"Plagiarism Has Serious Consequences"

by Michelle Gaisie

"Plagiarism is the presentation as one's own the ideas and writings of another. Plagiarism is academically dishonest and subjects the offending student to penalties up to and including expulsion."

The above is taken directly from the Cal State Bulletin and describes the campus no-nonsense attitude towards plagiarism. Yet even the threat of suspension or expulsion from school isn't always enough to deter some students from using someone else's work. Key sources of material that can be substituted for original work are research papers that are readily available to anyone willing to pay the high prices that these paper "services" demand.

The bulletin boards in some of the library classrooms currently display advertisements for some of these companies. The ads catch students' eyes with the words "Research Papers" and "Termpapers" written boldly across the top, and in tiny, minute letters the word assistance is placed just below, in parentheses. The flyer from the Authors' Research does say that the papers "are designed to augment your own writing effort." But a similar ad from Research Assistance, Inc. candidly boasts of their "15,279 quality research papers to choose from all subject areas. Save time and improve your grades!"

The Research Assistance ad gives this sample topic: Marx and Durkheim. Examines the comparative and contrasting elements of Marx's concept of alienation and Durkheim's theory of anomie. 9 footnotes, 8 bibliographies, 11 pages.

This Los Angeles-based company makes their papers available to anyone who wants to drive out and take a look at some of them. They charge five dollars per page and promise "prompt and confidential" service. You have to wonder why it must be kept confidential if it's just research assistance.

Dr. Elinor Partridge, Professor of English, expressed sadness instead of anger when asked her opinion of students turning to "research assistance."

"It's a no-nonsense attitude," she said. "Plagiarism is the most serious offense." But she added that a "no-nonsense attitude" is not enough to guarantee that plagiarism will be eliminated from the campus. She said that students who are caught plagiarizing are not always punished. Shandin and Waterman

"Capture The Flag"

by David T. Bristow

I saw her standing in the shadows, her blonde hair tossed by a breeze. I had driven my gun and pushed it into her deep blue eyes. Then I wheeled around and I stared at her. She hesitated for a moment, then looked behind her. The smell of perfume filled my nostrils. I hesitated for a moment, then decided that it had to be done. I drew my gun and pushed it into her back. Started, she wheeled around and I stared into her eyes. Then I drilled her in the face with a squirt gun.

This is but one of the many scenes that transpired Saturday night during a "Capture the Flag" game between Shandin and Waterman Dorms. About thirty players participated, with each house fielding teams of fifteen. Skill, dare, and "Termpapers" written boldly across the top, and in tiny, minute letters the word assistance is placed just below, in parentheses. The flyer from the Authors' Research does say that the papers "are designed to augment your own writing effort." Coyote Becomes New School Mascot

by Dolores Tirado

For several years there has been a controversy over our school mascot, so when winter registration, students were asked to vote for a mascot by the Ad Hoc Committee on the Campus Mascot, which was appointed for this task. The committee consisted of two students, two alumni, a faculty member, and a representative, Dr. Tom Rivera. Faculty and staff were polled via campus mail during the second week of the winter quarter.

The St. Bernard was the original school mascot, but during the '70s, there was a move to change the mascot to a State Coyote. The St. Bernard was chosen as the new school mascot, but during the '70s, there was a move to change the mascot to a State Coyote.

One of the professors on campus had a St. Bernard named Darcey and he brought him to the school functions and students became attached to him. An election held and the St. Bernard was chosen as the school mascot. As a result, "PawPrint" was the name chosen for the school newspaper. The Pawprint pawprint of Hamiclar was used for a logo for the paper. The St. Bernard died Tuesday, the last track of the college mascot.

The general consensus is that since the school mascot would be a symbol of our future intercollegiate athletic opportunities for Humanities Majors With Spears, and that would be held from 4:00 p.m. in the Humanities Meeting Room, PL 241. The presenter will be the President for Academic Programs. AD 887-7521

Ridesharing Reduces Student Stress

by Betty Lou Massey

Would you like a lift? Consider ridesharing!

Ridesharing is the means whereby Cal State students can both save gasoline and extend the life expectancy of their automobiles. However, this economical concept has not been well received by campus students. "We would like to have a greater response," said Diane Kubitz, administrative secretary for the Director of Administrative Affairs, who also states that there have been only 30 inquiries regarding the service out of 5000 cards distributed in the registration packets. "I attribute this lack of interest to the steep gas prices," Kubitz said.

...ridesharers can also reduce the stress and headaches connected with driving and parking on campus.

In addition to reduction of mileage costs, ridesharing can also help students avoid the inconveniences connected with driving and parking on campus.

Matchlists are computerized and distributed according to area locations, and rides are arranged by individual students who contact other students commuting from their own locality. All information submitted to the Commuter Computer on the ridesharing registration form will be kept strictly confidential. Those who do not wish to list their home addresses are allowed to use their resident or campus telephone number.

Student Ray Ferrari, a chemistry major, says, "I have been a student here for four years, and for the last two years have used the public bus system to commute. I prefer this method to ridesharing, as I am able to maintain my privacy.

English major John Horton also agrees that the privacy he obtains through driving his own vehicle to Cal State outweighs the inconveniences involved. "However, if I was unable to drive my own car, I would definitely look into ridesharing," said Horton. "I took the bus to school for a short time, and it was a nightmare in a parking system in the county, possibly in the entire United States."

Student Angela Quinlan has been taking the bus to Cal State for a year. She now has a Plymouth Arrow broke down. "When you're walking up to catch the bus," said Quinlan, "the driver doesn't wait for you very long. Then you have to wait an hour for the next one.

Marketing Tools Prepare You For Career World
by Carol Leish

On February 28 at 6:30 p.m. in Student Union Room A, Ed Schneiderham, a career counselor at Cal State and Darla Keys, in the Education Counseling program here, held a seminar concerning job hunting.

Schneiderham said, "The internships you get are vital for your job search." He said to be aware of what jobs are available. According to the Hidden Job Market, 80% of all jobs are found through the "network of people that you know." The internship is a door opener to getting to know people in the area that interests you. Part-time jobs that relate to your field of interest are important in order to gain experience.

The Resume is a type of ad and is a marketing tool," said Schneiderham. "It's purpose is to get you in for an interview and there is no exact guideline.

According to the Affirmative Action Guideline, "personal data" is illegal to require on a resume. Hobbies and interests only have to be listed if they are relevant to the job.

According to Schneiderham and Keys, other points than the resume are essential in order to get a job. Your mental attitude, the way you dress, and your commitment and dedication to the field are essential to the job you get. Ms. Keys said, "Know your interests and what you want to do. Because if you are in the wrong job you'll hate it. Realize your work pleasure." This is an information revolution, similar in magnitude to the Industrial Revolution, said Schneiderham.

Computer skills are also helpful. Realize even the bank teller's machine is exposing you to BASIC computer programming language. Written, oral and statistical/mathematical skills are needed today. They said it is a good idea to develop these skills to show that you have a "polished act."

They said that work is divided into three areas. You can "work with people, data or things." "Realize your weaknesses and preferences. It is important for people to work as a team by having different people with the various interests.

Remember if you have any questions about how to prepare for your future job, go to the Career Placement Center and talk with Ed Schneiderham or Darla Keys, located in Student Services Rm. 116. The office is open Monday through Thursday; 9-6 and Friday; 9-3, or call Ed Schneiderham at 887-7551.

Health Corner

This is a weekly column. If you have any health-related questions that you would like answered, drop your questions in the box in the Health Center Lobby.

I do a lot of swimming and often get outer ear infections. Is there any way to prevent this?

Unfortunately, water in the ears combined with the dark warmth of the outer ear canal sets up the perfect growth media for bacterial and/or fungal growth. To prevent this, it is important to get the water out of the outer ear canal. A solution of 4 parts vinegar and 1 part rubbing alcohol dropped in the ears after swimming will help dry and return normal flora to the ear canal, which helps to prevent swimmer’s ear.

There are also ear plugs made of wax that are available at most drug stores. You soften the wax and mold it to your own ear. These are more effective then the old rubber ear plugs. Even if you have ear plugs, it is wise to use the vinegar-alcohol combination as a preventive measure.

Do you remove corns at the Health Center?

No, to date we have not removed corns. We have been doing padding and trimming for relief of discomfort. We will also examine to evaluate for defects that may be confused with a “corn.”

For completeness, a “corn” is defined as a painful conical hyperkeratosis found principally over toe joints (hard corns) and between the toes (soft corns). For prevention, you may need a lecture on wearing the proper shoes.

Why would a young woman only have a period four times a year? Should she be checked, and is it a sign of infertility?

When a young woman is beginning to menstruate, known medically as menarche, it is not abnormal to have irregular or infrequent periods. If this persists, she should be examined. The most common cause is an endocrine or hormone imbalance.

Infrequent menstrual periods is not a sign of infertility. Also, with the variety of tests available and the endocrine problems at our disposal, periods can be regulated if desired.

Why would a 26-year old woman suffer a stroke?

A stroke is a cerebral-vascular accident where a blood vessel in the brain ruptures. This causes bleeding inside the brain, creating pressure on vital centers. The most common cause in younger people is a aneurysm. This is a weakening of a vessel causing a bulge in the area. It is usually congenital and located in a complex of vessels at the bottom of the brain called the “circle of Willis.”

A blow to the head from any cause, elevated blood pressure, vascular disease, etc., can result in rupture and bleeding. For example a frequent cause of collapse of a fighter during a boxing match is the rupture of a congenital aneurysm of the circle of Willis.

Are you Listening?

by Carol Leish

On February 27 at 6:30 p.m. in the Student Union Senate Chambers, Betty Honicky and Judy Suter, both in the masters counseling program at Cal State spoke about communication, and how to listen to your child. Pam Dorch, director at the Cal State Children’s Center said that if these tips on effective listening could definitely be applied to all people.

Many of us have been taught that feelings of anger, disappointment, and fear are wrong and should not be expressed. Consequently, many of us do not know how to handle these feelings when our children or others express them. In our awkwardness, we respond in terms of roles.

The ‘Moralist’ is a ‘shouldist’! He preaches about what the person should do. The ‘Critic’ is interested in being right, and he relies on sarcasm. The ‘Psychologist’ tries to analyze the problem, and the ‘Judge’ has already judged guilty without a trial. Betty Honicky said, “Most think we’re listening, when we’re judging. Teachers tend to be judges.”

Communicating with children and adults begins by listening and indicating (not) you hear and understand the person’s feelings. Betty Honicky, Judy Suter and Pam Dorch say that reflective thinking can be applied to everyone, and involves hearing the person’s feelings and meanings as he states them so that the person feels understood. It provides a mirror for the person to see himself more clearly.

When a child says he never wants to go to school, a parent using a reflective approach could say, “You feel angry at school? The best approach is to identify the child’s feelings by getting him to continue talking. Pam Dorch said, “Parents can pick up the different feelings their child is expressing.”

She said that open statements with understanding are much better than closed statements with closed.

Judy Suter also stated that our physical appearance, and body language is important when speaking with someone in order to give the statement impact. She said that to make a good impression, you should sit facing square to the person you’re talking to, giving an open appearance, with arms relaxed (not crossed), and leaning toward the person to whom you’re talking. The person is cool and being relaxed can work with everyone. Pam Dorch also said, “Your eyes when touched. They never outgrow the need for touch.”

Judy Suter said that by using this form of communication. “You take the pressure off the situation.” She said to say, “I feel when (specific situation) because (reason).” Thus, she said, a parent would say, as Pam Dorch illustrated, “I feel angry now because the boat went through the camper.”

With an open response to communication, we can gain a understanding and a respectful viewpoint.

Women Artists in History

On Thursday, March 8, as part of Women's History Week at Cal State, the Art Department will sponsor a lecture by Dr. Wendy Slotkin entitled “Women Artists in History” in Visual Arts 110 at 1:00 p.m. Doctor Slotkin is a member of the art history faculty at University of California, Riverside where she teaches modern art. Her BA is from Barnard College, Columbia University, MA from the Villa Schifanoia, Florence and her PhD. is from the University of Pennsylvania. She has taught at Rutgers University and has been a visiting lecturer at the University of Upsala in Sweden. She has had a long standing interest in women’s studies and is the author of the recently published book “Woman Artists in History: From Antiquity to the Twentieth Century,” published by Prentice-Hall. Sensitive to the fact that traditional texts have not accorded women their proper role, her book redresses that fault by presenting forty outstanding painters, sculptors and photographers who have made an important contribution to the history of art. Her lecture will survey the women artists that she has studied and in general discuss the situation that created the need for her book.

Children's Center

by Carol Leish

Would your child enjoy learning in your American Government class? Of course not!

If you want your child to learn at his or her own level, enroll your child in the program at the Cal State Children's Center. According to the director, Pam Dortch, “Children, 2 to 14 years of age, receive a program with a well structured curriculum, concerned staff members, safe equipment to use, and creative instructional supplies.” The center is operated by funding from the California State Department of Education, the Associated Students, and by parent fees.

Cheryl Chilibolost, mother of 4 year old Kacy, says the center is convenient, since she is a student at Cal State. She said, “Kacy is comfortable at the center and loves to come to school.” She said that regular preschools, that are not subsidized by state funding, are very costly. She also said, “I feel the center has good teachers.”

The children participate in activities dealing with language development, science, art, music, and physical development. When Tommy, who is 3 years old, was asked, “Why do you enjoy coloring rainbows?” He replied, “I like all of the different colors.” Dustin, who is 3 years old, thought it was “pretty good” to pretend to be a squirrel gathering nuts.

Field trips and special events are planned to let the children have a broad range of activities. When the theme at the center was “Apples,” there was a field trip to Oak Glen to see the apple trees and zoo. At Oak Glen some of the children asked, “Where is the squirrel?” Children asked this question because the song the children sing at the center is called “Gray Squirrel.”

Through the children’s playful activities outside, the children improve their coordination while at the same time being imaginative.

Children participate in many activities at the Children’s Center.

The playground has a slide, parallel bars, a sand box and basketball. Rachael, who is 2 years old, climbed the parallel bars with great determination to make it all the way. Dustin was playing with plastic blocks and said, “I am building a house.” T.J., who is 4 years old, referred to a basketball as a “pumpkin that should get out of my way.”

Within the framework of the teaching, Pam Dortch’s philosophy of “treating each child as a unique individual and catering to that child’s particular needs, in order for each child to benefit through his particular progress” is followed. The certificated teachers, Shirley Northeast, Vicki Keating and Lynn Watson, make lesson plans parallel with the needs of each child. Vicki said, “You just have to be flexible.”

The center is open Monday through Thursday, 7:30 a.m. until 10 p.m. and Friday 7:30 a.m. to 4 p.m.

If you feel your child would benefit from the program at the Children’s Center, call Pam Dortch at 772-4.
English Professor At Her Best In The Classroom

We all look forward to seeing and chatting with a friend, and my impression with Margaret Doane was no exception. It was obvious from the several people who stopped to say hello, that Ms. Doane is indeed considered a friend by many Cal State students.

In the course of our conversation Ms. Doane shared that this camaraderie is important to her. "I really like the age mix of students. That for me is the strongest plus here. I gain a great deal from their experiences and world views," said Ms. Doane when I questioned her about the eight years she has been at Cal State.

It was surprising to learn that although Ms. Doane's career choice was teaching college, she didn't think she'd be good at it. "I always sat in the classroom and said nothing," Ms. Doane said. But she added that she quickly realized that teaching gave her an opportunity to be enthusiastic, and she was awarded at both University of Arizona and University of Oregon for outstanding teaching. Those who have taken classes taught by Ms. Doane will agree that when you sign up for a Romantic Literature class, through her enthusiasm you will, in those ten weeks, learn to share her passion for Blake, Wordsworth, Keats, and the other Romantic writers.

In addition to Romantic Literature, Ms. Doane also teaches Utopian and Victorian Literature, English 325 (Figures), and is the Composition Coordinator for the English Department. As if that weren't enough, she is the Composition Coordinator for the English Department. As if that weren't enough, she is the Composition Coordinator for the English Department.

We talked about her experiences when she took a year sabatical to work on her book and to teach Gather at Doane College (no relation) in Nebraska. She said it was "interesting meeting small town people who were less sophisticated and who had an entirely different view of the world."

Ms. Doane, who is an avid bicyclist, related her contentment with her life, both professionally and personally. She is "very happy" teaching and always wants to do that well as opposed to administrative duties. She says, "The person I am in the classroom is my happiest and best self."

People are often surprised at learning that Ms. Doane has not yet chosen to marry. When we discussed that she said, "I like my like as it is. I'm happy and content and I have a circle of good supportive friends." She added that at this time, she enjoys the freedom that comes with being single. There was no hesitation when I asked how she felt about her life. "I'd give my life an 'A,'" answered the teacher.

Dr. Doane, Cal State's Romantic Literature professor.

The Granny Awards

A RECORD RACK EXCLUSIVE
by Greg Timpany

It seems to be the time of the year for awards. There are Oscars, the Grammys, the Tonys and so on. A lot of critics have their own awards, so in keeping with the times, I thought I would start my own awards. After many seconds of serious thought I decided to entitle them the "Granny Awards." Bronze replicas of my grandmother's hearing aid would be appropriate for the prizes.

Notting Else Feels Like Navy Flying.

The thunderous roar of jet engines rolls across the carrier's flight deck.

Throttles are at full power, and you're waiting for the signal to launch.

Now, the catapult fires. G forces press you back into your seat. Suddenly, you're flying low and fast over the open sea. Zero to 150 in 2.5 seconds.

Nothing else feels like Navy flying. Nothing. And when you become a pilot or flight officer you're at the very heart of it.

Once you've earned your wings, the Navy puts you in full control of a multimillion-dollar supersophisticated combination of jet aircraft and electronic wizardry.

And Navy training makes sure you're up to the challenge. Rigorous flight training gives you the navigation, aerodynamics and other technical know-how you need.

Leadership and professional schooling prepare you for the immediate decision-making authority and management responsibility you have as an officer in the Navy.

On the ground, as a Navy officer, you work with and supervise today's most highly skilled aviation professionals. In the air, as part of the naval aviation team, you have about the most exciting job anyone can have.

It's a uniquely rewarding job with pay to match. You start at $18,300 a year—more than the average corporation pays you just out of college. After four years, with regular Navy promotions and pay increases, your annual salary climbs to $31,100. That's over and above a full package of benefits and privileges.

Find out how much more a job in naval aviation has to offer. Fill in the coupon. No other job gives you the kind of leadership experience or fast responsibility you get as part of the naval aviation team. And nothing else feels like Navy flying.

AB 1: Pressure on Governor Needed

Just when civil liberties are under attack on the national level (school prayer), progress is under way on the state level to preserve civil rights.

AB 1, by Assemblymember Art Agnos, seeks to prohibit against discrimination in employment on the basis of one's sexual orientation. AB 1 has passed by the Legislature and sent to Governor Deukmejian's desk for his action.

AB 1 would make it unlawful to discriminate in employment because of sexual orientation, just as it is currently unlawful to discriminate on the basis of race, religion, sex, marital status or physical disability.

Letters, telegrams/mailgrams and phone calls are needed NOW to persuade Governor Deukmejian to sign AB 1. Heavy political pressure is being exerted by right-wing extremists and other ultra-conservatives ideologues to not sign AB 1 into law. He need to hear from you to understand that there is broad support for this measure. Letters and calls can be directed to Governor Deukmejian: State Capitol, Sacramento, 95814, (916) 441-4514.

The Cal State Chronicle and the California State Student Association urges you to exert pressure on the governor to sign this bill.

It has been 15 years since the Stonewall riots. The fight for recognition as a positive element in society has been an uphill battle for lesbians and gays. It is time now to protect those people whose sexual orientation is not heterosexual. It is time now to banish the harassment and discrimination that led to the Stonewall riots. In fact, the time for AB 1 is long overdue.

Equality For Women Still Major Problem In Today's Society

Editor: During Women's History Week I think it is important to keep in mind that while many opportunities have been made available for women, we should not fool ourselves into thinking that women are now equal in our society. I think that there is no longer a major problem.

The few women who have made significant achievements have been highly publicized, but I am afraid that these women are not truly representative of the vast majority of women in our society.

The number of single-parent families headed by women has increased, and the number of these female-headed households living near or below the poverty level is far too great. Because of the lack of emphasis on developing child care programs that are accessible and affordable, with the fact that most jobs available to women are low-paying and the fact that an attitude that women are somehow less valuable than men still exists, it is very difficult for women to progress.

Domestic violence against women is still prevalent, and women still have no real way to deal with this situation. The programs available to provide support and assistance to women experiencing domestic violence are underfunded and under-funded. There is little legal protection a woman can do legally about a husband or boyfriend who physically assaults her until serious harm is done.

"Women's work" and women's interests are still considered unimportant and trivial, and it is interesting to note that a woman who goes to work to support her children must pay someone to care for these children because she is no longer available to perform that function for free. But a woman who accepts welfare to provide an income for her family so that she can stay home and care for her children, when the father is no longer present, is looked down upon by many people as lazy and worthless by both men and by other women who may one day find themselves in the same unfortunate situation.

I understand that most women attending Cal State are looking forward to having a career, and are most concerned with women's issues as they pertain to achieving their goals. But I would hope that in the process, women who are able to improve their position in life would keep in mind that they are more or less an exception, and feel some responsibility to improving the condition of all women, not just those who are financially and socially able.

And remember, because the social and economic status of women in our society is now and always has been closely tied to the biological function of bearing and rearing children, there are few women who should consider themselves exempt from these situations.

Women Should Have Final Decision

Editor: In her letter to the editor (February 29), Jodi Feldbush said that an eleven-week-old fetus breathes and has bowel movements. This is incorrect, as the functions of respiration and digestion are carried out by the placenta.

While I respect Ms. Feldbush's concern and agree that an unwanted pregnancy is emotionally difficult, I do not believe in legislation aimed at taking away freedom of choice. Until the government takes more responsibility in 1) providing birth control information and, if necessary, free contraceptives and 2) caring finanancially for unwanted children, poor women will continue to have babies that they do not want and are unable to care for.

Ms. Feldbush says that few young women ever get pregnant from incest or rape. This is true, but I doubt if a pregnant 15-year-old incest victim being forced to have a baby is comforted by the fact that she is in a statistical minority.

Proponents of an Anti-Choice Amendment are always holding up pictures of a three-month fetus and saying, "See how it looks like a human being?" I wonder if they've ever seen a three-month fetus and wondered if they've ever seen a little girl abused like a human being! I wonder if they've ever seen the side of the coin pictures of a little girl abused by foster parents, who has so many scars and cigarette burns that she doesn't look like a human being. Or a woman who has bled to death after an illegal "back-alley" abortion performed under unsterile conditions. These things aren't pretty, but they're true.

History has shown that those who don't defend their rights are in constant danger of losing them. Tell your elected representatives in Washington how you feel-urge them to uphold the law of the land, which acknowledges a woman's right to make a decision regarding her own body in freedom and dignity.

When School Is Out - Will You Be Ready?

Amazing new report for "Job Hunting Failures"!

How To Get The Job You Really Want In Less than 30 Days

An International Advertising and P.R. Firm reveals a radical new approach for getting "the right job for you" if you are sick and tired of settling for other people's leftovers!

Being without a job is a real bitch!
It wreaks havoc on your life both socially and psychologically — not to mention the fact that you are broke all the time. And what can be just as bad is forcing yourself, day after day, to go out and spend a job that you hate.

But the most important thing of all is that in today's economy, getting the job you really want is damn near as hard as sucking blood out of a turnip! These days it takes something very special to land a job that really turns you on.

That is the main reason Sandalwood has compiled this report:

First of all, let me assure you that this is not just another "get a job book." It has nothing to do with "positive thinking." "Keeping the old nose to the grindstone" or any other stale old baloney that you've heard a million times before.

The Sandalwood Report is about a very special kind of strategy coupled with a very special kind of theory for getting people to move in the direction you want them to.

It has been tested again and again and it has been used with phenomenal success to turn literally millions of dollars for a lot of very satisfied people.

What Sandalwood has done is take all the known theories and boiled it down into an effective easy to read — step-by-step scientific approach to the job market.

What this means in a nutshell is that if you are broke all the time. And what can be just as bad is forcing yourself, day after day, to go out and spend a job that you hate.

But the most important thing of all is that in today's economy, getting the job you really want is damn near as hard as sucking blood out of a turnip! These days it takes something very special to land a job that really turns you on.

That is the main reason Sandalwood has compiled this report:

The Sandalwood Report is about a very special kind of strategy coupled with a very special kind of theory for getting people to move in the direction you want them to.

It has been tested again and again and it has been used with phenomenal success to turn literally millions of dollars for a lot of very satisfied people.

What Sandalwood has done is take all the known theories and boiled it down into an effective easy to read — step-by-step scientific approach to the job market.

What this means in a nutshell is that if you are unemployed or "stuck" in a job you don't want, you can turn your life around and you can have the job that really turns you on in less than 30 days.

You see, Sandalwood is as unique from other advertising and P.R. agencies as night is from day. Other agencies consider us rebels or outsiders. This is why. We do not try to please our clients. Most of the time they hate our ads and campaigns. What we do is make money for them!

We also make money for ourselves. That is one of the reasons for this report. With a little luck we should make a sizable chunk of money from this campaign.

After all, why should you care if we make a profit if you can benefit even more?

In fact, if you don't agree that this report is worth at least one hundred times the ten bucks you invest in it, just send it back and we will immediately refund your entire purchase price with no questions asked!

How fast can you get the right job for you? Frankly, we don't know. The true answer is that it most likely will depend on how carefully and completely you follow the step-by-step instructions offered in this report. However, if you are a person of average intelligence, there is no reason why (even with our present double digit unemployment rate) you cannot have the job you really want in less than 30 days.

Of course, when you have the job you want, it is also quite natural that your self esteem and social position will change drastically for the better. You will also find that the strategies in this report are easily applied to all aspects of life.

Just as you will be more able to convince a prospective employer to hire you, you will also know How to get the banker to give you that loan How to get the car dealer to come down in his price How to get the landlord to fix the plumbing (or lower the rent) Or even how to score with the person who turns you on the most.

Now at last, you can do it. You really can. And best of thanks to this miraculous new report from Sandalwood, you can do it without pounding the pavement, suffering untold humiliation, begging for chances that you deserve, doing without or standing in endless lines. Success can now be yours. There is no longer any need for you to suffer or feel guilty.

Here is something else you should know about — Sandalwood, the firm that compiled this report, has recently used these incredible concepts to promote a stage play starring a world famous. Oscar winning actor. Sandalwood also took a small cosmetic corporation and catapulted it into a multinational, multi-million dollar industry generating up to $800,000.00 a month in sales. Sandalwood took a small health and diet product company and turned it into one of the major suppliers of certain products for the entire nation. The P.R. arm of Sandalwood (in collaboration with the famous Lee Saliers Agency of Beverly Hills) was responsible for one of the largest and most successful launchings of a major perfume in the history of cosmetics. Sandalwood has promoted and worked in close association with a major research organization which helps people start new businesses. Finally, Sandalwood is now in the process of launching a major computerized cosmetic company with a nationwide advertising campaign.

Anyway, the message is clear. Sandalwood has a way with people that can now be yours. It is positive and beneficial to all concerned when applied properly. And it is so effective, according to some people it is just plain magic!

As a matter of fact, if you are not serious about your life and career, don't mess around with this report. The reason is this. Quite frankly, this approach is so effective at getting you the jobs you go after that your biggest problem will be whether or not you can live up to the positions that you will be able to obtain.

But if you are serious about your life and career, remember this: You have nothing to lose by ordering this report but your place in the unemployment line.
