Spaceship Earth Lecture Scheduled For Tuesday

An award-winning science writer, Irving S. Bengelsdorf of Los Angeles, will deliver a public lecture at 11 a.m., Tuesday, Feb. 17 at California State College, San Bernardino.

“Spaceship Earth: Population, Poverty and Pollution” is the theme given by Dr. Bengelsdorf for his lecture, which is part of the winter quarter emphasis on ecology at CScSB.

For the past seven years science editor of the Los Angeles Times, Dr. Bengelsdorf has served both as a research chemist and as a university instructor in his field. In the past few years he has won nine awards for his science writing, given by medical, scientific and journalistic organizations.

In addition to writing the current science columns, “Of Atoms and Men,” he also has authored scientific articles, patents, pamphlets and book reviews. He taught the first course in the Russian language for science reading on television, over WRGB-TV in New York in 1948.

The public is invited to the lecture, to be held in the Lecture Hall, and is reminded to bring your own note pads and pens.

Will Man Escape The Cube?

Tonight at 8 p.m. in the PS lecture hall, CScSB will present “The Cube.”

“The Cube” is a film that was originally presented on February 6, 1969 on the National Broadcasting Company’s “Experiments in Television” series.

The film is about a man who is put into a plastic cube; he must find his way out — mentally and physically. It is a behavioral study of human ecology and is surrealistic in the sense that some of the events occur in the man’s mind and others actually occur physically. It is left up to the audience to decide which events are real or imaginary.

The presentation of the film is free and all are invited to attend.

Operating and Budget (first year) $45,000

The cost of construction and operation of the facility would be paid from the union fee and from donated funds.

There has not been, as yet, any determination as to how the space in the building would be divided.

Surveys of student opinion.

Students Speak Out

Is Free Speech in Danger?

By NANCY SAUNDERS

A CSCSB student, Thomas Lynch, made this the following essay, which I feel is more than a worth while of publication here. Its content, and the feedbacks of both my opinion and Mr. Lynch's, and probably a lot of other students who are equally afraid to speak up, is that this country is becoming (or has already become). "It can't happen here. It can't happen and is happening all the time. I would love to be free, but how will it ever cost?"

Little more than two months ago, vice-president Agnew made a speech in which he strongly criticized, some say attacked, the news media of this country. At the time it was difficult to interpret the outburst; was the administration, speaking through Agnew, merely expressing some of the resentment the president and his administration harbors or was this the beginning of something far more menacing? Was it part of the fulfillment of an old and very personal presidential vendetta? If this were the case, testing the reactions of the "silent majority" to an administrative attack on the most important amendment to the Bill of Rights? Was his speech a prologue to what is to come? Perhaps the American conscience, and did he obtain the reaction he sought? Apparently, judging from the recent polls is to be believed. Why else that Agnew is happening to our country under the Nixon administration. Since his inauguration, a strong foreboding has been felt by many, and it has not diminished with time. Will the American people ever imagine. In the shelter of our own over-abundance and under the aegis of the Nixon administration and the Superbowl, we have sat by and watched what was once a dream turned into a nightmare. Is there a letter in an attempt to make some of you aware that all is not well. I, for one, am afraid.

Pollution Conference To Be Held March 6, 8

One hundred students concerned with the problem of air pollution will have the opportunity to closely examine possibilities for their personal involvement in this conference held at Idyllwild, March 6-8, 1970. Sponsered by the Southern California Environmental Coalition, students will consider careers, education offerings, and opportunities for personal involvement in air pollution control.

The conference will be held on the Idyllwild Campus of the University of Southern California, and will bring selected students in direct contact with leading authorities on air pollution problems. Participants will be chosen on the basis of their interest in the air pollution control and their interest in air pollution control work as student, citizen, or professional.

The Southern California Environmental Coalition will sponsor this conference in cooperation with the National Air Pollution Control Administration, S.C.E.C, the California Environmental Protection Agency, and the state wide Student Environmental Confederation which is composed of O.S.C.E.C., the California Environmental Coalition, and the California Environmental Protection Agency. Delegates will be chosen from all interested students interested in order to achieve a broad perspective on the problem, and will be drawn while the upper division and graduate levels. Applications are available on most Southern California campuses by calling the USC Air Pollution Control Institute at 626-4683, or by writing to the Southern California Environmental Coalition, 6120 West Sixtieth Street, Los Angeles, 90018. Deadline for application is February 16.
Can the College Be Governed At All?

Next Tuesday the Faculty Senate will consider the report of their Ad Hoc Committee on student-faculty policy-making relationships. The committee was to study the nature of student-faculty interaction, consider its problems, and make appropriate recommendations. The result was a massive 27-page compendium of statistics, proposals, and accusations.

In view of the controversy the report has created, the Faculty Senate is faced with one of the biggest tasks in its history as it attempts to respond to the report. In so doing, perhaps the crucial question the Senate should now ask is not "how should the college be governed?" but "can the college be governed at all?"

The college reflects our larger society in microcosm. There is a deep and widening gulf between those who assert traditional values and procedures and those who argue for rapid and far-reaching change.

Campus activism reached its greatest intensity during the middle of last year. This year, despite the presence of worthy issues, there have been no sizable campaigns. One reason for this drop in activity seems to stand out: while significant changes may be achieved on the national political level through power coercion, it is both anaesthetic in principle and unsuccessful in point of fact when tried within education.

"Education," when conducted between factions vying for power, is a misnomer. Yet (as the report attests) this is all the future here seems to offer. To do justice to the committee report, it must be identified for what it is: the symptom of the disease which pervades the entire campus and not, as some argue, its cure.

The Senate must face the problem in its full enormity if this college is to avoid the fate that has come to so many others: becoming a refuge for those who have stopped asking questions. (Above article edited for space by the Pawprint.)

Student Union Proposal Put Before Students

CSUSS student body could have the honor of being the igniting force for a Student Union, proposed to open for 1972.

Sponsors point out future student body members would always remember those who were the originators of the action.

Sponsors have encouraged suggestions for the proposed building. Some suggestions heard thus far range from having a central meeting place, activities, exhibits, lectures, club meetings could be held to care facilities. The children could be left while parents attend classes.

In future editions Pawprint will focus on Student Unions at other surrounding campuses, an opinion poll from CSCSS student body members would, in the estimation of the Student Union Committee, accommodate the needs of the library, and will be readily accessible to the college parking facilities. The union would be designed to blend with the architecture of the other campus facilities.

The 16,000 square foot building would be the first phase of a permanent facility. This building, would, in the estimation of the Student Union Committee, accommodate the needs of the students beyond 1980. It is also estimated that the union would be completely paid for prior to 1985.

In the early part of the next decade, a future campus generation may find it necessary to consider a second phase of union construction. It is anticipated that such a future project would be an addition to the initial union facility.

The first step required to start such a project is a union election. The election has been scheduled for March 4-5. Only if the election is successful could this college start the project and have it completed in 1972. If the election passes, there will be a student opinion poll about whether the students want most to have included in the union. Everyone will have an opportunity to influence what will be included in the union and how the space will be assigned.

Dr. John E. Hafstrom

Dr. John E. Hafstrom is the coordinator of CEGBS's Mathematics Department. He holds that position since he came to CSUSS in 1966.

After Dr. Hafstrom received his B.S. degree from the North Dakota State University in 1936, he taught in high school for seven years.

Dr. Hafstrom served in the Navy for two years; when he was discharged in 1945, he taught in high school for another three years.

In 1949, Dr. Hafstrom received his M.A. degree from the University of Minnesota. He taught there for sixteen years. He received his Ph.D. from the University of Minnesota in 1954.

Dr. Hafstrom's special interest in mathematics is analysis. He has written two books, one of which he completed after he came to CSUSS. That book, "Introduction to Analysis and Abstract Algebra," written in 1967, is the standard textbook for one of his courses.

Dr. Hafstrom's personal interests are railroads and music. He prefers two kinds of music: classical and Dixieland jazz.

Like it or not, money is what makes things happen in this world. It is in government. In all the worldly affairs of man.

It takes money to discover medicines, to rebuild ghettos, to educate children, to feed, clothe, and house humanity. Money is an essential ingredient in solving man's day to day problems — and in promoting his century to come.

In short, money makes the world turn. We're the world's largest bank and putting money to work is our business. We think it's an important enough business to hire the best people we can find to run it.

A Bank of America personnel representative will be interviewing on your campus soon. If you want to make a career of making the world turn, make an appointment.
