Enrollment Sets Record, Tops 5000

For the first time in the 16-year history of Cal State, San Bernardino, enrollment topped 5000 students.

At the end of late registration for the fall quarter, earlier this month, 5131 students had enrolled, compared to 4,827 at the same time last year, for an increase of slightly more than 6 percent. The FTE count, important for budget considerations, was 3839, up 299 from last fall.

The college began its 17th year with 39 new faculty members and two new librarians. Some of the new personnel represent an increase in staffing; others replaced colleagues who have left the college.

Several new academic offerings have been added, primarily in the line of credentials or options for teachers. Work will continue throughout this year to develop additional B.A. and M.A. programs.

Alumni returning to campus this fall may detect physical changes completed during the past few months. Some reconstruction was caused by last November's Panorama fire; other works represent improvements in facilities.

The greatest impact on the academic program will come from the major modernization in the computer center. A new $1.2 million CDC CYBER 170 Series 700 computer was installed along with a microcomputer lab and other equipment. Total cost for the equipment, special air conditioning and construction was about $1.5 million. The end result is an increase of 108 times in the campus' computing capability.

Another area which experienced considerable construction was Serrano Village. A new housing office is being built at the end of the swimming pool complex. Costing approximately

John Houseman
To Talk Oct. 25

John Houseman, who won an Academy Award for his portrayal of the stern, uncompromising Prof. Kingsfield in "The Paper Chase," will give a free lecture at 2:30 p.m., Sunday, Oct. 25, on the Commons patio at Cal State, San Bernardino.

The audience is invited to bring blankets and lawn chairs for the outdoor event, although some chairs will be available on a first-come basis.

Houseman's speech is titled "From The Mercury Theatre to The Paper Chase." After his talk, the public is invited to stay for a reception for Houseman from 4-5 p.m. on the patio.

Houseman, who founded The Mercury Theatre in the 1930s with Orson Welles, is a director, producer and writer who recently added acting to his careers with his role in "The Paper Chase"—at the age of 70. Since that performance, he has appeared in numerous motion pictures, television programs and commercials.

He has participated in and observed American life and its theatre and movie industry from the 1920s through the McCarthy era to present.

Through the years, Houseman founded seven theatre companies and headed the Julliard School of Drama for more than ten years. He is currently scholar-in-residence at USC's Annenberg School of Communications and Director of the Acting Company.

Enrollment Sets Record as College Begins 17th Year

$30,000, it will free several rooms in Mojave House for occupancy by students. Completion is expected in November.

Waterman Hall, extensively damaged in an arson fire last April, was restored at a cost of about $71,000 for repairs, plus about $10,000 for furniture.

The Village's pool has a solar water-heating system. The solar system, which cost $4,983, is expected to increase the swimming season, plus pay for itself in gas savings in about seven years.

The Administration Building has a new roof, along with new heating and cooling units, at a cost of about $325,051.

A microprocessor has been installed at the Heating and Air-Conditioning Plant. The computer will help conserve energy, save manhours and increase comfort control. The cost is about $74,000.

Another project, at a cost of about $120,000, was the replacement of the 1,000-ton cooling tower and repair of the 600-ton tower, which provide cool water for the air-conditioning chillers. The towers were damaged during the Panorama Point fire last year.

Reconstruction is underway on the Shipping and Receiving Building, also destroyed in the Panorama fire. The estimated cost is $92,146.

To meet health and safety regulations, fume hood modifications providing better air draw in the two science buildings have been completed at about $60,000.

All outside lights except those located by the residence halls and in parking lots were changed from mercury vapor to high pressure sodium. Due to the high cost of energy in this area, the state has mandated that future lights be high pressure sodium. Under an energy conservation incentive program, the Chancellor's Office provided funds of about $23,000 to convert the lights on this campus. Along with achieving tremendous energy saving, the new lights provide greater output and have a longer life.

Crisis Counseling
Free at Cal State

Alumni are encouraged to use the free services available through the Community Counseling Center if they are seeking new directions for their lives or are experiencing loneliness, depression or other crises and would like counseling.

The counselors are graduate students in the masters degree program in counseling psychology. They are supervised by one of six Ph.D. clinical psychologists on the college's faculty.

To obtain more information or schedule an initial intake meeting with Dr. Edward Teyber, director of the center, prospective clients may call his message phone number, 887-7272, and request a call back. Dr. Teyber will return the call by the following day.

3 Women Receive Alumni Scholarships

Three women students, two of them mothers with young children and the third a grandmother, are the recipients of the 1981-82 Alumni Association scholarships.

Linda Davis, a mother who has earned a 4.0 GPA at Cal State, has expressed interest in a psychology major. She is a sophomore this year.

Joyce Leon, who has two daughters, plans to graduate next June with a B.S. in accounting. She had earned her A.A. from Riverside City School and attended Cal Poly, Pomona, with a goal of teaching math. When that goal no longer seemed right for her, she dropped out of college and worked for several years while helping her husband earn his degree. Two years ago she decided it was time to finish her degree and enrolled at Cal State.

Mary Ann Millard is a mother, grandmother of five and a full-time student who began her college career after an 18-year marriage ended. She completed her A.A. from Chaffey College with a dual major in sociology and social sciences and is now working on a same major at Cal State. After that goal is reached, she plans to pursue a master's degree and her long-term goal of being a marriage and family counselor.
Elizabethan Burlesque Opens Drama Season

This year's drama season offers farce, tragedy and musical comedy beginning with "The Knight of the Burning Pestle" Nov. 12-14 and 17-21.

Written in the early 1600s, the first production is a burlesque of romances popular on the Elizabethan stage. The authors, Francis Beaumont and John Fletcher, used a play-within-a-play format for this farce, with an "audience member" joining the cast. The director will be Dr. Ronald Barnes, chair of the Theatre Arts Department.

Arthur Miller's first Broadway success, the tragedy "All My Sons," will be presented Feb. 25-27 and March 2-6. Dr. Amanda Sue Rudisill will direct.

Dr. William Slout will direct Sandy Wilson's popular "The Boy Friend," a spoof of the 1920 romantic musical, May 20-22 and 25-29. This performance will be a joint production by the Theatre Arts and Music departments.

Members of the Alumni Association still may enjoy special rates for the Players of the Pear Garden productions. They are $4 for season tickets and $1.75 for an individual performance. However, alumni wishing to support the Theatre Arts Department's scholarship fund may do so with a donation of $30, or more, which also entitles them to two season tickets.

Season and patron tickets are available by calling the Theatre Arts Department, 887-7452.

Art Gallery Exhibits

Feature Variety of Media

An exhibit with city environments as its theme and another featuring the works of community college faculty artists are the major shows in the Art Gallery this quarter.

"Locations," on display until Nov. 4, is a collection of paintings, photographs and sculptures by 20 Southern California artists. The billboards of Sunset Strip and life in Beverly Hills are among the subjects of this show on urban landscapes.

The works of 60 to 70 faculty artists from area community colleges will be on display Nov. 7-28. The public is invited to a reception opening this Community College Faculty Invitational Art Exhibit from 7-10 p.m., Saturday, Nov. 7, in the Gallery. A broad variety of media will be represented, including paintings, sculptures, ceramics, prints, weavings and photographs.

The exhibits are free. Gallery hours for the shows are 9 a.m.-4 p.m., Monday-Friday; 7-9 p.m., Monday-Thursday; and 1-4 p.m., Saturday and Sunday.

Student Groups, Professionals on Music Calendar

Throughout the years, Cal State, San Bernardino has developed a reputation for offering excellent music programs to the public. This year is no exception.

In addition to the Music at Cal State Series, featuring performances by distinguished guest musicians plus members of the Music Department faculty, the college has scheduled a recital by an accomplished blind pianist, Dr. Janne Irvine Newman, and concerts with the school's instrumental and vocal groups. All performances begin at 8:15 p.m. in the Recital Hall.

Dr. Newman, blind since birth, will perform compositions by 18th century composers during a free concert at 8:15 p.m., Monday, Nov. 2, in the Recital Hall. Dr. Newman will play a replica of a 1784 Stein fortepiano, among the best known of their time and favored by Mozart and Beethoven.

Few replicas exist of this unusual instrument, which bridged the gap between harpsichord and piano.

Dr. Newman, who is from the University of Arizona, also will meet with students with disabilities at 8 a.m. and conduct a master class from 2-4 p.m., in the Recital Hall.

The spotlight will be on all the campus' musical groups during the prism concert Sunday, Oct. 26. A variety of music—classical, modern and jazz—will be performed by the jazz ensemble, woodwind quintet, chamber orchestra, brass quintet, chamber singers and concert choir.

Also slated this quarter in the Music at Cal State Series are soprano Maurita Phillips-Thornburgh, Wednesday, Oct. 28, and classical guitarist William Stanford, Wednesday, Nov. 11.

Other concerts will be: Riverside Concert Band, Thursday, Nov. 5; pianist Rena Zagha, San Bernardino Music Teachers Association young artist, Saturday, Nov. 14; Concert Choir and Chamber Singers, Sunday, Nov. 22; Wind Ensemble and Collegiate Chorus, Wednesday, Dec. 2; and Chamber Orchestra, Sunday, Dec. 6.

Friend of College Dies

William H. Wilson, a long-time friend of Cal State, San Bernardino, died Oct. 4. A member of the Foundation Board for 11 years, he was instrumental in securing for the campus in 1971 a bequest from Alfred F. Moore and Chella D. Moore, the largest received by this college. The bequest of $185,415 created the Moore scholarship fund, which has assisted 93 students to date.

Wilson, a life-time resident of San Bernardino, was very active in community organizations. He was also a member of the President's Club. A lawyer, he and his father, Frederick A. Wilson, founded the San Bernardino law firm of Wilson & Wilson, now known as Wilson, Borror & Dunn.
ON THE PROFESSIONAL STAGE—Corrine Schnur, front and center, is using the experience gained in numerous Players of the Pear Garden productions to break into the professional world in Hollywood. Seen here in a Cal State production of "Antigone," Schnur worked as a secretary in Chemistry, Public Affairs, Faculty Senate and Academic Planning while completing her degree.

Cal State Theatre Graduate Takes Her Act to Hollywood

By Ray Cooklis
(Reprinted from San Bernardino Sun)

While a theatre arts student at Cal State, San Bernardino, actress Corrine Schnur graced many a stage production at the local college with her memorable portrayals—Catherine Reardon in "And Miss Reardon Drinks a Little" and Ruth in "The Homecoming," to name two.

Schnur, who graduated from Cal State in 1980 with a bachelor's degree in theater arts, was encouraged by friends, professors and audience members who recognized her talent to try for a professional stage career.

That's just what she's doing now: Schnur is on her own in Hollywood these days, taking a shot at the "big time."

She has just finished doing a major role in a show at one of Hollywood's little repertory theaters, and is, she says, "wearing out my shoes and the telephone" looking for more performing opportunities.

Meanwhile, Schnur holds a full-time secretarial job and takes theater courses.

The former area resident, who graduated from Riverside's Ramona High School in 1982, is used to such a full schedule. For nearly 10 years, she says, she worked as a secretary at Cal State while taking courses and working on her degree.

She was a mainstay of Cal State's student theatre troupe in recent seasons, bringing to her performances an uncommon intensity and a knack for vivid characterization.

Schnur received a lot of encouragement, she says, from a "support system" of friends at Cal State, both in and out of the theater department.

"But probably the person who gave me the most opportunity and encouragement is (Cal State theater faculty member) Bill Slout."

It's encouragement she needed to help her take the big step to "struggling actress" status after graduation.

"I feel so new to all this, and I tend to be rather—well, I put myself down a lot. It's a constant struggle for me to say to myself, 'Hey, you can do anything you want.' "

Schnur's first big break came in a recent production of "Cat's Play" at American Theater Arts, the Hollywood repertory theater-conservatory at which she is also studying theater.

"My character was a language interpreter for the government, a very rigid Communist, totally at odds with her mother."

The production, Schnur says, was "very well received," and she herself "got several good mentions in the reviews."

All of which has been a big confidence-builder for Schnur.

"I think doing this role was really good for me. Before, I was a little fish in a big ocean. It's not that I'm a big fish now, but I'm pretty sure I can compete, at least talent-wise."
