The Great Debate Takes Shape

Preparations are being finalized for an historical political debate between the 36th Congressional District candidates: Congressman George Brown and challenger Bob Hammock, 5th District Supervisor. The debate is being sponsored by the Latino Impact Political Action Committee and Impacto-2000. The debate is scheduled for October 15 at 7 P.M. at the Feldheym Library located at 6th and E Streets in San Bernardino.

The debate has generated tremendous interest throughout the 36th Congressional District as a result of the census, in terms of redistricting in 1991 with the possibility of an additional congressional district in the area which could, conceivably, be realigned along Hispanic demographic areas. Arrangements are being made to have the debate telecast by Comcast in the cities of San Bernardino, Fontana and Ontario. "The debate promises to be the debate of debates of this year's congressional race," stated Carlos Juarez, Latino Impact Chairperson.

Dr. Armando Navarro, ISJ Executive Director, stated, "This year's congressional race is one of the most highlighted, and it is of interest at the national, state and local levels, and it is the most pivotal in the country for both the Democratic and Republican parties. Latinos comprise over 30 percent of the district which could well be the swing vote in determining who is to be the victor."

The debate's format will be comprised of two 3-member panels with newspaper reporters John Resendez-Herrick of the Daily Bulletin, Joan Ratovich of the Riverside Press and Jim Specht of the Sun; Impacto members will be Manuel Jimenez of Ontario, Eloisa Reyes of Loma Linda and Russell Juarequi of Riverside.

Juarez concluded, "The results of the debate are crucial in determining who Latino Impact will endorse. We will utilize the Latino Impact evaluation team's recommendation and audience straw vote at the debate as factors in determining the endorsement."

Meanwhile, the congressional campaign has been heating up between the congressional candidates for the last five full weeks of which may be one of the hardest fought campaigns in the 36th Congressional District. In actuality the campaign started immediately after the June primary.

Hammock
According to Hammock's campaign headquarters, Mr Hammock has been on the fundraiser circuit to generate funds, and also to gain support at the national and state levels. Hammock has indicated that a large portion of his campaign funds have come from the "local level."

Hammock recently accused Brown of "formenting negative campaigning which he says "has been systematic throughout Brown's political career. George Brown seems to be addicted to negative assaults on his opponents. He avoids discussing the issues because he knows that if he tells the truth about his own record on crime, drugs and other

Brown
On Saturday, September 22, in a press conference, Congressman Brown announced that he had secured the necessary votes to become the next chairman of the Space Science and Applications Subcommittee. Congressman Brown stated, "The space program is of vital importance to the future of our nation, and to the future of California. As chair of the space subcommittee, I intend to do everything in my power to help get the U.S. space program back on its track, and to keep it there."

Brown is a senior member of the House Science, Space and Technology Committee and co-chairs the Congressional Space Caucus, in addition to being a member of the Office of Technology Assessment. He announced that he intends to appoint an advisory committee of leading national space experts: Buzz Aldrin; Sally Ride; Bruce

Murray, vice president of the Planetary Society and former Director of the Space Policy Program, George Washington University, among others.

Among endorsements that Brown has accepted are: California AFL-CIO COPE; National Organization of Legal Service Workers; United Automobile Workers, AFL-CIO; International Union of Operating Engineers, AFL-CIO; California Teamsters' Public Affairs Council; United Transportation Union; CTA, RCC Chapter; National Education Association, PAC; and the California Teachers' Association.

Recently, Brown received the endorsement of the National League of Conservative Voters, a national environmental group that monitors voting records of members of Congress. The group accused Hammock of trying to "greenwash" which translates to candidates who portray themselves as environmentalists, but have poor environmental policies. Brown has been endorsed by the region's Sierra Club chapters in addition to the California League of Conservative Voters.

Brown recently accused Hammock of a "complete fabrication" in which Hammock claimed Brown voted against $200 million to $300 million in military construction for Norton Air Force Base. Said Brown, "I don't know where Bob got his figures involving hundreds of millions of dollars, I guarantee that he can't find a source to back them up."

Brown expressed frustration with Hammock's pattern of presenting false information to the press. "When Bob Hammock doesn't have the facts, he simply makes them up," Brown said.

Nationally known consumer advocate Ralph Nader comes to California State University, San Bernardino on Wednesday, Oct. 3rd as the School of Business and Public Administration presents "A Forum on Car Insurance in Business and Public Administration." The forum is open to the public at 7:30 p.m. in the university gymnasium. Appearing with Nader will be Wes Bannister, the Republican candidate for California Insurance Commissioner. Ken Reich, a member of the Los Angeles Times editorial staff, will moderate the forum.

Car insurance issues are controversial and those attending the forum will learn the law about insurance, hear the latest facts on the issues, explore the future of car insurance and discover how they can affect the situation. Attendees will have the opportunity to participate in a question-and-answer session with Nader and Bannister.

Ralph Nader is recognized by many as the founder of the American consumer rights movement. His name is synonymous with seat belts, auto air bags and public safety issues. Since 1965, Nader has achieved a number of successes: defeat of the Congressional pay raise issue by encouragement of voter response, support for insurance reform in California and the passage of Prop 103, and the installation of air bags as standard equipment in many American-made cars.

Bannister advocates making insurance affordable to all Californians and seeks to bring common sense to the insurance crisis facing the state. He opposes any attempts to create state-operated insurance monopolies. As immediate past mayor and current councilman in California's eleventh largest city, Huntington Beach, Bannister is applauded by many for his demonstrated leadership in bringing diverse solutions to problems that those before him were unable to solve.

Advance tickets for "A Forum on Car Insurance in California" are priced at $10 per person and are available at Cal State's School of Business and Public Administration by calling (714) 880-5707. Tickets may also be purchased at the door for $15.00 each. The event is being sponsored by Cal State's School of Business and Public Administration and its Board of Councilors, Intellectual Life & Visiting Scholars Committee, The Inland Empire Business Journal and the Inland Empire Management Center.

The Americas Review is the winner of two unprecedented Citations of Achievement from the Coordinating Council of Literary Magazines (New York) and the General Electric Literary Award. Restoring the Hispanic Literary Heritage of the United States

Arte Público Press of the University of Houston has received a $50,000 grant from the Rockefeller Foundation to create and implement a long-range project entitled "Restoring the Hispanic Literary Heritage of the United States." The project consists of researching and making an inventory of Hispanic literature written from the colonial period up to World War II in the United States. Virtually all of the creative literature in the chronicles and memoirs of the colonial period, as well as the novels, poetry and drama of the nineteenth and twentieth centuries have not been studied, published, distributed, anthologized and/or made accessible to students and scholars. This literature, which is in danger of being lost, is to be published by Arte Público Press over the next ten years, depending on the development of funding sources. The pilot project will be divided into two conferences. Twenty scholars from around the country will meet November 9-11, 1990 at the National Humanities Center in Research Park, North Carolina to map out the territory and to make work assignments. The group will meet again in the fall of 1991 to assess the findings as to the texts that are worthy of further study. The first texts should be rolling out of the presses and made available to schools as early as 1992.

The scholars involved in this project are: Edna Acosta-Belén, the University of Albany, Antónia Castañeda, California State University at Sacramento; Rodolfo Cortina, Florida International University; José Fernández, Central Florida University; Roberta Fernández, University of Houston; Juan Flores, City University of New York; Erlinda González-Berry, University of New Mexico; Ramón Gutiérrez, University of California, San Diego; Germán Hernández, University of California, Los Angeles; María Herrera-Sobek, University of California, Irvine; Nicolas Kanellos, University of Houston; Luis Leal, University of California, Santa Barbara; Clara Lomas, Colorado College; Francisco Lemeli, University of California, Santa Barbara; Julián Olives, University of Houston; Genaro Padilla, University of California, Berkeley; Raymond Paredes, University of California, Los Angeles; Juan Rodríguez, Texas Lutheran College; Rosaura Sánchez, University of California, San Diego; Charles Taum, University of Arizona.

"Restoring the Hispanic Literary Heritage," is directed by Dr. Nicolas Kanellos, professor of Hispanic and Classical Languages at the University of Houston and director of Arte Público Press. Dr. Kanellos is an acknowledged scholar in U.S. Hispanic literature and has already been responsible for the issuing of various important literary works which were on the verge of disappearing.

Arte Público Press is the oldest and most prestigious publisher of contemporary Hispanic literature of the United States, publishing 25 books of prose, poetry and drama each year. Additionally, the press publishes the literary journal, The Americas Review, which is also dedicated to the publication of contemporary fiction by U.S. Hispanics.
