Freedom rally participants will proceed through the heart of the nation of the Republican Party and its policies of class, social, and racial communities of the nation. Prominent speakers, representing the various ethnic and cultural communities of the nation, will offer their support and mobilization of people who are adamantly opposed to the leadership and policies of the Republican Party.

According to Armando Navarro, National Coordinator of the rally/march, "The nativist crusade against immigrants in general and Latinos in particular is, in part, being spearheaded by the racist, anti-poor - anti-middle class policies of the Republican party."

The coalition calling for the support and mobilization of people who are adamantly opposed to the leadership and policies of the Republican Party.

The march will begin with a rally at the San Geronimo Ranch, located at 200 Sunset Avenue, San Diego, from 1 p.m. to 2 p.m. Hundreds of people from throughout the nation are anticipated to be in attendance. Prominent speakers, representing the various ethnic and racial communities of the nation, will be expressing their condemnation of the Republican Party and its manifestous policies that are negatively impacting our people," said Navarro. Navarro stated that the justice and freedom rally participants will proceed to Border Field State Park, located along the now infamous "Iron Curtain" (U.S./Mexico Border). The speakers and demonstrators representing organizations, political parties, institutions from both the United States and Mexico will honor the immigrants who have given so much to this nation through their labor and in some cases, even their lives.

"Both events are being organized as the first shot of protest against the Republican Party convention. It is the Republican nativist mind-set that is contributing substantially to the present immigrant bashing with their racist legislative policies and initiatives at both the state and national levels. The Republican Party's "Contract With America" coupled with their leadership role in promoting Proposition 187, the California Civil Rights Initiative, the English only movement, the recent passage by the Senate of the Clear Initiative, restrictionist immigration legislation, English only movement, the recent passage by the Senate of the Welfare Reform Legislation are but a few of the policy examples that are propelling us to have this historical rally and march," concluded Navarro.

NALEO Expresses Opposition to "Gallingly" Amendment

Los Angeles, July 31 - At its annual board meeting the NALEO Board of Directors adopted a resolution opposing the "Gallingly" amendment to Immigration Reform Legislation, H.R. 2202, which will deny public education benefits to undocumented immigrant children. "As elected officials, we strive every day to develop programs to keep children in school and not expose them to the dangerous environment that exists in our communities," said Los Angeles County Supervisor Gloria Molina, who sponsored the resolution.

NALEO contacted the White House and reiterated its opposition to the amendment. "The measure, as amended yesterday by the Congress, is not different in substance or effect and is as unacceptable as the original proposal," said Arturo Vargas, NALEO's Executive Director. "We urge the President to ensure that no child is denied an education."

In addition, the Board of Directors vehemently expressed its opposition to the television commercials on immigration produced by both Republican and Democratic National Committees, urging officials from both committees to immediately cease the airing of these destructive and offensive television advertisements. According to Vargas, these commercials exploit the issue of immigration reform by denigrating the Latino community.

Innovative Program Focuses on Latino Teachers for Tomorrow's Classrooms

The Tomás Rivera Policy Institute and KMEX-TV launch joint effort to recruit Latinos to the teaching ranks

In a joint press conference at Garfield High School in Los Angeles, the Tomás Rivera Policy Institute (formerly the Tomás Rivera Center) and KMEX-TV, Channel 34, introduced Latino Teachers for Tomorrow's Classrooms, a public education campaign designed to attract more Latinos to careers in teaching.

"Research has shown that in school districts with large bodies of Latino students, higher representations of Latino teachers lead to lower dropout rates, fewer students labeled as educationally handicapped, more students identified as gifted, and higher achievement on standardized tests among Latino students," said Dr. Harry Pachon, president of the Tomás Rivera Policy Institute. "Ensuring the successful education of America's youth is one of the greatest challenges facing our nation as we move toward the new millennium."

Yet, though Latino students comprise nearly 12 percent of the public school enrollment (grades K-12) in the United States, Latino teachers compose only about four percent of teachers in our schools. The need for teachers who can understand these students' culture, communities, and ways of learning is dire. America's Latino children are being left behind in the educational system: nearly 12 percent of the nation's Latinos do not complete fifth grade; almost half do not finish high school; and fewer than 10 percent complete a college education.

"The objective of this campaign is to significantly increase the number of Latinos who will consider teaching as their profession," Pachon added. Today, Latinos represent approximately 38 percent of California's public school enrollment. By the year 2020, they will make up 25 percent of the nation's children from birth through age 17, which means Latinos will continue to comprise one of the largest groups of students.

There is a need for more teachers today, but with no other minority group is this necessity more evident than within the Latino community," stated KMEX-TV General Manager Augustine Martinez. "KMEX-TV is proud to join the Tomás Rivera Policy Institute in this pivotal campaign. Our nation and network (Univision) have identified education as a primary resource for improving families' welfare and, therefore, are committed to lending support to programs such as Latino Teachers for Tomorrow's Classrooms by the Tomás Rivera Policy Institute for our children who are tomorrow's leaders.

The campaign is a part of a comprehensive grassroots effort within the Latino community. Carmona Productions, a Latino production company, produced and directed the public service announcements with the assistance of students from the Chisano Broadcast Students Club at California State University, Los Angeles. The PSAs feature Nancy Agosto, KMEX-TV weekend newswoman and producer, as well as teachers from Garfield High School and students from Bell High School. Additionally, actor Edward James Olmos, Los Angeles al Dia morning talk show host Cristina Aceves, and KMEX-TV sports anchor Bernardo Osuna helped narrate the announcements.

The Institute has established a toll-free hotline that interested young adult and college-bound Latinos may call to obtain further information about careers in teaching. By calling (888) 34-TEACH persons will receive a free brochure detailing both the steps required to obtain a teaching credential and the colleges and universities offering teacher-education programs in California.

Symptoms of chronic mercury toxicity from skin use include fatigue, insomnia, headache, nervousness, and loss of memory. The most severe problems affect the nerves and kidneys. Other signs and symptoms such as changes in vision, hearing and taste, as well as tremors have also been noted. All use of this cream should be discontinued, especially by pregnant women and nursing mothers. It should also not be used on infants or children for any reason, as it can impair reflexes, and lead to seizures, paralysis or coma.

Western States Youth to Youth Drug Abuse Conference held at Claremont-McKenna College

"I didn't know what the Youth to Youth magic was until I got there. I found ways to have fun in a drug free community," reports Thomas Crew, a Cajon High School 12th grader after attending the 1996 Western States Youth to Youth Conference held at Claremont-McKenna College July 14-17, 1996. Of the 300 youth that participated in the national conference, 85 were from San Bernardino County. They celebrated the benefits of living drug-free and they learned more about their personal potential to choose to influence and change their schools and communities for the better — DRUG FREE!

Deborah Flores, an adult volunteer and the mother of two Youth to Youth participants (Cristina and Greg) say, "These youth that participate in the conference are remarkable; they are diamonds. Jeri Simpston, Kevin Wright and the other volunteers are also very remarkable for the work they do. This program is so positive. It has made a significant difference in their lives as an intervention. It has helped them realize how drugs can ruin their lives. People CHOOSE to go down the road of drug abuse. Even children of drug abusers can learn to live drug free.

1996-97 Consolidated Plan - Substantial Amendments
NOTICE OF HEARING

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the Board of Supervisors of the County of San Bernardino will hold a public hearing on TUESDAY, AUGUST 13, 1996 AT 10:00 A.M., in the Chambers of the Board of Supervisors, 385 North Arrowhead Avenue, First Floor, San Bernardino, CA. The purpose of the hearing is to consider the proposed substantial amendments to the 1996-97 Consolidated Plan listed below and to solicit citizen comments regarding these amendments.

BACKGROUND

Each year since 1975, the County of San Bernardino has qualified to receive federal housing and community development grant funds from the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD). The funds are to develop viable communities by providing decent housing, suitable living environments and expanded economic opportunities, principally for low- and moderate-income persons. In 1993, the County qualified to receive these funds over a three-year period from the Community Development Block Grant (CDBG), Emergency Shelter Grant (ESG) and HOME Investment Partnerships Act (HOME) programs. The funds are eligible for projects in the incorporated communities and 17 participating cities. These cities are Adelanto, Town of Apple Valley, Barstow, Big Bear Lake, Chino Hills, Colton, Grand Terrace, Highland, Loma Linda, Montclair, Needles, Redlands, Rialto, Twentynine Palms, Yucca Valley, Victorville, and the Town of Yucca Valley. For the purpose of these grant funds, this area is referred to as the "County Consortium".

To receive the 1996-97 CDBG, ESG, and HOME grant funds, the County prepared a consolidated grant application called the "Consolidated Plan." On April 16, 1996, the County of San Bernardino Board of Supervisors approved a proposed Consolidated Plan. Upon completion of the public review period and after all comments were received and considered, a final Consolidated Plan was prepared. The final Consolidated Plan was submitted to HUD on June 7, 1996 for funding approval.

State Funded Preschool Program
Offered in Chino and Ontario

Low income families that cannot afford to send their children to preschool may be able to do so for free through a state funded preschool program operated by the San Bernardino County Superintendent of Schools (SBCSS).

The preschool, a comprehensive child development program, will hold its classes three hours per day Monday through Friday beginning September 3 at Richard Gird Elementary School, 4980 Riverside Drive, Chino, and Mountain View Elementary School, 2825 Walnut Street, Ontario.

Appointments for registration, which will be held at the schools August 20 and August 22, can be made by calling (800) 722-1091 extension 5764.

First priority for admission will be given to children living in the Chino or Mountain View School District who will be four years old by December 2, 1996. Second priority will be given to children who will be age four by December 2, 1997. In both cases families with the lowest per capita income shall be admitted first.

Eligibility based on income is determined by a sliding scale. A family of three with a monthly gross income of $2,336 or less would meet the income eligibility requirements, as would a family of 6 with a monthly gross income of $2,779. Unlike some other governmental funded preschool programs, those enrolled need not have to be employed.

The preschool staff will have the ability to work with Spanish-speaking children, and the program will accept a limited number of special needs children.

Parents with children attending the preschool will be expected to volunteer 10 hours per month in the classroom. The benefit is twofold, explained Thams: to provide more support for the children during class, and to train parents so that they can continue to teach their children at home.

For more information, contact Thams at (800) 722-1091 extension 5764.

UCR Receives Grant to Foster Racial & Cultural Understanding on Campus

The William and Flora Hewlett Foundation has awarded the University of California $1 million in grants, including $100,000 to UCR, to assist the university in promoting racial and cultural understanding on its campuses.

The University of California Riverside's two-year, $100,000 grant will be used to develop several campus projects aimed at fostering better relations and deeper understanding of different ethnic and cultural groups, according to Jacqueline Mimms, assistant vice chancellor for student affirmative and diversity programs.

Among the other projects that will be funded by the Hewlett grant are a staff diversity training program and a council on diversity and campus relations, which will provide a forum for identifying and discussing issues related to campus climate, diversity and intergroup relations.

The grant program seeks to address problems arising from differences in race, ethnicity, social class, gender, sexual orientation, religious convictions and physical differences on university and college campuses.
