June 1st 1976

CSUSB

Follow this and additional works at: http://scholarworks.lib.csusb.edu/pawprint

Recommended Citation
http://scholarworks.lib.csusb.edu/pawprint/217

This Article is brought to you for free and open access by the CSUSB Archives at CSUSB ScholarWorks. It has been accepted for inclusion in Paw Print (1966-1983) by an authorized administrator of CSUSB ScholarWorks. For more information, please contact scholarworks@csusb.edu.
Brown's goals questioned

By Jim Austin

Recently, we have had productive national political candidates offering a new face, "new spirit," new approach and leadership, new style, etc. etc. ad nauseam. One of such candidates is Governor Jerry Brown of California, the current governor, Jerry Brown. None of these candidates, however, have made the significant departure from current policies. They all represent more of the same.

For instance, Brown is young, good looking, makes stirring speeches, and has succeeded in becoming a favorite of the media. Yet close scrutiny fails to reveal any substance. For one thing, he tends to evade questions about his political beliefs, usually saying something about not believing in political labels. This, of course, is typical of politicians who try to conceal their beliefs. He also tried to conceal his beliefs on the left and right. Yet he has succeeded in going down the middle. This proved a disaster in Vietnam where those on the left and right were both upset on the left wanted Johnson to stick to the middle way which he has failed to do.

Our country is now suffering from the long range effects from earlier policies which were based entirely on short term considerations. That includes foreign as well as domestic policy. More of the same is not appropriate at this time. We can no longer afford to "play" as opposed to "battle." Perhaps the most important change is a giant stride toward the eventual end of Cal State, which was previously considered terminal.

Some of these people will be gone next year and new ones must emerge from the depths of apathy. For student involvement and leadership is the key to an active, meaningful program.

One person who will be missed is John Whitehair, editor of the Pawprint.

Another Letter

Letter to the Editor:

Dear Editor: As another intramural season winds down, it is my duty to mention and see just how fast intramural sport participation rate is increasing. There were all kinds of new faces in our program, particularly freshmen and sophomores, who will hopefully be around for a few years. None of these candidates, however, have made the significant departure from current policies. They all represent more of the same.

You were really after, then go and see the chaplain. And enthusiastic participation, if they ever can be cleared up. There were all kinds of new faces in our program, particularly freshmen and sophomores, who will hopefully be around for a few years.

The excellent coverage and photography of intramural events by John and staff was invaluable as a consistent means of publicity and recruitment.

In closing, I want to thank everyone who participated and encourage you to return next fall for an even better intramural year.

Dear Editor:

What I'm trying to do is find someone willing to distribute literature on Yes-on-Prop 15 within their neighborhood (or whichever one they prefer). There are only 1/2 of us working on this at this moment and, apparently, there isn't any organization working on it in San Bernardino (there is the Sierra Club canvassing in Riversides, but they're not distributing any information in the San Bernadino-Colton area).

With the farm labor and collective bargaining for public employees. Brown would have given the representatives up late at night tense and fatigued because you were drafted for a couple of years, make me want to throw my hands up in the air and say, "Life just is. You have to flow with it. Give yourself to the moment. Let it happen." (Wall Street Journal, May 13, 1976).

His current emphasis on fiscal austerity is probably nothing more than an imitation of the previous administration. Brown's secretary of state while Ronald Reagan was governor and having no firm convictions of his own on the subject, adopted Reagan's "cut, squeeze, trim" approach with only slight modifications.

Another Letter

Letter to the Editor:

Dear Editor: As another intramural season winds down, it is my duty to mention and see just how fast intramural sport participation rate is increasing. There were all kinds of new faces in our program, particularly freshmen and sophomores, who will hopefully be around for a few years. None of these candidates, however, have made the significant departure from current policies. They all represent more of the same.

You were really after, then go and see the chaplain. And enthusiastic participation, if they ever can be cleared up. There were all kinds of new faces in our program, particularly freshmen and sophomores, who will hopefully be around for a few years.

The excellent coverage and photography of intramural events by John and staff was invaluable as a consistent means of publicity and recruitment.

In closing, I want to thank everyone who participated and encourage you to return next fall for an even better intramural year.

Dear Editor:

What I'm trying to do is find someone willing to distribute literature on Yes-on-Prop 15 within their neighborhood (or whichever one they prefer). There are only 1/2 of us working on this at this moment and, apparently, there isn't any organization working on it in San Bernardino (there is the Sierra Club canvassing in Riversides, but they're not distributing any information in the San Bernadino-Colton area).

With the farm labor and collective bargaining for public employees. Brown would have given the representatives up late at night tense and fatigued because you were drafted for a couple of years, make me want to throw my hands up in the air and say, "Life just is. You have to flow with it. Give yourself to the moment. Let it happen." (Wall Street Journal, May 13, 1976).

His current emphasis on fiscal austerity is probably nothing more than an imitation of the previous administration. Brown's secretary of state while Ronald Reagan was governor and having no firm convictions of his own on the subject, adopted Reagan's "cut, squeeze, trim" approach with only slight modifications.

Another Letter

Letter to the Editor:

Dear Editor: As another intramural season winds down, it is my duty to mention and see just how fast intramural sport participation rate is increasing. There were all kinds of new faces in our program, particularly freshmen and sophomores, who will hopefully be around for a few years. None of these candidates, however, have made the significant departure from current policies. They all represent more of the same.

You were really after, then go and see the chaplain. And enthusiastic participation, if they ever can be cleared up. There were all kinds of new faces in our program, particularly freshmen and sophomores, who will hopefully be around for a few years.

The excellent coverage and photography of intramural events by John and staff was invaluable as a consistent means of publicity and recruitment.

In closing, I want to thank everyone who participated and encourage you to return next fall for an even better intramural year.

Dear Editor:

What I'm trying to do is find someone willing to distribute literature on Yes-on-Prop 15 within their neighborhood (or whichever one they prefer). There are only 1/2 of us working on this at this moment and, apparently, there isn't any organization working on it in San Bernardino (there is the Sierra Club canvassing in Riversides, but they're not distributing any information in the San Bernadino-Colton area).

With the farm labor and collective bargaining for public employees. Brown would have given the representatives up late at night tense and fatigued because you were drafted for a couple of years, make me want to throw my hands up in the air and say, "Life just is. You have to flow with it. Give yourself to the moment. Let it happen." (Wall Street Journal, May 13, 1976).

His current emphasis on fiscal austerity is probably nothing more than an imitation of the previous administration. Brown's secretary of state while Ronald Reagan was governor and having no firm convictions of his own on the subject, adopted Reagan's "cut, squeeze, trim" approach with only slight modifications.

Another Letter

Letter to the Editor:

Dear Editor: As another intramural season winds down, it is my duty to mention and see just how fast intramural sport participation rate is increasing. There were all kinds of new faces in our program, particularly freshmen and sophomores, who will hopefully be around for a few years. None of these candidates, however, have made the significant departure from current policies. They all represent more of the same.

You were really after, then go and see the chaplain. And enthusiastic participation, if they ever can be cleared up. There were all kinds of new faces in our program, particularly freshmen and sophomores, who will hopefully be around for a few years.

The excellent coverage and photography of intramural events by John and staff was invaluable as a consistent means of publicity and recruitment.

In closing, I want to thank everyone who participated and encourage you to return next fall for an even better intramural year.

Dear Editor:

What I'm trying to do is find someone willing to distribute literature on Yes-on-Prop 15 within their neighborhood (or whichever one they prefer). There are only 1/2 of us working on this at this moment and, apparently, there isn't any organization working on it in San Bernardino (there is the Sierra Club canvassing in Riversides, but they're not distributing any information in the San Bernadino-Colton area).

With the farm labor and collective bargaining for public employees. Brown would have given the representatives up late at night tense and fatigued because you were drafted for a couple of years, make me want to throw my hands up in the air and say, "Life just is. You have to flow with it. Give yourself to the moment. Let it happen." (Wall Street Journal, May 13, 1976).

His current emphasis on fiscal austerity is probably nothing more than an imitation of the previous administration. Brown's secretary of state while Ronald Reagan was governor and having no firm convictions of his own on the subject, adopted Reagan's "cut, squeeze, trim" approach with only slight modifications.

Another Letter

Letter to the Editor:

Dear Editor: As another intramural season winds down, it is my duty to mention and see just how fast intramural sport participation rate is increasing. There were all kinds of new faces in our program, particularly freshmen and sophomores, who will hopefully be around for a few years. None of these candidates, however, have made the significant departure from current policies. They all represent more of the same.

You were really after, then go and see the chaplain. And enthusiastic participation, if they ever can be cleared up. There were all kinds of new faces in our program, particularly freshmen and sophomores, who will hopefully be around for a few years.

The excellent coverage and photography of intramural events by John and staff was invaluable as a consistent means of publicity and recruitment.

In closing, I want to thank everyone who participated and encourage you to return next fall for an even better intramural year.

Dear Editor:

What I'm trying to do is find someone willing to distribute literature on Yes-on-Prop 15 within their neighborhood (or whichever one they prefer). There are only 1/2 of us working on this at this moment and, apparently, there isn't any organization working on it in San Bernardino (there is the Sierra Club canvassing in Riversides, but they're not distributing any information in the San Bernadino-Colton area).

With the farm labor and collective bargaining for public employees. Brown would have given the representatives up late at night tense and fatigued because you were drafted for a couple of years, make me want to throw my hands up in the air and say, "Life just is. You have to flow with it. Give yourself to the moment. Let it happen." (Wall Street Journal, May 13, 1976).

His current emphasis on fiscal austerity is probably nothing more than an imitation of the previous administration. Brown's secretary of state while Ronald Reagan was governor and having no firm convictions of his own on the subject, adopted Reagan's "cut, squeeze, trim" approach with only slight modifications.
Israel authority will speak

Dr. Ersham Shmueli, professor emeritus of philosophy at Clomvel State University (Israel), will speak on "The Moral and Political Significance of the Emergence of Israel" Wednesday, June 2 at Cal State, San Bernardino.

Orchestra will perform

Arnold Schoenberg's ex-pressntionistic "Five Pieces for Orchestra, Opus 16" will be featured in the Cal State, San Bernardino Chamber Orchestra concert, Sunday evening, June 6. Walter Potter's "Pantomime" and Hindemith's "Trumwerk" complete the program, which will be presented at 7:30 p.m. in the Lecture Hall of the Physical Sciences Building.

Dr. Richard Saylor, Cal State music professor, is the conductor. "'The 1912 Schoenberg composition is one of the most impo,'"tant pieces of the early 20th century," Dr. Saylor said. "As a composer, and the work is exquisitely beautiful, each piece like an inner vision." A discussion of the composition by Dr. Saylor, interspersed by the orchestra pre-playing a few passages, will accompany the actual performance.

The Hindemith piece will be conducted by Michael Tacha, with the cello solo by Michele Brosseau.

Music professor, is the conductor. "The 1912 Schoenberg composition is one of the most important pieces of the early 20th century," Dr. Saylor said. "As a composer, and the work is exquisitely beautiful, each piece like an inner vision." A discussion of the composition by Dr. Saylor, interspersed by the orchestra pre-playing a few passages, will accompany the actual performance.

The Hindemith piece will be conducted by Michael Tacha, with the cello solo by Michele Brosseau.

Local candidate will appear

Great Carner, the Republican candidate for Congress in the 36th district, will speak in LC 500 on June 3 at noon.

All of this was accomplished without the benefit of formal Law School training.

Carner started his run for Congress by collecting signatures in violation fee.

He collected more signatures than any other Congressional candidate in the state, and is now unopposed in the Republican primary.

Carner believes that he can make a significant contribution towards solving the problems of this country.

He feels that with determined efforts we can reverse the trend of useless spending of our Federal tax dollar.

For too long our government has been spending money that it does not have, resulting in spiraling inflation and a tremendous National Debt.

These problems persist while Congress enjoys the pay raises that it voted for itself.

With Carner voting in Congress, the people of this district can be assured that their Congressman will be attending to the problem.

As a Congressman, Carner wants to break the bureaucratic log jam.

He favors legislation that limits the formation of new bureaucracies which often cause bigger problems than the ones they were created to solve.

Established bureaucracies should also be reviewed so that our Federal Government may once again become efficient.

The noted Jewish author and historian, Efriam Shmueli, speaking on "The Moral and Political Significance of the Emergence of Israel," 6 p.m., LC-500.

This week's calendar

Tuesday, June 1

Women's Day Celebration: 2 Budapest, "Women's Religion and Goddess Worship," 11 a.m., Lower Commons

Alice Stone Black Women Band, 12 noon, Commons Patio.

Poetry reading by Dell Richards and Joan Robbins for the VIVA inez Garcia Committee, 1 p.m., Lower Commons.

California Institution for Women Film "We're Alive," 7 p.m., Lower Commons.

Christian Life Club meeting, 12 noon, LC-206.

AS Sports Committee meeting, 11 a.m., Commons Faculty Colloquia, speaking will be A. Sokoloff on "Insects As Human Food," 12 noon, LC-500.

Nursing Students meeting, 12 noon, Bi-104.

The New Music Ensemble, 12 noon, in the free speech area behind the administration building.

Accounting Club meeting with Joe Wallock speaking on the Accounting Profession, 2 p.m., LC-500.

M.E.C.H.A. meeting, 4 p.m., SS-173.

Drama 350 Performing Projects, 5 p.m., Lower Commons.

Wednesday, June 2

Student art sale, 9 a.m., Library lawn.

Women's Day Celebration.

Susan Bark, ACLU lawyer speaking on "What to do about discrimination," 11 a.m., Lower Commons.

Historical presentation of "Images of Women," 12 noon, Commons Patio.

Three Women Films, 1 p.m., Lower Commons

1) "A comedy in six unnatural acts"
2) "Our little munchkin"
3) "Wishful filming"

Black Students Union meeting, 12 p.m., LC-204

AS Senate meeting, 4 p.m., C-219.

Serrano Village Council Social, 4 p.m., Mojave Lounge

Police Student Council meeting, 9 p.m., Lower Commons.

Israeli scholar, Efriam Shmueli, speaking on "The Moral and Political Significance of the Emergence of Israel," 6 p.m., LC-500.

Thursday, June 3

AS Executive Cabinet meeting, 7 a.m., SS-171.

Student art sale, 9 a.m., Library Lawn.

Magician Act, Mr. Deception, 11:30 a.m., Lower Commons

Sociology Club meeting, 11 a.m., LC-197.

Young Republicans, speaker, Grant Carner, candidate for 3rd district, 12 noon, LC-500.

IOC Executive Board meeting, 2 p.m., SS-144

Gay Students Union meeting, 4 p.m., LC-500.

Bus trip to Dodger Stadium, departure from Cal-State main parking lot at 5 p.m.

Woodpushers Anonymous Chess Games, 7 p.m., SS-Atrium.

Saturday, June 4

Backpack to San Jacinto mountains, departures from PE parking lot at 8 a.m.

Sunday, June 6

Chamber Orchestra Concert, 7:30 p.m., PS-10

Monday, June 7

Conversational Spanish Table, 11:30 a.m., C-125

Tuesday, June 8

AS sports Committee meeting, 12 noon, Commons M.E.C.H.A. meeting, 4 p.m., SS-173.

That's all, folks . . .

The Prickly Pear is out

Pick up your copy in the Activities office

SS-145, English Dept. office, LC-246 or

Clark Mayo's office

LC-208

Magic show set for Thursday

Mister Deception (and Sylvia) will deceive and delight this Thursday at 11:30 a.m. in the Lower Commons. He will be coming to Cal State directly from a successful show in Palm Springs.

Mr. Deception, in addition to performing for charities and advertising television shows, is also involved in the legitimation of the International Association of Magicians, and having had a hand in the writing of the constitution that same association.

He will soon be making a film about magic with Sandler Productions that will be shown nationally. In the meantime, he will be appearing at a very large engagement park in Southern California. Don't miss him!
I
Rabbit bears bells on the door, scatters across the lawn, leaving her perch in wet leaves to touch me. Now that the house and I are alone, I feel the pull, the sheer weight of its insuperable being, a womb I have known stronger than any other but my own.

II
A star beckons in the Southwest sky. Looking up, I hear its unspoken call. The sun has set on the porch and the laughing of children. I sit quietly, doing nothing but breathe, giving the words time to form. It is that hour of the day.

I could hold the sounds of the train in my hand. The freeway, a continuous wall of pale noise, runs like the ocean, the distance between us making the eddies slow perceptible. The dusk bears crickets on a field to dry for frogs. Storksbill, lamb's quarter, dandelion of a desert. They flourish despite the landlady's swift mower. I tell her lilies of the valley grow in the yard unkempt but she is earless.

All's garden grows swiss chard without asking. "Take some," he says, "it's almost going to seed... if you like the stuff."

III
The eyes of the airplane blink in unison motion. As one falls off, both step out of line, moving farther apart till they return to a final unity. I cannot escape the circularity of time, living as I am in this particular incarnation. As night descends, gas light must do, path as it is to the unconscious.

The house at early May is too hot. I sit on the porch being glad I wear no fur. Midnight does not bring release, only the fear of someone wrenching the door. Unacknowledged, unspoken thought, the gun is already cocked; this time I do not wake unprepared. Simba catches a moth, two fierce paws a prison strong enough for quick death.

IV
Space changes in definition. First there were three, now there is one. Mine has survived, being more sedentary than most. I know what I will have can be found here as well as anywhere else. I look inside first.

Susan's airbrush spatters, Mary's burst promise of yellow sun underlay Jay's gulls hanging in mid-air. "Did you paint those?" "No, I don't even like them." "Then why don't you change them?"

If only it were that simple. Once you've left your body here, the inertia of the house seeps into your bones. It does no believe in the twentieth century. "I have heard you are the oldest house in town, is that so? How did you manage to survive?" An inaudible sigh is the felt answer. Already it hears its death knell in the distance; the rent hardly pays the taxes. It will probably see the ground with Mrs. Evans, who remembers when there was nothing as far as the eye could see but fields and cattle, and a shed for pasteurizing milk. Today smog sucks the oleanders to grey. Does this blanket ease their transition as some as yet unseen invention will smooth mine? Could some as yet unseen invention will smooth mine? Could some as yet unseen invention will smooth mine?

V
A mouth tired of talking settles down to exhale a breath of water boiling, kettle singing and cooked eggs. Everything else is raw except the detergent for the dishes.

The lion's metal paws wear heavy jewels. One day they will carry us through to a naked death, glowing water and limbs along the way. I will greet the black widow hanging under the boards before I arise an embarrassed Venus.

The pantry listens in adept darkness, a repository of forgottenness full of items we can't bear to throw away yet never use. You could actually open the door for two days before someone else loaded another life of boxes into it. Everything here pays its price.

The sink holds bicycles, a stove and two sewing machines in its bowels, objects too large for its pregnant neighbor while the curtains do fight off hundred degree heat, newly hung. Did you see that?" they say as they return from the mirrored w.c. They gossip silently in their linings, each fold holding a secret they dare not divulge even to each other. They share bamboo patterns and know in smaller pieces they would make a pretty purse.

VI
How many lovers have these eyes seen? Swept by her dirt-cheap charms, they lie in thick embrace, ignoring lack of heat and the fact that the bathtub runs cold one time out of three, especially in winter. She stretches motionless to see, shoulders lifting slightly to ask who is it this round. She is an unsaid rendezvous in another person's travels. Only the electric light cares about the change. The switch quit the day a Libra moved in and woke again the day another pendulous air to<4c flight. How many lovers have these eyes seen? Swept by her dirt-cheap charms, they lie in thick embrace, ignoring lack of heat and the fact that the bathtub runs cold one time out of three, especially in winter. She stretches motionless to see, shoulders lifting slightly to ask who is it this round. She is an unsaid rendezvous in another person's travels. Only the electric light cares about the change. The switch quit the day a Libra moved in and woke again the day another pendulous air to<4c flight.

Some signs are interchangeable; it only responds to a touch that doesn't care. (It doesn't know its barking voice is short lived.) Screaming off the walls and filling up each corner, it leaves no room for dreams.

Evans House,
San Bernardino

I need a space to enclose and order for the left side of the brain. Books, typewriters, sleep till function gives them life. I swore I would not play secretary again but fate plays tricks on those who would tempt her. The re-writes run into the dawn light. I leave it to watch the empty bird cage and the olive tree. Its branches are a rent free apartment house for mockingbirds whose wings move in flickered motion as they strut across the ground, checking to see I haven’t moved, at each pause.

A starling mediates the middle floors, throwing his voice to entertain himself when there is no one else at home. Scrub jays take the safety of the top, being fierce by right of size.

The antennae fell forward some months ago, trailing its wiry wings down the window till a muscled shove drove it away, though it didn’t deter the mockingbird who rehearses courtship lines to Bach inventions. Wishing I understood its intricate sense of repetition, I play for its pleasure as often as mine.

"Susan, you said you took her with you" though I think ghosts are not so easily swayed. Maybe there are two of her now.

Her room changes shape with the furniture and the viewer. Five doors stand on tiptoe to reach the ceiling whenever I am not looking. I have come to love her as she peeps out of my door to see why I am not yet come to bed. Seeing no motion, she opens the door wide enough for her papery body and ventures to the kitchen. I hear her banging the pot on the grate for another cup of tea. Earl Grey keeps us all going. The rocking I don’t mind; the legs creak in rhythm much like a clock and I know she is content. But she is a thoughtless roommate who rattles around once you go to bed. I think she thinks the house is still hers, even though she must know I am the one who pays the rent.

At 1:00 today, dell fitzgerald-Richards will read from her poems and the rape journal as part of the Women’s Celebration. She has completed two other manuscripts and is currently finishing a series of poems and a novel. The rape journal is available from Women’s Press Collective, 5251 Broadway, Oakland, CA 94618.
Coyotes have a friend in the psych. dept.

The coyote has a friend at CSUSB, and because of him, they may soon go back to hunting their natural prey, rodents and rabbits, making both sheep herder and farmers very happy.

CalState psychology professor Stuart Ellins has successfully eradicated a problem, according to Ellins, and natural foods which puts the ecology back in balance.

The problem of coyote predation is an international problem, according to Ellins, and the traditional methods of eradication, hunting, trapping and poisoning do not work.

One reason there are so many sheep being killed by coyotes is that man is the coyote's only predator since he has killed off all of the others such as wolves and mountain lions.

When the coyote population is thinned out, either by hunting or trapping, the natural process they have caused them to increase the size of their litters. "They are smart, they develop ways to survive," Ellins stated.

Coyote population density is determined by food availability, when sheep are brought into an area inhabited by the coyotes, the food supply is therefore increased, leading to the birth of more coyotes.

Even though few people appreciate the coyote, they serve a very important function when they control rodent populations.

Rodents, when their numbers are unchecked, overrun fields and destroy crops, causing heavy losses, especially to alfalfa farmers.

It is in this area, the control of rodents, where coyotes are most beneficial, serving an important ecological function.

A member of the UCLA department of psychology, John Garcia, developed a process in a laboratory, which is a taste aversion process. When an organism eats something and gets sick, he will associate the taste with the sickness. This is called one trial learning and usually only takes one trial.

After numerous complaints to the Department of Agriculture by the sheep ranchers, they contacted Ellins and Garcia and asked them to come up with a new solution to the age old problem.

Ellins and Garcia came up with a taste aversion project, which the department of agriculture funded, and it consisted of two parts.

The first was to significantly decrease the number of sheep killed by the coyotes.

The second was to provide data to indicate if the taste aversion method works and its application to other problems.

The study was conducted in the Antelope Valley, which is sparsely populated and contains many open fields used for sheep grazing.

There are numerous reasons for sheep deaths, besides being attacked by coyotes, which include disease, cold, birth complications and inadequate mothering.

The carcasses of these animals as well as those killed by predators are usually taken to areas adjacent to the grazing fields called bone yards where they are left to decay or provide a ready meal for scavenging animals.

"What they are doing is setting the table for the coyotes, when they develop a taste for mutton," Ellins said.

Two Cal-State graduate students in psychology, Sonja Calatiano and Sheryl Schechinger, assisted Ellins with the research.

First they looked for areas in the Antelope Valley around sheep herding operations that coyotes were known to frequent. Then they would take a dead sheep to the area, and inject it with a solution of lithium chloride, a common non-lethal chemical that causes a coyote to get sick when he eats it.

When the coyotes ate the sheep injected with the solution they would get sick, and would then generalize the sickness to all sheep, which would inhibit their attacking live ones.

"By using this method we drastically reduced the number of sheep killed by coyotes in the Antelope Valley," Ellins said.

The study was conducted during the fall and winter of last year and they found that not only had they reduced the number of sheep killed, but once the lithium chloride solution was taken away, the coyotes did not go back to killing sheep for several months.

Ellins said there are two positive outcomes of the study.

First the ecological balance of the desert will be restored. Coyotes won't eat sheep and they will go back to eating rodents, stabilizing those populations and crops will not be destroyed.

The researchers have also determined that the taste aversion is an easy process, because there are dead sheep all around the Antelope Valley, and the sheep herders are available to learn the easy and inexpensive process.

The next step in the taste aversion experiment, according to Ellins, will be the construction of a coyote complex on campus, which should be ready sometime in the fall quarter 1976, where dietary habits of the predators can be observed.

Ellins is also trying to sell his idea to all the other counties, in order for them to use the new method instead of killing the coyotes. Los Angeles county will fund further research in the taste aversion area during the next year.

Ellins is also trying to get his method of stopping the coyote from killing sheep accepted nation wide. At the present time a cyanide collar program that causes the deaths of many coyotes and sheep alike is in use throughout the United States.

Ellins said that Cal-State may become a center for the study of taste aversion. The animal compound will be used to look at food preferences and the aversion side of the fence.

The guide is available at Bank of America offices throughout the state.

The guide is a booklet to help college students with one of their biggest problems — finding employment after graduation.

The guide first advises graduating seniors to apply their newly-acquired research skills in determining their job objectives and desired work locations.

Once these goals have been established, the guide urges preparation of a detailed resume, listing not only personal and educational data, but also job objectives. It also offers advice on letters of introduction and requests for interviews.

The personal interview, the guide suggests, can be the "moment of truth" in landing a position. It urges careful homework beforehand, research­ ing the company and its activities, formulating intelligent questions.

Drawing on the bank's own experience as a major employer, the guidebook outlines the steps in a typical interview, offering ins­ tructions on how an applicant can make his or her best impression.

The guide is available at Bank of America offices throughout the state.
Louis Ruff: The Music Man

By Linda Watson

There is something about music that is extraordinarily elusive to most of us — something that puts music beyond our grasp. One can love it, appreciate it, listen to it... but yet, it must, in its purest form, be left to those select people whose lives are one with it.

Louis Ruff (pronounced Louie Ruff), a Cal State music instructor of theory and jazz, is one of these special people. Music is an integral part of him. He’s been with music and music’s been with him just about forever. His father, Erwin Ruff, is the concert choir director at the University of Redlands. With such fine musical influence it’s easy to see why a young man’s career could be guided in this direction.

Ruff studied music at the Eastman School of Music in Rochester, New York. He said that although George “Tin Ear” Eastman couldn’t tell a flat from a sharp, his love for music prompted him to establish the school. It is one of the finest in the country and Mr. Ruff is presently a candidate there for his Ph.D. His thesis is in composition and Ruff says that its completion will depend more on dedication and perseverance than on “ inspiration” than one might suppose.

After Mr. Ruff completed his undergraduate work at UK in 1966 and went on to the Eastman School, he emerged even more difficult. The school is renowned for its exceptional library. The only problem was that it’s on one of the top floors. He couldn’t use it. There were no elevators and it’s almost impossible to get a wheelchair up chair that many flights of stairs.

That’s right. A wheel chair. It’s a hassle and one hell of a lot of work. But, like I said, Louis Ruff is special people. He says he’s lucky, actually. Some people’s lives are irreparably halted when spinal injuries change the course of their lives from one of mobility to chair confinement. If their lives have been geared to physical labor as a means of support, the depression that follows the realization they’ll never walk again can be fatal. But Louis Ruff always has been a music man — and he’s lucky for it. It is a lovely aesthetic profession and although one’s mind must be honed to precision sharpness, nobody said one couldn’t conduct sitting down.

And that’s exactly what Mr. Ruff does. Last Sunday evening in PG 19 a jazz band composed of musicians from local as well as distant points gathered together under the direction of Louis Ruff and put on an absolutely splendid performance. The selections ranged from relatively smooth flowing pieces to innovative arrangements with sax solos and electric dueling guitars. Louis Ruff’s humorous remarks were unexpected and refreshing. The audience personality that can be seen in many conductors is totally absent in the smiling eyes of Mr. Ruff. Music makes him happy, and brother, does it show! And as far as jazz is concerned, you sure can’t explain it, but you know it when you hear it!

And I, too, was lucky Sunday evening, to be able to bear the efforts of Louis Ruff. Cal State is a small school. And sometimes that means problems. There aren’t enough people to make up a jazz band from this campus, so recruiting is the only answer if there’s to be a performance. It takes longer — like a whole quarter to organize one evening’s entertainment. But Mr. Ruff feels it’s worth it despite the added energy and output.

Ruff encourages students who are not music majors to set aside some time and join the band. The music department needs more special students who are musically inclined to share their talents. The experience, he feels, is worth the time given. So break out that rusty ole instrument and hop on over and talk to Mr. Ruff. They need you! Another word for Louis Ruff might be adaptable. He used to be a pianist. But that’s a bit more difficult now. Difficult, yes, but not impossible. He now plays a fender keyboard bass instead of the piano and carries the instrument with him all the time in case he needs it. Composition, however, has been an asset for the piano.

I asked Mr. Ruff what he does with his occasional free time. Once in awhile, when he gets a call, he is asked to talk to recently injured people who will be confined to a wheel chair, perhaps for the rest of their lives. This voluntary service is of great benefit to the injured. It gives them the hope and the spirit to continue. He encourages them to “get into the outside world as soon as possible.” All hospital corridors are smooth — not so, concrete and blacktop. The realities of a new life are tough — Ruff knows that well. His assistance to people who are in need of some brightening thoughts is, I am sure, immeasurable.

Ruff says that the profession of music is much the same as that of medicine. He sees 20th century music as “a maze — you just can’t keep up with it.” He sits the room in the music building that’s designated for electronic music as a prime example. Just a few years ago, anything as radical as synthesized music would not even have been considered by many musicians as an art form. Yet, now we set aside precious space for its development. Changes and the ability to adapt are parts of everyone’s lives.

Paul Simon says, “After changes, we are more or less the same.” Louis Ruff, after the many changes he’s undergone, is still basically the same music loving guy he always has been... except better.

Welcome Back

Men and women with prior military experience can get back into uniform and back in action in the United States Army.

The skills you learned in service are of great value to us. Or you can learn a new skill in one of the Army’s outstanding training schools.

Bring this ad and a copy of your DD 214 to an Army Opportunities Office.

SAN BERNARDINO
568 North Mountain View
864-6600
Join the People who’ve joined the Army

SUMMER IS HARD ON CARS! GET YOUR AUTO RUNNING GOOD AND READY FOR THE SEASON.

Quality Engine Rebuilds Reasonable

Tune-Ups and Good Service at:

PRECISION MOTOR ENGINEERING
1555 CARPENTER
SAN BERNARDINO
882-1948
Cal State International Kazoo Marching Band: A Historical Mess of Memories

by Corporal Wattson

As I know you've been waiting with bated breath for the history of the Cal State San Bernardino International Kazoo Marching Band, my time lately has been dedicated solely to that end, so spit out those salmon eggs and get ready for a tale you won't believe. Unfortunately there is no end. Or for that matter, not a belief beginning. But, bated breathers, contained in the following paragraphs is one of the most incredible stories of the century...read on for the literary thrill of your life....

Last year (1975), the first week of May saw the Genesis of the Kazoo Band. Kazoo Band, you say? What in God's name is all this hot air about a Kazoo Band? What is a Kazoo and who is Kommander Korn? Why, none other than the son of Pop and brother of Ker-nall!!! His real name, some claim it was even traditionally Christian, has faded forever into oblivion. We just call him the Kom.

Anyhow, Kommander Korn, in all his infamy, had something to do with the creation of a monster. There were others involved in that first innovative week — famous others, as a matter of fact. Monte Pearson, world renowned baseball player, Joe Long Dong, Michael Sheldon Shaffer Shaffah, Joe Ozja, brother of the President and Fred de Hars, i.(the very same). It didn't take long, no sirrrreeee! Within a week new recruits had been sucked into Kazooing. The Band blossomed with questionable personalities as Wilhelm Petersen, grave digger, summa cum laude, Fishy Trauperson, Linda Loyalace, Bed" Ainsworth, Dan the Beedle, Jack Beboffer, GI Joe and Corporal Wattson. It was a sight to behold!

Adventurous outings were immediately organized. I myself took the world organized. The Kazoo Band is never, I repeat never, organized. Gamboozled might, perhaps, be a better word. Yes, gamboozled. We gamboozled our way to Dodger Stadium as the second attempt to vacate the place with strains floating through the air from Klasic Kazoos. But, instead of being lily (what a funny word...) received, we were cheered, lauded, loved, fondled (yeah...) grabbed, kissed. The score board welcomed us in our entirety. "Welcome," it said. "Cal State International Kazoo Marching Band." And as Presidents pet children, kiss babies, and pull dogs by the ears, the Kommander passes out Kazos to the kid set at Dodger games. The reverence for him is stupendous. He has a whole collection of artifacts upon bubblegum acquired as the result of the removal of such from the mouths of babies in order to make room for the Kazoo. But patience is a virtue—one day the little facts will be potential Kazoo recruits.

Parties. Parties, of course, are the lifeblood of the Kazoo Band. The gamboozelation of such is a sight to be seen! But much to our dismay, every once in awhile things do happen in a horribly organized manner. A for instance would be the presentation to the Kommander on May 30, 1975 of a 100 per cent honest-to-good engraved plaque that read, KOMMANDER KORN — In Appreciation for Indiscreet and Unequaled Leadership, Unsurpassable Lack of Musical Ability and Kinky Kazoo Tactics. CSCSB MARCHING KAZOO BAND — SPRING, '74. The Kommander was touched...by 3,000 naked ladies who thought it was real gold...to their chargrin, sprayed plastic. Yet nonetheless (good word) it remains today as an expression of gratitude for unequaled leadership.

SFPTBALL75 spirited about 50 people and was held high in the tree lined mountains of Crestline. Never was there such a blotch of activity! An omniscient (better word!) eye would have seen a styrofoam plane with a six foot wing span gliding above a baseball game whose participants wore Indian costumes while impersonating Mick Jagger and dancing Zorba the Greek. And in Honor of our first successful SFPTBALL, another will be held again this year on June 12, 1976 at Shaffah's Shalai. All people in possession of a Kazoo will be admitted. Sanity is not a requirement for admission. Any semblance of organization is automatic grounds for non-admittance.

Yet another Dodger game in June of '75 saw the impossible. After 14, FOURTEEN, that's right, count 'em, 14 innings, the Kazoo Band was Kazoed out. Only happened once, hasn't happened since. Six Kazoos had blowouts. (A Kazoo's fragrant melodies are melodiously made by the vibration of a humm upon a little disc of paper that is screwed (hi shaffah!) to the center of the Kazoo. After many hours, the paper becomes soaked with spit and has a blowout. No paper, no melody. Solution: one Zig-Zag cigarette paper, preferably white, screwed in as a replacement for the sputum soaked disc. Result: The Kazooser is back in action. The Zig-Zag corporation has sent us a letter of official thanks for record sales of Zig-Zags for the year '75-'76 due to increased sales as Kazoo repair kit). We repaired the six Kazoos but they were not in action long. Fourteen innings would kill anybody, even those Kazoos. Strong of body, weak of mind. Navy (excellent word!) a buzz was heard on the trip home. But alas! The trip there was great! We had a bus and an official driver. We Kazoed like hell for 70 miles. The driver became a manic-paranoid-depressive-schizophrenic within two hours On the way home he threatened to turn the bus around if we didn't quit that incessant noise. What noise? He was a goner. Nobody blew a toot on the return trip for non-admittance. Any semblance of organization is automatic grounds for non-admittance.

The Kommander strikes a typical pose: Kazoo in action
Kinky Kazoo Kapers Continued

trip except Dan the Deedle who had gas. The poor fellow was understandably hallucinating. Turn the bus around, no less. Good Gravy, what in the name of God would he have done with us once he got us back there? No one knew the answer to that. We just kept on going. He just kept on mumbling.

In August, ’75, not to be outdone by any group of snot-nosed, gym chewing, prepubescent graders, the Kazoo Band gamboozled together the following figures for the members of their band's best and most thrillingly expertise fastball throwing battle ever. The Pina Chalot paid homage to Wilhelm Petersen, Cap'n Dong, The Kommander himself, PeeWee Rose, Big Barb, Lovelace and Shaffah. Dried wads can still be seen adorning the walls of the restaurant. Until down to Kazoo members at the time, a new art form was experiencing birth pains. A Kazoo Waldmacker can be hired from a long list of qualified members at a competitive price for your interior decorating needs. Send all inquiries to Box 691, Crestline, Calif. 92325

But there's more! We were brilliantly represented in the Donkey Basketball Game last fall when CSCI B students played the Campus Cops. The Kazoo Band provided half time entertainment, the Kommander mounted (not in these words, mind you) one of those little jackasses and accomplished absolutely nothing which is in fine accord with the same of gamboozling. He was a flop, but who cares?

The Knothole was packed...quite like sardines, actually. The rhythm of blow, suck, blow, suck, suck simply can't be beat. The ends of two Kazoos are strategically placed, one against the other, the resulting effect is vibrantly reproductive. The Kazoos are innovative, creative creatures and new sounds drifted through the Knothole as band members experimented wildly with their Kazoos. "Dip the end of your Kazoo into your beer," states Galloping Graham Kazooker, "You'll find new and exciting expressions of amusement at our initial performances, they left much wiser. The Kommander, Kazooers are innovative, creative creatures and new sounds drifted through the Knothole as band members experimented wildly with their Kazoos. "Dip the end of your Kazoo into your beer," states Galloping Graham Kazooker, "You'll find new and exciting expressions of amusement at our initial performances, they left much wiser.

Kazoo and-the- other, the resulting effect is vibrantly reproductive. The Kazoos are innovative, creative creatures and new sounds drifted through the Knothole as band members experimented wildly with their Kazoos. "Dip the end of your Kazoo into your beer," states Galloping Graham Kazooker, "You'll find new and exciting expressions of amusement at our initial performances, they left much wiser.

perhaps one of the most memorable evenings was when the Kommander and his side kick Corporal Wattson (BA History) are the P.A. Embarrassment was immediately acquirable and appropriately applied. The Kommander is in the lead with over $200 blown on Kazoos. Their energetic insanity is greatly appreciated.

And, so, just a year old and not quite out of diapers, the Cal State Kazoo Band banded together for memorable evenings was when the Kommander and his side kick Corporal Wattson (BA History) are the P.A. Embarrassment was immediately acquirable and appropriately applied. The Kommander is in the lead with over $200 blown on Kazoos. Their energetic insanity is greatly appreciated. The student team In the Donkey Basketball Game sports the Kommander as Kazoo rep.

Kinky Kazoo Kapers Continued

trip except Dan the Deedle who had gas. The poor fellow was understandably hallucinating. Turn the bus around, no less. Good Gravy, what in the name of God would he have done with us once he got us back there? No one knew the answer to that. We just kept on going. He just kept on mumbling.

In August, ’75, not to be outdone by any group of snot-nosed, gym chewing, prepubescent graders, the Kazoo Band gamboozled together the following figures for the members of their band's best and most thrillingly expertise fastball throwing battle ever. The Pina Chalot paid homage to Wilhelm Petersen, Cap'n Dong, The Kommander himself, PeeWee Rose, Big Barb, Lovelace and Shaffah. Dried wads can still be seen adorning the walls of the restaurant. Until down to Kazoo members at the time, a new art form was experiencing birth pains. A Kazoo Waldmacker can be hired from a long list of qualified members at a competitive price for your interior decorating needs. Send all inquiries to Box 691, Crestline, Calif. 92325

But there's more! We were brilliantly represented in the Donkey Basketball Game last fall when CSCI B students played the Campus Cops. The Kazoo Band provided half time entertainment, the Kommander mounted (not in these words, mind you) one of those little jackasses and accomplished absolutely nothing which is in fine accord with the same of gamboozling. He was a flop, but who cares?

The Knothole was packed...quite like sardines, actually. The rhythm of blow, suck, blow, suck, suck simply can't be beat. The ends of two Kazoos are strategically placed, one against the other, the resulting effect is vibrantly reproductive. The Kazoos are innovative, creative creatures and new sounds drifted through the Knothole as band members experimented wildly with their Kazoos. "Dip the end of your Kazoo into your beer," states Galloping Graham Kazooker, "You'll find new and exciting expressions of amusement at our initial performances, they left much wiser.

perhaps one of the most memorable evenings was when the Kommander and his side kick Corporal Wattson (BA History) are the P.A. Embarrassment was immediately acquirable and appropriately applied. The Kommander is in the lead with over $200 blown on Kazoos. Their energetic insanity is greatly appreciated.

And, so, just a year old and not quite out of diapers, the Cal State Kazoo Band banded together for memorable evenings was when the Kommander and his side kick Corporal Wattson (BA History) are the P.A. Embarrassment was immediately acquirable and appropriately applied. The Kommander is in the lead with over $200 blown on Kazoos. Their energetic insanity is greatly appreciated. The student team In the Donkey Basketball Game sports the Kommander as Kazoo rep.

Kinky Kazoo Kapers Continued

trip except Dan the Deedle who had gas. The poor fellow was understandably hallucinating. Turn the bus around, no less. Good Gravy, what in the name of God would he have done with us once he got us back there? No one knew the answer to that. We just kept on going. He just kept on mumbling.

In August, ’75, not to be outdone by any group of snot-nosed, gym chewing, prepubescent graders, the Kazoo Band gamboozled together the following figures for the members of their band's best and most thrillingly expertise fastball throwing battle ever. The Pina Chalot paid homage to Wilhelm Petersen, Cap'n Dong, The Kommander himself, PeeWee Rose, Big Barb, Lovelace and Shaffah. Dried wads can still be seen adorning the walls of the restaurant. Until down to Kazoo members at the time, a new art form was experiencing birth pains. A Kazoo Waldmacker can be hired from a long list of qualified members at a competitive price for your interior decorating needs. Send all inquiries to Box 691, Crestline, Calif. 92325

But there's more! We were brilliantly represented in the Donkey Basketball Game last fall when CSCI B students played the Campus Cops. The Kazoo Band provided half time entertainment, the Kommander mounted (not in these words, mind you) one of those little jackasses and accomplished absolutely nothing which is in fine accord with the same of gamboozling. He was a flop, but who cares?

The Knothole was packed...quite like sardines, actually. The rhythm of blow, suck, blow, suck, suck simply can't be beat. The ends of two Kazoos are strategically placed, one against the other, the resulting effect is vibrantly reproductive. The Kazoos are innovative, creative creatures and new sounds drifted through the Knothole as band members experimented wildly with their Kazoos. "Dip the end of your Kazoo into your beer," states Galloping Graham Kazooker, "You'll find new and exciting expressions of amusement at our initial performances, they left much wiser.

perhaps one of the most memorable evenings was when the Kommander and his side kick Corporal Wattson (BA History) are the P.A. Embarrassment was immediately acquirable and appropriately applied. The Kommander is in the lead with over $200 blown on Kazoos. Their energetic insanity is greatly appreciated.

And, so, just a year old and not quite out of diapers, the Cal State Kazoo Band banded together for memorable evenings was when the Kommander and his side kick Corporal Wattson (BA History) are the P.A. Embarrassment was immediately acquirable and appropriately applied. The Kommander is in the lead with over $200 blown on Kazoos. Their energetic insanity is greatly appreciated. The student team In the Donkey Basketball Game sports the Kommander as Kazoo rep.

Kinky Kazoo Kapers Continued

trip except Dan the Deedle who had gas. The poor fellow was understandably hallucinating. Turn the bus around, no less. Good Gravy, what in the name of God would he have done with us once he got us back there? No one knew the answer to that. We just kept on going. He just kept on mumbling.

In August, ’75, not to be outdone by any group of snot-nosed, gym chewing, prepubescent graders, the Kazoo Band gamboozled together the following figures for the members of their band's best and most thrillingly expertise fastball throwing battle ever. The Pina Chalot paid homage to Wilhelm Petersen, Cap'n Dong, The Kommander himself, PeeWee Rose, Big Barb, Lovelace and Shaffah. Dried wads can still be seen adorning the walls of the restaurant. Until down to Kazoo members at the time, a new art form was experiencing birth pains. A Kazoo Waldmacker can be hired from a long list of qualified members at a competitive price for your interior decorating needs. Send all inquiries to Box 691, Crestline, Calif. 92325

But there's more! We were brilliantly represented in the Donkey Basketball Game last fall when CSCI B students played the Campus Cops. The Kazoo Band provided half time entertainment, the Kommander mounted (not in these words, mind you) one of those little jackasses and accomplished absolutely nothing which is in fine accord with the same of gamboozling. He was a flop, but who cares?

The Knothole was packed...quite like sardines, actually. The rhythm of blow, suck, blow, suck, suck simply can't be beat. The ends of two Kazoos are strategically placed, one against the other, the resulting effect is vibrantly reproductive. The Kazoos are innovative, creative creatures and new sounds drifted through the Knothole as band members experimented wildly with their Kazoos. "Dip the end of your Kazoo into your beer," states Galloping Graham Kazooker, "You'll find new and exciting expressions of amusement at our initial performances, they left much wiser.

perhaps one of the most memorable evenings was when the Kommander and his side kick Corporal Wattson (BA History) are the P.A. Embarrassment was immediately acquirable and appropriately applied. The Kommander is in the lead with over $200 blown on Kazoos. Their energetic insanity is greatly appreciated.

And, so, just a year old and not quite out of diapers, the Cal State Kazoo Band banded together for memorable evenings was when the Kommander and his side kick Corporal Wattson (BA History) are the P.A. Embarrassment was immediately acquirable and appropriately applied. The Kommander is in the lead with over $200 blown on Kazoos. Their energetic insanity is greatly appreciated. The student team In the Donkey Basketball Game sports the Kommander as Kazoo rep.
Herb hunting in the area

by dell fitzgerald-Richards

Did you know that every time you walk across the campus you are walking by (or through) a wealth of tonics and medicine, a veritable free medicine cabinet right at your fingertips? Next time you walk across that seemingly barren ground around the library, look down. Make your eyes as sharp as a bird's and you'll find an herb called Storksbill, also known as filaree or scissor plant. You can tell it by the 1-2" thorns that grow in clusters above the red-tinged leaves. It also has geranium-type flowers (though much smaller) ranging from pink to purple. We are particularly lucky to have storkbill in the area where we can use it fresh as it does not keep well in storage and extracts of it are not easy to come by these days. Its protein content is high, so you can throw a bit of it (chopped finely, without the thorns) in your next salad. It has astrin gent qualities so you can use the tea on your face when you run out of witch hazel (or cucumber lotion). But its most important property is as a hemostatic agent, i.e., it stops bleeding. For women, this can be invaluable. The tea will help difficult or excessive menstruation. Used as a douche with boric acid, it will even clear up an inflammation of the uterus. It raises blood pressure in small doses and lowers it in larger ones, so should not be drunk by anyone with very high blood pressure except under the supervision of an herbal doctor.

Horehound

Horehound is an herb you either love or hate, the taste of which is reminiscent of the hard candy you can still sometimes buy in small paper sacks at the drug store counter. With honey, it is an amazing cough syrup and throat soother. (It soothes inflammations by reducing the swollen membranes.) It is said to restore normal balance of the glands and is also used to calm a "nervous" or irregular heart. Taken cold, it is a tonic (that means a very good food) for the stomach.

While we're talking about "weeds," if you have dandelions growing, you probably have Lamb's Quarters as well. The deep roots draw up valuable nutrients, rare trace elements and minerals. It's a bluish-green plant whose leaves turn purple on the edges as it reaches 1' high. (It has wine color patches where the leaves join the stem, also.) The leaves are heart-shaped and grow in clusters around the stem. It's a good food either shredded raw in a salad or cooked. (Spinach, dandelion, lamb's quarter and nettles are good cooked together, having similar tastes. They can also be substituted for meat in lasagne, etc.) It is very high in iron.

Eucalyptus

Eucalyptus are like a century plant (fluffy with spiny edges) but the color is green. They grow up to 2 ft. long. The flower grows straight out of the center of the plant and reaches 4 ft. high. They are anywhere from yellow to purple. (Maybe that red-hot poker is an eucalyptus!) To use it, just break off a part of the leaf and rub the juice on any skin irritation, insect bite, minor cut, sun burn or scratch. It feels cool and soothing immediately. Apparently it's even good for wrinkles.

Culpeper (a 17th century herbalist) says of Nettle: This is an herb of Mars. It consumes the phlegmatic superfluities in the body of man, that the coldness and moisture of winter has left behind. What that means is that it warms up the body, starting with the stomach. After eating the leaves, you can feel the heat travelling throughout the body, finally working its way to the hands and fingertips. Of course with this weather, you don't want to be made any better but it is a rich source of iron, and a real old-time tonic. Its most valued quality is

Aloe Vera

Aloe Vera are like a century plant (fluffy with spiny edges) but the color is green. They grow up to 2 ft. long. The flower grows straight out of the center of the plant and reaches 4 ft. high. They are anywhere from yellow to purple. (Maybe that red-hot poker is an eucalyptus!) To use it, just break off a part of the leaf and rub the juice on any skin irritation, insect bite, minor cut, sun burn or scratch. It feels cool and soothing immediately. Apparently it's even good for wrinkles.

Dandelion

Dandelion looks like but few people know that the fresh green taste is good in a salad and are especially good when eaten this time of year. The tea is a tonic which acts to remove accumulated poisons in the body. It is also a slight stimulant so can be used in place of coffee without the jangled nerves that coffee leaves when you come down a couple hours later. The root is especially good for liver problems (for you drinkers) and stiff joints. Use the root to make a strong tea (steep at least 15 minutes), then drink 1 cup morning and evening. In the north of England, you can still buy soda pop made from dandelion and bardock.

Eucalyptus

For you trivia freaks, the kuala bear, whose main diet is eucalyptus leaves, will eat only three types of them.

Nettle

There are over three hundred varieties of Eucalyptus and almost all of them are recognizable by their scent. Most of the barks peel in paper strips and can also be recognized by this. The leaves are usually blue-grey, long and thin with a pointed tip but they will be a brown wine color and growing in a circle around the stem! The tea can be used as a deodorant (no more aluminum chloride building up to poison you) though its most common usage is for stepped up sinus'es, congested lungs and sore throats. You can either drink the menthol tasting tea or breathe the vapor. A tiny drop of the oil (50 cents from your local pharmacy) will rid your cat of fleas though they'll hate the smell (and you) until it wears off in an hour or so. Still, it's better than collars which are so hazardous that they have been banned in England. Just put it on the back of your cat's neck where they can't lick it off. (Pennyroyal oil is good for ridding dogs of fleas.)
Betony

leaves are hairy and grow opposite each other. The tea is delicious (like a Chinese blend) and is good for heartburn, bladder and kidney problems, and the lungs. Columbine, the original fairy flower. (The petals shoot up off the hanging stem like wings. The stamens hang down. Grows by streams.) The root relieves pain from rheumatism when rubbed directly onto the area. My medicine cabinet has practically nothing in it (dental floss, right?). Everything I use is in jars in the kitchen or hanging in bunches to dry. Three things which I use in too large a quantity to pick are goldenseal (root), cayenne pepper, and comfrey (also root). I buy these in powdered form from a health food store and cap them into 00 capsules.

This true advertisement goes: "I used to have a cold a month, until I found goldenseal and cayenne pepper. Now if I do catch a cold, I use 4 parts goldenseal to 1 part cayenne pepper." I take a cap every four to twelve hours, depending on how miserable I am. However, if I feel the cold coming on, I pop a cap of straight cayenne with milk. I say with milk because it is a stomach irritant and as such, you should protect the stomach lining. (That's true for aspirin too by the way. Aspirin actually makes the stomach bleed.) Cayenne is a wonderful tonic, especially in small doses (1/2 grain or half a 0 cap), good for the heart and a decent stimulant. Take it in moderation though, especially the first few times you try it. The important thing is to get to know your own body metabolism and chemistry. (I know people who do 15-20 grains without milk but I'd end up with a stomach ache, thinking I was on fire, if I did that much.)

Goldenseal is also very good for arthritis and asthma. You can either drink the tea or, if you're brave, smelt it. It's not pleasant but it's not disastrous either if it goes right. It also doesn't have the side effects of many "wonder drugs" that only help for about a year or two later when the FDA takes them off the market, after the cancer-causing parts have accumulated in your body and after the drug companies have reaped their millions experimenting on your body.

The other "basic" in my cupboard is comfrey. Check-full of calcium, it will drive out those "pre-menstrual blues and tension," as the Midol ad says, caused by the body's drop in calcium preceding menstruation. It also helps cramps, etc. Again, I use 00 capsules. But comfrey's most known use is for bones and pulled tendons. Extracts of it are used to help broken bones heal. It is also good for arthritis and "degenerative" bone diseases (meaning the doctor will tell you there's nothing you can do about it because he doesn't know of anything). A pack of the powder (remember mud packs?) will heal a bruise overnight, also wounds, sores and insect bites, by stopping the bleeding and drawing out the infection. It is also good for the stomach and hence, digestive problems. It will heal a sore throat, too, being a tonic for the hair, a muscular tonic, 1-3 ft., whose yellow-white stamens hang down. Grows 1 1/2 ft. by the stream in Waterman Creek. It keeps me going "and my hair so manageable."

Nettles are not for softening hair though, being a tonic for the hair, they will do things like make hair thicker, give it body, etc.

Other quickies to look for in the mountains. Everlasting. (A tall plant, 1 1/2 ft., whose yellow-white flowers blend in with the gray stalk and look like they're dried on the stem.) Good for making herbal pillows to soothe the restless sleeper. Used as a mouthwash and gargle. One of its names, "ladies' tobacco," suggests it might be a useful substitute if you're trying to purple flowers grow in circles at perpendicular edges — it was com. Stem is recognized by its four to six tubular leaves. Nettles are goldenseal (root), cayenne pepper. Now if I do catch a cold, I use 4 parts goldenseal to 1 part cayenne pepper." I take a cap every four to twelve hours, depending on how miserable I am. However, if I feel the cold coming on, I pop a cap of straight cayenne with milk. I say with milk because it is a stomach irritant and as such, you should protect the stomach lining. (That's true for aspirin too by the way. Aspirin actually makes the stomach bleed.) Cayenne is a wonderful tonic, especially in small doses (1/2 grain or half a 0 cap), good for the heart and a decent stimulant. Take it in moderation though, especially the first few times you try it. The important thing is to get to know your own body metabolism and chemistry. (I know people who do 15-20 grains without milk but I'd end up with a stomach ache, thinking I was on fire, if I did that much.)

Goldenseal is also very good for arthritis and asthma. You can either drink the tea or, if you're brave, smelt it. It's not pleasant but it's not disastrous either if it goes right. It also doesn't have the side effects of many "wonder drugs" that only help for about a year or two later when the FDA takes them off the market, after the cancer-causing parts have accumulated in your body and after the drug companies have reaped their millions experimenting on your body.

The other "basic" in my cupboard is comfrey. Check-full of calcium, it will drive out those "pre-menstrual blues and tension," as the Midol ad says, caused by the body's drop in calcium preceding menstruation. It also helps cramps, etc. Again, I use 00 capsules. But comfrey's most known use is for bones and pulled tendons. Extracts of it are used to help broken bones heal. It is also good for arthritis and "degenerative" bone diseases (meaning the doctor will tell you there's nothing you can do about it because he doesn't know of anything). A pack of the powder (remember mud packs?) will heal a bruise overnight, also wounds, sores and insect bites, by stopping the bleeding and drawing out the infection. It is also good for the stomach and hence, digestive problems. It will heal a sore throat, too, being a tonic for the hair, a muscular tonic, 1-3 ft., whose yellow-white stamens hang down. Grows 1 1/2 ft. by the stream in Waterman Creek. It keeps me going "and my hair so manageable."

Nettles are not for softening hair though, being a tonic for the hair, they will do things like make hair thicker, give it body, etc.

Other quickies to look for in the mountains. Everlasting. (A tall plant, 1 1/2 ft., whose yellow-white flowers blend in with the gray stalk and look like they're dried on the stem.) Good for making herbal pillows to soothe the restless sleeper. Used as a mouthwash and gargle. One of its names, "ladies' tobacco," suggests it might be a useful substitute if you're trying to purple flowers grow in circles at perpendicular edges — it was com. Stem is recognized by its four to six tubular leaves. Nettles are not for softening hair though, being a tonic for the hair, they will do things like make hair thicker, give it body, etc.
Sport's reports — Spring Intramural wrap-up

This is wrap-up article for an exciting Spring of intramural sports as this is the last issue of the Pawprint forever and ever (or at least until next Fall). Because if scheduling the results of the major sports events aren't in yet.

In Softball the Hoboken Zephyrs and Betty's Boys tied for first in the major leagues while the SOB's won the minor leagues.

Newton's Newts advanced to the playoffs from the minor leagues as Montezuma's Revenge and the Kazoo Stooges were disqualified for illegal recruiting practices.

The Newts, Stooges, and MRs were tied for second when the violations were discovered.

In the semifinals the Zephyrs will play the Newts while the SOB's will play Betty's Boys.

If form holds the Zephyrs will advance while the other game is rated a toss-up.

The Zephyrs should win in either case in the finals.

In volleyball the Bozo Express took over first with a thrilling 15-1, 14-16, 15-8 win over Sachs.

In the game Brice Hammerstein took over Greg Price's cheap title with an assortment of dinks.

The Turkeys and Exits Only! which left them in a good position to tie for the title if the Exits beat the Bozos and the Turkeys win.

Chances appear good for a three way tie between Joe Ainsworth and the Joevonhays, the Grenfell's Turkeys and hard-hitting Mark Sullivan's Bozos.

In tennis (the only completed sport) the husband-wife team of Chris and Dennis Locco swept through the competition to win the co-ed doubles tournament.

The duo went undefeated in three matches.

Right — A relay team made up of the California racing team won the intramural relays. Below — Joe Long gets down for some serious racing.
Sport's personality profile

This week's sports profile is the wildman of the Cal State gymnasium, Jim Given, also known as Kareem-Abdul Given and Dr. Strangelove. Jim, a 21-year-old Junior, is a 1973 graduate of University High School in Irvine where he played frosh-soph football (linebacker) and frosh-soph basketball.

Kareem's main sport was basketball where he was the captain of a team that went 0-24. Of his leadership Kareem says, "I was captain probably because of my league records. I fouled out the most games (everyone he played), fouled out the quickest (1:43 of the first quarter), and got kicked out of the most games in a season. I was certainly a good leader."

Of the games he was kicked out of he states, "I flipped off the ref in three games and showed extreme antisocial behavior."

Jim's attitude has mellowed in recent years. "I don't care whether I win or lose anymore. I'm just out there to screw around and have a lot of fun doing it."

This attitude is also reflected in his work in the San Bernardino Unified School District where he works with recreation. "I try to teach the kids that winning isn't everything. Real winning is beating their own norms and having fun."

Jim works with both elementary (Newmark) and junior high school (Highland) students. In his three years at Cal State Jim has earned the reputation of being somewhat strange or weird. "This is somewhat by design as he says, "I take pride in being different, both acting and looking. I'm basically an exhibitionist. I love to make a fool out of myself."

Backpack reservations taken

Cal-State San Bernardino will now be taking sign-ups for the Grand High Sierra Backpack at the Student Activities Office, SS No. 143. The trip will start Wednesday, Aug. 25 and end Wednesday, Sept. 8. Two glorious weeks.

The packers will begin at Florence Lake in the Western Sierra and hike for three days to the Base Camp at McClure Meadow, Evolution Valley. From the Base Camp side packs to Wanda Lake, Iowan Basin, Darwin Glacier, and McGee Lakes in the Highest Sierra are planned. On the way everyone gets a hot bath at Blaine Meadows Hot Springs. We will return the same way (see U.S. geological survey maps Blackcap Mountain and Mt. Goddard in Library).

All packers are required to furnish all equipment except food. There may be a possibility of one or two pack animals for very heavy, necessary items. Check with Student Activities, SS No. 143. All packers are reminded they should be in good physical shape as we could be out of touch with help two days at a time, if not longer.

The cost will be between $35 and $45. The initial fee will be $35, but depending on costs packers are required to bring $10 extra for gas. The deadline for sign-up and payment will be Aug. 18. Any students who wish to sign-up now and pay later may do so. Be sure to leave your address to be contacted. Maximum sign-up is fifteen and minimum five.

This is the trip of a lifetime, so don't miss it. For further information contact Richard Benekey, Student Activities Office, SS No. 143, or contact the leader: Frank Moore, P.O. Box 360, Hesperia, CA, 92345, or (714) 244-9083. And anyone who can drive his car please say so.
Are you producing film or videotape? If so, focusing your efforts on the historic environment could pay off in four figures! The National Trust for Historic Preservation has announced its National Historic Preservation Video Competition, "Exploring Our Historic Environment," with entries due in Washington August 1, 1976.

Competition is open to graduate and undergraduate students enrolled in accredited colleges, universities and vocational schools in the United States. Individual students or groups are eligible.

First-place winners in each of four categories with more than four entries will receive $1,000 prizes. Categories are as follows: preservation and restoration in process or completed, or relating to traditional building crafts; preservation and people: social, environmental and economic issues; rehabilitation and city planning that demonstrates concern for preservation of older districts and areas; historic site archaeology, historic horticulture or other subject that aids in interpretation of a site or building.

Winning entries in last year's competition depicted the eventual demise of the famous Broadwater Hotel in Helena, Montana. Films may be 16mm or Super-8mm with optical or magnetic tracks if sound is used; video tape may be submitted in 1/2 or 3/4-inch cassettes. All entries must be less than 15 minutes in length.

Films may be submitted in 4 or 8-inch cassettes. All entries must be less than 15 minutes in length. Winning entries in last year's competition documented the heyday and eventual demise of the famous Broadwater Hotel in Helena, Montana.

The National Trust for Historic Preservation, 740-748 Jackson Place, N.W.
Washington, D.C. 20004. The Trust was chartered by the United States Congress in 1949 to facilitate public participation in the preservation of structures, sites, objects and districts that are important to American history. As indicated on the application form.

Winning headquarters in Washington, D.C. and regional offices in Boston, Chicago, Oklahoma City and San Francisco, the National Trust has more than 100,000 members.

Historic Films Sought

Child Care info & application

The following are basic instructions for enrolling your child in the Cal-State Child Care Program for Fall quarter, 1976. 1) $10 application fee per child submitted with each application is applied towards processing the application, health fees and child care fees. 2) The $10 fee is non-refundable should the student-parent not register for the Fall quarter. 3) Pre-registration is necessary in order to assure space for every child. Space is limited to 30 children per hour. 4) Since Child Development funds have been renewed, student-parents will pay a sliding fee dependent on ability to pay. Staff, faculty and community parents will pay the full fee. 5) Hours of operation are: Monday through Thursday, 7:45 a.m. till 6:15 p.m. and Friday, 7:45 a.m. till 5:15 p.m. 6) Children ages 2-12 are accepted and an extended day program as well as pre-school is available. 7) Forms/Elow should be filled out and returned to Judy Calkins, director of the program, with a receipt for the ten dollar fee from the bursar's office. Further information may be obtained from Judy Calkins at 887-7206. 8) No full-time part-time.

Summer Session info offered

"In the cool, cool of the evening, tell 'em I'll be there ..." Not the words to the popular old song, but a promise from potential summer school students to San Bernardino hopes to hear.

Taking advantage of both the cool of early evening and the working schedules of many students, the extended day program has scheduled twice as many evening classes this year.

During the regular session — June 21-July 26 — the evening offerings include 43 classes in a variety of disciplines, but with emphasis in education and business or public administration. There also is a wide spread of subjects in the 28 morning courses and 28 afternoon offerings.

In the post-season of Aug. 2-30, the offerings include eight courses in the mornings, six in the afternoon and five in the evening. Applications are being accepted now by the Office of Continuing Education for both terms. The official registration day is Friday, June 18.

Representing over 40 per cent of the total program, most evening classes meet twice weekly at 6 p.m. Included in the six-week session are 15 courses in education, nine in administration, and others in drama, earth science, economics, history, music, philosophy, physical education, political science, psychology, sociology, and communication.

Morning and afternoon classes meet Monday through Thursday. Most are in the student area, with the addition of art, biology, Chinese, computer science, English, geography, natural science, nursing and Spanish.

For the student who prefers to study at home or at his own pace, comprehensive examination courses are offered in psychology, sociology and general education. An initial conference with the instructor is necessary. The student receives study materials and assignments, and a concluding examination is the only required meetings. The instructor's assistance is available when needed but no classes are scheduled for the comprehensives which count as the subject matter in two or three courses. Ten or 15 quarter units of credit is awarded for successful completion of the exam.

Students needed for ASB committees

Anyone interested in serving on any of these ASB committees for 1976-77 should contact Kevin Gallapher in the ASB office, 887-7494.

Judicial Representative; one vacancy: Handles complaints against the ASB and has a vote on the Executive Cabinet.

Activities Committee; One chairperson and 2 members are needed. Activities Committee; one chairperson is needed.

Sports Committee; One chairperson is needed.

Duties include coordinating and securing funds for intramural activities. Elections Committee; one chairperson and ten members are needed.

This committee is responsible for holding all AS elections and counting ballots.

Publicity Committee; one director and three members are needed.

Duties are to publicize all AS activities and services.

Student Services Committee; one chairperson and ten members are needed.

Duties include running and coordinating all ASB services. This includes the book co-op, carpooling, duplicating, student teacher evaluations and evaluation services.

Judicial Board; one chairperson and four members are needed.

Duties are to act as the final arbitration body in settling all disputes in the AS government.

Publications Board; one member is needed.

Duties include reviewing and budget all monies to student publications.

Student Union Committee; four members are needed.

Duties include approving and reviewing all aspects of the proposed Union, from building design to financial planning and budgeting.

All of the Committees are necessary for the ASB to adequately serve the students of Cal-State.

Extra-curricula and committee experience is often a good thing to put on job resumes and it's a great way to meet people!

Vivitar E-34 enlarger, suggested list price $100. Make an offer.

Eaton 1-2410, standard size, $29.

Barney B29A, express strobe with charger, nice.

Max distance 35 feet and wide angle coverage.

Suggested list $120, asking $80.

Brother's portable manual typewriter.

Call 886-8123 before 8:30 a.m. or after 6 p.m. and ask for Peggy.

Sincere art student, 27 seeks roommate: Close to campus, big yard for dogs, cats, horses or people.

For 4SB services.

Handles complaints against the ASB and has a vote on the Executive Cabinet.

This committee is responsible for holding all AS elections and counting ballots.

Publicity Committee; one director and three members are needed.

Duties are to publicize all AS activities and services.

Student Services Committee; one chairperson and ten members are needed.

Duties include running and coordinating all ASB services.

Publications Board; one member is needed.

Duties include reviewing and budget all monies to student publications.

Student Union Committee; four members are needed.

Duties include approving and reviewing all aspects of the proposed Union, from building design to financial planning and budgeting.

All of the Committees are necessary for the ASB to adequately serve the students of Cal-State.

Extra-curricula and committee experience is often a good thing to put on job resumes and it's a great way to meet people!