Gym, pool benefits expanded

Here's good news for alumni: you don't have to play one-handed tennis anymore!

At the request of the Alumni Board of Directors, the college has approved the expansion of pool and gymnasium privileges for paid, card-carrying members.

This now means that alumni can bring their families or two guests when they use the facilities. Previously, use of the gym and pool was restricted only to the individual member, which proved inconvenient for those wishing to participate in couples or group activities.

The Association Board, which has been negotiating expanded sports privileges, reached suitable terms with College President John M. Pfau and Athletic Director Mike O'Gara.

The college generously offered alumni use of the facilities at any time as long as their activities do not conflict with regularly scheduled events such as P.E. classes and intramural games. Some colleges normally establish certain days and times for alumni use of pool and gym, but Coach O'Gara supported a less restrictive policy for the convenience of alumni.

However, certain ground rules -- relating directly to college liability in use of the facilities -- have been established. These include:

The college cannot be responsible for any mishap while alumni and guests are using the facilities nor can it be responsible for stolen articles.

All children must be accompanied and supervised by one or both parents while using the facilities.

Dressing rooms and showers are available adjacent to the pool. Other facilities include the gymnasium itself, tennis and squash courts. The pool is currently undergoing maintenance and will be reopened after April 1.

The plan for alumni-guest use of the facilities will be reevaluated at the end of the summer, college officials said.

To be admitted, alumni must present a current membership card.

In addition to gym and pool privileges, Alumni Association members are entitled to use of the College Library, including checking out books, discount tickets at Players of the Pear Garden drama productions, the quarterly receipt of the Panorama and the additional new service of the college calendar.

Elections set, candidates sought

A tentative schedule has been set for nominations and elections to the Alumni Association Board of Directors.

Board members are elected for a two-year term and the current board will leave office on June 30, 1974.

Two members of the present board, Konnie Sheeran (vice-president) and Nick Pencoff (representative at large) have been selected as a Nominating Committee. They plan to select a third member from the general membership.

This committee is charged with selecting/publishing a list of candidates for the seven offices. The nominating committee has asked all persons who wish to run for office to contact the Alumni Office at the college as soon as possible.

Renaissance show

Alumni Vice President Konnie Zaharopoulos Sheeran examines 17th Century Flemish drawing, part of a collection of Renaissance drawings displayed at the college in February. The Alumni Association assisted in sponsoring the show, which was loaned from Cornell College in Iowa. The exhibit was only part of many events during Renaissance Month at the college. The Association contributed $150 toward transportation and packaging of the exhibit.

New courses are popular

The traditional liberal arts base of instruction at Cal-State, San Bernardino has undergone some revision. In response to community needs and a searching reappraisal of curriculum, the college has branched out into a number of career-oriented fields.

This new direction has obviously paid off in terms of enrollment, up 13 per cent over last year for a grand total of 3,080 students.

Two new graduate programs are partly responsible for the increase. Administration, an area that is rapidly becoming one of the largest undergraduate programs, is offering courses toward the M.A. degree. Also new this year is the M.A. program offered in Psychology.

New graduate programs do not account for the total enrollment increase. Undergraduate majors, with a vocational slant, are becoming a growing and viable force on the CSCSB campus.

Criminal justice has made the most emphatic impact on campus, with an estimated 150 students in its first year of operation.

Other subject areas are Environmental Studies, Health Sciences and Child Development

Approval is being sought from the Chancellor of the CSUC system to offer a B.S. degree in Nursing.

committee to run for office. Any member who files a petition signed by no fewer than five members of the Association will be listed on the ballot. These petitions must be submitted to the President of the Association no later than seven days following the publication of the nomination list. The committee plans to mail the ballot and a brief biographical description of the candidates to all paid members in the early part of May. All ballots must be submitted by June 1, since the Alumni Association Constitution specifies that the election process must be completed by that date.

The Constitution also states that only dues-paying members may hold office. Amendments reported in the March 1973 issue of the Panorama have been passed by the Board and the changes also mean that only dues-paying members are eligible to vote. Only those members will receive ballots.

Prospective office-holders who want to be listed by the Nominations Committee are invited to contact Nick Pencooff at the college Financial Aids Office or Konnie Sheeran at 886-1752.
Cal-State, San Bernardino alumni have made a dent on the legal community. Currently working in the San Bernardino County District Attorney's Office are Stan Hodge and Michael Abernathey. Joseph Arias and Rene Jacob are both practicing in San Bernardino, while Scott Showier is a Redlands attorney. Ralph Lightstone also is an attorney, having passed the state bar exam last year. Although this is by no means a comprehensive list, it does reflect the number of alumni who have become attorneys after graduating from the college. Have we missed you?

Graduate Census conducted

The college will soon mail to all CSCSB alumni a special graduate Census, according to President John M. Pfau. The purpose of the census will be to learn from former students their views of the school, occupational trends and other information which will help the faculty in its future planning efforts.
