him and his leadership quite differently.

CI partly defends its choice by noting Bianco was reelected with 60% of the vote. But, how much is one entitled to brag about such a victory when less than 19% of registered voters turned out to cast their ballots?

According to the CI program announcement, former U.S. Attorney General and "throw-back" to the Confederacy, Jeff Sessions, will present Bianco with the organization's honor.

The event is scheduled for Thursday, November 9. If you hurry, there may still be some of the event's $450 per person tickets available.

Joe C. Hopkins Esq.

In 2018, Hopkins and his wife were honored as civil rights pioneers and “Unsung Heroes” by the California Legislative Black Caucus (CLBC).
The award was presented by Assemblymember
Chris Holden (D-Pasadena).

In a statement following Hopkins’ passing, Holden said, “My life and the lives of many other people are forever changed by the impact of Joe Hopkins and his wife Ruthie. I will miss Joe’s fearless leadership and unrelenting dedication to community.”

Hopkins’ personal achievements were substantial, and their enduring impact makes his loss deeply felt by the greater Pasadena community.

Sen. Anthony Portantino (D-Burbank) recalls being inspired by Hopkins’ writing in his book, “I will not Apologize,” a collection of his opinion pieces many consider to be the core of his beliefs.

After reading his book Portantino had to meet the man behind the “no nonsense” words.
Hopkins was not easily impressed and quizzed

California State University Faculty Vote to Authorize Strike

The California Faculty Association (CFA), the union representing faculty at California State University (CSU) schools has voted to authorize a strike if it cannot reach a deal with the 23-campus system's administration.

CFA represents approximately 29,000 professors, lecturers, coaches and other faculty across the state.

"Cal State voted overwhelmingly to authorize a strike, if necessary," said Charles Toombs, a professor and former chairperson of Africana Studies at San Diego State University (SDSU) and the union's president, during a virtual press conference Oct 30. "Members are emphatic that low pay, growing workloads, and systematic inequalities are not sustainable.

The union pushed for 12% across-the-board increases this fiscal year, but CSU offered 12% over the next three years. When CFA refused to consider a multi-year offer, the CSU offered a one-year GSI of 5%. CFA then declared an impasse within 40 minutes of receiving this offer.

"We are still moving through the statutory process. CFA members plan on bringing our demands and solidarity to trustees and new Chancellor Mildred García at the November 7 Portantino about whether he read his book. They bonded over that conversation and their mutual desire to create a bridge between higher education in California and Historically Black Colleges and Universities (HBCUs). Together, they encouraged leaders and educators from UCLA to establish the Summer Institute for Emerging Managers and Leaders in 2012. The program's purpose is to "increase the diversity of graduate students enrolled in the UC business schools.

The program continues to diversify leadership in California graduate schools.

"We connected on a friendship level and continued to talk policy and as the world changed, we kept talking to each other," said Portantino. "The community has lost a special person, a great dad and a tremendous leader." Condolences have been extended to the family from the mayor of Pasadena, Victor Gordo, and other community leaders offering comfort during their time of bereavement.

Hopkins' son, Yusef Olaitan-Hopkins, remembers his father as more than a political leader, entrepreneur or civil rights leader. He cherishes intimate memories of his father as a caring parent, selflessly dedicated to his family and community. According to Olaitan-Hopkins, the family is overwhelmed by the community's expression of sympathy.

Hopkins, according to his son, was always ready to defend others with his knowledge of the law, leadership or his presence.

"One of the things my dad used to say was 'find a good fight and get into it,'" said Yusef. "He was going to do this on his own terms."

Hopkins' legacy extends beyond the publications, books, and organizations he started and led. It endures through the loving family he leaves behind, including his granddaughter Ife Olaitan, a social worker, therapist and the mother of his only great-grandchild. For Olaitan it was a privilege to grow up knowing her grandfather and having him get to know his great-granddaughter. She recalls how her grandparents inspired her to follow her own path and do "what's right," something she is passing down to her child.

"He was always on the side of fighting for what was right and what was just," said Olaitan. "He was a man with a stance, and he loved a good fight."

Hopkins is survived by his wife Ruthie, three sons: Yusef, Omar, and Jamal, as well as seven grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

Messages of condolence to the Hopkins family can be sent to pasadenajournalweb@gmail.com.

In 2020, U.S. Centers for Disease Control and Prevention data found that Black and Native Hawaiian/Pacific Islander women experienced some of the highest rates of stillbirth, more than twice the rate of white women.

When McComb experienced her losses, she was unable to take leave from work nor did she have any other financial means to cover the time she would have needed to take off work.

"I'm so, so grateful that this is something that's even being spoken about right now because it's very, very hard. Loss is not just something that happens physically, it happens mentally as well emotionally. It's very taxing."

With SB 848, California is one of few states that have a specific law dedicated to reproductive loss. Last year, Illinois Gov. JB Pritzker signed the Family Bereavement Leave Act into law which allows an employee to take up to 10 work days following a reproductive loss.

While the law does not reference abortion, there are several types of abortions that can fall under the umbrella of a "reproductive loss event" like when a doctor has delivered a medical diagnosis of a nonviable pregnancy and urges an abortion as treatment. The American College

CSU Board of Trustees meeting in Long Beach," read a press release from CFA.

"CSU management says they can't afford our re-opener proposals, but a CFA fiscal analysis shows otherwise. The CSU has been hoarding billions of dollars in reserves instead of investing in faculty and staff who work directly with our students. Their investment in administrative personnel is increasing while their investment in instructional support continues to shrink," it continued.

In the fall of 2022, 18,308 Black or African American students (4.0%) were enrolled in the CSU system. Overall, the CSU system. The CSU system is comprised of 23 universities with nearly 500,000 students.

of Obstetricians and Gynecologists examine viability in two contexts: early pregnancy loss and whether a fetus might survive outside of the uterus.

McComb explained that the topic of reproductive loss is gaining more notoriety, but is still very uncomfortable to discuss due to the emotional and personal nature of such losses.

"It's getting notoriety now, but it's still very uncomfortable to talk about. People's emotions [and] even being able to hold space for others is being swept under the rug," McComb explained. "So, we need community and we need support to be able to get through it because the grief journey is a roller coaster."

For those who have experienced reproductive loss, Loma Linda University offers bereavement support and education through several programs such as Always in My Heart Support Groups, the Butterfly Program and Children's Grief. McComb also offers bereavement support for birthing people and their families throughout the Inland Empire.
