The Wait Is Over: Coussoulis Arena Opens Doors

Cal State San Bernardino Athletics cut its way to a new era in collegiate sports with the opening of the Coussoulis Arena on September 26. The ribbon cutting ceremony announced to the rest of the California Collegiate Athletic Association (CCAA) that CSUSB was not only a very strong academic institution, but is also a force to reckon with athletically.

Coussoulis Arena was built after two years of anticipation and planning. The New Age facility caters to every need of the fan and student athlete. With its 5,010 seats, Cal State San Bernardino has the largest seating capacity in the CCAA. "The arena is something the entire campus community and community of San Bernardino can be proud of," said Cal State athletic director Nancy Simpson.

School officials are hoping that the new Coussoulis arena will be a magnet for fans and bring respect for San Bernardino in the CCAA. Cal State did not field a single sports team until September of 1984. Cal State Bakersfield men's basketball coach Pat Douglas was quoted in the San Bernardino Sun saying, "The new arena will bring many advantages to the Cal State campus. The Cal State campus can attract people. They can have different marketing possibilities. It helps with recruiting players. It helps with fund raising. And they have a nice environment for practices."

Commercialization is occurring in collegiate sports today. The logos of Coca-Cola™, Budweiser™ and Bakers™ are evident on the $150,000 scoreboards. There is also a $150,000 sound system always ready to "rock" the fans into the night.

A question that is buzzing around the Cal State campus is whether or not the Coyotes are planning to move up to Division I. "I've fielded that question many times," said Simpson in an interview with the Sun. "We are still a very young Division II institution. We need to walk before we can run. Let's be the best that we can be on this level."

Currently, the Women's Volleyball team is the only team playing in the Coussoulis arena. The first women's basketball game in the arena is Nov. 17, the first men's basketball game is Nov. 24, and a "Basketball Extravaganza" is scheduled for Nov. 28.

As the saying goes, "Build it and they will come." With the arena built, the athletic department can do nothing, but wait and hope for the fans to arrive. Judging by the early reviews, we're on the highway of athletic supremacy. Next stop— NCAA Division I Champs.

By Jason Armstrong
Coyote Chronicle Staff Writer

The eight-foot wooden Greek letters towering over students' heads; canopied tables, noticing that Fall Greek Rush has not walk past the Student Union and paraphernalia...One canannon S stratton, IP.C. president and are interested in Rushing can be recruited is composed of representatives of both Fall and Spring quarters. Stratton is a member of Sigma Nu. "More men from each fraternity, who oversee this fall than in years past," Stratton said.

Rushing a Greek organization creates opportunities to advance in both collegiate and business careers.

"My sorority has motivated me to maintain a high grade point average. I have gained leadership skills and there are good opportunities to find jobs through alumni affiliation," said Erin Cox, a member of Kappa Delta.

For men interested in rushing a fraternity this fall, Rush ends Oct. 5 in the Student Union area. Women may sign up at the Panhellenic table. A $10 fee is required for women to participate in Rush, which runs until Oct. 9.

Rogers Scholarships Awarded
From News Services

The Rogers Scholarship Fund is established to provide financial assistance to upper-division undergraduates and post baccalaureate students enrolled full time at the College of the Desert site in Palm Desert. These scholarships, supported by the Mary Stuart Rogers Foundation represented by Mr. John Rogers of Modesto, Calif., are designed to cover the full cost of tuition, fees, books, and supplies for each academic year of matriculation, and are awarded to students with junior and senior status. Rogers Scholarships will also be awarded to Honors students from any major, and Liberal Studies majors whose career goals involve either elementary or secondary teaching. Post baccalaureate students enrolled in teacher preparation or Education master's degree programs are also eligible to become Rogers Scholars. Recipients must have demonstrated a sincere commitment to their own personal growth, compiled outstanding academic records, demonstrated leadership qualities, and have shown a desire to serve their fellow students and citizens.

Students desiring continuing support must reapply annually for the Rogers Scholarships. Applications are accepted April 1 for the succeeding academic year. Recipients are eligible for two academic years of financial support as full-time undergraduate students, and may apply for a third year of support at the time they enter a post-baccalaureate program.

Twelve Cal State, Coacella Valley Campus students recently received Rogers Scholarships for the 1995-96 school year. Those recipients are: Gunter Koch, junior; Alisom Holcomb, graduate; Christine Willso, junior; Theresa Boote, junior; Linda Ware, junior; Philip Burnett, junior; Stacie Knox, senior; Deanne McCallum, senior; Carmen Riveria, graduate; Joan Evans, senior, Deborah White, graduate, and Kenya Williams, graduate.

New System May Clear G.E. Confusion
By Lori Wyman
Coyote Chronicle Staff

A new feature has been added to the registration system to assist new students in their Math and English course selections.

"All students are required to take basic courses of college algebra or 'Ideas of Math and English' by the first quarter at Cal State," said the director of academic advising, academic services and testing, Ray Navarro.

The system will inform students if they need to take a remedial math or English course. If a student has taken the English Placement Test or Entry Level Math test in their first quarter, then they should take the basic math or English course by the second quarter.

The system will notify the student whether they need to take the placement exams at all.

The system was prompted last summer by the computer center because too many students were not advised to take remedial courses.

The Academic Services office could not reach everyone in time.

The next E.P.T. and E.L.M. will be Oct. 14 and students need to sign up in the testing center's new location, JB-405. The E.L.M. costs $16 payable by check the day of the exam. The E.P.T. is free.

If you have a question about these tests or other academic services, call Academic Services at ext. 5035 or see them in UH-380.

"Campus Safety Through Service" is the Department of Public Safety motto. This year, in Public Safety, I intend to make that motto a reality. During the summer we have made some changes that will help that happen.

Our officers have gone from a 4-day to a 5-day work week to increase the number of officers on duty at any given time. We have added a detective position to effectively handle criminal investigations and coordinate crime prevention efforts. Two new night shift corporals bring more supervisor coverage as well. Our personnel more visible through the greater use of vehicle emergency lighting equipment and routine bicycle patrols will increase visibility later in the year.

As the new school year begins, Dr. Hatton, Ph.D., the Director of the Student Health Center and Psychological Services, and the entire staff, would like to welcome the new students to our campus. We remind our returning students that we are here for you throughout the regular school year to attend to your basic health needs.

The student health center provides basic medical care for all students enrolled at CSUSB. A current quarterly and photo ID must be presented at the time of service.

Some of the types of services available are: family planning/birth control, pregnancy testing, STD testing, immunizations (e.g., Mammograms, TB shots are free, but travel shots, Hepatitis A and B are at cost. Limited amounts of flu shots and gynecological exams are free. There is a $10 lab fee for pap smears, physical exams, counseling services, diagnosis and treatment of acute illness and injuries such as bladder infections, allergy shots, respiratory infections, sprains, warts, etc. Other services: individual nutritional counseling by CSUSB nutrition students, smoking cessation counseling and medications such as the Nicorette gum or Nicotrol patch.

The medical staff is composed of two full time board certified physicians. Dr. Yolanda Ruokis is board certified in Internal Medicine/Endocrinology and myself. I am board certified in Family Practice. Jane Doetsch, N.P. is a full time Nurse Practitioner. The nursing staff has two R.N. and two L.V.N. and is supervised by Debbie Garcia, R.N. There is one full time pharmacist Neil Farber.

The nursing staff will triage patients by telephone daily, preferably in the morning and same day appointments can usually be made between 8 to 9 a.m. depending upon our staffing.

There are four full time counselors which includes a licensed psychologist and graduate psychology students who are available to provide individual counseling sessions, but there is no psychiatrist available to provide analysis or medication but referrals can be made to local providers.

There are no X-ray services available on campus but if X-rays are necessary, we can arrange discounted fees for our students at San Bernardino Community Hospital. Reports are faxed back to us on the same day in urgent cases. There is no laboratory on site, but a limited number of tests can be done here free, such as pregnancy test. If tests are requested by your physician or the nurse practitioner, it can be done at a local lab at a discounted fee to the student.

A patient education center consisting of videos, books and pamphlets has been established and is gradually expanding. These videos and books can be checked out for home viewing for three days with a valid student ID. At no charge. We encourage students to donate materials from other sources as well as your suggestions on material to include in the center because hours are subject to change. Students are seen by appointment only.

In cases of emergencies, call campus police. If there is a non-life threatening injury on campus, campus police can arrange transportation to the health center if necessary and they will notify us.

All basic services except for outside labs or X-rays are free. There is an additional charge for physicals such as DMV, Nursing or Sports PE exams. All students are strongly encouraged to obtain medical insurance if they are no longer carried by their parents, spouse or employer. Your student government sponsors a low cost policy which costs $101 per quarter, or $401 for the year. Your student health fees help to support the health center and does not cover any for outside services.

If you have any questions or would like to make an appointment, please call (909) 880-5241.
Admissions Offers Help for Graduates and Concurrent Enrollees

Pat Owens
Special to the Coyote Chronicle

The Office of Admissions and Records is on campus to assist you in any way you can. In that light we will be introducing staff and procedures for handling various services.

Current Summer Enrollment - Planning to take a class off-campus that you want to use toward your degree at CSUSB? To assist you in determining that the course you plan to register for will transfer back to your degree requirements, you can refer to the binder called "Course Equivalent Articulation" located in UH-171.

This book contains articulation agreements between local community colleges and CSUSB. To guarantee that the class will be accepted toward your graduation, you must submit a Concurrent Enrollment/Summer Session Contract to the Office of Admissions and Records.

You will want to submit the concurrent enrollment paperwork at least four weeks before you register for the off-campus course. Peggy Kindschy, an evaluator with Admissions and Records, will verify that the course listed fulfills the same requirement as the required course at CSUSB. Once her review is complete, she will mail your copy of the contract to you.

Grad Check Requirement Check - You must request a graduation requirement check to the Admissions and Records Office before the end of the term in which you expect to graduate (check the current dates schedule for deadlines). There is a fee for the grad check. All grad check requests filed by the deadline dates will be completed no later than the beginning of first priority registration of the quarter for which you have filed graduate. Grad check requests filed after the deadline could take as long as three months for completion (priority is given by filing date). Undergraduate students should have completed a minimum of 144 quarter units toward their degree before filing a grad check. Graduate students should have been advanced to candidacy before filing for their grad check.

Don't forget that if you do not complete the requirement for graduation in the term for which you filed, you must refile your grad check. You won't be able to register for the term following your expected graduation until your grad check is refiled and the required fee paid. As you can see, it is very important that you keep Admissions and Records informed of your graduation status changes.

Beatrice Candy (first time file) and Cecilia Contreras (refile), both evaluators in Admissions and Records, handle graduation requirement checks. They can be contacted if you have questions regarding your grad check by calling (909) 880-5202.

You can call the Commencement Hotline at (909) 880-7050 for current commencement eligibility. Fall '95, Winter '96, Spring '96, and Fall '96 graduates may participate in the June 1996 commencement ceremonies. Fall '96 graduates who wish to participate in the June '97 commencement must remember, participation in commencement is voluntary and does not constitute graduation.

The Office of Admissions and Records is located in the University Hall building, Room 171.

Grants have been donated to the School of Natural Science that will strengthen the research in fields of geology, physics, chemistry and computer science.

Chemistry instructor Dr. David Maynard and his undergraduate students have received $18,600 from the Research Corporation for the past two summers with the intent of purchasing a spectrometer. The instrument provides information for chemical analysis of reaction mechanisms. This analytical instrumentation research is done hereby undergraduates.

CSU System Budget Reviewed by Board

When the CSU Board of Trustees heard a presentation on the status of the current year’s budget, Vice-chancellor for Business and Finance Richard West told trustees that the $65.4 million general fund increase for 1995-96 is a 4.2 percent hike over the previous year.

"It’s not everything we asked for, but it's a good base to go forward with for 1996-97," West said.

The total budget for the year is $2,284 billion, which includes $1,623 billion in contributions from the State University Fee and other revenues. The budget projects an enrollment of 252,000 full-time equivalent students, a slight increase over last year’s count.

There will be no increase in the student university fee this year.

Gov. Pete Wilson and Congress supplemented the CSU budget with $22.5 million to offset any fee hike. However, that amount was $7.5 million short of what a 10 percent fee increase would have generated.

The general fund increase plus lease payments is consistent with the four-year compact announced by the governor in his January budget. At that time, the governor said he would support a 4 percent increase for higher education over the next four years.

For 1996-97, West said that the CSU will request a 7 percent increase in funds, from this year’s General Fund allocation of $1,623 billion to $1,741 billion. Included in that amount is the $7.5 million not received this year in lieu of a fee increase. $67.3 million for bond debt service; and $32.4 million to offset any fee increase in the coming year.

The total projected, requested budget is $2,404 billion, which also includes $663.5 in fees and other revenue.

The budget proposal includes a 1,500 enrollment growth and 4 percent salary increase, as well as $6 million in academic and technological support.

Trustees again will ask the governor and legislature to supplement the budget so student fees remain the same as this year. However West and Chancellor Barry Munitz said trustees will be asked to include a 10 percent fee increase in their budget, in case the money cannot be allocated from the general fund.

Archaeology Conference

The Department of Anthropology will be hosting the second biennial conference of Complex Societies Group. This is a meeting of archaeologists, primarily from California and the Southwest, who are interested in archaeological theory and its application to complex societies.

In conjunction with the conference, Professor Thomas Huffman of the University of the Witwatersrand, South Africa, will be giving a public lecture on "Sacred Leadership in Great Zimbabwe" at 7 p.m., Oct. 24, in the Sycamore Room.

Choirs Bring New Music to Ears

By Victoria Besedin
editor-in-chief

"I'm supposed to be in two places at once. It's the story of my life," said Director of Choral Activities Tamara Harsh.

With three choirs to coordinate through the year, Harsh, indeed, seems to live by that creed. The Chamber Singers, an intimate group of singers, and the Concert Choir, a larger group of performers, meet Monday to Friday and will perform almost any type of music, from Renaissance to Jazz.

The Symphonic Choir is the latest edition to the choral program. Like the Concert Choir, no auditions are necessary.

"Some people are intimidated by them," said Harsh.

Anyone from the community and campus can join the new choir, which will serve as a partner with some of the Inland Empire Symphonic Choir's performances at the California Theatre.

Harsh has received an enormous response. Over 80 people have committed to the weekly Tuesday night rehearsals. Students who joined later than community members may leave on a quarterly basis. Harsh promised to be flexible, especially since more women than men joined the choir.

"We will accept new students each quarter," Harsh said. "I would like to have a 2 to 1 ratio of singers to achieve the best balance. I can have as many (people) as 150."

The Symphonic Choir's performance schedule begins with Carl Orff's "Carmina Burana" Nov. 19 in the recital hall. "Gloria" of Francis Polenc, which will be performed with the Inland Empire Symphony April 13, 1996, and Johanne Brahms' "Liebeslider Waltzes" planned for June 8, 1996 in the recital hall. Maestro Stuart Robertson will conduct and Harsh will serve as choral master.

Harsh hopes the non-profit group will become a top-notch chorus.

"It's my hope that people can stay for the academic year. We can earn a reputation," Harsh said.

Students may enroll in the one unit class winter quarter for no cost. Community members are charged $15 for music and supplies. For more information or the schedule of performance dates for any of the choirs, call ext. 5859.

The following are the results from Campus Crusade for Christ's unofficial survey of CSUSB's opinions on religion.

The random sample included 70 male and 80 female students. 33% of the students were in their first two years of college. 67% of the students were either in their last two years or graduate students.

57% of the students had read less than 50% of the Bible. 41% of the students had read 50% or more of the Bible. 2% were disqualified either for not answering or for making more than one answer.

When asked who, in their opinion, is Jesus Christ, 49% answered that he is God. 15% were disqualified for marking more than one answer. 15% answered that he is a teacher. 7% answered that he is a prophet. 5% were unsure. 4% didn't know. 3% think he's a myth, and 2% believe he is a philosopher.

When asked their opinion about God's existence (God not defined in the survey), 89% stated that they believed God exists. 8% were unsure. 3% stated that they did not believe God exists.

Those students who were positive about the existence of God also stated how active they believed him to be in this world. 42% likened his activity to the statement "God is the world and the world is God." 24% "God is revealing himself progressively and continuously." 18% were disqualified for marking more than one answer or no response. 7% "God interacts when he pleases and as he pleases." 6% "God is separate from the world just as a watchmaker is from the watch," and 3% "God reveals himself through history."

The last two questions tabulated dealt with the activity of God in a person's life. Out of the 69% who stated that it is possible for mankind to know God personally, 81% were interested in that relationship. Only 9% stated it was impossible to know God personally, and 19% were unsure. 3% did not respond.

There are students interested in spiritual matters. If you would like to dialogue more about Christianity, Campus Crusade for Christ's weekly Coffee House Discussions meet in the Lower Commons Eucalyptus Room every Thursday Night at 6:15 p.m.

Education Alert...President Battles Congress for Financial Aid Future!

William J. Clinton
President of the United States

This is a busy time for you. But while you are choosing classes and making the decisions that will help you build a good life for yourself, the Congressional majority is working to make drastic cuts in education - in your student loans, in national service, and even in your scholarships. And the cuts will jeopardize the future you and your generation are working toward.

I want you to know that I oppose these cuts. I will do everything in my power to fight them and to see to it that the dream of higher education remains real for all Americans. I will do this not only by defending the opportunities of those of you who are already in college, but by opening the doors further to make sure that even greater numbers of deserving Americans have the chance to stand where you stand today.

For the first time in a long time, leaders from both parties are resolved that we must balance the federal budget. From the day I took office, I’ve been committed to this goal -- getting rid of the budget deficit that quadrupled our national debt in the 12 years before I came to Washington. So far, we have made great progress. In three years, we have cut the deficit nearly in half, from $290 billion to $160 billion.

Now we are ready to eliminate the deficit entirely. On this, the Congressional majority and I see eye to eye.

But just how we get rid of the deficit is another matter. The majority in Congress wants to balance the budget in seven years, and do it while giving an unnecessarily large tax cut. But in order to do these things, the Congressional majority would make enormous cuts in education.

My balanced budget is about more than numbers. It’s about our values and our future. Education has always been the currency of the American Dream. When I was your age, it was assumed -- based on our long history -- that each generation would have a better life than the preceding one. More than anything else, a good education is the way we pass this vision on to those who come after us.

The facts speak for themselves. Earnings for those with no post-secondary education have fallen substantially in the last 15 years. The only people for whom earnings have increased steadily are people exactly like you - those Americans with more education. Every year of higher education increases your earnings by six to 12 percent. Those years also mean a stronger overall economy and richer lives for those who have them.

Balancing the budget will be good for our economy and your future if it’s done right. But simply balancing the budget won’t do us much good in the long term if your generation does not have the education it needs to meet the challenges of the next century.

Just think over what the Congressional majority’s plan, if it were to pass, would do to you, your classmates, and any of the one out of two college students who receives federal aid. It would:

• Increase funding for Pell Grants by $3.4 billion. Almost one million more students would benefit from the scholarships. And we would raise the top award to $3,128 by the year 2002.
• Expand Americorps to let even more young Americans serve their communities and go to college.
• Protect our direct-lending program, which makes student loans more affordable, with more repayment options, and saves taxpayers, parents, and students billions of dollars.
• Just returned from Pearl Harbor, where I took part in ceremonies marking the 50th anniversary of the end of the Second World War. In the late 1940’s, when the veterans we honored left their loved ones to go off and serve their country, they were the age most of you are now.

When they came home, the country recognized their service and their potential, and it responded with the G.I. Bill, which guaranteed a college education to every returning veteran. Those who served weren’t given a handout, and they didn’t want one. They were given the opportunity they needed to take responsibility for their lives.

Your generation has its own battles to wage. You face the choice of doing something right and difficult— or something easy and wrong.

In taking on the responsibility of educating yourselves, you have chosen the right and difficult path. You did the work you had to do to get into college. You may be working now to pay your way. And your family may have worked long hours and made great sacrifices to help you get where you are today.

You deserve the nation’s support. And your future success will likely repay our common investment. I do not accept the arguments of those who condemn responsibility in young Americans and then seek to deny the nation’s helping hand to the millions of you who are doing the right things.

I hope you’ll support my efforts to protect education and balance the budget. The fight for education is the fight for your future. In my life -- and in the lives of countless Americans -- education has meant the difference between the impossible and the possible. It should be true in your lives, too. With your help, we’ll keep it that way.

An Equal Opportunity Employer M/F
By Mitchell N.S. Bohn
Coyote Chronicle Staff Writer

Around campus, I have heard quite a bit of hate and discontent about the current system of financial aid policies for minority students. This is not an easy subject to discuss, let alone to please all the people involved. The biggest gripe that I have heard was that most of the minority students are not receiving enough financial aid from the state and from federal agencies. As of last year, a small amount of students who attended CSUSB were actually illegal aliens. If the operative word here is "illegal," what right does any financial aid do those students deserve? This is just an extreme case, but it is just one of the campus gripes.

Other minority students are actually receiving more financial aid as dependent students than those that are independently living. I think that this has a lot to do with the Affirmative Action movement, and as everyone knows, that movement is on the federal chopping block. That is one of the best things I have heard in a long time. Minority students gripe when they feel that they are being taken advantage of. But then again, which one of us wouldn't? But everyone must admit that having the law on your side does help the griping process.

As an independent student, as a student that is currently taking 19 units, and as a person that holds a part-time job, and is currently paying one third rent of a eight hundred dollar a month house, I feel that I'm the one being taken advantage of. I must also make this very clear. I am not prejudiced. I do feel, however, that I am the one being discriminated against because I am white, independent, and a veteran. I am also on the G.I. Bill program. But state and federal agencies take into account what I can and cannot borrow. This puts a cap on how much aid I can receive. That puts me in the same boat as all the other people who have limits on their aid.

I feel now that I should get back to the issue of the Affirmative Action movement. Movements are not to be thought of as permanent things. Just the meaning of the word "movement" means that it goes a certain distance, then it stops. When all of the students start getting as much aid as the minority students do, or when the aid that the state and federal government gives is good enough for all students, then Affirmative Action will be over.

To conclude, Affirmative Action has caused segregation within the Cal State system. The fact that most minorities think they do not receive enough aid and that most of the majority is struggling just to have enough money to attend this school, is enough to cause some major tension between the two. What I'm just sick and tired of is the constant whining. But hey! That's just me!

"How do you feel about Affirmative Action on campus?"

ABSOLUTELY FOR IT: Races are gonna wanna hire their own. It's human nature. Removing affirmative action will allow that behavior to exist. Every program has abuses. For all those Newt Gingrichs' and Rush Limbaughs' out there, who are whining about affirmative action today: Where were they during Jim Crow and the Fifties and Sixties? Benjamin Washington, political science major.

TOTALLY AGAINST IT: You're hiring based on racial preference. There is no standard. It's about time. Some students and faculty must wonder how they get their job. It is unnatural to take race into account. Racial background has nothing to do with task performance. Academic prowess and past experience with a job does. Racism was wrong in the 50's and 60's. It's wrong now. I don't think you can blame contemporary conservatives for racism of the past. Paul Coachbuilder, poly-science major.

"SHOWGIRLS"
(Shows All and Everything)

Fade in on two figures encompassed by an overhead spotlight. With the intuition and sexual prowess of a tiger in heat, the female of the pair ironically dominates her playmate. Like slippery eels, they writhe, undulating simultaneously in thudding silence, like the dragon swing ride at the county fair. Her black, lace teddy, straining against its fleshy cargo unlocks the male's libido as he releases her gyrating form from synthetic shackles. A merger takes place, a veritable orgy of synchronicity, the two eels becoming one being, like the yin and the yang. Her bright red fingernails dance through his chest hair, as the camera slowly retreats, and the titles roll.

This was the movie we had hoped to catch. Unfortunately, we didn't discover a porn flick, rather a story ripe with plot, and character revelation; a real bummer, as far as we're concerned. Granted, there were approximately thirty-two different pairs of breasts displayed, with no discrimination against race, creed, color, or cup-size...creating yet another movie exploiting the physical talents of an aspiring actress, gambling on nudity as a ticket to respectability. But the poignancy, thankful sleazy and contrive reared its ugly head.

Hence, the movie Showgirls, starring Elizabeth Berkley, who is remembered as the lovable (and quite pure) Jessie Spano from TV's Saved by the Bell. Our pet theory is this: deep-down, we all know her heart always has an always will-belong Slater.

No matter how hard we concentrated on the nudity aspect, some of the plot did seep probably through osmosis. Besides, our editor told us we had to review the movie, not Elizabeth Berkley's character Nomi Malone, is an aspiring dancer who hits Vegas, running from her检查 past. Once there, for white trash in a sin city paradise, she is stripped of all personal belongings after trusting an Elvis impersonator, but luckily taken in by Molly Abrams, portrayed by Gina Rivera (who got...

Took Nothing)

As with all rite of passage stories, Nomi is forced to face many tests of her will, most of them focused on her social rolls, which seem next to ill. You'd think if she just took a chill pill she'd get along fine with everyone in the movie, especially Crystal Connors, the chief protagonist (played splendidly by Uma Gershon, who, if you're interested,
does reveal her breasts every time). The best cenes occur as these two characters exchange diagle not unfamiliar to a mother and daughter dis-ussing the birds and the bees.

The display of Nomi's naivety is a con-tant in the film, despite the writer's lack of reservation in scripting a scene in which she makes love to a metal pole erected on bare stage. We were shocked by Nomi's constant degradation as she clung to her holier-than-thou morals. As this question entered our minds, which it did regularly, thankfully a flurry of breasts appeared, and the conundrum was soon forgotten. The writer, Joe Gasterhas, could not accept all praises for the film, though. The director, too, equally deserves some credit.

Paul Verhoven, the director, has again re-in-novated the art of soft-core pornography. First in Total Recall, it was the woman with three breasts, then in Basic Instinct, Sharon Stone... well, you know,
and now, with Showgirls, Elizabeth Berkley is launched towards celebritv-dom that will get her out of Bayside High, and deep into the heart of Hollywood (Which from her role in the film, seems to be her next stop).

Don't get us wrong, there is nudity aplenty, but seemingly every time it started getting good, we were rudely distracted by plot, or more of that diagle stuff, which we liked,
because when the dialogue and/or story grew interesting...more bared bosom! Hell, that's why we went anyway. So, see the movie, unless you have moral restrictions...or a brain in your head.

Vincent Vega (John Travolta) and his partner, Jules Winfield (Samuel L. Jackson), are two hit men who work for Marsellus Wallace (Ving Rhames), a bad boss who tossed Jules’ buddy off a balcony just for giving his bride Mia ( Uma Thurman), a foot massage.

In the beginning of the new video, Vincent and Jules are on their way to bust in on some preppy looking guys who stole some mysterious suitcase from Marsellus. Both of them act like prep? they decide to “get into character.” Now, they are two mean looking killers. Jules shoots one of the scared boys just for the effect. But it’s not easy for them to be killers, Vincent has to do drugs. Later, Marsellus orders him to take Mia out for dinner while he is out of town. To calm himself down before this rather dangerous job, Vincent stops off to buy some high quality heroin from Lance (Eric Stolz), a drug dealer with a wife (Rosanna Arquette) who has pierced her body in every possible place, including her tongue. Mia and Vincent go to a diner filled with ’50s movie memorabilia where she coaxes him onto the dance floor for a twist contest. Travolta gives his best dancing performance since Saturday Night Fever. When they get home, Mia overdoses on Vincent’s drugs. He had to make an injection into her heart in order to save her.

Bruce Willis plays a boxer named Butch Coolidge. Marsellus (who lucky for Vincent for Vincent never found out what happened to his bride) sends Vincent to kill Butch for refusing to take a dive. But Butch and his French girlfriend Fabienne (Maria de Medeiros) have already skipped town.

Soon Butch finds out that his girlfriend forgot to pack a gold watch that belonged to his father. According to Dad’s buddy (Christopher Walken), Butch’s late father had that watch hidden up his rear-end in a Vietnam prison camp. Butch decides to return.

When he returns, he meets Vincent and shoots him. Going back also gets Butch involved with Marsellus and two hillbillies who tie them up in order to use them for some manly love.

Written and directed by Quentin Tarantino, Pulp Fiction is intensive fun that lacks any political correctness. The acting in the movie was incredible. John Travolta, who was paid almost nothing for his previous movies, now can expect to garner couple of million for his next movie.

Bruce Willis also had a chance to show how good of an actor he can be if he tries. Quentin Tarantino won an Academy Award for the best screen play and he didn’t get it for nothing. The screenplay is very interesting and unusual.

Tarantino has a passion for realism. He allows his characters to reveal his feelings in every possible way. The dialogue between characters is an essential part of Pulp Fiction. The movie is full of wicked humor and dry wit. Besides the soundtrack to the movie features some excellent songs; “Girl, You’ll Be A Woman Soon” by Urge Overkill, “Let’s Stay Together”, by Al Green and many others.

The new video release Pulp Fiction is a definite classic from a stylish and surely gifted writer. I highly recommend renting it.

Down Rocks!

Down is a hard rock supergroup from New Orleans, Pantera vocalist, Phillip Anselmo, leads this band, which is a side project for all of the musicians. This compact disc consists of heavy guitar riffs from guitarists Kirk Windstein of the band Crowbar, and Pepper Keenan of Corrosion of Conformity. The combination of Windstein and Keenan provides its own style of guitar playing with head-banging heavy grooves. Bassist, Todd Strange, of Crowbar plays in perfect synch with Windstein and Keenan, while drummer Jim Bower, guitarist for the band Eyehategod, pounds relentlessly throughout the disc.

The disc begins with the crashing guitars of "Temptation Wings," which prominently features Anselmo’s powerful voice. Anselmo, throughout the album, displays an apt understanding for the contrasts between screaming and singing. "Jail," a ballad, takes full advantage of Anselmo’s talents as a singer.

SCARY FARM KNOTT FOR THE TIMID

From News Services

For 23 years, Knott's Berry Farm has brought Halloween (back) to life with its Scary Farm event. Each year, the park is re-themed. Ghost town is clouded with back alley fog and a few rides are transformed into demented versions of their normally sedate selves.

This year, Scary Farm is offering four new features. The most interesting addition is that of the infamous Cryptkeeper of HBO’s smash Tales From The Crypt. Four times nightly, starting Oct. 6-7, the Cryptkeeper will emcee “Knott’s Gory Tales” in the Chevrolet/Geo Ghost Time Theatre. Many rides will be re-themed around the Cryptkeeper.

The other additions are three unchartered mazes. In the Ghost Town Dead and Breakfast each room contains horrors even Bluebeard’s wife didn’t live to tell about. Dominion of the Dead reconfigures the Whirpool ride into a lemon castle infested with Gothic terrors. And the Curse of the Werewolf, at the haunted shack, releases the nocturnal animal in us all. Besides the new features, Knott’s is still offering such favorites as Santa Claws Mountain, the Cavern of Carnage, and Slasher of the Dark.

Knott’s Scary Farm is scheduled to run on the nights of Oct. 6-7, 13-14, 20-22 and 26-31. Although Knott’s is scheduling more dates this year, it is still recommended that tickets be purchased early at Ticketmaster locations. For more information, call the “Haunt line” at (714) 220-5200.

Employment Opportunities Abound for Local College Graduates

By Yomi S. Wrongo
Coyote Chronicle Staff Writer

We've all heard the horror stories. Each year, thousands of eager college graduates set out to take the corporate world by storm with a degree in one hand and a healthy dose of self-confidence in the other. But after countless months of pounding the pavement and suffering through rejection, they make the gruesome discovery that...there are no jobs.

By now it should be no surprise that the United States labor force is flowing over with degree-toting workers who are underemployed and shamefully under-paid. Workers who are underemployed doesn't have to be a disheartening experience if you approach the work force with the right attitude. We all want jobs in our field of study, but statistics show the odds of landing one are slim, particularly in highly competitive fields like marketing and advertising. So when you're sending out resumes to Fortune 500 organizations, include in your list companies that wouldn't normally think of, because the skills you learned in college can be useful in the most surprising areas.

The continuing downsizing of the defense and aerospace industries and the streamlining of large-scale corporations is changing the makeup of the country's top employers.

The two largest private employers in San Bernardino County, Colton-based Stater Bros. Markets, and Loma Linda University and medical center complex, added workers in the last year and both see continued growth, a Sept. 11 article in The San Bernardino County Sun newspaper said.

This is good news for Cal State San Bernardino students who by choice or circumstance will live in the area after graduation. Economists have marked the Inland Empire the fastest growing region in the nation, with population growth outpacing the rest of the country by two to three times.

Steady job growth in San Bernardino and Riverside counties is being fueled by a recovering economy and the increase of Southland firms who are expanding into the area. Many Los Angeles and Orange County-based organizations are establishing regional bases in the area, because of its available land and unlimited labor pool.

Stater Bros. Markets employs more than 10,000 workers at its 110 stores, and plans for three new area stores are on the table for this year.

Stater Bros. Markets is one of the few companies, like management training programs. Instead of selling skirts and blouses at the mall, you could wind up buying designs for the company in Paris.

Other areas of growth include retail and trade services industries, along with business and professional services, and entertainment. The Inland Empire will benefit from a bounty of "spin-off" jobs created by the Fontana Speedway and the proposed baseball stadium in San Bernardino.

The health care industry is still a viable option. Nationally, the industry has been plagued with consolidations and mergers which has stunted growth. But it will continue to flourish in the Inland Empire, with a major teaching facility in Loma Linda and a new medical center under construction in San Bernardino County.

The Defense Finance Accounting Services center at former Norton Air Force Base will ultimately employ 750 accountants and technicians to work on Air Force financial document. The first 100 workers will begin in October.

Perhaps none of these options are what you envisioned for yourself after graduation. You didn't spend X number of years in college to have your intellect wasted in a retail job. The bottom line is you need to set realistic goals for yourself, otherwise you set yourself up for disappointment down the road. I'm not advocating giving up on your dreams, only to broaden your scope of options. So don't be so quick to quit that retail job when you graduate. Ask that you be considered for a more advanced position in the company. Don't hesitate to take full advantage of skill-enhancing opportunities offered by most companies, like management training programs. Instead of selling skirts and blouses at the mall, you could wind up buying designs for the company in Paris.

We really would not be able to sleep tonight if we did not impart to you this knowledge: Macintosh computers are now available for even less than the already affordable student prices. And just think, if you had a computer, you'd get your homework done faster. And then you'd have plenty of time left over for those extracurricular activities. Macintosh. The power to be your best.*
Surfing the Internet is Addicting and Confusing

The Internet? What is it? What does it do, and why is everyone so excited about it? It's the 90's. We are entering into the 21st century and we cannot watch TV, read the paper, or listen to the radio, without hearing something about this thing called "The Internet."

From late-night monologues to political activism, the Internet is quickly becoming one of the most talked-about subjects of our times. (Yes, even more than the O.J. trial.)

Once a domain associated with computer nerds and college students, the Internet or the "Information Superhighway" as Al Gore likes to put it, is constantly growing, and being utilized and marketed by everyone from curious college students to Fortune 500 companies and the entertainment industry.

The purpose of this column is to provide an information source for readers who may not be familiar with the Internet, or for those readers who want to know where to "go" on the Internet. In each issue, I will furnish information about various Internet services, cool sites and Web pages, and the latest advances and rumors concerning the Internet Community.

And just how big is the Internet? Surveys show that 5.8 million adults have a direct connection to the Internet, and another 2.9 million consumers use commercial on-line services including America Online, CompuServ and Prodigy.

So what is the Internet? The Internet is merely a linked network of computers around the world. Each computer that is connected to the Internet is known as a "node." Each node is connected to another node via "routers." These nodes communicate with each other using a "protocol." Each node has a unique "address."

A college degree is expensive. It costs in time, energy and money. But what are you really paying for? Are you grabbing a degree, or striving for enlightenment? With this thought in mind, we urge you to take Social Science Capstone, Race and Racism. This class not only fulfills a general education requirement, but more importantly provides information about one of the most tragic and stifling problems in our society - RACISM.

The class, Race and Racism, is in effect, revisionist history. It is a holistic outlook concerning our ancestors - their pain, their struggles, and their contributions. The Eurocentric Whiteness of American history and culture is a myth. This myth is a vehicle that perpetuates racism. So, how do we end racism if we do not understand its origin and progression? How do we end racism if we do not understand why some continue to benefit from its practice, while others consistently suffer?

Here at Cal State, San Bernardino we are fortunate to be part of a diverse population. How we react to such diversity is based on our historical understanding of ourselves and others. If that understanding is distorted, slanted, and noninclusive then we perpetuate Eurocentric racists' beliefs. Inclusive history can be used as a catalyst for change on a personal, and eventually social level, hopefully moving us beyond the stagnation we continue to experience today.

Our collective responsibility and obligation is to educate ourselves about oppression, and use this education as the impetus to eradicate racist beliefs and practices from our social and working environments.

Take this class, it is an opportunity to rethink American history, and to integrate and honor the contributions of a multicultural people.

PIHRA INTERESTED IN STARTING STUDENT CHAPTER

If you are a student interested in Human Resources Management or Industrial Psychology, you must read this article. PIHRA, Professionals in Human Resources Association, is interested in starting a student chapter at CSUSB.

We are a non-profit, volunteer-led organization that was founded in 1944 by a small group of personnel executives in Los Angeles. Today, we are affiliated with the Society of Human Resource Management, and comprise their largest chapter in the country. We serve more than 3,500 members representing some 2,200 firms, and we are composed of Human Resource practitioners from a wide variety of companies and organizations.

By becoming a student member, you will have the unique opportunity for interaction and professional development, have an advocate and source of expert information on Human Resource matters. You'll be able to attend monthly district meetings and the annual conference at reduced rates, receive monthly newsletters, career services, and even become a leader for a new student chapter.

All of these benefits, plus more, are available to you by becoming a student member of PIHRA for only a $30 annual membership fee. We are holding a general information meeting on Wednesday, Oct. 18, from 11:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m., in the conference room located in the Career Development Center, University Hall. Refreshments will be provided. We look forward to seeing you there.

Vivarin, the pill that has kept students awake, will hold a world wide web page contest. The company will honor one of the imaginative pages designed by students with a $10,000 scholarship.

Entries will be based on creativity, design, content, accessibility, and a number of other criteria. For details and entry forms, students may browse the Vivarin home page at http://www.vivarin.com/vivaria/ or send a postcard to The Vivarin: There's No Place Like Home Pages Contest, 777 Third Ave., 35th floor, New York, NY 10017.

Volleyball's Boylen' Over at Cal State

By Ben Wirick
Staff Writer

Cal State San Bernardino has been undergoing a lot of changes lately, especially in the athletic department.

This year, aside from the new arena, we have a new men's basketball coach (Danny Aye), a new women's basketball coach (John Margaritis), and two new sports: women's tennis and men's volleyball.

The CSUSB Men's Volleyball team is especially new; it will be the only Division II squad in the country.

This brings a large challenge to new head coach Eric Boyles.

Instead of facing Division II teams like UCR or Cal Poly Pomona, Boyles will have to coach against Division I and III schools and local junior colleges.

Coach Boyles began his professional volleyball career on the ABP Miller Lite Pro Beach Volleyball tour. After playing five years on the circuit, Boyles became an assistant head coach for Southern California College and soon after was promoted to head coach.

Boyles took the program, which was coming in at the bottom of their division and turned it into one of the top ten teams in the nation.

Boyles is enthusiastic about the opportunity to come to CSUSB and start the Division II team.

"I would not teach at a school which did not offer a quality education," said Boyles. "That is what collegiate sports are all about. They are designed to help people continue their education.

A lot of people want Division II volleyball, they want a place where they can go and get a good education while playing volleyball."

Many other schools and many other programs are going to be looking at this one to decide whether or not to follow in CSUSB's footsteps.

But one thing Boyles promises not to be is boring. "I get pretty fiery and emotional (when I coach)," Boyles said. "We are going to make this a fun and festive volleyball season."

The Coyote Men's Volleyball team's home opener will be on January 15, 1996 at the Arena against Loyola Marymount University.

Try-outs for the team take place this week. Contact the athletic department or Coach Boyles at ext. 5011 for exact dates and times.

New Teams Hold Try-Outs

Chronicle Sports

Both new CSUSB intercollegiate sports teams will be holding try-outs this week.

The women's tennis squad will be holding try-outs on October 4th and 5th. Tracey Prince will be coaching the new team.

Men's volleyball also will be holding try-outs this week. The coach for the team will be Eric Boyles.

You can contact Coaches Prince and Boyles by going to the Athletics building or by contacting the department at ext. 5011.

Addie Jacobs Keeps Women Near Perfection

By Mathew Piscatella
Sports Editor

The CSUSB women's soccer squad opened their season without a defeat through their first six games, going a perfect 5-0 with one tie.

Sophomore goalkeeper Addie Jacobs has allowed only four goals, three of those coming in the Coyote's first loss September 25th to San Diego State.

Sophomore forward Jamie Caffrey has led the CSUSB scoring attack with seven goals and three assists.

Through seven games the Coyotes have outscored their opponents 20-4.

Included among the highlights for CSUSB is a 7-0 victory at Claremont College and a 6-0 victory over CSU Hayward.

Lady 'Yotes Swept by UCR

By Christopher Malone
Staff Writer

With six wins in their last eight games the Coyotes were confident going into their first league match against UC Riverside Sept. 26 at Coussoulis Arena.

Cal State (7-6) quickly took command of the first set, jumping to an 8-2 lead. The Highlanders took a timeout to cool off the fiery Coyotes and search for some answers to Cal State's attack. They found their answer in outside hitter Shawna Harrington, who led UCR back to win 15-8. UCR went on to take all three sets and the match from CSUSB.

Nicole Wason paced the Coyotes with 13 kills and 19 digs, while freshman Shawna Harwick contributed 22 assists.

Coyotes Take First Match in Coussoulis

By Steve Itzkowtz

In the first intercollegiate athletic event at new Coussoulis Arena, the CSUSB Women's Volleyball Team defeated the Aggies of UC Davis, sweeping three sets (15-3, 15-11, 15-9) September 22nd in a match dominated by the Coyotes' Jamison combination.

Alisha Jamison had a solid all around game with a team-leading eight digs and four service aces.

Sophomore Cesar Figueroa currently leads the team in shots, goals, points scored and is tied for second in assists.

From the Just in Case You Didn't Know Department, basketball season is right around the corner. Not only will the men's games be broadcasted by KCKC (1350 AM) but our own Static Radio will be up with a signal and its own broadcasts.

And that leaves us with Coussoulis Arena. Okay, if I did a Coussoulis count in this issue it would probably run in the thousands but we just can't help it. It is just awesome. Women's volleyball coach Kim Cherniss probably put it best when she said "If I was still a student I'd be here every night."

Women's Volleyball Earns Respect And Victories

Coach Kim Cherniss' team has a new Arena, strong work ethic and an even brighter future.

By Chris Malone
Staff Writer

All sports programs have to go through rebuilding stages. The CSUSB Women's Volleyball team is no different. Last year's 12-19 overall record placed the Lady Coyotes a dismal sixth place in the California Collegiate Athletic Association. Some coaches might accept little improvement from their teams the following year but not Kim Cherniss, coach for the Coyotes. Cherniss, a UCR graduate, is a two-time All-American volleyball player and was a vital part of the 1982 NCAA championship Highlander team.

We (CSUSB) are looked on as the new kids on the block. Teams come in here and expect to best us. But with our win against nationally ranked UC Davis we are slowly gaining the respect we deserve in this conference," states Cherniss. "Our team is young but they are also experienced. With so many unbelievably strong teams in our conference the wins may not come easily but respect will," boasted Cherniss.

The Lady Yotes are 7-6 this season with wins against 18th ranked UC Davis and 20th ranked Tampa University, while two of their losses have been to the number one and two ranked teams in the nation (Northern Michigan University and Barry University).

The Cal State, San Bernardino team has its share of rookies but it is also stacked with some all-star veterans. Senior Nicole Wasson, the captain of the Coyotes, leads the team in almost every offensive category. In a September match against Chico State, Nicole broke her own school record for kills in a match with 32. She currently leads the Coyotes both in kills (189) and in digs (141).

Senior Jennifer Hayhurst has been the steady veteran that Cal Coyotes in service aces (24) and last year set the school record for service aces in a single match by slamming seven home against Humboldt State University.

The Coyotes have 9 underclassmen on their squad this year and each has helped propel the team to wins against the top schools in the country. Freshman Shawna Hardwick has been a pleasant surprise for Cherniss and the Coyotes. "Shawna can best be described as a rookie quarterback. She must see the court and be able to read the different defenses thrown at her while she sets the ball," says Cherniss. Hardwick currently is second on the team in service aces (21) and digs (100) and has lived up to the claims of her being a "fiery attacker".

Sophomore Amanda Jamison has helped the Coyotes not only with strong offensive numbers but also with consistent defensive numbers. With the "Twin Towers" here for a couple of more seasons the CCAA could be in big trouble.

Every team has their players that work hard and produce when asked to perform. Cal State has four such work horses: junior Tiana Malaaulu, sophomore Courtney Yancell, sophomore Andi Pianalto and freshman Kerry Taylor.

Together this young team has played some impressive and very exciting volleyball in the new Cousoullis Arena. With league games just beginning, there is a lot more volleyball to be played and CSUSB definitely has the talent to make a strong run in the CCAA. The Coyotes next home game is October 10 at 7:30 pm. Come out and enjoy the action and the new and impressive aspects of this up and coming team.
