CSUSB
Senate approves a policy to limit size of current classes

On May 10, 1988 the Faculty Senate approved a policy that would limit the size of 65% or more of classes (excluding independent study) to 25 students. This policy, which has been forwarded to President Evans for consideration, is the culmination of two years of study of all acceptable alternatives and compromises on this issue. The Faculty Senate's goal is to further enhance student retention as well as maintain the instructional quality that small class size in known to represent. "We are trying to hold the line on small class size... (so that) in 10 years there won't be 60-70 people per class," said Psychology professor Dr. Chuck Hoffman.

ASI President Larry Hetter expressed his support for the preservation of small class size in a letter to President Evans. "Had it not been for that one distinguishing feature of this University and the closer interaction between student and instructor which resulted, I probably would not have decided to come," the letter stated.

It is the hope of the Faculty senate that as student enrollment increases, class sections will also increase to accommodate this policy. "Funding depends on the amount of students," said Dr. Hoffman, adding further that there is no reason why more sections should not be offered when more dollars will be available.

The Union Program Council is a student volunteer organization of approximately 5 students who select, coordinate and promote all Student Union programs (films, trips, entertainers, comedy shows and more) each academic year. UPC will be broken up into two committees: Event planning and Promotions. Applications for '88-'89 membership are available at the Student Union front desk.
A thank you letter from the Editor

It's finally here, the end of the year, the last issue of the newspaper, and my last column. I'm sure everyone is happy about all three, and so am I.

It's been a long year for the newspaper staff, that's what I'm left of it. We've been through some rough times, but we managed to put out a paper every week.

I've heard the good, the bad, and the ugly this year. But with all that's happened I've still enjoyed my year and learned a lot. We've heard our share of complaints as well as praise. Next year, hopefully, we can learn from our mistakes. If anyone would like to join the staff next year I will be taking applications till the end of the week and will be here periodically during the summer.

Now is the time I get to thank people who haven't throughout the year, so if you don't want to read it turn the page. I want to thank the staff members who hung in there with me all year. It's been a long road and there have been times when we wanted to kick each other, but we made it and I appreciate all you've done. I also appreciate the newest staff members who came to work when there was a lot of change and turmoil, and still stayed. Thanks to everyone who was in long work nights when we often worked till midnight, but our new record is 5:00 p.m.). Next year I'll include "drinks" with the pizza gang. I want to especially thank my business manager Heidi for helping me through tough times and being a great friend as well. I'll miss your Chroniclen knowledge. There have been several faculty and administrators who have helped me when I needed advice or what not and I thank them. I look forward to working with all the returning staff next year, (it's gonna be a great year gang).

My friends have supported me all the way this year. They've had to listen to my complaints outside of work and have seen me stress out at least 10 times a week. I'm glad they've hung in there the whole year, wait till next year. I want to congratulate the graduating SENIORS and wish you luck. Last but not least, I want to thank all the people who complained about this or that, yelled about articles not going in, talked about what should have been done to make the paper better, and in general stressed the entire staff. You are the people who kept me on my toes and taught me what reality is like. I now look forward to a long summer of quiet relaxation.

I'm looking forward to next year and am glad this is the last issue so no one can write in and rag on my thank you letter. Have a nice summer, cut next year.

More than just sports

Dear Editor,

College is more than just a formal education. It is a learning experience that is enhanced above and beyond that of the classroom in extracurricular activities. One example of this is sports, which provides opportunities for new experiences.

There is more involved in sports than just athletic ability and coordination. Sports have a real value in teaching qualities such as good sportsmanship and a sense of responsibility. Participating in athletic events helps to build character, improve self worth, and create unity. Not only does it unite the participants in these events, but it also unites the spectators and the whole school. The success of these objectives comes from a group of individuals dedicated to these principles, known as coaches.

The coach is an instructor who does more than just teach, he sets the example for all his athletes to follow. The coach

Student feels a need for resolving the problems with campus police

Dear Editor,

As a student, I have had two incidents which have been particularly upsetting to me involving the Campus Police. Approximately two months ago, my truck was vandalized while parked in the Commons Parking Lot while I was attending class at approximately 1:00 p.m. The windshield of my truck was completely shattered, with broken glass all over the interior of my truck. After calling security, I waited 30 minutes for an officer to respond. Of course, the person responsible for the damage to my truck was never located. Apparently, security for the lot was a nonissue.

Second, I was recently stopped by one of the Campus Police Officers and accused of not stopping at a campus stop sign. Not only did the officer change his story as to why he was stopping me, he refused to listen to me during the time he was citing me for the alleged violation.

I strongly believe it does and the sooner the better.

Sincerely,

Khitam Halim

Commencement exercises to take place June 18

Nearly 1000 students will participate in the commencement exercises June 18 at California State University, San Bernardino.

Those participating in the ceremony, beginning at 5:30 p.m., represent about half the students who are earning degrees from the university this year. The graduating class is the largest in the 23-year history of Cal State. Cal State's commencement will be held on the lawn between the Pfau Library and the university gymnasium. The keynote address will be delivered by Dr. Herbert Carter, vice chancellor of administrative services at The California State University system headquartered in Long Beach. He will speak on "Reflections on Education, Scholarship and Value." Dr. Carter has been with the CSU since 1974, serving as the systemwide affirmative action officer and assistant executive vice chancellor before assuming his current position in 1983.

New Fall classes are offered at a Cal State satellite campus

New courses in paralegal administration, special education and psychology are slated for the fall quarter at the Coachella Valley Center of Cal State, San Bernardino. Students applied by June 24 are eligible to participate in mail-in registration.

Because the paralegal administration program offers a special B.A. degree, students must first speak with a paralegal advisor then submit a special major program form. In order to be accepted, students must apply by June 24.

Courses in psychology are being offered at a rate of two or three per quarter, said Dr. Chuck Hoffman, chair of the university's Psychology Department. "What we intend to do is offer enough classes (at the Coachella Valley campus) so that students will only have to come to the main campus for the lab courses." Currently, only the main campus has facilities for the two required lab courses.

The Cal State satellite facilities are located on the College of the Desert campus. For registration, applications and more information call the Coachella Valley Center at (619) 341-2883.

Two CSUSB professors earn fellowships

Two Cal State San Bernardino professors will study abroad under Fulbright fellowships beginning in July.

Dr. C. E. Tapie Rohm, Jr., professor and chair of the Information Management and Decision Sciences Department, will teach at the University of Dares Salam in Tanzania for one year. He is one of three persons being sent to Africa under the Fulbright program which awards 1,000 scholarships each year under a foreign exchange program.

Dr. Ellen Kronowitz, a teacher education professor, will undertake a one-month seminar in Indonesia and Singapore to acquire more knowledge of the history and culture of those countries. She will use her experience to develop curricula for San Bernardino elementary schools.

Kronowitz said the opportunity "rounds out my background because I've studied in Israel which is a bicultural society and Japan which is unicural. The diversity in Indonesia is astounding," she continued, adding that the similar multiplicity in America will make her studies quite relevant.

Kronowitz is the only Californian and one of six women who will be attending this first-time east Asian summer seminar.

Both Rohm and Kronowitz are San Bernardino residents.

Grant awarded to establish a new computer lab

A $36,970 National Science Foundation grant has been awarded to the Economics Department at Cal State, San Bernardino to establish a computer laboratory for economics instruction, announced Congressman George Brown (D-SB Riverside).

The grant, which will be matched by the university, is to be used to install a 21-station workstation computer lab, the congressman said.

Dr. James Charkins, chair of the Economics Department and author of the grant application, said the computerized laboratory will allow students to build economic models and analyze data much more quickly.

"This is the beginning of a curriculum change that we've been working on for five years," Charkins said.

Career-related jobs available for 1987-88

Would you like to earn $6 to $7 per hour and work in a career-related job that can enhance your future?

June 30 is the deadline for placement of students in California State Work-Study jobs for 1987-88. To be eligible, students must be California residents and have financial need as determined by the Financial Aid Office.

A grant from the Student Aid Commission enables the University to reimburse employers for a portion of the student's salary: non-profit business or organizations are reimbursed for 70%, for profit employers for 50%.

Some of the employers who have jobs available now include:

California State Board of Equalization
C.C.R. Publishing Company
C.R.R. Publishing Company
City of Big Bear Lake
Veteran's Administration Hospital
Stat Printing Business Center
Stark Printing Business Center
U.S. Department of Health & Human Services

True Facts provide a humorous outlook on life

by Brian Murphy

While scanning through the pages of my latest issue of National Lampoon, I came across a few notes that might be of interest to the Coyote campus at large. This issue dealt mostly with True Facts, which in essence are stories that actually did appear in newspapers around the country.

In Glen Campbell, Pennsylvania, state police were called when four people entered the home of Blaine D. Bartlebaugh, poured water on him, then sprinkled him with talcum powder. (Inquirer and Mirror (Pennsylvania) Gazette)

According to Police Sergeant George Bartlebaugh, "I'm not too impressed with the people who did this." The theft is the second in as many years. (Boston Globe)

A White Plains, New York, youth was charged with indecent exposure after he allegedly dropped his pants and exposed himself to a person dressed as Gumby. (Gannett Reporter Dispatch)

A student at Northwestern University was found jumping up and down on the roof of a parked car by an officer on patrol. The young man said it was okay for him to damage the car because it was rented. (Northwestern News)

The following reports were filed by police in Bellingham, Washington:

Doris E. McBride was cited for shoplifting after she ate about a pound of mushrooms in a store without paying for it.

An unidentified man was stopped by officers in the downtown area because he was kicking car tires and drinking out of mud puddles. The man maintained that he was "having a bad day." (Bellingham Herald)

The following reports were filed by police in San Antonio, Texas:

A twenty-two year-old man asked a fifteen year-old boy where his brother was, but the youth didn't know. The man shot and killed the boy's dog.

A waiter received a facial cut requiring several stitches when the chef threw a spoon at him. The chef said the waiter did not put enough guacamole sauce on a plate. (San Antonio Express News)

A man in Pitman, New Jersey, took four cans of whipped cream from the refrigerator of a 7-Eleven store, sprayed the contents into his mouth, and left the store. (Gloucester County Review Enterprise)

A women in Pinole, California complained to police that a man wearing an "Inspector" badge approached her as she was leaving a grocery store and informed her that her purple pants had religious significance. (Contra Costa Sun)

A twenty-two year-old man asked a fifteen year-old boy where his brother was, but the youth didn't know. The man shot and killed the boy's dog.

The chef said the waiter did not put enough guacamole sauce on a plate. (San Antonio Express News)

In Santa Barbara, California, a thirty-seven year-old man was arrested by rangers at California's Montana de Oro State Park after he was found "sitting on crates beneath a women's outhouse, waist-deep in muck and dressed in plastic clothing." He was booked at the county jail for "investigation of loitering." (Sacramento Bee)

Television listing in the Rome (New York) Sentinel announced this atrocity: 4 P.M. - OPRAH WINFREY (WCTV-2) - Scheduled: People who have accidentally killed themselves.

From the Altoona (Pennsylvania) Mirror:

"Sweden's army has announced that it will issue each of its 45,000 national service men with five condoms in the camouflage colors of brown and green."

Three hours after his release from prison, Albert Muse was arrested when San Bernardino caught him selling cocaine. According to Deputy District Attorney Jere Morrissey, "What attracted the officer's attention was that Muse was standing in the middle of the southbound lane of Sierra Way yelling 'Cocaine.'" (The San Bernardino Sun)

Audrey Jones, a seventy-year-old woman in San Antonio, Texas successfully bluffed burglars who had broken into her home by adopting a nonchalant attitude. Jones reported that when the two attackers awakened her and said they had just killed her husband, she replied, "Good. I'm glad." When they threatened to rape her, she replied, "I have got the biggest case of gonorrhea you have ever seen." The burglars finally left the house, taking only cash and

by Yvonne Chamoue

... HAPPY BIRTHDAY to Rajean Mayberry, Tami Wollenford and Ronda Hill. These three girls are recognized among the chapter of Alpha Phi for one very important reason; their birthday! The Alpha Phi’s feel that everyone is important on birthdays and that everyone marks each person that much more special. Celebrating for these ladies is usually filled with joy, laughter, and excitement. Which it was, but this time because it was the last meeting of the year made things more meaningful and much more emotional. The Birthdays were celebrated at the end of the meeting with delicious fruit cups. Everyone enjoyed it and the B-Day girls had another fun time with Alpha Phi.

... CONGRATULATIONS to Lori Marsher, Kristen Walck, Shirley Macchian, Evin Ashworth and Rajean Mayberry, our graduating Seniors! These 5 ladies were the emotional segment of the meeting. Each one has individually contributed special ideas, opinions, actions and more to the chapter. From this they have gained respect from the girls, but more importantly they have learned how to cope with others, to project leadership abilities, and have found the true meaning of college within a closely knit-bond of a Sorority. Each girl feels that the Sorority has given them so much, which she is going to be thankful for in return. Within the Sorority they have experienced the fun and games of Greek Week, Derby Day, Battle of the Clubs, etc., togetherness of retreats, the emotional and proud times of Initiation, the tiring practices of rush workshops to the skills and smiles of Rush, and the many romantic dances of formals. All this and more are just a small part of what takes place each year. For these 5 graduating Seniors everything they have taken part of will be a part of them forever. But let me clarify one thing about the name "Sorority", it’s not the name that makes the Sorority, it’s the people within that make a successful Sorority. Fortunately enough Alpha Phi has been blessed to have individuals respect and put their whole heart into the Sorority. Some examples are as follows: Rajean is one of the founders of Alpha Phi at CSUSB. She has held the offices of Fraternity Trainer and President of the Chapter.

The year began last July when the executive committee gathered to formulate strategies for the new school year. Goals were set in three major areas: 1) professional events, 2) fundraising, and 3) membership. 2) fundraising, and 3) professional events.

The Iota Omicron’s first major accomplishment was the sending of Steve Hickman to the national convention in Des Moines, Iowa. This year proved to be a fruitful one for travel. Members of the chapter represented CSUSB and Alpha Kappa Psi at events in Washington D.C., Phoenix, and San Diego.

Membership plans were set with the knowledge that several members would be graduating in June. Thus it became necessary to initiate enough new members to cover those being lost to graduation and still provide for growth. For the year, the chapter has initiated close to thirty new members, including Professor John Scribner and Drs. Tapie Rohm and David O. Porter.

The chapter began the year with an outstanding debt to its national headquarters of close to $500. As a result of successful fundraising and money management the chapter has paid off all debts and will leave at least $500 in the treasury for next year’s operations.

Pioneering professional growth in business is the primary function of Alpha Kappa Psi. The 1987-88 professional events calendar included speakers from Security Pacific and E.F. Hatton and a trip to the Pacific Stock Exchange and U.S.California Headquarters in Los Angeles.

Lori is also one of the founders of Alpha Phi, and has held the office of Lady Marshall. Kristen has served on various committees including State committee, Vice-Pres. committee, Rush and Initiation committee. Shirley is another founder of the chapter and has served as the 1st President of Alpha Phi. Evin has also had the privilege of holding the office of President, Corresponding Secretary, and committee positions.

These ladies will be greatly missed and thought of throughout the history of Alpha Phi. Those remaining in the Sorority are just thankful they were privileged enough to know these lovely ladies who they refer to as "Sisters Forever."

CONGRATULATIONS! !!!!!!!!!!
GOOD LUCK TRANSFERS... We’ll miss you.

Investigation has led to the arrest of Teke Executive Council

An investigation by high-ranking campus administrators into the role of city police officers has led to the arrest of the entire Teke Executive Council along with several members of the fraternity here at CSUSB. Lt. Johnny Bust and Dean Harry Wormer were on the scene as the Teke were led away in handcuffs. "Too much fun...it just wasn’t moral," was Dean Wormer’s reply when asked why the young men fell under close campus supervision. "Ya, and we strongly suspect it was them Tekes who put those 25 foot letters on the side of the hill," was Sgt. Mick Myday’s keen observation.

According to Dean Wormer, the young men of the fraternity were brainwashed by their advisors, Harold Volkommer and CSUSB’s own Dr. Kraig. "They all said, ‘But Harold had such worldly wisdom’," Officer J. Walking’s reply when asked why Lescher was detained. "He started babbling something about, ‘You get out what you put in’, and thirty minutes later he’s lecturing about ‘The meaning of life’. For my own protection I had to club the life out of him...Some of the Teke cheered me on." Brent Johnson and Tom Lescher, on separate charges. "Assault with a deadly weapon," was Officer J. Walking’s reply when asked why Lescher was detained. "He started babbling something about, ‘You get out what you put in’, and thirty minutes later he’s lecturing about ‘The meaning of life’. Midler and Tomlin star in movie about two sets of twins

Big business twice as funny

by Pat Jankiewicz

Twins and mistaken identities have been a source of comedy for years, even centuries, possibly dating all the way back to Shakespeare's "A Comedy Of Errors" or "The Prince and The Pauper." Touchstone Pictures, the makers of "Three Men And A Baby," have decided to try their hand at a twin comedy with one slight twist: there will be TWO sets of twins!

It starts in 1940 at Jupiter Hollow, a rural Dogpatch-type town. Two sets of twins are born there, one to a dirt-poor farmer and his wife, the other set to a high society couple from New York. Both sets are given the same names by their parents (the farmer overhears the names his the same.) A near-sighted nurse mixes up the babies and one of each set goes home with each couple.

The high society daughters grow up to run Moramax, a gigantic conglomerate. Rose (Bette Midler) is a sinister hostile take-over shrew while Sadie (Lily Tomlin) is meek and complacent. When Rose decides to sell Rural Jupiter Hollow to strip-miners, their country twins (also played by Midler and Tomlin) are understandably upset. The change with the country kin is that Lily Tomlin is an aggressive "Give 'em hell" type, while Midler is pining away to go to New York, which is what they do to stop the Moramax's take-over.

The supporting players are better than Midler and Tomlin. Edward Herrman ("The Lost Boys") is right out of a 1930's ground scenes which he's famous for. (A dog trapped in an elevator with his head on the outside is particularly funny.)

The supporting players are better than Midler and Tomlin. Edward Herrman ("The Lost Boys") is right out of a 1930's comedy as a power-crazed Moramax sycophant, and Fred Ward, who usually plays bad guys ("Silkwood") and tough guys ("Remo Williams") steals the movie from everybody as Tomlin's country bumpkin boyfriend, Roon Dimmick.

The screenplay by Dori Pierson and Marc Rubel, shows cleverness from start to finish, including one scene which re-stages Groucho Marx' mirror routine from 'Duck Soup.' The one problem with the script, and film in general, is that we have four characters, two who resemble Lily Tomlin, and they have the same name. The film has incredibly confusing scenes where we really aren't sure who is who, and it becomes a headache-inducer after a while.

The direction is by Jim Abrahams, who co-wrote and co-directed "Airplane." Abrahams stages some funny background scenes which he's famous for. (A dog trapped in an elevator with his head on the outside is particularly funny.)

The film, as noted above, is like a good '30s and '40s comedy, with throwaway nods to the Marx Brothers, Kenan Wyan, "L/F Abner," Ma and Pa Kettle, and literally dozens of others. Like any good comedy, there's no real "allianc," and there's a happy ending in store for all the characters.

"Big Business" is clever, witty, fast-paced, and is highly recommended. The film is funny, and has a nice message about universal brotherhood (or in this case, sisterhood.)

happy and well adjusted in light of their often adverse circumstances.

Some people, granted, do abuse welfare handouts. But there are also people who use it in cases of emergency, who are embarrassed to do so but have a crisis in which there is no other alternative. They know how hard it is to stretch that $550 a month, which, in supporting a child, amounts to slim pickings. They have to feel their faces flush red when the receptionist asks loudly for their medical sticker. Or, they have to endure the endless paperwork in the county office to apply for financial assistance to prevent another "undesirable" poor person from being born.

I hope Koch and the Chronicle readers can consider these issues carefully, and grow in their ability to empathize with, rather than carelessly criticize poor people. They themselves may one day be in line to get on the "dole," for a wide and not always so faraway variety of reasons. I know. I have been there, frighteningly and most unexpectedly, and it's no barrel of monkeys, especially when one has to face such social recriminations towards poor people as found in Koch's article.

A group calling itself the Parliers League for Christmas Cookie Liberation kidnapped a Ronald McDonald statue from a Sacramento, California, McDonald's which read: "Mr. McDonald is safe, unharmed, and, I assure you, entirely unable to escape." The note demanded that McDonald's give a free box of cookies to any child under eight who visited the restaurant on Christmas Eve. "This is not a hoax," said the note.

"If any qualified child is refused cookies, Ronald dies."

The note came with a photo of a blindfolded Ronald McDonald, a stick of dynamite hanging from his neck. A note on the wall behind the statue read: "Do as they say or I'm History." (Virginia Plot)

According to the Dallas Morning News, Southwest State University Student Joseph D. Christiansen II was arrested on a charge of engaging in hazing. Police said Christiansen, a Kappa Sigma fraternity pledge, "refused to explain why he was in a field at 3 a.m. and shirtless in forty-two-degree weather, wearing burlap underwear and covered with motor oil." Hazing incidents must be reported under Texas Law.

"Chapter vice president John Coyle said a Kappa Sigma pledge volunteered to wear burlap underwear with eggs inside because it was a fraternity tradition.

After being pulled over by police, an Edmonton, Alberta, motorist jumped out of his car, ripped out a radar detector, and shredded it with his bare hands. "I don't want to be quarantined for a disease that, um...it's a killer disease."

"If you turn around, I'll give you someone a black eye." "We had a tough time catching Cosby. He's so thin, he slipped out of our grasp so many times...That kid's so skinny, he has to jump around in the shower just to get wet." "Dan Page sounds so much like, 'Rampage', we had to ask him.

Jeff Nichols is a naturalist that's all there is to it," said Dean Wormer. "His motives for signing up for the campus escort service were fascination with, not getting out till September, hopefully longer."

"Jeff Morro, George Bradshaw, and the ringleader, Darin Scione, are going away...That kid's so skinny, he has to jump around in the shower just to get wet."

Rich Hanlin, Mark Cosby, and Dan Page were apprehended outside the campus dorms and charged with "undesirable" poor people.

Mr. B.R.
THANK YOU FOR EVERY SPECIAL AND NOT SO SPECIAL MOMENTS THAT WE HAVE HAD TOGETHER. I WILL LOVE YOU FOREVER, SERIOUSLY!
LOVE MISS 'ACTION'

Michael,
You've definitely made my first year a memorable one! Thanks for all the laughs, great times, and of course, for always being there.

YOU'RE ONE IN A MILLION
-Love ya always, Sonja

Heckmonster, O.K. so we may have gotten on each others nerves at times, but you were still a really good friend. I'll miss having a big brother around. Take care of my friend.

Love,
Kimbo

It's been a lot of fun partying and DANCING ON THE TABLES. I'll never forget TJ and Tequila shooters, I had a blast. Miss you all lots over the summer and hope we party together again next year.

Love ya guys
The Party Animal

Kelly,
It's seems like we had such a short time to "hang-out" and let people get on our nerves together. I plan to visit a lot and you better come back to this Groovy town. I'm gonna miss you and times in the pub next year.

Love,
The Schlepp

Tienette & Lori,
I'm sorry that I have been so mean. You know that I was just joking! Being away from you brings a tear. But I know I will see you next year.

Love,
P

Karen, You are a really special person, and I'm glad you're my best friend. I've had a lot of fun this year and I'm glad we got to share it together. Next year will be the best, see you lots over the summer.

Love Ya Babe!
Antoinette

Kim One,
Thanks for being my Best Friend. We've been through some tough times lately but you've still been there to listen to me. Wait till next year!!! Summer fill as always, don't go see O' too much.

Your Best Bud, Kimber

BILL, KERRY, LORI
Thanx for always being there when I needed you most, you know I'll never forget you and always be indebted to you for listening to me. Thanx for also being friends in the truest sense of the word. No matter what time it was. I love you guys!!

Love,
Apple-Becker,
I'm gonna miss you tons!!! You better keep in touch and come back so we can go to Black Angus, ha-ha. Who's gonna watch over me next year??

Love,
