GUGGENHEIM

Announcement of the availability of the 1970 Guggenheim fellowships to assist research and artistic creation has been received by the Assoc. Dean, Academic Administration. Deadline for filing application is October 15, 1969.
The only freshmen and sophomores still being admitted are chemistry and physics majors, who will be limited to taking courses in chemistry and physics.

The College is presently accepting applications from junior or senior transfers who have completed their lower-division requirements in the following majors: art, chemistry, drama, French, music, philosophy and physics.

Upper-division classes in these majors are not yet at capacity, and can accommodate more students. However, the transfer students must have their freshmen and sophomore requirements out of the way since the lower-division classes are filled.

Graduate students wishing to take further work, on an unclassified status, still may apply, Prouty said.
