Art Gallery Exhibit

Experimental pieces of furniture by Leo G. Doyle will be featured in a woodworking show opening today in the Art Gallery.

The exhibit consists of 14 pieces, primarily decorative tables, which the art professor has designed and crafted. He describes his designs as functional, rather than sculptural. The pieces are turned on a lathe or laminated, whichever emphasizes wood grains. A craftsman as well as teacher, Mr. Doyle has sold many of his furniture pieces.

A reception will be held from 7 to 9 p.m. in the Art Gallery this evening. The exhibit continues through February 28.
