Student Grievances Aired

By DAVE BROWN

The topic of Thursday's Convocation was CSCSB problems and was moderated by Dr. Revu De Remer. The panelists included Ken Harper, Nick Penchoff, Tom Hayes, Bill Maddox and Jerry Rhode.

Ken Harper, Vice President of the CSCSB Student Body, started off the discussion by saying that the problem of this campus is communication between students who want things changed and faculty and Administration who don't know the problems or will not listen. Harper says there are two channels open for students to communicate, the faculty and A.S.B.

Nick Penchoff, a member of the Speech and Advocacy Committee, mentioned a statement made by President Pflau that our campus would not have problems like S.F. State. Penchoff then stated that our campus lost two professors last year and that we do have problems.

Bill Maddox, leader of the S.D.S., said that in order to understand what is really happening on our campus, we must understand what our campus is here for. Maddox says it does not serve the community as defined by the Board of Trustees, there are many problems we must try to change. Maddox stressed the way in which the college is implemented, the Trustees have taken upon their shoulders to define education and control it. E.A.P. has a limitation of no more than 4% of the student body, A.S.B. has little participation, and the system and students have little autonomy.

Tom Hayes, a student, says our problems are: Title V, A.S.B. representation, and Mexican American Students.

Jersey Rhode, A.S.B. President, said our campus is ineffective in making their opinions known so that they could be represented.

Ethnic Studies Ground Work Set in Senate Meeting

Last Tuesday's Faculty Senate meeting convened with an eight member quorum (Professors Cromer, Crum, Hayes, Maloney, Nelson, Van Petrucci, Marter, & Ed. Dept. Chairman West), chaired by Dr. Merton. A diverse and eagerly interested audience included over 25 students and several faculty members. Record high student attendance is attributed to the nature of the Senate agenda. The meeting was primarily concerned with the decision of the curriculum of this college. VP for Academic Affairs Gerald Scherba introduced a proposal to establish a committee on ethnic studies programs. This proposal stressed the urgent need to provide a coherent program of ethnic study on this campus. The original proposal read, "It is proposed that a committee of faculty and administrators, together with an advisory group of students, be formed to recommend a curricular program, open to all students interested in the areas of ethnic studies." The composition of this committee was to include six faculty members (two each from Humanities, Social Science, & Education), two Administrators and four student advisors (two black students and two Mexican-American students to be selected by the Financial Aid Officer and the college EAP Director). The proposal was adopted by a vote of 5 to 3, and it was passed by a vote without dissent.

Next, the composition of the committee itself was discussed. Black representation was strongly voiced by members of the audience. The necessity of having two administrators on the committee was strongly urged by Scherba and supported by Petrucci. It was then moved to have a five minute adjournment after an hour and four minutes of rapid and dynamic interchange among Senate members with numerous audience contributions.

Upon resumption, the Senate returned its focus to the voting rights of students on matters of curriculum. Dr. Fisk introduced a motion to amend the original proposal to include eight member-students on the ad hoc committee with full voting power. The motion was seconded and passed by a vote of 7 to 2. Senate members reached a 4-4 deadlock concerning the Fisk proposal on the ad hoc committee chairman Barnes refused to break the tie because of the importance of the problem and his reluctance in allowing his one vote to be the decisive vote. Senate members discussed the unwieldy nature of such a large committee and it was suggested that the Fisk proposal be rescinded because of its unworkability. Further discussion followed until a point of reconsideration was reached. Dr. Van Marter proposed a committee consisting of three faculty members, three voting students and two administrators. Senate members generally favored this proposal because of its workability and the need for expediency. McAffee questioned the experiential nature of students with voting privileges on such an ad hoc curriculum committee, yet, indicated a favorable attitude toward the implementation of the proposal. Scherba displayed a continued reluctance toward the implementation of the student vote on matters of curriculum. Further discussion followed about the need for three student members on the committee. (A.S.B Senate will have the responsibility of selecting the three student members.)

Selection of the committee's Faculty members will be the responsibility of respective divisions (i.e., Humanities, Social Science, & Education), and the two Administrators will be the college President's responsibility. The report of this ethnic studies meeting will be presented to the Faculty Senate by April 15.

Finally the Van Marter proposal was adopted by a vote of 5 to 3, and the Committee on the re-definition of the student's role in the college community was established at 5 o'clock on January 28, 1969.

Black Fashions Tonight

An African Fashion Show, sponsored by CARC (community assistance's Relations Committee) will be held in F. S. 10 starting at 8:00 p.m. until 10:00 p.m. The program "Art of the African" has been shown in the Fine Arts Gallery at the Orange Show for the past couple of weeks, and a two hour segment will be exhibited here. The young men & women in the program are professional models from the westside of San Bernardino. The woman were sent to Los Angeles for training in modeling by Operation Second Chance and the men were taught here in San Bernardino.

The first hour will be devoted to an explanation of Operation Second Chance and its goals. Following their presentation will be a show of "High Life" and other African dances accompanied by a drummer playing authentic African music. The program will be concluded with the models displaying modern interpretations of African fashions.

A Qualified Apology

Recently this paper has come under attack from various clubs and groups on campus for failing to print announcements of their meetings. Infact, our very cherished cry of "spatky" has been flung at us in all its fury. But then these are the facts: We have found this justified; but unfortunately, the accusations bear some validity. In this respect, the Pawprint apologizes to those students who feel that their time and energy in producing the Pawprint. There are no journalism courses here at SFSU. No one working for the paper receives any course credit. The only paid position is that of the editor-in-chief. Consequently, the results of this survey and a name in the staff box. All totals in the first week of San Fernando Valley Campus, readership, then we hope that this information can serve to smooth some of their ruffled feathers.

Interpretative. This is in no way meant to imply that publication of special student activities is not a direction. We have a serious handicap in appealing to various student functions go about getting the equality of publicity that they need? One way would be to make any claim to have a voice or the student body as a whole.

Burden of providing constant publicity for student activities. It applies to the student body as a whole. The lack of tangible rewards (unit credit, money) constitutes a serious handicap in appealing to the article concerning the history of the senior comprehensives, or cutting the announcement. Consistent manpower or efficiency of organization yet to produce an eight-page edition, we are physically limited to a, a total of 300 column-inches. Given these special limitations, we come to the meat of the editor's job — editing. With all the available copy at his fingertips Wednesday afternoon, the editor must select which article he will print, and which work he will cut. Naturally, intrinsic to the editor's role will be the editor's own value system. Editors are human (even without a haircut), and human editors are human (in an initial stage) is to decide what material represents the highest priority of value to the largest percentage of the readership. You can please some of the people all of the time, and all that rot, but alas and alack, it's true.

Getting down to specifics, in the January 24th issue, we had allotted four inches on page three for a club meeting announcement. But when nifty-gitty time rolled around in the past-up room at the printers Thursday, we lost several inches of space for page three. The choice boiled down to cutting four inches off the back, cutting the announcement of the senior comprehensives, or cutting the announcement of the student functions. In agreement with the goal of providing information for as large a readership as possible, the club announcement got the kick.

All right, now you know that we are limited for space and understaffed; so what next? How do all the various student groups function about getting the equality of publicity that they need? One way would be to start a bi-weekly or weekly campus bulletin or nap-sheets. Those of you who have attended other campuses may have some idea of what information sheets are, the format. At any rate, it is one possible way to carry the burden of providing constant publicity for student activities.

Main purpose of this; the Pawprint is our campus newspaper, both informative and interpretative. This is in no way meant to imply that publication of special student activities is not a necessary or worthwhile endeavor; only that it must bow to the selection of priority issues within our paper.

If there is any truth to the rumor that canaries and parakeets comprise a considerable portion of our readership, then we hope that this information can serve to smooth some of their ruffled feathers.

Forum: Implications of Convos.

By DAVE BROWN

The convocations last week were held on the campus of CSBSU. They served to enlighten those that attended and many not, about the "voice of the silent majority." No longer can this ethereal mob make itself heard or represented by any representation. Just the mere fact that this doubtfully existent group will be asked to listen and hear it gives it no voice in the activities of the student body as a whole.

Change does not apply merely to students, but to just a few of the other campuses. It applies to the CalState system and to the people of California in general. If the rights of freedom of speech and assembly can be violated on the CalState campus at San Fernando Valley Campus, then they can be violated on campuses all over the CalState system.

S.F. State Strike Effectiveness

Strike effectiveness of 80 to 85 percent is the result of the strike by the San Francisco State College students. The strike was today claimed by Gary Harris, S.F. State President of the campus local. Harris based this claim on three sources of information, two based on information that he had obtained from students who were providing the college administration.

AFT's survey teams also report that a maximum of 200 faculty members out of a total faculty of around 1,200 are on strike lines. According to Harris, 127 strikers have been identified by name. "Another 70 professors are known to have crossed the picket line, but we do not yet know their names. These figures support our claim of striking effectiveness," Harris said.

Students Speak Out:

What do you think about system-wide and S.F. State problems in relation to our own CSBSU campus problems after attending the convocation (s)?

PETER BRYK, Junior, English

"I thought the convocation was interesting. It was quite informative."

ANNE KATZ, Senior, Psychology & English

"I thought it was kind of a waste."

JANIS BUSH, Frosh, Humanities

"I think it's a good idea."

BEN RODRIGUEZ, Sophomore, Biology, Pre-Med.

"I think it was a good idea."

Opinion....What's Wrong?

Interviews by Harvey Friedman

PETER BRYK (Junior, English Major): "I don't think the system-wide problems are not necessary. I felt that we have our campus, however, we shouldn't ignore the problems that take place at other institutions. We should take a more active role in admitting more minority students here and to the problems of the system in general. Life sure would be dull without the revolution that's taking place."

JANIS BUSH (Freshman, Humanities): "We have a small seminar classes and a closer relationship with faculty on this campus. There is a noticeable lack of degree of apathetic students on this campus. More students should become involved because it is their education that is affected."

ANN KATZ (Senior, Philosophy & English): "We don't have the same minority problems, yet. We do have lines of communication between student and faculty and administration about last week's campus problems. Due to the fact that this is a commuter school and there is a large number of working students; there is no campus community at this college."

BEN RODRIGUEZ (Sophomore, Biology Pre-Med): "The problems are a little different here because we are in the infant stages of development. We are allowed a little more autonomy here than other state colleges. We don't have the overcrowding that exists at these other institutions. We are unique in this respect. The problems of other state colleges will be ours in the near future, however, I am greatly disappointed because of lack of minority students at this school. I think we have an activities program at the JCC in the area in an attempt to get more minority students interested in Cal-State San Bernardino."

Frosh Wins Contest

By JOHN STAMP

As you stroll around the campus this quarter you may have occasion to meet a fellow student who might be one of the 70% big designers. Her talent has already been rewarded with a total of $600 and an all expenses paid tour of New York City, New York. This was given as first prize in Seventeen and the American Printed Fabrics Council contest, "Design a Printed Fabric."

To ease your curiosity, her name is Kathie Dillon. Kathie is a 19 year old freshman at CSU. At the present she is an art major hoping to be a fashion designer. And on interview she related that some of the fabric companies told her to send in more of her patterns. Kathie entered the contest while still a senior at a San Diego High School. She entered three designs as a representative from the Walker Scott Co., San Diego. And she was selected for the top prize from 17 finalists and 600 contestants.

In New York Kathie was entertained both day and night by the "Seventeen" staff. The young designer visited many of the very plush spots around town, i.e. O’Henry's, Charlie O's, and even Upsam at the Downstairs, all of which are well known in New York.

Meeting this little bird is a real treat and so I'll describe her for you. She's brunette — wait a minute — take a glance at the March issue of Seventeen. Her picture and one of the patterns which they made into a short jump suit will be carried in the consultants' spread.

New Dept Studies

Students are becoming increasingly involved in shaping their own academic program. Most academic departments have set up machinery to listen and respond to student voices in planning courses. The Biology, Drama, English, Chemistry, and Fine Arts departments have reported some concrete results Planning proceeds in other departments. The nature of academic decision—making often precludes quick changes; however, at CSUSB, students participate in curriculum decision more actively than at most colleges and universities.

Some of the most recent developments include:

Bi ology — The Biology Club has told students the department would encourage any evaluation of instructors, or ideas about any courses the students would like to see added.

Chemistry — The Chemistry Department has initiated formation of a new Chemistry Club this year. Other than its purely technical functions, this club will allow members to express ideas and obtain student comments on certain academic decisions or problems. Members of the Chemistry Department may also be a member of the Chemistry faculty committee.

The financial campaign is expected to begin in early February until its conclusion in June.

Outdoors Club

The Outdoors Club "Anza Barrego" trip and camping together a Thanksgiving box complete with turkey and all the trimmings for a welfare family in San Bernardino.

The quarter was not without its social events for their was a tea given for new members two pot-luck dinners held in the homes of members and the quarter was topped off with a Christmas caroling party at one of the homes.

It was a busy quarter for all concerned and this quarter looks more even with the invite for service projects in store and the annual spring fashion show plan — So, all girls interested in joining a club with some action report to Room 202 in the P.S. building at 11:30 on Tues., and your community, the Walker Scott Co., San Diego.

THANK YOU . . .

To all the students who came forward in answer to our plea for help, I extend my sincere gratitude. Without your assistance, the Pawprint could not begin to fulfill its responsibilities to the student body. The quarter was not without its background and needs; however, they have been very active in shaping their own academic program. IBM invites you to join an infant industry.

Big as it is, the information processing industry is just beginning to grow. Recently, Fortune estimated that the value of general purpose computers installed in this country will more than double by 1972. Other publications have other predictions, and probably no source is totally precise. But most agree that information processing is one of America's fastest growing major industries.

Every day, it seems, computers go to work in new fields or new applications. IBM computers are working in such diverse fields as business, law, medicine, oceanography, traffic control, air pollution. Just about any area you can name.

To somebody just starting out, this growth means exceptionally good chances for advancement. Last year, for example, we appointed over 4,000 managers—on performance, not seniority. Here are three ways you could grow with IBM:

Finance

"You're in an ideal spot to move ahead fast."

"I've always figured my chances for advancement would be better in a growth industry. That's why I picked IBM," says Joe Takacs.

Joe's been working in general accounting since he got his B.B.A. in June, 1968. Growth wasn't the only reason he chose IBM. He says, "I learned that it's a general practice at IBM to promote from within and to promote on merit alone. I like that.

Programming

"It's a mixture of science and art."

"A computer is practically useless until somebody writes a program for it," says Earl Wilson.

Earl got a B.A. in Modern Languages in June, 1967. He's now an IBM programmer working on a teleprocessing system that will link the computerized information systems of several IBM divisions.

Earl defines a "program" as a set of instructions that enables a computer to do a specific job. "Programming involves science," says Earl, "because you have to analyze problems logically and objectively. But once you've made your analysis, you have an infinite variety of ways to use a computer's basic abilities. There's all the room in the world for individual expression."

Marketing

"There's just no quicker or better way to learn about business."

"I can't think of any other job where a guy my age could find himself working with the board of directors of a ten million dollar company," says Peter Anderson.

Peter joined IBM after earning his B.A. in Economics in 1964. As a Marketing Representative, he's involved in the planning, selling, and installation of IBM data processing systems.

The annual sales of Peter's customers range from one half million to 10 million dollars. "These men are looking for solutions to problems—not a sales pitch," says Peter. "And by helping to solve their problems, I learn a lot about modern business techniques."

Other reasons to consider IBM

1. Small Team Concept. No matter how large a project may be, we break it down into units small enough to be handled by one person or a few people. Result: quick recognition for achievement.

2. Educational Support. IBM employees spend over thirteen million hours a year in company-sponsored educational and training programs. And plans like our Tuition Refund Program could help you get your Master's or Ph.D.

3. 300 Locations. We have almost 50 plant, laboratory, or headquarters locations and over 250 branch offices in key cities throughout the United States.

4. Openings at All Degree Levels. We have many appropriate starting jobs for people at any degree level: Bachelor's, Master's or Ph.D.
