EMPLOYEE SALARY INCREASES

Pending salary increases for State College employees, which were approved on July 11 by the Board of Trustees, are currently under review by the State Department of Finance for certification of funds. In addition the proposed increases are being checked by the Pay Division of the Cost of Living Council for adherence to the guidelines established for wage increases under Phase III of the President's Economic Stabilization Program.

C. Mansel Keene, Vice Chancellor for Faculty and Staff Affairs of the CSUC, states that all employees should be made aware that salary increases cannot go into effect until approval is received from the state and federal agencies involved.

The salary increases will probably not be reflected in the July paychecks. If approved at a later date, the increases may be retroactive to the first of July, according to Leonard Farwell, Business Manager.

Two new bachelors degree programs have received approval for implementation in the College curriculum, effective with the Fall, 1973 quarter. The new additions bring the total bachelor's degree programs offered by the College to 24.

The degree of Bachelor of Arts in Environmental Studies, an interdisciplinary program designed to promote understanding of the interaction of man with his environment, will include courses from the natural sciences, social sciences and humanities. Requirements from the natural sciences will develop fundamental principles to acquire more than a superficial knowledge of the environment; offerings from the social sciences will assess the impact of man upon the environment and the possibility of creating different environments; environmental aesthetics and values will be examined through humanities courses.

The degree program in Child Development, also an interdisciplinary program, will include major contributions from the Departments of Psychology and Sociology but with significant emphasis in Anthropology, Biology and Education. This program will be of particular interest to students working in early childhood education.
