NEW ELECTRONIC MUSIC STUDIO NOW ON CAMPUS

A new electronic music studio, which rivals, if not surpasses, any in the State University and Colleges System, has just opened on campus.

Located in the Cafeteria Building, the studio contains an electronic synthesizer custom-made by Buchla of Oakland, who made a similar system for California Institute of Arts in Valencia, one of the most advanced music institutions in the country.

Specifications for the electronic components were prepared by Robert Senour, Director of Audio-Visual, Richard Saylor, Music Department Chairman, and Allen Summers, music technician, who also set up the system.

A knowledge of music, sight reading and notation are not required to use the equipment, which is considered to be one of the most viable pieces of equipment currently available to musicians for composition. The synthesizer can be employed by non-musicians also. All that is required is a feeling for sound and a desire to work with it.

This summer an electronic music class will utilize the new equipment in a two-week workshop which will introduce students to basic

Approximately 1,000 high school students and 500 college students are expected to be on campus for the College's first "Black Solidarity Day," Friday, May 19, sponsored by B.S.U.

Dr. Nathan Hare, prominent Black educator, will be the featured speaker for the day, the theme of which is "Nation-time." Purpose of the event is to promote black unity, according to Robert Rochelle, and Cynthia Robinson, co-coordinators. Students from high schools from San Bernardino and Riverside counties as well as Fullerton State Claremont, Mt. San Antonio, La Verne, UCR, Riverside City, San Berardino Valley, and Chaffey Colleges will attend.

Dr. Hare will speak on "The Black Liberation Struggle and Education" and participate in a forum with black faculty members and community leaders.

The day's program will include: All day - Art Exhibit, Cafeteria Quad; 10 a.m. - Black forum, Fifth Floor, Library; 11 a.m. -
