MARRIED STUDENT HOUSING MAY COME TO SERRANO VILLAGE AT SPRING QUARTER

Married student housing may come to campus next quarter. A proposal for utilizing one of the existing houses at Serrano Village exclusively for married students is under consideration and may be put into effect in the Spring Quarter if there is sufficient interest to warrant it.

At a cost of approximately $135-150 a month, a couple would have two rooms of their own and share a bath with another couple. They would also have access to a separate living room and study room in their wing of the house. The kitchenette in the house would be shared by all couples.

All utilities are paid except private telephone. The hall has a cable for television hook-up with access to all metropolitan stations. Residents may bring their own furniture or use that already in the house. They must provide linens and dishes, however.

"Any married couples interested in looking into the possibility of living on campus are invited to obtain further information from the Housing Office," stated Theron Pace, Housing Coordinator.

ENGLISH EQUIVALENCY TEST TO GIVE PROSH ENGLISH CREDITS

Last year nearly 4,100 students participated in the first pilot offering of the CSUC test; almost one-third passed, and upon enrolling at a CSUC campus, qualified for freshman English credit.

The program, developed by Edward White, CSCSB Professor of English and Richard Lid of CSU, Northridge, is available to seniors in all California high schools and to others who feel they have acquired college-level English skills. It permits credit equal to six semester units at any of the system's 19 campuses. A $15 test fee is required.

Dr. White said students taking the examination will be informed of the results in two stages. They will receive results of the objective portion in June from Princeton, N.Y., and the combined results of both objective and essay components in July or August.

Applications are available at all high schools and admissions offices on campuses of the CSUC. The test may be taken on any of the 19 campuses, regardless of which one the student is planning to attend.
