UHF Television Can Now Be Received by College

The Audio-Visual Department has succeeded in obtaining a high-quality UHF television signal transmitted by the educational TV station, KVCR, Channel 24.

"Because of the College's location in a deep-fringe area, reception of important programs, such as teacher-directed broadcasts, was considered a technical impossibility," according to Lucas Lawrence, Director of Audio-Visual Services. The problem of reception was overcome by conducting electromagnetic surveys in the local region and by use of a special parabolic antenna structure and cascaded electronics located atop the roof of the BS Building.

The UHF signal arrives at the College after being refracted by the San Bernardino Mountains and Little Mountain. The new signal will be made available shortly to the Education Department for use in its student-teacher programs.
