What is a community university?

"We were trying to learn, not for grades or exams, but just because you want to learn," said Tom McDride, co-ordinator of the experimental — college courses which will begin April 21.

About six classes, ranging from folk guitar to the poetry of French Poet Max Jacob, will meet one to two hours a week. They will Terminate the last week of May, so not in conflicts with the pre-examination study rush, noted McDride.

The classes are open to anyone in the community and will meet at the time and place most convenient to those who join them.

Other areas of study to be offered are: Eastern philosophy, economics, Draft studies. One class will be on puppet production and dramatic performance.

The Draft Information Service is a specific course a community or College member wishes to teach, it can be full-time or part-time.

Draft Information Service To Begin

The Draft Information Service is one of the new student-initiated programs to go into effect this month on campus. The service will function as one of the ABS student services, according to Cy Smith, chairman of the recently-formed Student Services Committee.

"There has long been the need for this type of service," said Cy Smith. "Few people really understand the structure of the Draft and the legal alternatives to induction, so that's why we're suddenly faced with induction, they have no choice but to go," he continued.

A sub-committee of about ten members is co-ordinating the planned service. According to Father Leo Petit, one of the co-ordinators, the service's primary purposes are: to make information about the Draft available to students; to give more in-depth information to persons planning to go into the Draft Information Service;

Ross Drago

To Speak on Art Technology

Sculptor Ross Drago, who brought the Experiments in Art Technology project to the San Bernardino area, will speak at California State College, San Bernardino at 11:30 a.m., Thursday, April 15.

The public is invited to the presentation which will be held in the Lecture Hall of the Physical Sciences Building under the sponsorship of the Lectures and Publications Services Committee. There is no admission charge.

Drago is expected to explain the use of technology in the development of imagery and art, said William Haney, associate professor of art and chairman of the LPA committee. The speaker's EAT program has been directed toward creating new cooperation between the scientific and the artistic communities.

Drago's work is in collections of IBM Corp., Bell Aerasystems Corp., Bethlehem Steel, Union Carbide and Marine Midland banks and has been exhibited in galleries in New York and California.

Dos Angeles — In noting President Nixon's announcement that HEW Secretary Robert Finch soon will make a statement on the withholding of federal assistance to students involved in disrupting activity, Chancellor Glenn S. Dumke today expressed his pleasure that Finch would be taking a personal role in this matter.

Chancellor Dumke released portions of the message he had sent to both Finch and Attorney General John Mitchell.

He noted that the President last week had mentioned that "... 122 of the 540 students arrested at San Francisco State were direct recipients of federal funds."

"This is a fact," the chancellor said, "but I am afraid that the public might draw the erroneous conclusion that campus officials did not act to withdraw federal support without substantial reason. Section 411, Public Law 90-575, Sections 504 and 504B — withholding of federal assistance — would "... go far to put the whole problem in perspective."

In concluding his wire, Chancellor Dumke stressed, "... the California State Colleges welcome the personal attention of the President to this matter, and are sure that you will maintain firmly that which is a personal role in this matter."

In making public the essence of his wire to Finch and Mitchell, Chancellor Dumke stressed, "... it is important that the public understand why we have not been able to take the action to suspend students under these federal statutes, as so many of the people who write to me feel we should have done. My wire to the Washington officials conveys, primarily, my deep concern for the matter of unrest on our campuses, and my pleasure that the Secretary of HEW will, on behalf of the President, speak to the public on this subject."

In the field of education, the offerings will range from basic courses in curriculum and methods to advanced seminars in teaching the educationally disadvantaged, reading and elementary and secondary curriculum.

Of interest to persons in elementary education, reports Dr. West, May be the new workshop in means and media offered by the art faculty. The course will explore appropriate media, art education philosophy and art in the classroom organization.

A special program on the Bill of Rights, offered jointly by the departments of political science and education, is planned to assist teachers in acquiring basic knowledge of constitutional principles and procedures for teaching about them.

Students seeking to meet a science requirement will have to take a full year's work in chemistry during a 10-week period. The organic chemistry course, especially appropriate for biology and pre-medical majors, will extend until Aug. 15, two weeks beyond the end of the regular session.

Accredited courses in French, German and Spanish will be provided this summer. By meeting three hours a day for the six weeks, students will complete the equivalent of two full-term courses.

Seventh courses plus applied music are listed in the catalog which is available without charge, noted Dr. West.

Summer session tuition at Cal State is $15 per unit. Special fees are charged for applied music courses.

Courses are held in air-conditioned buildings and summer sessions are entitled to full use of the physical education facilities including the swimming pool, said Dr. West.

Chancellor Dumke today expressed his confidence that the community university's development next year will depend on how well it works this quarter, said McDride. If it works well, planners will work to obtain College credit for the courses.

Dear Mom and Dad:

I think that one of the reasons is that there has never been any serious attempt at meaningful communication or understanding in our family. We are all playing our games, and I am sure that you realize this. I play my games too, but I am trying to find out just what they are and why I play them.

I have found something in my life that is both very worthwhile and something that I believe in and something that I intend to stick to. That something is freedom.

Freedom for all people to book-to-death with your brothers, freedom from the established way of doing things and all these enemies that I don't have. Freedom to look around me and realize what it is and what it means to me as an individual.

I don't need grades to do this.

Computer Course Offered

A new course this summer at California State College, San Bernardino will employ a 365-50 IBM computer.

The computer belongs to the University of California, Riverside, which is supplying the shared time to Cal State at a low rental cost.

"UCR and our college are interested in building a group of students who are trained in computer programming," commented Mike Khokhlov, assistant professor of psychology, who will teach the course.

"Our students will have regular, daily use of the computer via a messenger service. We also will have 'de-bugged' the programs involved with a pilot series this winter," Khokhlov said.

The first course in computer programming offered at Cal State is designed as a general introduction to automatic data processing. The class will survey the contemporary programming languages and will review applications in behavioral research. The course carries five quarter units of undergraduate credit.

Key punch, sorting and collating machines already in use at Cal State will be employed in the course, as well as the UCR computer.

There are no prerequisites or special requirements for the course, which will be offered from 9:30 to 10:45 a.m. daily, Monday through Friday, June 24 to Aug. 1. Pre-enrollment is urged by Dr. Khokhlov in order to facilitate planning for the physical facilities because of an anticipated large enrollment. Forms for registering are available in the summer session office, which can be secured by writing Cal State, San Bernardino, 92407.

The usual limit of 20 persons per class at Cal State has been waived for computer course, Dr. Khokhlov said, because great interest is expected.

"This summer course represents a breakthrough for Cal State, because behind it lies an elaborate plan for a wide range of computerized courses in the Social Sciences," Khokhlov said. "Computers have a large role in the academic master plan at Cal State, where a Department of Computer Science is being projected eventually. Professors in business administration, sociology, psychology and political science are currently programming 19 courses for the use of computer in the Social Sciences, and Cal State expects to receive its first on-compuputer.

The college's new six-floor library, now under construction, will house the computer center, which might be recommended by the faculty for consideration for these awards.

The prestigious Woodrow Wilson Fellowships are awarded to outstanding students planning to enter college teaching. Since the program began in 1945, more than 10,000 Fellows have been supported in their first year of graduate study by the Foundation's grants.

WHAT WAS THE "VANITY FAIR" fashion show doing with a lame duck? Perhaps by inclusion of one such animal, the already obvious beauty of the models is doubly enhanced. The label on his shoe reportedly read "U.S.D.A. Choice — Grade 1-A!"

Ethnic Studies Controversy

By DAVE BROWN

The proposed student names for the Ethnic Studies Committee were brought up at the Executive Cabinet meeting on Wednesday, April 2.

Two of the members voting on the proposed students were Barry Thompson, A.S.B. vice president next year, and Jim Hamilton, manager (714) 635-8391, Mon. thru, after 2 P.M.

"As I see it," said Harper, "it is the job of the Executive Cabinet to do a job like this and it is the best group to do it. Thompson said, "The way in which the members were selected may have excluded some members of the student body who identify with the two Ethnic groups and thereby contribute some insight into the matter."

Smith, Ralph B. ("Sandy") Wilks: treasurer: Paul M. Bryant, Alan Coffman, sophomore; and Alan Agar.

Elections Committee will meet Friday, April 11, at 11:30 a.m. in the Administration Building to decide on the eligibility of the candidates. The ballot will be announced Monday, April 14.

The $2400 b from a trust fund received by the Riverside Foundation from the estate of the late Leon S. Hexman.

Availability of Scholarship

FOUR 5000 SCHOLARSHIP grants nearly four years ago by the Riverside Foundation have been renewed this year to four undergraduates who have demonstrated ability, financial need and good citizenship.

Protest will be held at a student union meeting, noting that a student fee assessment is the only real source for financing such a building.
