CSUSB
A comedy which explores people’s nonthinking acceptance of situations which initially appall them, Ionesco’s “Rhinoceros,” will be presented at Cal State, San Bernardino May 23-25 and May 29-31 and June 1.

Last year, torn sweatshirts; four years ago, cowboy hats; forty years ago, swastikas. Next year, nasal horns. Fashion is a funny thing, at least, Ionesco thinks so and in his Comedy of the Absurd Rhinoceros, he explores the tentative hold man has on his identity and the ease with which he is swept away on the tide of fashion. Nonsense becomes logic, foolishness becomes fashion and people become pachyderms in pursuit of uniformity.

Ionesco, concerned by the rise of fascism in his native Rumania, creates a character, Berenger, who represents the struggle of an individual mind against any tyranny which becomes idolatry, explained Dr. Amanda Sue Rudisill, director of the production. One by one Berenger’s friends and townspeople turn into rhinoceros, the monster which came into their midst and they accepted because everyone else was accepting.

Through his writing, Ionesco calls our attention to how people rationalize away individual human values to belong to a group which unquestioningly follows an ideology to idolatry, whether the ideas are political, religious or even business advertising. On the one hand, we use language, not to communicate, but to confuse or to control others. On the other hand, we are the victims of such usage. We substitute indifference for involvement, slogans for thinking. (If you doubt this is so, just walk through the campus parking lot and read the bumper stickers.) We throw away morality, culture, friendship and love. Robot-like, we join the herd.

The play is a comedy because Ionesco exaggerates so the audience perceives the points he is making, according to Dr. Rudisill. “The playwright believes one of the best ways to get rid of anything which frightens you is to laugh at it. The power it holds over you then is less.”

Tickets for this production, $4.25 for general admission and $2 for students and senior citizens, will go on sale Monday, May 13 in the Theatre Arts Department. Tickets may be purchased at the door. Curtain time for all performances is 8:15 p.m. in the Creative Arts Theatre.

MORE ABOUT HYPERTENSION

Many people who took advantage of the free blood pressure screening earlier this month asked for additional information about high blood pressure. In answer to your questions and since May is Hypertension Awareness Month, we'd like to provide more facts about this subject.

Hypertension or High Blood Pressure is the leading cause of heart disease—the nation's number one killer. It has been estimated that Hypertension Awareness Month, Mrlier this month asked for all races and age groups. common in both men and women in both men and women in all races and age groups.

Essential Hypertension is a persistent elevation of blood pressure that cannot be attributed to any specific organic cause. It accounts for 80-90% of cases. Secondary Hypertension is caused by an organic condition. Many times these organic conditions can be corrected.

High blood pressure causes problems because it adds to the work load of the heart and arteries. The heart must contract with more force to push the blood through the arteries. When high blood pressure continues for a long time, this increased pressure can damage other organs in your body—causing kidney failure, stroke, heart attack, and heart failure.

Some people don't consider high blood pressure dangerous because they don't hear of people dying of it. They hear of people dying from heart attack, stroke and kidney failure. They do not realize that high blood pressure was the underlying cause. Often there are no symptoms or warning signs. Therefore, it is important to have your blood pressure checked once or twice a year, if it is elevated, then it should be checked more often.

Having your blood pressure checked is not just an exercise. Things can be done to bring an elevated blood pressure down. We at the Health Center can help you to "come on down" and have your blood pressure checked.

Thinking About Graduating This JUNE Maybe?

by Elrond Lawrence

So you think you want to graduate, huh? Well, if you're a senior this year, the big moment is just around the corner and they may just catch you looking the other way.

In that light, this particular column is being written to serve as a graduation "checklist" filled with all sorts of nice last-minute tips to make your final days at CSUSB less insane. So, read on, and we'll need I can squeeze this all into one article.

First of all, you'll probably need a cap and gown for the event; you can fill that need by visiting the Coyote Bookstore and picking them up. Next, it would be smart to settle any on-campus financial matters, which can be done by paying any fees and debts well ahead of time, and by returning any and all library books. And don't forget to get that Grad Check filed; hopefully, you've done it already.

Another facet of graduation you should think about now is your life after graduation. Look into the various graduate programs offered for graduating persons. Also, look into getting your letters of recommendation now, while you are still fresh in your professors' minds. And finally, join the Alumni Association, an organization made especially for graduates such as yourself. It has a number of chapters and through it you can help spread the word about your university even after you leave.

There's really not much left to do except participate. Each school at CSUSB will hold a reception for its graduates hosted by the faculty and staff. It's a chance for you to show your faculty all of friends and family, so they can say "Ooo, you're the one..." But most importantly, you'll be serving yourself, your own family, and when will that ever happen again? Whatever you do, don't forget to go to the graduation ceremony itself—it's too big a show to miss.

To sum things up, just look ahead, and prepare in advance. Don't let graduation sneak up on you, but at the same time, don't let it pass you by. And don't forget to go to the graduation ceremony itself—it's too big a show and a moment, to miss.

Army officers on active duty receive over $20,000 per year right now. They earn over $33,000 per year in just four years. More important to you, they serve our nation in challenging fields including aviation and command of a platoon of thirty-plus individuals in 25 other career areas.

Let us return to Darwinism in light of the recent controversy, as I did not want to miss his call while watching the Cubs World Series, but now the Cal State Chronicle has fulfilled its expectation the call remained silent. As a result, my only recourse is to include a personal reflection.

THE WIZARD

Dear Editor,

Perhaps you can tell us who a "Ryland", or "Miss Ryland", or "Mr. Ryland" is. Aside from a few paragraphs in a letter or a article, we are not aware of anyone by that name. However, we have heard that there is a group of people who are contacting businesses and claiming that they are the representatives of a new company called "The Wizard". They are offering to provide information and assistance to businesses in exchange for a fee. Are you familiar with this situation? We would like to know if this is a legitimate business or if it is a scam.

Sincerely,

[Name]

THE WIZARD?

Our club thought it would be worthwhile to sponsor a co-sponsor a dance in the SUMP. However, we were not able to contact Ryland upon a second request. We are not aware that he had an interest in the dance, and therefore we would like to know if this is a legitimate request.

Sincerely,

THE WIZARD?

We're Off to Look for Ryland...

We could finalize it with Ryland. Unfortunately, after numerous letters, messages and phone calls (even to both of his offices and residence), we were unable to contact Ryland, and I think it would be best to just call us back on the matter. It was not until late in April, through one of our club members, that we were told by Ryland that he had moved to New York. We were told by Ryland that we would not be able to contact him.

Sincerely,

The Wonders of Modern Medicine?

Those Miracle Elixirs?

I have read Darwin. If you are interested in evolutionary theory, I would suggest reading "The Descent of Man" and "The Origin of Species". These two books provide interesting background for Karl Popper. Although it is documented that some people actively defy the admissions of the author or artist and not those of the publisher, I am content to read the works of others. It is my hope that the present issue of The Cal State Chronicle will continue to provide interesting reading for all. We are pleased to include this issue in the ongoing series of publications and utterances. My reference to "survival of the fittest" is not the sole affectation of Spencer. It is a general principle of natural selection, in the same sentence with Fred Hoyle. However, it is not the case that Stem is the last word, but that it is certainly an important concept in evolutionary biology. The concept of "survival of the fittest" is found in. In the spirit of academic inquiry?

If I could fancy a deep understanding of it, I could devise a more profitable plan than the one that is now being pursued. If we could finalize it with Ryland.
