Three public lectures plus a panel discussion will officially open the two science buildings this weekend.

"Scientists Look to the 21st Century" has been chosen as the theme of the lecture series, because these are the College's first permanent buildings for use well into the next century.

All College faculty, staff and students are invited to attend the lecture series, which will be of general interest. Three nationally known scientists will deliver non-technical lectures. There is no admission charge.

This is a College-wide event made possible by a special fund from the California State College Chancellor's Office to provide lecturers. Dr. Ralph Petrucci, Chairman of the Division of Natural Sciences, is in charge of the arrangements.

The schedule (all events in the Physical Sciences Lecture Hall):

"Communications and the Future," Dr. Irving S. Bengelsdorf, Science Editor, Los Angeles Times, 8 o'clock tonight.

"Challenges of Applied Biology," Dr. Robert L. Metcalf, Professor of Entomology, University of California at Riverside, 10:30 a.m. Saturday, April 27.

"Research and Man's Future," Dr. Harrison Brown, Professor of Geochemistry, Professor of Science and Government, California Institute of Technology, 1:30 p.m. Saturday.

"Science and General Education," a panel discussion by the guest

CAL POLY POMONA TO HAVE CONTINUING EDUCATION CENTER A $3 million grant to finance a continuing education center in California has been made by the W. K. Kellogg Foundation of Battle Creek, Michigan. To be known as Kellogg West, the center will be constructed at Cal State Poly, Pomona on property formerly operated by W. K. Kellogg as an Arabian horse ranch. The gift is the largest cash grant ever received by a California State College, according to Chancellor Glenn S. Dumke.

As the only center of its type west of the Great Plains, Kellogg West will serve the entire state college system as a continuing education center for conferences, seminars and other educational events linking the colleges with the public. Construction on the four-unit facility is expected to start in 1969, with a completion date of mid-1970.

They also discovered many mutual friends as Lila had gone to school with Mary's sister. Neither had recognized the other since coming to the College.

"SPEED BUMPS" TO SLOW DOWN "Speed bumps" have been installed recently on the campus roads to discourage speeding, according to Executive Dean Joseph Thomas.

"This has been prompted by a recent accident by one of the students," said Dr. Thomas. The speed bumps are presently constructed of wood on a trial basis to determine the desirable height. Permanent installations will be constructed later either from asphalt concrete or concrete. The speed deterrents have proved successful at LA State, Humboldt State and Cal Poly, San Luis Obispo.
