The following is a response to the demonstration on campus of the article from the Adolph Coors Coors-sponsored Campus Fest.

Company and Coors of Son the article, "about a dozen" published on article regarding a Student Union, Tosco! (sic), the Pow Print covered with the demonstration or with the protest of on April 29 Compus the rights of those who Fesr on the lawn of the CSCSB. I do believe it is the responsibility of the Pow Print, its Company received such proricipior to voice their treatment in the article in.

On May 13th, the PowPrint published an article regarding a demonstration on campus at the Coors-sponsored Campus Fest. The following is a response to the article from the Adolph Coors Company and Coors of San Bernardino.

In a May 13, front-page article, written under the byline of Jasmine Taccari (Ed), the Pow Print covered a demonstration by according to the article, "about a dozen" participants at an April 29 Campus Fest on the lawn of the CSCSB Student Union.

While I certainly do not quarrel with the demonstration or with the rights of those who participated to voice their opinions, I do believe it is the responsibility of the Pow Print, its reporters, and especially its editor to assure that both sides of a story are presented and that the facts contained therein are accurate.

I do not believe Adolph Coors Company received such treatment in the article in question. Indeed, at no time was Adolph Coors, or Coors San Bernardino contacted or given an opportunity to respond to statements made during the demonstration and repaid in the Pow Print.

Coors was not afforded the chance to present its side of the story, even though a Coors representative offered the writer, the brewery to answer any and all questions. Although we feel the damage has already been done, we would like to take this opportunity to respond to statements made in the article.

Joseph Coors was cited as being "anti-ERA, anti-union," supportive of a "pro-life" amendment, harboring racially discriminating actions, among other things. (The "other things" were not listed.)

Adolph Coors Company has never contributed support to defeat the Equal Rights Amendment. In fact, the company donates to many organizations toward the advancement of women.

Joe Coors believes that the Federal Government is involved in so many areas that it is strangling our society. He does not want to see another area of our lives regulated by the Federal Government. Therefore, he favors state rather than federal legislation as a means of correcting those inequities that still remain for women.

Coors is not anti-union; it is pro-people. Coors employees, not Coors management, have decided against union representation. When employees can take problems directly to management, as can Coors employees, there is no need for them to pay dues to a third party representative.

Adolph Coors Company has never contributed any support to a "pro-life" amendment.

Coors has been certified as an equal opportunity employer by the United States Government since 1972. It contributes money and time to many organizations for the advancement of women and minorities, including the NAACP, Lor. American Educational Foundation, Better Jobs for Women Association, United Negro College Fund, League of United Latin American Citizens and the G.I. Forum.

Coors has minorities and women on its senior management team, and nine distributorships are owned by Hispanic Americans.

The "Campus Fest" was in no way designed to promote Coors products. It was designed to make students aware of Coors Intramural Festival, which was held May 2 and involves more than 300 colleges in Coors' 9-state marketing area. The program was coordinated with Mr. Joe Long, Intramural Director, CSCSB, who stated such a program, which is open to all who desire to participate, is in keeping with his and Cal State's philosophy of intramural activities.

The Campus Fest was in no way held as "part of a stipulation" for athletic equipment which "Coors claims to have donated to Cal State." This "claim" would have been easily verified had the writer contacted either the CSCSB Intramural Director or the local distributor.

In fact, when an intramural team enters the festival on behalf of a college, the college is given a catalogue of sports equipment from which it may choose the equipment for its intramural athletic program.

It is an absolute falsehood that this is a "stipulation"; there is no requirement that any equipment be ordered at all, if that is the participating college's choice.

Equally false is a statement that the Heritage Foundation is an "institution designed to launder contributions" to various organizations. Adolph Coors Company does contribute to the Heritage Foundation, as do many other corporations. The Fortune 500 list. Joseph Coors is a member of its Board of Directors. The fact is, however, that the Heritage Foundation is an organization whose purpose is to educate the public fully and fairly so that it can make a fully informed, independent judgement on the important issues of the day. Letters to the Editor...

Dear Editor,

I am writing in regards to the article by Yasmeen Toci, titled “Campusfest Draws Protest” which appeared in the May 10 issue of the PowPrint. While I cannot respond to her allegations against Joseph Coors, or “Coors Beer”, I would like to clarify some of the points she raised.

The intramural program did, in fact, receive $7000.00 worth of General Sportco equipment last year, as a donation from the A.S. Student Activities Office. This year, the program will receive $5000.00 in equipment from the same sources. Involvement in the Coorsfest was on a voluntary basis, and therefore, not a stipulation for the donation of equipment.

It is my personal feeling that Ms. Toci's article evolved into an editorial. The fact that she was one of the demonstrators raises the question of objectivity in reporting. I respect her, and her opinion, but think that her written comments should have been printed in the editorial section. There are several commercial grievances that I have discussed with the Associated Students. I doubt that any of these can be resolved without the cooperation of the Associated Students. I have spoken to the Coorsfest organizers about the possibility of giving the associated students $7000.00 worth of equipment, and they have agreed. They will be donating $5000.00 worth of equipment to the Associated Students.

Dear Editor,

I would like to respond to the letter sent to you by Herb Byrd. First, I would like to express my disappointment at theAssociated Students who have questions regarding Thursday night entertainment to come into my office or call 887-7498. Now I would like to address some of the comments that have been leveled at the A.S. Activities Office. First let me explain that I am Mr. Byrd. A.S. Disc Jockey. The year is over finally, and the PowPrint survived after all with the help of some outstanding, hardworking people who made sacrifices to get the job done, and done right. I would like to extend my thanks to all the staff for their incredible efforts. And a special thanks to Bradecret, my assistant, who many times handled the load that I had to be not only another assistant editor, but be typographer, writer, layout and page up artist as well. Thank you for your dedication Brad. And those of you who have worked on the PowPrint, and those who have not, I hope you’re a little richer! And a special thanks to others on the staff who did outstanding work beyond the call of responsibility — you know who you are. So, thank you Gregg, Randy, Terry, Sandy, Kevin, Billy, Sandy, To those who came and went, well, you gave it a shot anyway.

So, what happens now? No, the editors didn’t go crazy… as with all previous editors we go our own way — some return to footholds where the view is better, and some return to our own little world. Some get married (I am still in love with my fiancé), and some go off into the future. I’ll be in fish and rocks and I’m off to start a fish business. Goodbye! And John, I love you very much.

Respectfully,
Paul A. Woodruff

Disabled
Student
Gets Things
Done

by Doug Fenn,
CSCSB Alumni

Ken Conner is a familiar sight to most longtime Cal State people.
His characteristic gait and thick glasses are the result of cerebral palsy. His mind isn't handicapped however. The numerous legal actions that Ken has brought successfully for the benefit of the disabled bear this out... as do an electric door complete with a wheelchair kickplate for activating the door. The door is the direct result of a legal action brought against the contractor who failed to install them on the Health Center at CSCSB, even though section 4450 of the government code provides that all newly constructed state buildings shall be accessible and usable by the physically handicapped. Why is it that a compliance order from the state architect was necessary before the college contractor would allow the disabled to use the Health Center?

When Ken Conner came to this campus as a student in 1971 there was no Disabled Student Service Center. There were no bathrooms accessible to the handicapped. There was no Handicapped Services director.
This has changed since Ken wrote his first letter to the Chancellor's Office in March of 1974.

Suddenly a Handicapped Services director was named at Cal State. Lorraine Smith Weaman located her office in an unaccessible trailer behind the Student Service building. It was effectively a beginning. Since then handicapped enrollment has tripled.
A steady rise has occurred from the seven-plus in 1974 to the two hundred-plus of 1981. See what a letter can do?

Some help a disabled student study room opened in the Library on the third floor. It is equipped with a reel-to-reel tape recorder, an electric pencil sharpener, braille typewriter, a braille script drawer, and a braille dictionary.

The Disabled Student Coalition invited the Cal State student tennis team to affiliate their club with the national coalition. This national strength now enables the CSCSB disabled to successfully lobby for equal treatment and accessible buildings.

Do handicapped students think? Yes, they do. Wheelchair-able drinking fountains have been installed in every academic building except the library. The roll on the northeast corner of the Library patio is removing. KEN is still here and willing to make the campus accessible. The fight will go on until the campus is totally accessible to the disabled.
