THE PARADE OF EVENTS

For greater accuracy, Leonardo designed a clock mechanism with two separate trains, one for minutes and the other for hours, each complete with escapement, gears and weights.

The first set of models of Leonardo's work, constructed in contemporary times was built in 1938 for an exhibition in Milan, Italy. It traveled briefly and during World War II it was completely destroyed by bombers in the United States after the war, was acquired by IBM in 1951 and incorporated into the company's touring exhibition program.

The Leonardo da Vinci model exhibit will be on display throughout the month of February and may be seen during regular daylight hours through Thursday, 8:30 a.m. to 10 p.m.; Friday, 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m.; Saturday, noon to 6 p.m. and Sunday, 1 to 5 p.m.

Indian Summer

Dear Friends,

Greetings: From the land of the Mahatris... and you know what? He didn't make it to the promised land! This is essentially a report on the summer of our perceptions, experiences, and expectations. Even visiting old places such as London, Rome, etc., becomes new experiences and enjoyment when accompanied by children.

Our stop-over in London was brief. Just before leaving, we showed the children "The Tower," a boat trip along the Thames estuaries, Thames, a taste of the "tea," and of course, the Piccadilly Circus.

We then headed for Rome. Slate-Braun was pushed by the holiday-maker and the children. Very expensive - dollar plunged to the lowest while there. Old veterans of "Europe by 5-day" found it necessary to pull-out most of the money. Slater's pizzeria in the U.S. is by far a much better buy. But the coffee was ever so Libya they charged.

Of course everything around us was reeking with ancient history. It was quite an experience for our California-born children, where the oldest monument is their life is the "Mission Inn."

While roaming around Rome we came across two "Fat Bar." We decided it only proper that we stop and patronize the place for the sake of old royalties back home. (Editor's note: Ralph, perhaps one of our other correspondents should plan a trip to Rome.)

We grabbed a Kuwait. All that Arabic scribbled all over the airplane made us uneasy, expecting a long turn-around.

We landed in Kuwait at midnight. The temp. was around 100 degrees F. No one can forget it! In a fit of nostalgia, I cooked up a bed of black oil tinges which camouflage all the darkness.

Deli was always good. Of course, there is plenty of pollution, but it seldom comes up to above your nose.

An old Brahmin musician came to stay with us twice a week to give live lessons to our children. We have to get rid of all that nasty smell before he arrives. We burn a lot of incense around here.

Life is very slow indeed in India and lucky for us, the U.S. benefits as well. The women are skilled at making the most out of a little bit. It is by far a much better buy. But the coffee was ever so Libya they charged.

One of our main meals is at noon, almost always arranged to be at the table cut and poised. We've been given an air-conditioned Ford station wagon with chauffeur. The damn thing is so huge we ordered the little Indian cars. I feel like Gulliver in Lilliput!

It's really great not to be sitting behind the steering wheel after all that freeway driving in the U.S. Gasoline prices are exorbitant in India, but lucky for us, the U.S. pays for it all. Should Trucks Shut Down

Vince Nobile
Senior, History

In order to perpetuate our economic system, the elitists carried on the war in Vietnam. The people in the 60's struggled to end the war while criticizing the policy which supported the military dictatorship in South Vietnam. Now it seems the struggle has finally come to us. Elitists need people in order to make profit. They have to suck blood from the people. Those truckers were the first ones to be affected. Next it will be us. As a matter of fact, we are already affected. It is another harvest of shame."

Takashi Higa
Senior, Chemistry

According to G.S.U., the need for a dialogue stems from the manner which they have chosen in order to find a solution is the lesser of two evils."

I sympathize with the trucker's strike. If they get the groves lowered, more power to them."

Sharon Funder
Freshman, Psychology

I think they should eliminate cars and trucks. Energies should be concentrated on developing mass transit."

G.S.U. Forum Starts

The Gay Student Union conducted its first Gay-Straight Rap Session in PS 107 last Tuesday at 12 noon. G.S.U. hopes that such dialogues will provide a communication link between Gay and non-Gay students and faculty. According to G.S.U., the need for such a dialogue stems from the pullpots of misinformation used to describe the Gay community. At its first dialogue a number of topics were discussed. Sample questions included: "Are Gay people more sex-oriented than other groups?" and acceptance by society at large of "Gayness as a normal life style."

Members of G.S.U. stated that homosexuals are often the victims of "stereotyping" and grossly misleading generalizations. The dialogues will give interested individuals the opportunity to acquire objective information regarding the realities of Gay life. It is for this reason that G.S.U. encourages Gay and straight people to participate in these dialogues for purposes of awareness and self-education.

Presently, G.S.U. is planning to have a regular rap session each Tuesday at PS 107 at noon. Other activities being planned include a "Gay Pride Week" to be held the fourth week of the Spring Quarter.

Students around the campus were asked the following question this week:

DO YOU SUPPORT THE TRUCKER'S STRIKE?

Due to recent federal court orders more students than ever are now eligible for food stamps.

Eligibility for food stamps is determined on the basis of households: a family or other group living together and functioning as a single economic unit. A single economic unit is one which pools its resources and buys things necessary to the household, such as food, to be held and used in common by all the members of the household.

Until recently, a household was defined by public welfare officials as excluding groups of unmarried unrelated persons.

Last April the United States District Court in Northern California redefined households as an economic unit in common living quarters which shares common cooking facilities and customarily purchases food for the common home consumption.

This ruling enables a large number of students to use welfare food stamps and it also means that many of the students or any other bunch of people living together can make use of one of the bennies of the free enterprise system.

There are still a few limitations to the food stamps.

You must be a poor student and you can not have too many material possessions.

For example the maximum net monthly incomes under the law are: "$19 for a household of one; $260 for a household of two; $373 for three and $475 for four people."

Food stamps are almost as good as cash money. They might even be better than your hard earned bucks.

Any questions about the food stamp program can be answered by calling or visiting your local welfare office.

Requirements and procedures are uniform regardless of sex, race, creed, color, national origin, or political belief.

The Dues Must Be Paid

by Sal Bellia

The wake of the Viet Nam War has touched the lives of almost everyone in the community and nation. Its effects are slowly manifesting themselves, and continue to multiply. Possibly the most affected individuals are veterans faced with the task of re-assimilation into society after a two or more years of absence.

A popular and logical method of re-assimilation for the veteran is through the education system. C.S.S.B. campus's population is composed of approximately 25 percent veterans who, for the most part, are living on a $22 dollar sustenance allotment to them by the G.I. Bill of Rights.

This is a large figure, yet a silent one. To talk of the situation of the veteran and his problems of re-assimilation is an interview was held with Don Colletti of the CSSB Veterans Office. Don would like to see a better system for training and education. Don sees this as a way to get the veteran refresh his dust-cover to create new jobs for the public.

The interview was continued with a discussion of the difficulties encountered by C.S.S.B veterans, such as "age gap" absence from school, education and most prevalent problems. Don would like to see a better system of remedial training to help the veterans refresh his dust-cover.

Veterans at Cal State have currently there is no on campus organization representing them other than the Veterans Office. Don would like to see the veteran to have a voice to express his ideas and to clarify his needs. He also urges veterans to consult him on any difficulties which may confront them.
