Construction is nearly completed on two additional buildings at Cal State, San Bernardino's Coachella Valley Center located near the football field and Engineering Building at College of the Desert. The expansion is a continuation of work begun this summer that doubles the size of the center, home to more than 650 upper-division, master's, credential and certificate students.

A new student union has been included in the recent construction. The student union will feature a big-screen television, stereo, refrigerator, couches, and tables and chairs. CVC students will have full use of student union facilities and it is expected that special events will be held there as well.

When completed, the additional buildings will give the school a total of 8,640 square feet and 12 classrooms.

"The addition of the new buildings will enable us to better serve our students," said Peter Wilson, interim dean at CVC. "We are very pleased to be located on the COD campus and make a special effort to welcome transfers from that institution."

CVC offers bachelor's degrees in liberal studies, business... administration, English, psychology, social sciences, paralegal administration and vocational education. The Center also offers a certificate in paralegal studies.

Graduate degrees available include a master of arts in education (counselor education and bilingual education options), educational administration and a master of public administration (MPA).

Teaching credentials are offered in several areas, including multiple subject (elementary), single subject (secondary), designated subjects, pupil personnel services and administrative services.

COD students wishing to transfer to CVC may participate in the Guaranteed Admission Contract Program. This is an evaluation program designed to ease the transition from COD to CSUSB by prescribing COD coursework which will fulfill CSUSB requirements. Students wishing to participate in this program should have completed between 27 and 45 units of semester work at COD. The program has helped many COD transfer students successfully make the transition to CSUSB.
