Assemblyman Woodruff headlines CSSA conference

By William Lundquist

Smaller, less influential campuses like CSUSB may be shortchanged in the new master plan for higher education, according to State Assemblyman Paul Woodruff.

Woodruff is a CSUSB alumnus, and a member of the State Sub-Committee for Higher Education. He gave the keynote address at the Board of Directors of the California Student Association meeting held Jan. 6 at CSUSB.

Woodruff described the allotment of funds for building five new CSU campuses as putting "the cart before the horse." He does not approve of beginning new campuses while CSUSB is being forced to hold classes in portables.

He also feels that CSUSB, UCR, and several community colleges are being shortchanged for campuses in "glamour areas," such as San Diego, and Orange County.

He would like to see improvements to colleges in this area that are undergoing "incredible growth."

As for the master plan, Woodruff said that, while he doesn't object to any specific portion, he does not believe the plan should try to "include anything and everything."

On the subject of Senator Dills' proposed student fees cap, Woodruff said that he agrees with the concept of the bill, but will not support it until he sees what level the cap would be placed at.

Are slasher films harmless to young viewers?

Or are children learning negative social messages about vulnerability, death and sex? Slasher films, also called "slice and dice," "splatter," and "stalk and slice" films, are movies that contain numerous scenes of graphic violence in which no relationship exists between the killer and his victims.

Series such as "Halloween," "Friday the Thirteenth" and "Nightmare on Elm Street" have enjoyed financial, if not critical, success. These R-rated films have been popular with children.

In a study of 9- to 15-year-old children from San Bernardino and Riverside, my students and I found that one-third of the films mentioned as favorites were R-rated. In addition, more than one-third of ninth graders had seen slasher films, and the percentage increased as students got older. In fact, over 80% had seen "Nightmare on Elm Street."

Studies of the effects on college students who are exposed to R-rated violent movies demonstrated so far on college males and ready availability of these films to people of all ages, it becomes especially important to understand the content of these films and their social message.

One of my students in a social psychology class decided to analyze the slasher films to answer several questions about these films. In the 56 films analyzed, which included 232 female victims and 242 male victims, surprisingly, women were not more likely to be victims of slashers than men nor were they less likely to survive when victimized. In fact, females were more likely to be cynical, obnoxious males.

In contrast, the male non-survivors, compared to the male survivors, were more likely to be cynical, obnoxious, egotistical and dictatorial. They more often used verbal obscenities and engaged in illegal behavior. In slasher films the victims who do not survive are obvious from the start. They are the sexy, stupid females and the obnoxious males.

The social messages about male vulnerability are not new or unusual—much like the black and white of heroes and villains portrayed in gangster and cowboy movies, and most popular films. The message about women also has existed for a long time—(as far back as the story of Adam and Eve)—that there is something inherently evil and punishing about the expression of females sexuality. The attachment of sexual arousal to images of physical vio-

SIGMA NU FRATERNITY

Sigma Nu Fraternity is looking for motivated men who are interested in building a tradition, a tradition of excellence at Cal State San Bernardino.

Sigma Nu Fraternity is offering an opportunity that cannot be matched by any other fraternity at CSUSB.

IMMEDIATE LEADERSHIP THROUGH OFFICER POSITIONS

Starting immediately after bids are extended, you can obtain any office. Immediate Commander (President) through Social Chairman, and begin leading the Sigma Nu colony to new heights.

NO RAZING THAT IS A COMMITMENT

We don't pledge boys, we pledge men. We treat them like men—not boys.

Sigma Nu Fraternity was founded solely against hazing. It is forbidden by Sigma Nu LAW, and it has no place whatsoever in Sigma Nu.

We don't pledge boys, we pledge men. We treat them like men—not boys.

NO RAZING THAT IS A COMMITMENT

Being a Founding Father of a Sigma Nu chapter is not for everyone. Our National staff will be in California State starting January 13, 1990 to select the top men on campus to create the greatest fraternity ever assembled, scholastically, socially and socially.

There are over 180,000 Sigma Nu's in 214 chapters across the U.S. and Canada who have made a commitment to making Sigma Nu one of the nation's oldest, largest and most respected fraternities, internationally. Are you willing to make the commitment?

If you have any questions, please call the Greek Affairs Office at (714) 880-5292 and ask for Brian Ritenour or Jerry Woodward or at (714) 662-8000 ext. 439.

Seize your day today

By William Lundquist
Staff Writer

Carpe diem.

A Latin word that means to seize the day.

It was an idea used by English poets in the 17th century to talk their mistresses into surrendering their virginity. College students have been using carpe diem in that sense for 300 years, but the words can mean much more.

In the film "The Dead Poets Society" the teacher played by Robin Williams urged his students to use the idea of carpe diem to make their lives special, even extraordinary. But he also cautioned them to think, to seize what was worth seizing.

If seizing the day has left you with a 1.0 G.P.A., a drunk driving conviction, an unwanted pregnancy, or even AIDS, all you’ve seized is your own downfall.

Every student at CSUSB has the opportunity for a new degree, a new career, maybe a new life, in the nineties. For some, like myself, it is a second, even a final, chance.

Nearly 20 years ago, I chose to leave college to accept what was then a high-paying job in a low-skill field.

At the time, it didn’t seem to make sense to pursue a degree for a career that would pay less than a job that I could have right away.

Within a year, high-paying manufacturing jobs like mine began to experience layoffs and cutbacks that are continuing to decimate the American work force.

By trying to seize the day, I sent my life into a tailspin from which I am only beginning to recover.

Success in the 90s will require all the college education you can get. You have already seized the day just by coming to CSUSB. Don’t throw your chance away, you may not get another one.

Stay in school. Go to your classes. Clean every last bit of knowledge that you can out of your professors. Get involved in student government, sports, arts, and clubs, even if it means cutting back on the beer, or skipping a couple of parties.

Use your time to get everything available out of your college experience. If you are only seizing the moment to have some fun, you may be missing the future.

Don’t count on getting a second chance, like I did. Make your life extraordinary. The 90s are yours. Seize the decade.

Student upset by gay prof

Dear Editor,

It has been brought to my attention that a certain professor of Humanities named Loralee McPike has stated publicly in one of her classrooms that she was a lesbian. On first hearing this, I was repulsed not only by the fact that the University is allowing her to teach our students but also that she had the nerve to confess publicly that she is one. In my opinion, the viewpoint she is putting forth in her Humanities 325 class, "Perspectives on Gender," is encouraging the acceptance of homosexual conduct which is very similar to a class I had with Dr. Cindy Paxton, Health Science 120, which showed a video of an interview of homosexuals en-

Help Stop Drunk-Driver

Dear Editor:

You have plans for your future - goals to reach - a brilliant future...

So did Linda Lancaster, a doctoral candidate at the University of Maine, at Orono, Maine. On Feb. 18, 1989, the drunken driver of a pickup truck struck her down as she and a classmate walked along a sidewalk in the campus community.

All her goals and plans for the future were wiped out in one senseless moment of drunken violence - a violence our legislators have yet to recognize as murder - a violence our legislators have yet to recognize as murder - a violence our legislators have yet to recognize as murder - a violence our legislators have yet to recognize as murder. And our courts of law waiver over justice for the victim.

You have plans for your life - but, take a moment as you walk across campus to ponder on your chances of becoming the random victim of a drunken driver. We all carry the same risk, as did Linda. But with your help we can - and must - keep our streets and sidewalks safe!

Take a stand. Refuse to ride with an intoxicated driver. Volunteer to drive a friend who has partied too much. Write your congressperson to initiate deterrent legislation against killer drivers: no time off for good behavior - no suspension over justice for the victim.

encouraging the acceptance of homosexuality. The label that the Health Science field has given to people who fear homosexuals is "homophobia". I would like to say that I am not afraid of them but that I am afraid for them. Why, I am interested to find out, is such a viewpoint being encouraged when no counter argument is being presented? Is it because this campus or this community has just decided that homosexuality is a necessary evil or that maybe if we just ignore it, it will go away? Or do these professors have any moral concept of what homosexuality really is?

I refer you to the Bible for God's view on homosexuality. In the nineteenth chapter of Genesis, it talks about how the men of Sodom tried to have homosexual relations with 2 angels that God had sent to that city. The entire city was subsequently destroyed by fire and brimstone. In Romans 1:26-27 it says: "For this reason God gave them over to degrading passions; for their women exchanged the natural function for that which is unnatural, and in the same way also the men abandoned the natural function of the woman and burned in their desire toward one another, men with men committing indecent acts and receiving in their own persons the due penalty of their error." Also in Leviticus 18:22, God said, "You shall not lie with a male as one lies with a female; it is an abomination." One can easily see from these Scriptures God's view of homosexual-

Almost all students have questions about their future and their careers. The Career Development Center provides help for students with such questions. The Center has a variety of programs and services designed to assist students in determining and making their career choices.

Located outside of the center is a Career Employment Opportunities Board. A listing of jobs available on and off campus are posted there. Opportunities are received daily.

There is also a telephone tape service. The tape provides information on jobs in business areas and in teaching, counseling, and school administration professions. They are available 24 hours a day. The number for the business information is 880-5252 and the number for teaching, counseling, and school administrative positions is 880-5251.

The Center also holds numerous workshops ranging from choosing a major, preparing a resume, to interview skills. Dates for these activities can be obtained in the Center.

Career counselors also provide individual counseling in choosing a major and exploring various careers. In addition to a counselor there is a computerized aid to career planning. It is called the System of Interactive Guidance and Information or SIGI Plus.

The computer doesn't tell you what career you should choose, but it is useful in gathering and organizing information on careers and gaining knowledge on specific employment fields and jobs.

The Center's services are available to all students from freshmen to seniors and graduate students.

SLASHER

ience is undoubtedly related to the high frequency of the sexual victimization of girls and women in American society.

Growing concern has been expressed regarding the popularity and accessibility of slasher films to young people. For several years, the Junior League of Riverside has committed resources to educational programs and legislative lobbying directed toward changing the typical availability of these films to children from video rental stores and encouraging the development and use of a more refined rating system than that currently used.

For ethical reasons, it is impossible to study directly the effects of slasher films on young children's thoughts, feelings and behaviors. It might be helpful for parents to more carefully supervise their children's viewing preferences. At the very least, parents should sit down and watch these films with their children to see for themselves what their children are learning. Parents can point out when sex and violence are paired, when the portrayals of women are stereotyped, and how the typical availability of slasher films to children from video rental stores and libraries is undoubtedly related to the high frequency of the sexual victimization of girls and women in American society.
