CFA Looks To Strike

By Amber S. Miner
Arts and Entertainment Editor

The California Faculty Administration voted to declare—effective immediately—a state-of-strike. This SOS requires action only from the members of CFA, not the entire Cal State faculty. The SOS is the CFA's reaction to terms imposed by the Chancellor, Charles Reed, and the Board of Trustees of the CSU.

The terms imposed on Mar. 17 put a 5% pay increase into place. This resolution breaks the pay increase into four sections. First, 1.5% goes to a service increase for eligible faculty. Then, 2.5% is designated as a general salary increase for all faculty members.

Both of these increases are retroactive to Oct. 1, 1998. The next pay section, $16.2 million, or 40% of the overall increase, is set up as a merit pay pool. Lastly, $925,000 is additional merit compensation for department chairs; both merit pools are retroactive to July 1, 1998.

The imposition of the terms was done without a vote by the CFA. The CFA voted in February to reject the proposed tentative agreement. The general assumption was that contract negotiations would be continued between the CFA, the Chancellor and the Board of Trustees. However, the CFA feels that the terms imposed upon them revert them to a state of affairs which is far worse than ratification of the "Tentative Agreement" would have been.

The TA was based mainly upon recommendations from a neutral fact-finder. The CFA voted to reject the TA due mostly to the merit pay system that it would have put into effect. Merit pay has long been the most controversial aspect of the negotiations. Now that new terms have been imposed, without the ratification by the CFA, members are outraged.

The state-of-strike, or SOS, that was voted on at the CFA Assembly meeting, held Mar. 27-28, is not to be confused with a full-CFA strike. The "Tentative Agreement" would have been.

Cal State Employee Arrested for Pandering

By D'Lorah DeBarge
News Editor

It is unknown whether he has a criminal past, but Anthony Parrish, an employee in the Student Account's Office was arrested and charged with two felony counts of pandering at the end of last session.

Sgt. Brian Bodily of University Police said a student came forward to report that Anthony Parrish, who worked in the Student Account's Office had allegedly suggested that the student perform sex in return for money to pay tuition.

The student, whose name is being withheld, reported the incident, and an investigation began. Because of the ongoing investigation, Bodily could not say whether other students had come forward subsequently with similar complaints.

"Between the efforts of two investigators and the student, evidence was obtained that lead to the arrest of Mr. Parrish," Bodily said. The investigation was conducted with the assistance of Det. Garrells from Cal-State Fullerton, who has considerable experience investigating this type of crime.

Subsequently, the evidence presented to the district attorney was sufficient to produce a warrant and Parrish was arrested at his home on Mar. 16. He was later released on $25,000 bail.

Cynthia Pringle, Director of Public Affairs, said she was first notified of an investigation on Mar. 8, which culminated in Parrish's arrest. Pringle said Parrish was first hired in May 1996 and had worked without incident until the Mar. 8 complaint.

The university would not release any other information concerning Parrish's employment. A check of Sheriff's records concerning Meagan's Law reveals that Parrish is not a registered sex offender in the city of San Bernardino.

In the wake of the allegations Parrish reportedly resigned.

It’s Election Time For ASI

Student elections will be held Apr. 12-13, run-offs will be held Apr. 15 and the results will be released on Apr. 16.

President

Dick Phillips—As ASI president, I will rent limousines with ASI money. I will also embezzle ASI Funds, get caught, and pay it back after a meeting with President Karnig. Does this sound good to you? Well, this is what your current ASI is doing with your mandatory ASI fees. CSUSB students shouldn’t be forced to pay for ASI corruption. ASI is nothing more than a political machine that relies on student apathy and ignorance to survive. Rage against the machine! Vote none of the above! Sign the petition to abolish Mandatory ASI Fees!

Grayson Hoffman—My name is Grayson Hoffman and I am currently a candidate for the office of the ASI President. I am a junior, political science major. Last year I was elected as the Internal Affairs Director. This year, I spearheaded the Sugar Ray concert and ASI drawing. With two years of experience in ASI, I see areas that need improving. Every student is not benefiting from ASI, and that must change. Through internal adjustments and reassessment, I believe that I could drive ASI farther and harder than it has been driven.

Robert Salgado—My name is Robert Salgado and I am a member of the Speech and Debate team on campus. I first decided to run for the Board of Directors at Large because I didn’t feel that Speech Team was receiving enough support from ASI. During the time I was interacting with students, I learned that there were a variety of issues that the student body felt that ASI needed to address. As a member of the Board of Directors at Large, I will make it my job to make sure that these issues are brought to the attention of A.S.I.

Theresa Savage—My name is Theresa Savage. As a senior Psychology Major, I have had the opportunity to see what Campus Activities Board is and what it is not. I believe that Campus Activities Board has had a chance to do some great things and still has a lot of things to improve. I plan to run on the Board of Directors at Large because I believe that Campus Activities Board needs a strong leader to move it forward into the future.

Vice President

Andrew Simeone—Leadership is paramount importance in establishing effective student government. I have been involved in campus life, having held leadership positions in SVA, ASI, Student Union, and the Debate team. Currently, I serve as ASI Internal Affairs Director, Treasurer of SPAC, Campus Involvement Chair for Pi Kappa Alpha, and am a member of the University Ambassadors. ASI lacks the resources to do everything; we need to focus on relevant services such as childcare and events programming that benefit student life. As a student and student leader, I will develop services that enhance the educational experience for traditional and non-traditional students.

Ihab Omar—This past year I have been very disappointed in the direction ASI has gone. I feel that ASI has become less student friendly, and that is the reason my #1 goal as ASI president will be to make ASI more student friendly, and make it an actual representative of all students. I plan to do such things as keep the box office and legal clinic open longer for late students, keep the ASI office open later to accommodate night students. ASI will become more involved in Coyote Athletics and the student union. ASI will promote events and give students support in all of their events. I guarantee that ASI will become a service to students in my administration.

Bruce Barber—Before you received this pamphlet did you know what ASI was? Do you know what ASI stands for, or what ASI does on campus? These questions are the key issues concerning ASI today. My vision of ASI is an organization that supports the entire campus, both colleges and students. ASI and its officers should be visible in my administration.

Controller

Luis Portillo—My name is Luis Portillo, and I am running for ASI controller. I am currently a junior majoring in Business and Public Administration. I’ve been involved with ASI for the past year and while in ASI I have participated in organizing events such as the ASI drawing. As ASI Controller, I would increase student involvement by going into classrooms and letting students know what ASI is planning, and getting their feedback. I would also work closer with all the clubs to enhance the quality of campus life for all students.

Iwona Maria Luzkiewicz—As ASI controller, my goals will be to make sure all clubs, organizations, and students know where their ASI money is going. But also to inform and educate everyone at CSUSB and CVA about ASI and what it is for the school and students. To inform student/faculty organizations about CAB funding and other sources of money available to them, at CSUSB. But also to bring back the welcomed open door policy to all student s if they have questions or concerns. Having longer office hours so that night student can have the same advantages as day and morning students. Being able to help students, organizations, clubs, staff, faculty, and administrators in some shape or form at CSUSB and CVC, is of great importance.

Linh Phan—My name is Linh Phan, a second year Physics major running for ASI controller. As an active student at CSUSB, I’m part of the Forenics Team, the Fees Committee, chair of the Environmental Committee as president of SPAC. I believe that participation is key to a better university and education. As controller for CSUSB, I will support all club and organizational activities on campus because I believe the money of the students should be returned to the students. Hard work, dedication, and objectivity. These are the values that will enable me to retain the dignity of the controller position.

Board of Directors at Large

Richard Contreras—My name is Richard Contreras and I am a member of the Speech and Debate team on campus. I first decided to run for the Board of Directors at Large because I didn’t feel that Speech Team was receiving enough support from ASI. During the time I was interacting with students, I learned that there were a variety of issues that the student body felt that ASI needed to address. As a member of the Board of Directors at Large, I will make it my job to make sure that these issues are brought to the attention of A.S.I.
Theresa Savage. I am a senior and have been on the CSUSB campus also on the water polo team, and senior class in ASB. Currently, I am a student of student awareness and information on school activities, events and decisions about our school. I want the students' input and ideas put into action at Cal State. I value the students' input and ideas as the best candidate for this position. My experience qualifies me as the best candidate for this position. My experience includes: Four years of student government, leadership roles in sports, as player, coach and official. Regarding my representing the School of Education, my experience ranges from PE. Substitute at the Elementary level to teaching assistant at the high school level. As a liberal studies major education is a main concern. I look forward to representing the School of Education on Board of Directors. Thank you for your support.

College of Natural Sciences-BOD

Kelly FitzGerald—Far too often the school of Natural Sciences is under-represented in BOD. If elected I am determined to change that. With seven years of competitive speech and debate under my belt I can promise effective communication. As a computer science major I spend my time looking for creative, innovative solutions to practical problems. If elected, I plan to use that same innovative thinking as a vehicle to serve the best interests of the students. A vote for Kelly FitzGerald is a wise investment in your future.

College of Social and Behavioral Sciences

David Smothers—What are you getting out of the current ASI? Not enough. I intend to work closely with the Executive Office of the ASI in order to provide you, the student, with better services. I also intend to work hard in getting more substantive events scheduled on campus. As a board member, I will see to it that you are heard. I am against any raises in the ASI fees and oppose any salaries for the Executive Officers. Vote for me to become your next Board of Director of the College of Social and Behavioral Sciences.

James Bow—As a member of the Board of Directors for the School of Social and Behavioral Sciences I plan to voice the concerns of all the clubs and organizations that fall under this portion of Associated Students, Incorporated. Informing students is the first step in establishing involvement on campus. With the expanding growth of students and facilities my goal is to increase the awareness of my fellow students under the umbrella of Social and Behavioral Sciences.

Special and Dual BOD

Manuel Cardoza—Hello my name is Manuel Cardoza and I am running for ASI Board of Directors School of Special and Dual Major. If I am elected I will do my best to represent those of you who have 2 majors. I know how difficult it is to maintain two majors (I am History and Sociology). I will also, with the help of other board members, bring events, concerts and prominent speakers on campus to appeal to the student body. I will also make well thought out decisions when it comes to using the student money to fund events, programs and scholarships. I thank you and remember “Students First!”

Undeclared BOD

Caroline Simolke—My name is Caroline Simolke; I am a freshman here at CSUSB. As a student who has yet to decide on my course of study, I am aware of the challenges and issues facing other students who have chosen to go with undeclared as opposed to rushing into a major before they are ready. As a freshman, I have yet to become involved as I would like in CSUSB, but in high school, I was active in community and school activities. I look forward to serving CSUSB, and making the college experience an enjoyable and rewarding one.

Strike con’t

Blown strike. Work will not stop, and if all goes as planned, the students will not be directly affected by the SOS. Con’t page 3

The goals of the SOS are to bring economic, political, and public influence to bear on the employer, to increase public awareness and support, and to bring about a collective action.

What does this mean to the students of the Cal State system? Hopefully nothing. The CFA would like to maintain a SOS, without seeing it launched into an all-work-is-halted strike.

For now, the actions that are being taken are meant to allow the CFA to be taken seriously, while at the same time show that they are dedicated to their profession and don’t want students to be affected by the labor dispute.

In a press release, posted on the CFA website, the CFA Assembly stated the main reason for the declaration of a SOS. The CFA feels that the Chancellor and The Board of Trustees failed to “honor the decisive rejection by the CFA membership.” They want it known that the SOS is a condition of active resistance to the CSU’s imposed conditions. Business will not continue as usual.

The idea is for CFA faculty members to engage in activities of non-cooperation, without directly affecting teaching or other services that are provided directly to the students of the CSU.

Instead, the desire is to hurt the administration’s ability to function. This is done in three levels. The SOS is currently in the first level.

Level I Engage the faculty in active non-cooperation with the administration, both local and central. As stated above, action in the first level should not directly affect the education of the students.

If Level I is not as effective as the CFA would like, then the SOS will progress to the second level. This level could have slightly more of an effect on the students. In Level II SOS actions, the faculty will actively engage in a “work to rule” policy. Some examples of this would be a refusal to accept late registrations, overloads, or students who have not met all required pre-requisites for a course.

While Level II actions are slightly more effective, if they fail to reach the desired results from the CSU, then Level III action will be implemented. This level could mean stopping work and even a refusal to teach until contract negotiations are revised. This level of action may never be deemed necessary, or it could be implemented tomorrow.

The way it stands now, any level of action is authorized as a course of action once the right to strike is in place. The local chapters must first consult with the statewide coordinating body, which is to be designated by the CFA Board of Directors.

The hope is that all chapters of CFA will remain in the same Level, at least until it is collectively agreed that increasing action to the next level is absolutely necessary.

Nato Prepares For Ground Offensive?

By David G. Smothers
Chronicle Staff Writer

As air strikes continue in Kosovo, the possibility of a full ground offensive involving Nato forces grows daily.

According to the Department of Defense, the mission is to attack the military infrastructure that President Slobodan Milosevic and his forces are using to repress and kill innocent people. The military objectives are to deter further Serbian attacks against the people of Kosovo and to reduce the ability of the Serbian military forces to continue their offensive operations.

Phase I of the current operation entailed surgical air strikes on targets that have posed a threat to the aircraft to be used in Phase II. Phase II of the offensive will be employed to distinguish more specific targets. The specific targets will include Yugoslav military units that are participating in the killing of innocent civilians.

Of Nato's 19 member nations, 11 are contributing forces to Operation Allied Force, including Belgium, Canada, Denmark, France, Germany, Italy, The Netherlands, Norway, Spain, the United Kingdom, and the United States. Member nations not participating are the Czech Republic, Greece, Hungary, Iceland, Luxembourg, Poland, Portugal and Turkey.

Yugoslav President Slobodan Milosevic has built his power base on one major pillar since his rise in 1989 as Serbia's president: his passion for a Greater Serbia. He has attempted to do this almost at any cost. The mission has led his military, either directly or indirectly through surrogates, into murderous campaigns against Croatia, Bosnia and now Kosovo. Milosevic's take-no-hostages approach has earned him the title of "Butcher of the Balkans." His policy of ethnically cleansing areas where his opponents reside — by removing entire populations — has led to worldwide outrage.

Joe Lockhart, White House Press Secretary, stated that: "We've seen tens of thousands of refugees moving out of that country, even within the last day. But this is a price that everything we know about Milosevic and the Serbs — that they were going ahead with this. And we were faced with a choice here, which was: Do we act or do we not act? And we think by acting, we will make him pay a price — he is paying a price — that is a price that he will not be able to sustain."

A Military Official confirmed suspicions of a shift from an air offensive to a full ground offensive. He stated that: "Based on the terrain and access from the ocean, it would be very possible to not only commit ground troops, but it would also be the natural progression of this type of military offensive. We are prepared for this type of terrain, but it is very difficult to fully accomplish the goal. The United States has attempted peacekeeping missions. Such missions where not well thought out, as in the current situation, therefore the end may not justify the means. There are other areas in the World where ethnic cleansing is taking place, but for now, Kosovo is the most strategically viable."

So you think you can write? Do you know what a lead is? Well, why don’t you prove it. Give us a call at 880-5289 and we just might get you in the paper. Act now, our operators are standing by... Or at least our voicemail.
Save over 50% on your long distance bills! Just ten cents a minute! No monthly fees! What in the heck is going on here with long distance?

If you're overwhelmed with all the commercials and feel lost when you want to make a long distance call, you're not alone. There are so many choices that can save you money. But, more often than not, you end up paying more.

After Congress passed the Telecommunications Act putting long distance on the open market there was an explosion in the number of long distance carriers. Since then we have been consistently bombarded with commercials for services like 10-10-321, 10-10-811 and 10-10-220. These services let you keep your current long distance carrier while using their service only when you dial the code.

So, what do you do? How do you save money with these codes? Which one will save you the most? Well, I'm no expert, but I can shed some light on how some services make a big profit from people using these codes. You can beat the 10-10 game if you play it smart.

Let's use the infamous 10-10-220 service. Dial this gem of a service and you pay just ninety-nine cents for the first twenty minutes. After that, it's just ten cents a minute. Not too bad, right? Well, these guys have a serious racket going, and they're banking on you to fall into their seductive trap.

So, you dial 10-10-220 and then the number. You get an answering machine. You probably spend one minute on the phone. Guess what, you just spent ninety-nine cents for one minute of long distance service. These 10-10-220 guys are the smartest ones in the business. My roommate found this out the hard way. She got burned about eight times, costing her $7.92 for eight minutes of long distance service.

Now, let's not be too hard on them. After all, Doug Flutie is one of their spokesmen, and they do donate a portion of their profits to Cystic Fibrosis. And when you actually spend the full twenty minutes talking, it only costs five cents a minute.

The key here is to call the person you plan to talking to using your current service. Find out if they're home. Then, tell them you'll call right back using the 10-10-220 service. It's not too hard to make these services work for you. And if you play the game right, this service is one of the best.

I tried using 10-10-811 for the first minute and then hanging up and using 10-10-220. Well, 10-10-811 seems to be pretty sly too. They only charge ten cents a minute, but they have a minimum of three minutes. Remember that these people are in the business to make money.

Besides all the wonderful TV commercials with celebrities like Tony Danza and the cab driver from the old sitcom Taxi, you've probably gotten the mass mailers too. You know, the ones with all the stickers for you to place on your phones. Man, these people just don't stop. Be careful to read all the information on them.

Many of these charge a monthly service charge, often in the $4.95 range. These guys get you when you make your first call. They only way to save money using these services is if you spend a lot of time on the phone. For instance, let's say you make a 100-minute phone call (100 minutes makes the math easy). At ten cents a minute, this is $10.00. Now, add on the sales tax, or about fifteen cents a minute. If you're on the phone long distance for about ten hours a month, you end up paying only 10.825 cents a minute (600 x .10) + $4.95.

The ones that don't charge a monthly fee get you in the ways 10-10-220 and 10-10-811 do, with a minimum time charge. There are plenty of them out there. 10-10-345, 10-10-297, 10-10-321, 10-10-275, 10-10-629 and so on. Your best bet is to look up the information for each service on the internet. There is a ton of information and some pretty good deals. I found one that offers five cents a minute for your first 60 minutes, and then it's only seven cents a minute after that. But don't forget the $4.95 service charge.

You would think that some of the big players would fight back and lower their services. Well, many of them have, MCI and Sprint appear to be at the front lines with their offers. AT&T seems to be lagging behind, counting on the loyalty factor and the fact that people are generally too confused to make any changes.

MCI offers something called MCI One Net Savings. Using this you get rates at nine cents a minute Monday through Saturday, and only five cents on Sundays. Not bad at all, and no screwy numbers to dial! There is only one catch; you have to do all your billing on the internet, and the bill must be paid with a major credit card. This saves valuable mailing costs and guarantees that the bill will be paid on time. That's why MCI can offer such a great rate.

AT&T offers a similar service, but it's nine cents a minute every call. No special five cent Sundays here. AT&T has that loyalty factor working for them right now. Many people don't want to go through the process of changing companies, it's the great unknown. Also, in defense of AT&T, they are extremely trustworthy and have been around the longest of all the long distance carriers.

Sprint is the newest big-time player to the long distance game. Along with their typical service they offer something unique. I call it the college special. You pay $25.00 a month for the service. You then have to pay ten cents a minute for all weekday calls. What's so great about that, you might ask?

Here's the good stuff. You get unlimited calls during the weekend, for no charge! You can talk all weekend long, for as much time as your little heart desires. I know a lot of students that would make out like bandits with this service. It's also great for people that have moved away from their families.

How much can you actually save with these different services? Well, let's use MCI's service for an example. Let's say you're on the phone long distance about 100 minutes on weekdays (evenings only, because you're smart enough to know that evening rates are cheaper, right) and 400 minutes on the weekends using a basic service.

Assuming evening calls cost seventeen cents a minute and weekend calls cost ten cents a minute (this is pretty conservative). (100 x .17) + (400 x .10) = $57.00.

Let's try the MCI One Net Savings plan. (100 x .09) + (400 x .05) = $29.00. That's a saving of $28.00.

What about one of those 10-10 companies? Well, I've never heard of them. I doubt many of them have a college special. These people are in the business to make money.

So, now that you know the myriad of choices you have regarding your long distance bill and how much money can be saved, which one is best for you?

The best thing that you can do is research (you know, the thing you do for big papers that those evil professors make you do). There is a plan out there for everyone. Be careful believing what you hear from those commercials. Many of these 10-10 companies count on consumer ignorance to make a profit, and a nice profit they make.

Gingko Biloba

By Cheri Dixon
Features Editor

Does Gingko Biloba really increase your brain power? Studies show that this herbal extract made from the leaves of a tree native to China may improve memory skills in elderly patients suffering from Alzheimer’s disease, but may not have any affect on younger people with no memory problems.

"Gingko Biloba is my first choice in people who have an age-associated memory disturbance," said Turan M. Itil, a member of the New York Institute for Medical Research team, conducted a randomized, double-blind study on 309 Alzheimer patients.

The results of this study were published in the Journal of the American Medical Association in October of 1997. The ginkgo extract “improved cognitive performance in 27-37% of treatment patients," said the researchers. “The improvement may be equivalent to a 6-month delay in the progression of Alzheimer’s disease.”

"Whereas other studies have shown that ginkgo improves mental functioning in people with dementia, none has proved that it serves as a brain tonic for the healthy," said Gary Stix in an article published in Scientific American in February of 1998.

"No data have demonstrated that it can improve memory in young people,'" affirmed Dr. Norman Farnsworth, research professor of pharmacognosy at the University of Illinois at Chicago. "But I use it myself, and it’s safe," he added.

No life-threatening side-effects to the herb have been reported, but mild stomach aches and headaches have sometimes been experienced. These effects “were no different from those associated with placebo,” according to researchers of the Alzheimer patient study.

The good effects of the herb on demented patients may be due to ginkgo’s anti-inflammatory and antioxidant effects and a component called ginkgolides. "It seems to be the antioxidant action of ginkgo that protects delicate brain tissue and prevents damage by inflammation," said Steven Foster in his article “Memory Power from the Herb Garden.”

Ginkgo also reduces the stickiness and clotting ability of platelets in the bloodstream (so it should not be taken with drugs that prevent blood clotting). This blood thinning process can improve cerebral circulation in older people. The natural results of aging may reduce blood flow in a 70-year old person by 20% and in cases of dementia may reduce blood flow up to 30% according to a spokesperson from the Homeopathic Center of Johnston, Rhode Island.

Ginkgo will “reduce the risk of arterial deposits and clotting, and scavenging or suppress formation of free radicals,” explained Foster. Radicals are unstable molecules in the body that can damage healthy cells and contribute to disease and aging.

When asked about the benefits of jinko, Dr. Joseph Pizzorno, president of Bastyr University in Seattle, a top school for naturopathy, replied, “I’ve taken it, but haven’t noticed a difference.” Pizzorno continued, “But since I’m fifty, I’ll probably start taking it regularly as a way to prevent further decline.”

For starters, ginkgo contains flavonoids that can improve memory and cognitive function and reverse blood flow reduction in the brain. It also contains ginkgolides, which have antioxidant and anti-inflammatory effects. Together, these properties may help protect the brain from damage caused by free radicals, which are unstable molecules that can damage healthy cells and contribute to disease and aging.

UNFORTUNATELY, THIS IS WHERE PEOPLE ARE PUTTING TOO MANY RETIREMENT DOLLARS.

Every year, a lot of people make a huge mistake on their taxes. They wind up sending Uncle Sam money they could be saving for retirement.

Fortunately, that’s a mistake you can avoid with SRAs—tax-deferred annuities from TIAA-CREF. SRAs not only ease your current tax bite, they offer an easy way to build retirement income—especially for the "extras" that your pension and Social Security benefits may not cover.

Because your contributions are made in pretax dollars, you pay less in taxes now. And since earnings on your SRAs are tax deferred, your money works even harder for you.

Today, we offer other before- and after-tax financial solutions, including IRAs and mutual funds. They’re backed by the same investment expertise, low expenses, and personal service that have made TIAA-CREF the choice of America’s educational and research community.

Why write off the chance for a more rewarding retirement? Stop by your benefits office or call us at 1 800 842-2776 and find out how TIAA-CREF SRAs can help you enjoy happier returns.

The Final Shot

Thanks for the magical ride

Richard Contreras
Sports Editor

It was quite a magical moment, tuning to AM 1550 on March 17 to hear history being made. For most of us, who either didn't have time or lacked money to make the trip to Louisville, Ky, there was an overwhelming sense of pride to know that our team from Cal State San Bernardino was suddenly in the national spotlight.

Alas, as it would turn out, the Coyotes ended their exhilarating season with an 84-69 first-round defeat to Florida Southern in the NCAA Division II Elite Eight Championships.

And of course we felt bad for the team. But I for one wasn't overly disappointed. After being picked to finish in the basement of the CCAA and starting out the season sluggish, the Coyotes turned more than a few heads going on an 11 game tear through conference; also defeating rival-county and perennial power UC Riverside twice.

As a result, they suddenly found themselves with a spot in the Western Regionals up at Ellensburg, Washington.

By March 6, they had at least the western half of the nation, if not the state of Washington, in awe, fighting tooth and nail in three games to inexplicably win the Regional Championship.

Two of the triumphs came and No. 1-ranked Central Washington, both losing in their own backyard, the latter for the first time this season.

But, let's face it — anything more really would have been icing on the cake.

Coach Reynolds was quoted as saying "this team made us as a school and community grow up real quick." And he's absolutely right. For a program that has been in D2 competition for only eight years, not to mention competing in one of the toughest conferences in the nation, this season was a dramatic step in the right direction.

It also put the city of San Bernardino on the college basketball map. Even if most people back east couldn't spell it, let alone pronounce it.

The pain from the first-round loss will soon wear off. But no one will be quick to forget the many accomplishments after seeing the soon-to-be-placed Regional Championship banner hanging in the Coussoulis.

That CSUSB didn't win the D2 Championship — most of us could care less. The seeming magical element of proving the naysayers wrong by playing with plenty of determination and heart is what makes fans of all of us — even those of us who don't know a basketball from a baseball — taining it."

The Moccasins only shot a cold 33 percent from the field, but were able to stymie the Coyotes using a full-court press and held a 53-32 rebounding advantage off the boards.

Senior guard Phil Johnson, playing in his final game led with 19 points. Junior guard Jimmy Alapag added 18.

Cal State Falls in Elite Eight

This time David couldn't beat Goliath.

Cal State put an end to an improbable and monstrous season losing in the first round of the NCAA Division II Elite Eight Championships Wednesday March 17.

The Coyotes were pummeled and outrebounded by Florida Southern 84-69 before approximately 3,500 at the Commonwealth Center in Louisville, Ky.

CSUSB (23-8) finishes the season as Western Regional Champions and places second in the CCAA after predictions of a ninth-place finish.

“I'd have to give Florida Southern all the credit,” lamented Cal State coach Larry Reynolds. "We knew they were a very athletic team and very good on the offensive boards, but couldn't do a good job con-
Aries: (3/21-4/19)
Spring break is over, but a new quarter is just beginning. Yuck! This doesn't mean you can sit back and roll your eyes. You will feel much better when you find an excuse to be physically active. It's easier to do things with people than it is to sit around talking. Tackle school work with a smile and a sense of excellence. You'll soon feel better and productive.

Taurus: (4/20-5/20)
Don't lose sight of yourself just because you were on vacation for a week. You may be the only one telling the truth. Be generous with your attention, but be a miser in every other regard. This also applies to your relationships. You'd be mistaken to allow popular sentiment to influence your work at this time. You may be able to let your guard down next week, but play with caution until then. Better to be safe than sorry.

Gemini: (5/21-6/20)
You'll come into the new quarter refreshed and enthusiastic. Due to your creative nature, a handful of good ideas will be flooding your mind. In business, you seem to be the mouthpiece of some larger force that speaks through you. Take some much deserved credit for your accomplishments, mostly in your love life. You know what that is! Wink

Cancer: (6/21-7/22)
Temptation lets you peek through a crack in a forbidden door. Spring break was merely enough to wet your appetite in the love department, but considering the hurt you've experienced, you might still be a little hesitant to be impulsive. Don't worry, you're safe as long as you don't develop unhealthy tastes once you become involved. You never know who might be watching and how your transgressions will get back to you.

Leos: (7/23-8/22)
Even if break is over, you still have a burst of energy. Stick to your plans of doing well this quarter. They'll fall through if you remain dedicated from the start. Friendships are strong this week, but be careful not to overplay. Your body may be in school, but your mind is still on break. Once you get back into reality, your relationships and business should fall into place.

Virgos: (8/23-9/22)
The second of April is the one moment when you fully grasp the complexity of your world. Your present role seems to be more the interpreter than the inventor. This is all about to change! The hard work will soon pay off, both in your personal and professional life. Of course, this doesn't give you the excuse to slack on school, but with your natural talent for work, you shouldn't have any problems. Don't forget to enjoy life. You deserve it!

Libras: (9/23-10/22)
Get out of your routine and do something completely different. Eat lunch in a new place or take a spontaneous trip. Even ask a stranger's phone number. You never know who you'll meet. Don't overdo it. You just had spring break, remember? But adventure is where you'll find it! When was the last time you looked for a fantastic opportunity?

Scorpios: (10/23-11/21)
Reach a decision quick before it no longer yours to make. The world is constantly in motion, and it's going to wait for you. An old set of calculations is about to come in handy. As for your personal life, don't be quick to argue with your partner. They have their own problems too. Remember to be yourself and have fun. Just because spring break is over doesn't mean the excitement has to end.

Sagittarius: (11/22-12/21)
You may need the approval of others before you can act. This may be unnerving to you since you usually don't answer to no one, but this week may be slightly different. Leave nothing to chance like you always do. Use simple language to your friends. They may not catch every word you say. Project a smile and a positive mood. An upbeat attitude should be your constant companion to your happiness.

Capricorn: (12/22-1/19)
Even if classes are just starting, there's always more to do. Your stopping point should be determined by your own needs and rhythms, not the set rules of others. Other occasions or confusion can affect you negatively if you allow it. Friends are wonderful this week and romance may be on the rise. Keep your eyes and ears open.

Aquarius: (1/20-2/18)
Everyone around you is motivated and clear about his or her message, including yours. Business and personal partnerships thrive under the light of April. You might spend much of your week in amazement and daydreams, but what else is new? You have bright ideas and creativity when it comes to work, yet have a difficult time grounding yourself to reality. Find a balance between the two and your social life will blossom even more.

Pisces: (2/19-3/20)
Your mind has a tendency to drift like your fellow Aquarian. Pay attention to what you're doing before you get into trouble around you. May you take advantage of this opportunity and back stab you. If there's any way you can get out of the hot seat, find someplace to cool your heels and dream away. Sometimes, dreamland is more fun than actual reality, as long as you don't get too carried away.
