Judicial Board Charges

The CSCSB Judicial Board convened in L-114 on Tuesday, February 24, at 3:40 p.m. The Board met to consider charges against Mike Ross. The charges asserted conflict of interest and illegally holding two positions in student government. Mike Ross was present to answer the charges, however the plaintiffs, Harper and Clark, did not appear for the hearing. The Judicial Board closed the hearing to decide the matter and 30s who are selected competitively on the basis of their leadership potential, the fellows will start in July.

The program combines a six week seminar in urban studies at Yale University and on-the-job assignments.

The program is designed to afford professional and technical training and experiences in urban areas for their urban area. The charge is designed to afford opportunities especially for minority group members. The year long fellowships will go to 30s and 30s who are selected competitively on the basis of their leadership potential. The fellows will start in July.

Applications now open for urban fellowship

The National Urban Fellows are seeking applications in the San Bernardino area for their urban leadership-development program. The program is designed to afford opportunities to people interested in urban affairs. The program is designed to afford opportunities especially for minority group members.

"On the Beach" and "The Cube" are the two films to be shown. The show is free and open to everyone.

"On the Beach," the first feature, is based on a novel by Nevil Shute. It is concerned with the imminent danger of nuclear warfare. The scene is Australia, and everyone is preparing, in his own way, for the inevitable end that already has consumed the rest of the world.

"The Cube," the second film, is about a man who is put into a plastic cube and must find his way out — physically and mentally. It (continued to page 4)

Meredith Willson among leaders of weekend Idyllwild seminars

Meredith Willson first visited what became the campus of the USC Idyllwild School of Music and the Arts when the buildings were white signs on pines. This year — the 20th anniversary of the school, which last summer counted 4,000 enrollments — the composer will lead one of six weekend spring seminars on the 200-acre mountain campus. His seminar, last in the second annual series, is scheduled May 29-31, according to Ray Garner, president of the sponsoring ISOMATA Associates. All seminars are open to the public at nominal charge.

Due to increased enrollment and interest in the construction of new facilities, a critical space problem has occurred at this college. As a result, students must decide whether or not to provide themselves with a center for social, cultural, and recreational purposes, since the college can no longer provide room for these facilities.

A careful study by the Student Union Committee has affirmed the financial feasibility of a student-financed 15,000 square foot student center. If the election passes, payment of a Union fee would begin with the Fall quarter of 1970, at $3 per quarter. The 1971-72 Union fee would be $5 per quarter, and in 1972, when the Union opens, the fee would be $6.50 per quarter.

Two-thirds of the votes cast in the election will be necessary to authorize the Student Union Building. No decisions have yet been made allocating space in the Union, but upon approval of the proposal, all students will have an opportunity to determine exactly what should be included in the building.

The money collected through the Union fee will be used for a down payment on the building, purchase of furniture and equipment, operating costs, and loan payments.

Some suggestions offered for the new building have been a lounge with fireplace, a multi-purpose room with kitchenette for parties, etc.; rooms for club meetings, billiards and ping-pong; a snack bar; TV and music listening rooms; a center for ticket sales and check cashing.

Will there be a student union?

ST: Settle back and listen. Students, faculty, and staff have been discussing the types of space to be provided in the Student Union that should be assigned for different purposes. Suggestions have ranged from a multi-purpose room with kitchenette for parties, dances, meetings, right to the idea of having a child care center.

Before becoming too involved in these discussions take note of these facts. Students have to get out and vote for a student union to be constructed. As students what do you want?

Pawprint staff members have been out asking questions. Some of the answers that have been found should be beneficial to all. QUESTION: What do you want a SU to provide? ANSWERS: 1. Functional 2. provide service 3. be the center of activities.

The photos that accompany this editorial were taken at a recent visit to the University of California at Riverside where this reporter and Pawprint Photo Editor spoke with the director of the student commons. He stated that a student union should provide service but be functional for the future.

One of the most successful working student unions of California is located in San Diego. It is the center of involvement. It is successful because of the space that is provided for meeting and conference rooms.

Students need some place to gather and to discuss any and all issues. "United we stand and divided we shall fall." The issue to be voted on this election is not what should be put in a student union — this debate is useless unless we decide if there will even be one.

Get out and vote or there really is no need to worry about what is going to be used for.

Editorial

By DANE BARTHOLOW

I read with subdued horror the article in last week's Pawprint titled "Campus Vegetation to be Classified." The pseudo-scientific mind has given us smog, polluted rivers, DDT poisoning, cyclamates, thalidomide and numerous other wonderful creations. When will man learn that by giving something a name they only increase their vocabulary not their knowledge. We named DDT in 1944, when it was discovered, yet only today are we learning the drastic consequences of its use as an insecticide. The fact that thalidomide had a name will not help the hundreds of children deformed by it.

It's not the fact of a small sign at the base of future plants on our campus that disturbs me. It's the kind of thinking that this sign will represent. Maybe I should say the kind of non-thinking, for a name is a representation. Maybe I should say the kind of non-thinking, for a name is a representation.

Of the people choosing to name the vegetation, I wonder how many noted the beauty of our blooming dew covered pears trees, in the morning sun.

I'm sure we can find a better use for the "$578.50," even if it is a bargain at just "$1.30 per piece." Contribute it to Z.P.G. for example. Our campus is an artificial one, but let's at least enjoy the natural beauties of it without condescending to mark them with a plaque.

TO RESEARCH the editorial members of the Pawprint staff went to the Commons of the University of Riverside. After the visitation it was concluded that a student union should first stress being functional for meetings and student involvement.

Editor: I would like to make you aware of some errors that were made in your article in the last issue of the "Pawprint," February 20, 1970, concerning the M.E.C.H.A. Food Drive. First, M.E.C.H.A. is planning to organize a caravan to take the food to Coachella, but the food is to be taken to the UFWOC (United Farm Workers Operating Committee) headquarters and not to CNFW (whatever that is?) for distribution. Second, anyone interested in contributing food or money or in going in the caravan, please contact Soroco Gomez or any other member of M.E.C.H.A. instead of "contacting any one of the food boxes that are located on campus."

YOUNG DEMOCRATS

Many students on this campus were indicated a grave concern over the malicious and reactionary defeatism of such men as Spiro Agnew, John Ensminger, and John Harmer. Such men apparently out of touch with the needs of our people — can be found among both conservatives and so-called "liberals." This is a bad situation for American politics, and it won't simply go away.

There is an overwhelming desire by students to learn about people. Whether they be proud of the fact that we are per student is greater here than in most colleges in our country.

Many students on this campus are involved in various activities on campus, you will be interested to note that regardless of race, creed or color is equal. I have listened to him speak, take the time to understand him and most of all, tried to learn from him. For this understanding is essential for peace. To certain members of the student body and faculty I can no longer extend this hand of faith and feeling of (continued to page 3)
An historic event has been occurring within the judicial system of this country for the past few months, with the advent of the "Chicago Eight" conspiracy trial. Bobby Seale is still a part of the group, although his presence is minus (off by Judge Hoffman). Several men have challenged the court system in one of the most ridiculous cases. The defendants are now serving prison sentences as a result of an unprotected speech and a "guaranteed" right of free speech. Several students were asked, among other things, "What is your opinion of the "Chicago Eight" conspiracy trial and the jury's decision of acquittal on that specific charge? (Although six of the original eight were convicted of contempt charges.)

KEN HARPER, Senior, History, "I really cannot conclude either the judge or the defendants. I don't really know anything about it; everyone I know I've heard the same. The one thing that really disturbs me is what I've heard that the defendants felt they were being treated unfairly. It seems to me that they cared little about what happened to them in the courtroom but were primarily interested in scoring points for some "unknown" cause. The statements they made outside of the courtroom were made up of comments made at the expense of many political leaders in this country. The courtroom conduct of all involved did nothing to promote the concept of a decent trial that most of the people in this country really want.”

BRUCE BENDIKSEN, Junior, Political Science: "The elimination of effective leadership, especially Black leadership, seems too systemic. You've read X on Martin Luther King, Medgar Evers, Huey Newton, Eldridge Cleaver, and summing Bobby Seale; there have all been somehow eliminated. It is true that perhaps they anticipated trouble in Chicago, but so did the police (Daley). They had a whole regiment of national guard troops available to be used only if they were at fault when something was bound to happen. You can view it as two opposing camps. The police and the government were much more prepared for trouble. Over-reacting, only leads to trouble. Thomas Jefferson said "standing armies always cause wars." They were begging for trouble. Then, they try the Chicago Eight, who were only exercising what I think is their right to go to Chicago and demonstrate their opinions. The First Amendment - Free Speech, "

JIM HOFFMAN (no relation, fortunately, to RUTTULIUS), Editor-in-Chief, "One Angry Man" thinks the whole thing is an entire joke. The charges are a joke, the trial is a joke, the verdict is a joke, too. Much too made of it from the very start. The Chicago Eight were found guilty by a jury of twelve people. They turned the courtroom into a circus, which the entire court system has been transformed into, to screw the system can be a rewarding experience. If they are sincerely concerned with the consequences, more power to them. The riots, the charges, the attention they receive are all beautiful examples of America. It is really funny; but, when it becomes this funny, it's time to leave.

RonalD (DEACON) BLakeley, Freedom, History: "I think that Judge Hoffman was too severe in his sentencing of the defendants. I think that the whole thing was all alleged contempt of court charges. Judge Hoffman has made an example of Johnson and Seale in order to seal their lips as to telling the truth about the case. I believe that Judge Hoffman knows that the Chicago Eight, should be on trial because he is a FASCIST AND A RACIST and should not be allowed to judge any man."
Business background good for administration

by MICHAEL ZLAKET

Yesterday, members of the Business Management Club heard Dave Tunno tell them how a person with a background in business administration can rise to a position such as the one he occupies. He is, and in fact has been for the past five years, Congressional Administrator to Congressman John V. Tunney of the thirty-eighth congressional district.

Management Club of CSUSB. Mr. Tunno was trying to establish the fact that a background in business administration is helpful and important in obtaining administrative positions with the key politicians, and that these people are not, and should not, feel shut out.

At a congressional administrator, Mr. Tunno has had much experience in obtaining services for the people of Congressman Tunney's district and in dealing with the bureatics process. He has also observed several youth programs in Riverside and San Bernardino.

Chester M. Wright, a 36 year old Black professor of history at Chaffey College, spoke to an audience of 50 students and faculty. Knowledge has become a crucial resource of the economy and of society, the foundation of work and performance.

It is evident that the business school's responsibility is to provide the student with an understanding of the institution of business as well as to develop his operational skills. The faculty has made it possible for the business student to study the history and evolution of the institution of business; its role in our contemporary society and the society; the business as a result of its consequent responsibility for joining in the struggle to eliminate societal and personal influence with respect to change and innovation; its deep and direct involvement with economic growth, full employment, and the health of our people; its growing impact on international affairs. Unless business is studied and practiced with intelligent comprehension of the opportunities in these areas, its challenge and excitement can only partially be realized and its responsibilities will be incompletely discharged.

Concentration of organized power — in government, business, labor, universities is increasing. We have created a pluralist society of organizations to which we have entrusted almost all our social tasks. Now we face the challenge of how to create a framework of action within the framework of our institutions. Educators cannot indoctrinate a student with a fixed set of beliefs and expect him to adapt to a world in revolution. This would be the surest way to ensure the obsolescence of both the individual and education.

The school's job is to equip the student with the inner resources that will enable him to meet unforeseen challenges and help him to develop an intellectually versatile person in an unpredictable world. Business in turn must do everything it can to create an environment in which the graduate cannot only retain, but develop, his idealism and a flexible, innovative spirit, and a tolerance for the ideas that accepts controversy and different points of view, one that permits the development of all the circumstances — no matter how adverse or unpalatable.

Business Students explore responsibility

Washington representative visits classes

by MICHAEL ZLAKET

The World Affairs Council is sponsoring, on campus today, the appearance of David E. Biltchik, Special Assistant to the Undersecretary of State at Washington, D.C.

The purpose of Mr. Biltchik's appearances at these classes will be to discuss government, the administration and its foreign policies. He will also learn the feelings of college students toward the present administration and its foreign policies.

Mr. Biltchik will not make any public appearance or speech to an audience; instead he will visit five classes who have shown interest and asked him to speak at their classes. Three of these classes are sociology classes, and two classes are Political Science classes.

Rock music can turn you on

By DON DIBBLE

Among the many interesting courses offered during the Spring Quarter the Senior Seminar "Songs of the Rock Generation" ranks among the top for contemporary interest. The course is offered by the Humanities Division. It will be taught by two very contemporary professors, Drs. Price and Golden. These two men offer a wide spectrum of knowledge in the fields and both are very much in tune with current musical trends.

The course has been changed since its offering during the Fall Quarter. The reading list has been reduced in response to the anguish caused by piles of books.

Comments from students who took the course indicated a continuing interest in the material of the course and an eager hope for similar courses.

The course, very generally, treats the subject of the current popular music, how it happened, and what it means in terms of the development of American culture. Emphasis is placed on the Beatles, Bob Dylan, and some of the earlier Rock and Roll artists.

The professors see current Rock as much more than a passing fad and dance, go out and interpret it in the earlier Rock and Roll artists. They see it in a whole new involvement, an active, participatory youth expressing its emotions, ideas, and wishes through the medium of Rock. It is no longer the culture of sit and listen, now it is get up and dance, go out and demonstrate, be involved actively in what you feel is important. Rock has influenced the new activism and has been influenced by the activism.

The course offers something for every field of interest. If one wants to understand the contemporary scene this course is a must.

Dr. Clifford Paynton is the coordinator of CSISCB's Sociology Department. He has held that position since Fall '69.

Dr. Paynton, originally from Canada, received his education in the U.S. - on the Pacific Coast. He received his B.A. degree in 1958 from Seattle University, a liberal arts college in Washington. He went there from the University of Washington, where he received his M.A. degree in 1961, and his Ph.D. in 1964.

After he received his degrees Dr. Paynton taught for awhile at UCLA; then he returned to Canada. There, he taught for three years at York University in Toronto.

The Canadian school year is considerably different from ours. There is only one semester, which runs from September through March, instead of two semesters or three quarters. A student takes five courses on that system, and he is able to conduct in-depth studies or research in any form if he wishes, for there he has the time to do so. After the final lectures have been given, a student is given one week for reading purposes only; this is followed by a final examination period, in which the exam periods are spaced far enough apart so as to allow a student ample time for preparation. Each exam may be more than a week apart.

When asked about this system, Dr. Paynton stated his belief that students who transfer from the Canadian system to the American system do not operate at any disadvantage. In fact, their performance is comparable to that of American students. This same applying is also true for those who receive all of their education on the Canadian system.

The area of sociology in which Dr. Paynton specializes is social work, especially the responsibilities of coordinating the Sociology Department. He is presently editing, with Professor Robert Blackley, of the Sociology Department, a book, "Theories of Revolution," to be published soon by Schenkman Publishing Co. He is also currently involved, with Professor Harvey Wichen, of the Psychology Department, in writing a book Professor Dave Squire, in earth science program designed to help curb narcotic and drug abuse. This program is headed by San Bernardino Police Officer Ben Poobough.

Dr. Paynton's personal interest, when he has time to devote to it, is foreign cars and sports cars.

Idyllwild

Wilson, whose friendship with ISOMATA has continued through the years - he is a charter member of ISOMATA Associated, is on the ISOMATA board of advisers, trustee and life member of the Idyllwild Arts Foundation - recalls his first campus tour. His guide was Dr. Max T. Krone, then director emeritus of ISOMATA. As they bounced through the forest in a Jeep, Wilson related. Dr. Krone pointed out the Sculpture Studio, the Art Center, the Music Studio, all of which he found most interesting. Then the tour ended at what was the largest student enrollment of any department in the college.

Dr. Paynton's personal interest, when he has time to devote to it, is foreign cars and sports cars.

The man who wrote "The Music Man" for the world wrote "La Idyllwild" for ISOMATA, and the song is traditionally sung by sentimental young students at the close of the annual ISOMATA Music Festival.

Two other longtime friends and associates of ISOMATA, the internationally known Kate Mara, and Dr. Paynton, will open the seminars the weekend of March 13. Other seminars are planned to air: April 3-5, poetry April 24-26, conservation May 1-3, and Literature May 16-17.

Further information on costs, housing, leaders, may be obtained by writing or calling Ray or Virginia Garner, USC-ISOMATA, Idyllwild, Calif. 92349.
Competitive intramurals or leisure recreation offer students, faculty and families physical regeneration

Various activities are available where students, faculty, and families may develop, maintain, or improve their physical fitness. Intramural basketball has been in full swing and will continue into the spring quarter. Physical Education facilities are located in the gym, keeping active and remaining active is a good foundation for a healthy life.

INTRAMURALS
Attention all students officially enrolled, full-time faculty, and staff, organized opportunities await you in vigorous competitive activities when participating in the intramural program at the PE Building. Participation is voluntary, rewards are clear.

RECREATION
Playing courts and swimming pool are open seven days a week for CSCSB campus community members.

EQUIPMENT
All equipment is available, except individual clothing. Swimming suits may be checked out.

The PE department has the responsibility for storing, maintaining, issuing and repairing athletic equipment used by the CSCSB members. Towels (one per person) are provided free of charge.

REMEMBER
Safety is the key word. When using the trampoline be sure and have "spotters," don't "over-fish" in the weight room; and NEVER SWIM ALONE.
