Fortner And Hamre Face Run-Off For Presidency

by Jeanne Houck

AS Presidential candidates Kathy Fortner and Tim Hamre will compete in a run-off election tomorrow and Thursday.

Fortner received 48 percent of the vote with 222 ballots cast in her favor. Tim Hamre received 141 votes, and Debbie Tamayo 100 votes.

The run-off is required since no one candidate achieved the required 50 percent of the vote necessary to become president in last week's elections.

Incumbents Bruce Jeter and Pat Sweeney were elected Vice-President and Treasurer, respectively. The following school representatives were elected: Sandy Case, Administration; Weldon Sutton, Humanities; Debbie Smart, Interdisciplinary; Debbie Tamayo, General Science; and Bruce Compton, Social Sciences.

Three Justices, Robin Bullington, Anthony Sparks, and Randy Spurgin were confirmed as AS Judicial Board members.

Twelve percent of the CSCSB student population or 468 students voted in the elections, held last Wednesday and Thursday.

After the election results were announced last Thursday night, Fortner said, "It was a hard-fought campaign; I'll be out there again next week. I hope all the voters will come out again."

Hamre added, "I urge everyone to vote in the runoff. We raised some important questions concerning our education and money. The students have an important decision to make."

Presidential Candidate Debbie Tamayo, and Vice-Presidential Candidate Sandra Regaldo, contested the election results and requested that the AS Elections Committee review their practices in a letter to AS Elections Committee Chair Kevin Luster and Judicial Board Chief Justice Robin Bullington.

Tamayo and Regalado charged three supporters of Presidential Candidate Kathy Fortner with "conflict of interest" saying they were also involved with the "processes of the Election Committee" by working at the polls, counting ballots, and supervising the counting of the ballots.

Tamayo and Regalado also alleged that campaign materials supporting Fortner were at the polling table at 5:15 p.m., May 2.

(The AS Election Code stipulates that no campaigning may be done within 100 feet of the polls.)

Tamayo and Regalado requested that the "procedures and practices" of the Elections Committee be investigated and that the results of the balloting be "invalidated."

Last Friday, the Elections Committee Chair Luster stated in a memo that the committee had investigated the allegations, and between four and six members which would have altered the results of the election.

AS Introduces New Legal Services Plan

Free initial consultation with an attorney will be part of a legal services plan offered to the students of Cal State, San Bernardino and their families by the Associated Students (AS) announced AS President Syndeye Moser-James last week. In addition, students who need further legal assistance will be able to receive those services at a reduced rate.

"I have believed for several years this kind of a program is needed here," said the student body president. "And I am very pleased we are finally able to make this program available. Students who need legal assistance frequently cannot afford to pay the usual rates for an attorney or don't know where to go to get help."

The program will be provided through a contract between AS and Mackey and Klein, a legal services corporation with offices located throughout California. San Bernardino representative, Charles Dauer, stated, "Free initial consultation ranges between $50 and $75 an hour. The student who chooses to utilize the services of the Mackey and Klein attorney will be charged $40 an hour if additional assistance is needed beyond the initial free consultation."

In some cases, an attorney-initiated third party communication, such as a phone call or letter may be all that is necessary to resolve the student's situation. In cases in which the attorney determines this would be appropriate, it will be provided at no cost to the student. Moser-James said the student who goes to the attorney's office should be prepared to show his or her Cal State ID card. Students registered for the spring quarter will be eligible for services through the summer.

Mackey and Klein will provide counseling and assistance in a wide range of legal matters such as personal injury, real estate, civil suits, divorce, family law matters, traffic, and criminal misdemeanor and felony cases, said Moser-James. "They are operated pursuant to the rules of professional conduct of the American Bar Association. The Associated Students will provide information about the program but cannot provide legal advice."

Fourteen CSCSB students attended the 29th session of the Model United Nations of the Far West, April 18-21. This year's session, held at the Los Angeles Hilton, was hosted by Occidental College of Los Angeles. Over 100 colleges and universities throughout the Western United States and about 1,500 students participated in the MUN. The first MUN session was held in 1951 at Stanford University, with only 350 students from three western states who met to discuss issues in a model General Assembly and a few committees. This year's event consisted of a General Assembly and seven UN committees that dealt with political issues, security and economic problems, social, humanitarian and cultural issues, a special political committee of peacekeeping agreements in the Middle East, and a legal committee on the question of international terrorism.

Students from CSCSB represented a delegation from Mozambique, a newly formed Third World nation which lies along the middle-to-southeastern coast of Africa. Most students who participated in the MUN were involved in many months of research preparing for the event and seemed to receive a great deal of educational satisfaction by becoming involved in the preparation, study, and the serious attempts to tackle committee and council issues. Each committee had the experience of working with other nations to solve world problems. They drafted and presented resolutions, while using diplomatic tactics like caucusing, forensics, and political manipulation to achieve their ends.

Many of today's world events were better understood as students adopted the nationalisms of the nations they represented. The frustrations of keeping MUN harmony became intensified at one point of the General Assembly proceedings when South Africa was removed from the assembly for showing poor conduct. Although the MUN participants worked very hard at times, many did have the opportunity to relax and unwind at delegation parties, where they could talk and influence other nations in supporting their resolutions or just listen to music and even dance!

The final night of the MUN was highlighted by a semi-formal banquet for all of the delegations. The speaker at the banquet was US Ambassador-at-Large Alfred L. Atherton, who spoke about the importance of the Egyptian-Israeli peace treaty and the role that he played in the Camp David Summit talks. Another keynote speaker was Fred L. Dale, who served as a former Special Assistant to the State Department, former US Ambassador and current Vice-Chairman of the Cincinnati Reds, and present Publisher of the LA Harold Examiner.

Two fund raisers were conducted for the CSCSB delegation to the MUN, which were held in part by the CSCSB International Club and by the College. A luncheon fund raising luncheon was held by the International Club on April 30 in the Lower Commons and featured many mouth-watering and belly-filling international dishes.

Three Hawaiian dancers and solo singer-guitarists entertained at the luncheon which was attended by USC Students President Pfau, faculty, staff, and students. The Club raised about $150 which will be used to help fund next year's trip to the MUN which will be hosted by San Jose State University.) The club plans to hold at least one more fund-raiser sometime during the next term.

At the end of May, the members of CSCSB's delegation will organize and chair a one-day mini MUN which San Bernardino High Schools will participate in at the Central City Mall.

Those who participate in MUN are able to receive five units of graduate or undergraduate Political Science credit as part of the International Organization class (Poly Sci 510) taught by Bril Khare, chair and professor of Political Science.

Any student who is interested in participating or helping out with the preparation in next year's delegation to the MUN should contact Khare or any member of the International Club.

Vets Club Sponsors "Career-Market Place"

The Career-Market Place, sponsored by the Veterans Club, is scheduled for this Tuesday, May 8, in the Student Union Multi-purpose room from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Representatives from both the public and private sections will be available to interview and advise for current and future employment.

Career opportunities for undergraduates, and soon-to-be released military personnel will be discussed.

You need not be a veteran to participate. Career-Market Place is open to all students of our campus and surrounding two and four year campuses. (Personnel from six military bases are also invited.) The companies represent a broad spectrum of career fields and employment opportunities. We invite you to participate and invest in your future!

WHAT'S IN IT FOR YOU?

Interviews with companies for positions available now. An opportunity to meet representatives of organizations both public and private, and schedule interviews for specific career positions.

Valuable information to be gained from professional speakers in such topics as self-esteem, career opportunities in computer science/management information systems, economics, preparation for job hunting, and other subjects.

Free of charge/no obligation.

See The Sonrise Tomorrow At Noon

SONRISE returns to the campus for an outdoor noon-time concert tomorrow. This popular Christian rock group will play in the Student Union patio from noon to 1:15 p.m. and all members of the campus community are invited to this informal concert.

The music presented tomorrow will feature their own compositions; the songs and lyrics represent original works and illustrate their message. Some selections for tomorrow’s program include “Caught Between Two Worlds.”

 Assert Yourself
 Assertiveness training starts today at 10 a.m. in the Counseling Center, PS 224. Interested students can still join and should call 887-7437.

Term Papers
 The Library and Learning Resources Center is sponsoring a series of non-credit classes on Writing Awareness and Improvement. Classes this week: today and Thursday at 3 p.m. in LC 37.

Electronic Music
 A free concert featuring music from the Electronic Studio will be directed by Richard Saylor, professor of Music, tomorrow at 8:15 p.m. in the Recital Hall.
Inside Scoop On Trustee Gallagher

by Mark Kemenovich

The Editor sent me off to interview some character called Kevin Gallagher. When she mentioned the name, I looked blank, so she assured me he would be at the Student Union that night, and she would introduce us. She didn't show up. However, I recognized a few people at a talk that night who struck me as being Kevin. A fit, lean man with prominent features and impressively grey hair looked up. I felt rather silly since I had seen him around the pub a lot and never realized how potentially important he was to the Cal State system or how much he had done for this school. Matter of fact, the Student Union and Pub were two of his pet projects. He is the only student member of the Board of Trustees for the entire Cal State system and was appointed by the Governor for a two-year term from a list of names submitted by the California State Student's Association. I thought the Governor's appointment a meaningless honor until Kevin patiently explained how important it was in dealing with state agencies. A call to a state office would produce a polite but non-committal response to a question until the next day. By then, they had checked with the Governor's appointments secretary and discovered that Kevin was indeed a Brown appointee and all the doors to information were suddenly opened.

The Trustees themselves are responsible for the direction of policies for the entire Cal State System, hire and fire the Presidents, but rarely get involved with the day-to-day operation of the individual campuses. Kevin represents the interests of the State of California from a student's point of view, whereas the Student's Association represents the student body. The major issues he is in now include collective bargaining for the staff and faculty and upgrading the pay and benefits they receive in order to stop the drain of instructors and minds to other schools offering higher rewards. Another set of objectives is to keep the levels of state funding up, reduce student costs (with an already accomplished $2 reduction in registration fees next year) and improve the efficiency of the system in accordance with the mandates established by the people through Proposition 13. In terms of the national average, and even compared to the Junior College system, the staff and faculty of the Cal State system are under-compensated. A serious quality drain results, effecting the quality of education available to older, working students and those unable to meet the costs of more expensive schools. It is the objective of the trustees, and Kevin in particular, to insure the highest possible quality level of education is made available to anyone interested and able to perform the work. As he said, "I thought we were screwed up until I saw the rest of the country and some of the world's school systems. California is light years ahead of the others and serves as a model for the rest." It is his desire that California remain in the forefront.

Almost no other system in the United States allows the students a comparable voice in policy. This situation exists because of student pressure for more input in the governing process and it is unique in this state with a Student Governor (CCC), Student Regent (UC), and Student Trustee (CSUC). Other states' schools are still fighting for a place in the decision-making process while California students debate on how many should participate. "It makes all the difference in the world," Kevin says.

Kevin is 26 and working on a BA in Anthropology which he expects to receive in June. He attended San Luis Obispo State for a semester followed by Law School. He also plans to be married in June. With his future wife's similar desire to attend Law School, he looks forward to opening a independent Law Office in San Diego County, Gallagher and Gallagher. A large delay in completing his education was caused by participation in Student Government. In 73-74 he served on the Student Senate and the following year was AS Vice President, losing the election for President for the following year by 35 votes, in an 18 percent student voting turnout. In 75-76 he again served in the AS Senate and was successful in electing his previous opponent for that year's Presidential election with a margin of 400 votes in a turnout of about 22 percent, the largest turnout ever. In 77-78 he ran unopposed and still achieved a 17 percent turnout. He also served as the Chairman of the Student's Association. To him, this was a tremendous breakthrough. Before that time, the only school of the three that held elections was San Luis Obispo and it had a student body of 14,000 student population. Opposition candidates felt that smaller schools could not relate to the parking, rape, crime and budgetary problems of the larger schools. He proved them wrong to the extent that the current chairman is from Bakersfield which is even smaller than we are.

One thing that struck him hard was "After awhile, when you are exposed to national and state politics, you realize suddenly that you are playing with the 'Big Boys.'" This gave him a different perspective on governmental realities supporting school systems such as ours. Kevin feels under a time constraint. His term in office is running out and for all effective purposes has until the fall to make his case for ideas and improvements. His only advice to those who follow him is a practical one based on realities of politics. It would be nice to have the Student's Association directly appoint the student Trustee, but such a person would lack the legitimacy of a regular political appointee of the Governor serving on a board of similar appointees. For practical purposes, if you are going to deal with the "Big Boys," then you have a claim to being one of them. Kevin, through his efforts to serve the student body of this school, is now one of them.

One of the "big boys"

Serrano Village RA Selection Process A "Facade"

Editor, the PawPrint:

Another year has come and gone in Serrano Village and the yearly guessing game as to who will be selected HR&RA has been completed with the usual amount of bad feeling and confusion over the ultimate selections and assignments. Last year, over forty people applied for the openings. Last fall, a similar number applied for the one opening caused by a 'failure' of the process last year. This spring, the application deadline had to be extended due to lack of response, indicating a disbelief in the fairness of the system. Barely twenty people applied for the five openings. The selection process is complex and time consuming and would do credit to the State Department, the CIA and the FBI providing that it were followed faithfully. It is apparent that the process is a facade. Supposedly, candidates are weeded out impartially at each stage. In reality, it seems that favored candidates can be and are kept in the process until the final decisions can be made in secret. The Housing Office certainly has a right to pick those people they want to work with from a list of qualified candidates. However some pretense at working toward the welfare of the dorm students should be made. It appears that some changes should be made in the selection and assignment process. A member from the school Administration should be present at all interviews and deliberations to ensure fair play. Further, some appeal process should be made available to the dorm residents to protest outrageous and obviously mismatched RA's from being inflicted upon them. After all, the dorms are run for the students and not for the convenience of the staff.

C. Brooks Peters Recollects Days In Nazi Germany

C. Brooks Peters, New York Times correspondent in Berlin from 1937-1941 spoke to the Assistant editor Mark Kemenovich to the position of PawPrint editor for the coming of the MA program in English. He is currently Assistant Editor of the PawPrint. Kemenovich received his BA in History from UCLA in 1975 and has worked as a fork lift operator, and sniper. When asked what he thought about the most important thing that he plans to do next year is, "I am going to find out why everyone of my colleagues shared the past failures and successes with me." Kemenovich replied, "To me, it was a question of what the public expects an art form to be." Peters said German lack of concern over foreign press coverage may have been inspired by pride in their anti-Jewish stand and a feeling that the rest of the world would applaud it. Then too, Germany was firmly under Nazi control and there was little that the other countries seemed to be willing to do stop Germany, or even protest its actions. Peters refused to make conclusions relating the present time to his experiences and observations in Germany. He is content describing what he saw and despite journalistic detachment said the drama profoundly affected him.

Caretakers “Take Care” Of Broken Arrow Gophers

by Tammy Saiyer

INTRAMURAL UPDATE, WEEK OF APRIL 27-MAY 2: 10-PERSON SOFTBALL: Early Bird League — The Caretakers, led by Rick Aguilar, Robert Kruk, and Jeff Ricks, blasted the Broken Arrow Gophers 14-1, and the Mojave Indians won by forfeit over Equal Opportunities.

Rattlesnake League: Cretin Trucks Del Rosa increased their winning streak to two games with their sound defeat of the Teaching Machine, 8-1. Anthony Duncan, Dexter Caflée, Rudy Covarrubias and Mike Oden played well for Cretin Trucks. The Roosters won their game with the Softballers, 6-ZIP. Lloyd Caldwell did a fine job in his team’s first win of the season. In the remaining siege, Tokay Powerline crushed Waterman 32-2. Tokay was only leading 1-0 after the first inning so they decided to put some distance between themselves and the other team in the second. The result? A 25-run second inning and a 26-2 lead. I think Waterman should be given the Purple Heart for playing out the game! Scott Charlesworth and Karl Acosta led the team in runs scored, with 4 runs to their credit.

Coyote League — Los Banditos De Los Basepaths (alias Morongo) stomped the North Street Gang 13-1, while the Newts lost a close one to Fine Arts, with Fine Arts squeaking by 24-23.

COED SOFTBALL: the Bad News Pears won by forfeit over Waterman; Super Mex won their contest with Supply & Demand, 21-10, and Cretin Trucks Delmann Hix, defeated Shandin Crazyhorse 18-10.

LADIES BASKETBALL: Instant Funk downed Amelia Earheart 2 games to 1. It was a great series with good teamwork and friendly competition. In the other game Triple Trouble Five-some allowed the Born Losers to extend their streak, beating them 3 games to ZIP. The Born Losers may not be the best team out on the courts, but with spirited players like Michelle Peters the action is never dull!

COED VOLLEYBALL TRIPLES: the Barking Spiders over Tami and the Titans, 3 games to ZIP; and Blues Power over Tom’s Team 3 games to ZIP.
