JUDGE PATRICK MORRIS ELECTED S.B. MAYOR

In a landslide 63.37% of the vote, Judge Patrick Morris became the new San Bernardino mayor after a hard and bitter campaign against City Attorney Jim Penman. In an overcrowded campaign headquarters, the audience continually applauded Morris and his campaign leaders and workers and city voters for their support.

ANDY MELENDREZ SWORN IN AS RIVERSIDE'S WARD 2 COUNCILPERSON

Andy Melendrez was sworn in as the newest councilperson to represent the City of Riverside’s Ward 2, followed by warm applause and cheers in the city hall chamber of family and supporters that had been patiently waiting for the official ceremony. Melendrez was elected to the council seat after winning in a runoff election against Ruby Rasso, a retired Riverside County sheriff deputy, with a vote of 1,805 and 1,205, respectively.

This exhilarating moment is a political victory for Melendrez and the mostly Hispanic audience. The last Hispanic to be elected to the city council was Ernie Pintor, who served until 1979, when he was not re-elected. Before Pintor, the legendary John Sotelo was the first Hispanic to be elected to the Riverside City Council.

COLLEGE READINESS/MATH ADDED GOALS, STATES COUNTY SUPERINTENDENT

Emphasizing the importance of county students being better prepared to enter the colleges and universities, San Bernardino County Superintendent of Schools Dr. Herbert Fischer highlighted the progress made by students in county schools at the seventh annual State of Education Address at the Sturges Center for the Fine Arts.

In his annual theme address Learning For A Lifetime, Fischer strongly stressed the need for students to be fully prepared to enter and compete in the 21st century economy, coupled with an overview of public education in the County of San Bernardino.

While county students have increased college-going rate by 44.9 percent during the last five reported years, the area still trails most of California in the numbers of high school graduates going to college, he said.

Continuing the upward trend of college-going figures, Fischer elaborated on collaborative programs among the county offices, school districts, and educational partners, established by the county office of education.

RIVERSIDE COUNTY SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS DR. DAVID LONG ANNOUNCES CANDIDACY

Riverside County Superintendent of Schools Dr. David Long, announced his candidacy to run for re-election for county superintendent of schools at a dinner reception in January, 2003, at the Eagle Glen golf Club. Photo by IEHN

Emphasizing the importance of education, Fischer stressed the need for students to be fully prepared to enter and compete in the 21st century economy, coupled with an overview of public education in the County of San Bernardino.
Continued from page 1

Andy Meléndrez sworn in as Riverside’s Ward 2 councilperson

In an interview with IEHN, Meléndrez said that on election night he and his election workers watched as the absentee votes were coming in. When the trend showed the votes were favoring his candidacy, he became very excited, contrary to his normal composure.

Ward 2 is composed of the University Corridor, Eastside, Sycamore Canyon, and Canyon Crest. The Eastside includes UCR, University Avenue, and aside from the high traffic volume, there are gangs, drugs, and prostitution. The Sycamore area has a large warehouse and distributing centers and other areas have other needs that I will be addressing.

INVESTIGATION CONTINUES ON SHOOTING OF SERVICEMAN

The Sheriff Department, as is its policy, has continued its investigation, however, sheriff officials have not indicated when the investigation will be concluded.

Controversy has followed the shooting, due primarily to the dialogue in the tape between the deputy and Carrion, who was lying prone on the ground. The voice by Carrion, attempting to follow orders, was heard to be saying, “I’m with the military,” and a response by the deputy, “Ok,” followed by “You believe me? Alright,” Carrion was heard to say, the deputy replied, “Ok, Get up. Get up,” the deputy ordered. “Ok, I’m going to get up,” Carrion said. Seconds later, Carrion lay wounded on the Chino Street, having been shot three times.

The shooting alarmed many in the Hispanic community. Father Patricio Guillen, co-director of Libreria Del Pueblo, in an interview, stated, “We feel badly in this matter. We should not tolerate this type of shooting, especially to a young man who is serving our country. This was an irresponsible action on the part of the deputy. The community should see the tape and have a meeting with the sheriff to protect this action.”

The investigation is continuing, stated Robin Haynal, Sheriff Department public information. “We are conducting a thorough investigation and when completed, a report will be submitted to the district attorney for their decision of the investigation.”

Dr. Armando Navarro, in an interview with the IEHN, stated, “We are involved with the important Summit at the present time. Many of us in the Hispanic community are very frustrated with what has happened to this young man. However, the National Alliance for Human Rights will be meeting with the Carrion family on this urgent matter. Furthermore, we will also be contacting other civil rights leaders and collaboratively confront this issue.”

Meléndrez said that his main priority is to become involved with each area of his diverse ward. “I will establish a communication network and become aware of each of the area’s needs and availability of city resources,” he said. He also lists business development, public safety, neighborhood integrity, and area traffic management as major issues.

Meléndrez, a graduate of Cal-State, San Bernardino, has had a private vocational counseling business for over 23 years. He is actively involved in numerous business and community groups. He and his wife, Ann-Marie Orta Meléndrez are parents of Maria, Aurelio, Erica, and Alex.

The Sheriff Department, as is its policy, has continued its investigation, however, sheriff officials have not indicated when the investigation will be concluded.

Controversy has followed the shooting, due primarily to the dialogue in the tape between the deputy and Carrion, who was lying prone on the ground. The voice by Carrion, attempting to follow orders, was heard to be saying, “I’m with the military,” and a response by the deputy, “Ok,” followed by “You believe me?” Alright,” Carrion was heard to say, the deputy replied, “Ok, Get up. Get up,” the deputy ordered. “Ok, I’m going to get up,” Carrion said. Seconds later, Carrion lay wounded on the Chino Street, having been shot three times.

The shooting alarmed many in the Hispanic community. Father Patricio Guillen, co-director of Libreria Del Pueblo, in an interview, stated, “We feel badly in this matter. We should not tolerate this type of shooting, especially to a young man who is serving our country. This was an irresponsible action on the part of the deputy. The community should see the tape and have a meeting with the sheriff to protect this action.”

The investigation is continuing, stated Robin Haynal, Sheriff Department public information. “We are conducting a thorough investigation and when completed, a report will be submitted to the district attorney for their decision of the investigation.”

Dr. Armando Navarro, in an interview with the IEHN, stated, “We are involved with the important Summit at the present time. Many of us in the Hispanic community are very frustrated with what has happened to this young man. However, the National Alliance for Human Rights will be meeting with the Carrion family on this urgent matter. Furthermore, we will also be contacting other civil rights leaders and collaboratively confront this issue.”

Meléndrez said that his main priority is to become involved with each area of his diverse ward. “I will establish a communication network and become aware of each of the area’s needs and availability of city resources,” he said. He also lists business development, public safety, neighborhood integrity, and area traffic management as major issues.

Meléndrez, a graduate of Cal-State, San Bernardino, has had a private vocational counseling business for over 23 years. He is actively involved in numerous business and community groups. He and his wife, Ann-Marie Orta Meléndrez are parents of Maria, Aurelio, Erica, and Alex.

The Sheriff Department, as is its policy, has continued its investigation, however, sheriff officials have not indicated when the investigation will be concluded.

Controversy has followed the shooting, due primarily to the dialogue in the tape between the deputy and Carrion, who was lying prone on the ground. The voice by Carrion, attempting to follow orders, was heard to be saying, “I’m with the military,” and a response by the deputy, “Ok,” followed by “You believe me? Alright,” Carrion was heard to say, the deputy replied, “Ok, Get up. Get up,” the deputy ordered. “Ok, I’m going to get up,” Carrion said. Seconds later, Carrion lay wounded on the Chino Street, having been shot three times.

The shooting alarmed many in the Hispanic community. Father Patricio Guillen, co-director of Libreria Del Pueblo, in an interview, stated, “We feel badly in this matter. We should not tolerate this type of shooting, especially to a young man who is serving our country. This was an irresponsible action on the part of the deputy. The community should see the tape and have a meeting with the sheriff to protect this action.”

The investigation is continuing, stated Robin Haynal, Sheriff Department public information. “We are conducting a thorough investigation and when completed, a report will be submitted to the district attorney for their decision of the investigation.”

Dr. Armando Navarro, in an interview with the IEHN, stated, “We are involved with the important Summit at the present time. Many of us in the Hispanic community are very frustrated with what has happened to this young man. However, the National Alliance for Human Rights will be meeting with the Carrion family on this urgent matter. Furthermore, we will also be contacting other civil rights leaders and collaboratively confront this issue.”

Meléndrez said that his main priority is to become involved with each area of his diverse ward. “I will establish a communication network and become aware of each of the area’s needs and availability of city resources,” he said. He also lists business development, public safety, neighborhood integrity, and area traffic management as major issues.

Meléndrez, a graduate of Cal-State, San Bernardino, has had a private vocational counseling business for over 23 years. He is actively involved in numerous business and community groups. He and his wife, Ann-Marie Orta Meléndrez are parents of Maria, Aurelio, Erica, and Alex.

The Sheriff Department, as is its policy, has continued its investigation, however, sheriff officials have not indicated when the investigation will be concluded.

Controversy has followed the shooting, due primarily to the dialogue in the tape between the deputy and Carrion, who was lying prone on the ground. The voice by Carrion, attempting to follow orders, was heard to be saying, “I’m with the military,” and a response by the deputy, “Ok,” followed by “You believe me? Alright,” Carrion was heard to say, the deputy replied, “Ok, Get up. Get up,” the deputy ordered. “Ok, I’m going to get up,” Carrion said. Seconds later, Carrion lay wounded on the Chino Street, having been shot three times.

The shooting alarmed many in the Hispanic community. Father Patricio Guillen, co-director of Libreria Del Pueblo, in an interview, stated, “We feel badly in this matter. We should not tolerate this type of shooting, especially to a young man who is serving our country. This was an irresponsible action on the part of the deputy. The community should see the tape and have a meeting with the sheriff to protect this action.”

The investigation is continuing, stated Robin Haynal, Sheriff Department public information. “We are conducting a thorough investigation and when completed, a report will be submitted to the district attorney for their decision of the investigation.”

Dr. Armando Navarro, in an interview with the IEHN, stated, “We are involved with the important Summit at the present time. Many of us in the Hispanic community are very frustrated with what has happened to this young man. However, the National Alliance for Human Rights will be meeting with the Carrion family on this urgent matter. Furthermore, we will also be contacting other civil rights leaders and collaboratively confront this issue.”
YET AGAIN, REPUBLICANS VOTE AGAINST HARD-WORKING AMERICANS

Inmoral Republican Budget passes House
by 216 to 214 vote

Washington, DC — The Congressional Hispanic Caucus expressed its outrage over budget priorities that are out of touch with the American people. By a vote of 216 to 214, the House of Representatives approved the “Deficit Reduction Act” (also referred to as the Budget Reconciliation Spending Cuts Act), which slashes $39 billion out of vital programs in healthcare, education, and other services that assist working-class people.

These funding cuts are being used by Republicans to help pay for another bill currently moving through Congress that contains $56 billion in tax cuts for the wealthiest. When combined, these two bills will actually increase the deficit by $17 billion over the next five years.

Latinos will be disproportionately affected by the budget cuts as many fall in the low and middle income brackets. Not one Democrat voted in favor of the bill, which will now be sent to the President for his signature.

“Only in George Bush’s Administration could a so-called ‘Deficit Reduction Act’ actually increase the American deficit,” said Congresswoman Grace F. Napolitano, CHC chair. “The immoral and deceitful tactics of this Republican-led government boggles the mind. Americans are working harder than ever to care for their families and the Republicans just made it more difficult for them to get by.

For many of our Latino families, this is a real setback that will force them to make even more difficult choices; between paying for healthcare or their child’s education or perhaps neither.”

The Congressional Hispanic Caucus (CHC) is comprised of 21 members of Congress of Hispanic descent. Since 1976 the CHC has been addressing the needs of the Hispanic community in all areas of American life. For more information on the CHC, call (202) 225-2410. www.napolitano.house.gov/chc.

MAYOR NORMA TORRES SWORN IN AS MAYOR OF THE CITY OF POMONA

Norma J. Torres, first elected Latina mayor, was sworn in at the Pomona City Council Chambers on Monday, February 6, 2006, followed by a public celebration at an open house at the Pomona City Hall.

Torres was elected to the Pomona City Council in 2000, representing the sixth district. She had previously helped organized the Neighbors For Pomona, a community-based group dedicated to reducing crime in the City of Pomona.

Torres also has been advocating for an initiative to reduce the number of sex offenders living in the Pomona community.

Torres was born in Guatemala, Central America on April 23, 1965. At age five, the family immigrated to the United States, and she has been a resident of the City of Pomona for 16 years. Married to Louis Torres, they are parents of three sons, Robert, 19, Christopher, 16, and Matthew, 13.

Torres was employed as a 9-1-1 dispatcher with the City of Los Angeles Police Department. As a result of a tragic experience due to lack of understanding of a non-English caller, Torres became involved with the Los Angeles City Council and advocated to provide quality of service to non-English callers. Because of her advocacy, the 911 center received funding to improve the services, the employment of bilingual staff.

Mayor Torres’ major initiatives include greater involvement with every sector of the community, promoting healthier, safe neighborhoods and schools, and enhancing the city’s interrelationship with local and state agencies.

Look at a day when you are supremely satisfied at the end.
It is not a day when you lounge around doing nothing; it is when you have had everything to do and you have done it.
Margaret Thatcher (NAPS)

IMMIGRATION SUMMIT

Protect the Rights of the Immigrant
Defeat Anti-Immigrant Legislation

The National Alliance for Human Rights, M.E.Ch.a. the UCR, UCR Chicano Student Programs, and the Southern California Human Rights Coalition and in collaboration with national and state groups have scheduled an Immigration Summit to be held at the:
Riverside Convention Center, 3443 Orange St., Riverside, CA
Registration: 8:30 a.m. - 9:30 a.m. - Summit: 9:30 a.m. - 4:00 p.m.
Action agenda: Create National Mobilization for Reform and Legalization, Defeat F. James Sensenbrenner

The Summit’s agenda will focus on creating a strategic plan of action designed to promote a national campaign for immigration reform and legislation against immigration legislation

Registration cost for conference and materials: $10 Non-Student, Faculty, Staff, Community Member, $5 College Student or High School Student with ID

For more information, contact The National Alliance for Human Rights
(951) 827-1826

WASHINGTON, DC — The House of Representatives approved the “Deficit Reduction Act” (also referred to as the Budget Reconciliation Spending Cuts Act), which slashes $39 billion out of vital programs in healthcare, education, and other services that assist working-class people.

These funding cuts are being used by Republicans to help pay for another bill currently moving through Congress that contains $56 billion in tax cuts for the wealthiest. When combined, these two bills will actually increase the deficit by $17 billion over the next five years.

Latinos will be disproportionately affected by the budget cuts as many fall in the low and middle income brackets. Not one Democrat voted in favor of the bill, which will now be sent to the President for his signature.

“Only in George Bush’s Administration could a so-called ‘Deficit Reduction Act’ actually increase the American deficit,” said Congresswoman Grace F. Napolitano, CHC chair. “The immoral and deceitful tactics of this Republican-led government boggles the mind. Americans are working harder than ever to care for their families and the Republicans just made it more difficult for them to get by.

For many of our Latino families, this is a real setback that will force them to make even more difficult choices; between paying for healthcare or their child’s education or perhaps neither.”

The Congressional Hispanic Caucus (CHC) is comprised of 21 members of Congress of Hispanic descent. Since 1976 the CHC has been addressing the needs of the Hispanic community in all areas of American life. For more information on the CHC, call (202) 225-2410. www.napolitano.house.gov/chc.

MAYOR NORMA TORRES SWORN IN AS MAYOR OF THE CITY OF POMONA

Norma J. Torres, first elected Latina mayor, was sworn in at the Pomona City Council Chambers on Monday, February 6, 2006, followed by a public celebration at an open house at the Pomona City Hall.

Torres was elected to the Pomona City Council in 2000, representing the sixth district. She had previously helped organized the Neighbors For Pomona, a community-based group dedicated to reducing crime in the City of Pomona.

Torres also has been advocating for an initiative to reduce the number of sex offenders living in the Pomona community.

Prayer Vigil & Candle Light Procession
A commitment to partnership.
One with people who care.

Tired of violence in our city?
Join the City’s Youth and Raise Your Voice For A Better Community
Procession starting at St. Bernardine’s Catholic Church (Corner of 5th and F St.) to City Hall
Saturday, February 11th at 7:00 p.m.
WASHINGTON, DC - Congressman Joe Baca (D-Rialto) appeared today with other leaders of the Congressional Hispanic Caucus and the Congressional Asian Pacific American Caucus to denounce a Republican anti-immigrant proposal designed to score political points.

Congressman Baca released the following statement to announce his support for realistic, meaningful and comprehensive immigration reform legislation and to highlight the many flaws and shortcomings in H.R. 4437, a controversial bill that is expected to come up for a vote in the U.S. House of Representatives tomorrow.

“Washington, DC - Congressman Joe Baca (D-Rialto) appeared today with other leaders of the Congressional Hispanic Caucus and the Congressional Asian Pacific American Caucus to denounce a Republican anti-immigrant proposal designed to score political points. Congressman Baca released the following statement to announce his support for realistic, meaningful and comprehensive immigration reform legislation and to highlight the many flaws and shortcomings in H.R. 4437, a controversial bill that is expected to come up for a vote in the U.S. House of Representatives tomorrow.

“Our nation needs secure borders to keep out terrorists and criminals, but we cannot solve immigration problems solely through enforcement, and we should not treat all immigrants as felons,” Congressman Baca said.

This year Members of Congress, President Bush, business organizations, and the advocacy community have all expressed the need for comprehensive reform of our immigration laws.

Unfortunately, this bill, H.R. 4437, the Border and Immigration Enforcement Act, does not approach this important issue in a comprehensive manner.

America has spent more and more money and hired more and more border patrol agents only to see immigration increase dramatically. Enforcement-only approaches like H.R. 4437 have failed and will fail. Stricter enforcement has merely encouraged immigrants to cross the border in more remote and more dangerous areas where they are more difficult to catch and face a greater likelihood of capture.

This bill will not protect our nation. It is simply an attempt to pass anti-immigrant legislation under the mask of reform. Instead, we need realistic and compassionate reform.

Politicians and talk radio can make outrageous statements about immigrants, but the truth is that Americans rely on immigrant labor to maintain our economy and quality of life. Immigrants have made the communities in the Inland Empire stronger and better. And across the country - cities, towns, and businesses have all benefited from the contributions of immigrants. This legislation has a face: It is the face of a nanny, a gardener, and the cook at your favorite restaurant, the cleaning crew at your workplace.

We need legislation that provides immigrants like these hardworking people of good character with a path to citizenship.

I join with my colleagues in the Congressional Hispanic Caucus in supporting comprehensive immigration reform. America needs a border security PLUS bill, one that protects our borders, respects American values by reuniting families, and provides earned legalization for immigrants who have proven to be law abiding members of society.

H.R. 4437 deals with border security alone, ignores the reality of our current immigration challenge, and jeopardizes the welfare and security of this country. This legislation contains many provisions that are merely an assault on hard working immigrants and their families and provide no meaningful reform for our broken immigration system. The bill makes being in the United States without a legal status a felony. This has the effect of making 11 million undocumented immigrants felons. Is that what America wants - to arrest and lock up 11 million immigrants, most of them hard-working people who contribute so much to our economy and our communities?

How would Republicans propose going about this? Are they planning to build detention camps with tent cities for 11 million people to live in until they can be deported? In addition, who is going to identify and round up the immigrants?

This bill would allow state and local police to enforce federal criminal laws. However, police departments do not want to become immigration enforcers because it distracts them from doing their primary job - to fight crime and protect us from the real threats against our communities. Instead, police understand that if immigrants do not feel safe calling the police, they will remain silent when they witness a crime or are victims of crime. And that hinders the police and makes our neighborhoods more dangerous.

Furthermore, this bill would also permit states and localities to use funds from homeland security grant programs for immigration enforcement activities. Our first responders need every dime of homeland security funds they receive to prevent and respond to emergencies. This provision raids their coffers to enforce state and local police to be immigration agents.

This bill also contains a provision to extend mandatory detention to all non-citizens detained at a port of entry or along the border even if they pose no flight risk or danger. This would result in serious injustices and the wasteful use of resources. This bill also severely restricts opportunities for deserving long term immigrants to pursue citizenship.

BACA CALLS FOR COMPREHENSIVE IMMIGRATION REFORM, CRITICIZES INEFFECTIVE, MEAN-SPRITED BILL

A bill to help reduce the corrupting influence of corporations and millionaire donors in the political process in California passed an important hurdle Tuesday afternoon with a narrow 4-3 approval in the Assembly Elections Committee.

AB 583, the California Clean Money and Fair Elections Act, provides for public financing for candidates who agree to voluntarily accept limits on contributions from big money interests.

"Enactment of AB 583 would be a step forward to lifting the stain on our democracy and political system so evident nationally in the Abramoff and Delay scandals and now Rose Ann DeMoro, executive director of the California Nurses Association a key sponsor of the bill.

"In California, this vote and the grassroots movement that has been building for the bill, symbolizes the growing voter revolt against two consecutive governors and the legislature for the embarrassment of cash regissr politics in Sacramento." DeMoro said.

Introduced by Assembly member Lori Hancock (D-Berkeley), the bill next heads to the Assembly Appropriations Committee. As legislation carried over from last year, the bill must clear the full Assembly by the end of January. In addition to CNA, other supporters include the League of Women Voters; Foundation for Taxpayer and Consumer Rights, Gray Panthers, Sierra Club, and the California Clean Money Campaign.

Voting for the bill today were Assembly members John Kilis (D-Hayward), Betty Karnette (D-Long Beach), Mark Leno (D-SF), and Lloyd Levin (D-Van Nuys). Voting no were Tom Umberg (D-Anaheim), Mark Wyland (R-Vista), and Michael Villines (R-Clovis).

Enactment of AB 583 would make California the fourth state to establish a clean money system with public financing, following Connecticut, which just enacted its law last year, Maine and Arizona. In Maine and Arizona, most candidates now adhere to the clean money guidelines, and as a result of the reform more women, minorities and working people have been able to run for office and win.

DeMoro called the effort to change the political system a "bold step forward to reinvigorating our democracy and helping to restore faith in government."

The best measure of a man's honesty isn't his income tax return. It is the zero adjust on his bathroom scale.

Arthur C. Clarke (NAPS)
BEWARE OF "FOR SALE BY OWNER" – NOT ALWAYS A GOOD BUY

CHICAGO – The "For Sale by Owner" (FSBO) sign grabs your attention as you wend your way through the neighborhood you have been wanting to call home. You figure it must be a good deal because the seller wants to save commission fees. Well, think again, warns Kevin L. Shepherd, chair-elect of the Real Property, Probate, and Trust Law Section of the American Bar Association. "Most people who sell their homes without the assistance of a real estate broker do not have a thorough understanding of the market, and are more likely to price their property higher than it is worth."

In fact, FSBO is typically not a wise decision for the seller either. The seller will not have access to the many resources that real estate agents have to attract buyers – especially the Multiple Listing Service. In addition, responsibilities include handling the advertising of the home, being available to show the home to potential buyers, and negotiating the sale price and contract provisions.

"Buying or selling a home is such a major undertaking – the biggest financial deal most people make in their lives – that it's surprising people think they can save money by going it alone. In reality, it may cost them much more in the end," explains Shepherd. Among the many factors that affect your role as a buyer or seller include state and federal law, the economy, your personal preferences, your financial situations, the prevailing real estate market, current mortgage rates, and tax considerations.

In almost any real estate transaction, several people need to be involved. "Don't view it as a tennis match between a single buyer and seller, but as a team sport where each player has a specific role," says Kathy Matthews, a real estate broker in Chicago's northwest suburbs. These experts include real estate agents, attorneys, lenders, home inspectors, appraisers, surveyors, title companies, homeowner associations, local property inspectors, insurance agents, and sometimes contractors.

Buying and selling a home always entails a written contract. Professional real estate agents and real estate attorneys are trained to handle the mounds of paperwork and contracts associated with the sale and purchase of a home.

When should you consult an attorney? According to the American Bar Association's Family legal Guide, buyers will want an attorney to enter the process when they are ready to make an offer, and, certainly, before they sign an offer to purchase. Sellers should consult an attorney early in the process and before signing a listing agreement with a real estate agent.

To find a lawyer with experience in real estate issues or any other type of law, contact your local Lawyer Referral program. Visit the ABA's web site at www.agnet.org/referral for a listing of the more than 300 Lawyer referral programs throughout the country, or check your Yellow pages under Lawyer Referral.

Lawyers who are registered with the Lawyer Referral program are in good standing with the state bar associations and are considered qualified in the areas of practice. When you call the referral program, a trained staff person will determine the nature of your legal question and will give you a name of a lawyer to contact. If you are referred to a lawyer by the service, you will be entitled to a half-hour initial consultation at no charge, or for a nominal fee – typically $35 or less – that helps to fund the local Lawyer Referral program.

More than 10 million callers are helped annually with legal information through public service Lawyer Referral programs. The ABA Standing Committee on Lawyer Referral and Information Service approves public service Lawyer Referral programs that provide consumers help and information through referrals to the public agencies and lawyers qualified in particular areas of law.

With more than 400,000 members, the American Bar Association is the largest voluntary professional membership organization in the world. As the national voice of the legal profession, the ABA works to improve the administration of justice, promotes programs that assist lawyers and judges in their work, accredits law schools, provides continuing legal education, and works to build public understanding around the world of the importance of the rule of law in a democratic society.
They attend church, raise children and participate in community activities and institutions. Yet, when America's day laborers go to work, they have experiences that would shock any other upstanding community member: police harassment, violence at the hands of employers, withheld wages and conditions so dangerous that is not unusual for them to be sidelined for more than a month with work-related injuries or to work for weeks on end in pain.

This is the vivid portrait painted by the first nationwide study of America's 117,600 day laborers. Orchestrated by social scientists from UCLA, the University of Illinois at Chicago and New York's New School University, "On the Corner: Day Labor in America" presents findings from a survey of 264 hiring sites in 143 municipalities in 20 U.S. states and the District of Columbia.

The goal was to document a population that, though quite visible on the corners of U.S. cities, is poorly understood by the public and by policy makers," said Nik Theodore, an assistant professor in the Urban Planning and Policy Program at the University of Illinois at Chicago and one of the study's three lead authors. "We hope to inform policy debates so that decision-makers can devise thoughtful and effective strategies for resolving many of the problems that day laborers face."

Three years in the making, the report includes the first ever national count of U.S. day laborers, little-known characteristics of these workers' backgrounds and troubling aspects of their working conditions across five U.S. regions: the West, Midwest, Southwest, South and East.

"Day labor has been thrust into the public consciousness, but we're concerned that the debate has gone on without an understanding of what gives rise to the phenomenon or what the many downsides are to work in this field," said Abel Valenzuela, a UCLA social scientist and study co-author.

Among the findings:

- Wage theft is the most common abuse suffered by day laborers, with nearly half of all workers having been denied payment in the two months prior to the survey.
- Just over three-quarters of day laborers are undocumented immigrants, meaning that the share of American citizens working in day labor is much higher than commonly supposed and that day laborers account for only a small fraction of the estimated 7- to 11-million undocumented immigrants in America today.
- Valenzuela, Theodore and New School economist Edwin Melendez directed teams of interviewers during July and August 2004 as they interviewed 2,660 randomly selected day laborers at 264 hiring sites across the nation.
- Researchers asked about the workers' educational backgrounds, family lives, occupational histories and experiences as day laborers, including injuries sustained on the job and the nature and frequency of abuse at the hands of employers, merchants, police and security guards.
- Using statistical methods pioneered by researchers of another shifting and by researchers of another shifting and changing population, drifting into small and rural towns throughout America, including the South and Midwest. Day labor may be widespread, but the total count of these workers is actually one tenth to one-twentieth the size bandied about by anti-immigration forces.
- Wage theft is the most common abuse suffered by day laborers, with nearly half of all workers having been denied payment in the two months prior to the survey.
- Just over three-quarters of day laborers are undocumented immigrants, meaning that the share of American citizens working in day labor is much higher than commonly supposed and that day laborers account for only a small fraction of the estimated 7- to 11-million undocumented immigrants in America today.

Valenzuela, Theodore and New School economist Edwin Melendez directed teams of interviewers during July and August 2004 as they interviewed 2,660 randomly selected day laborers at 264 hiring sites across the nation.

Interviewers asked about the workers' educational backgrounds, family lives, occupational histories and experiences as day laborers, including injuries sustained on the job and the nature and frequency of abuse at the hands of employers, merchants, police and security guards.

Using statistical methods pioneered by researchers of another shifting and changin population, drifting into small and rural towns throughout America, including the South and Midwest. Day labor may be widespread, but the total count of these workers is actually one tenth to one-twentieth the size bandied about by anti-immigration forces.

This is the vivid portrait painted by the first nationwide study of America's 117,600 day laborers. Orchestrated by social scientists from UCLA, the University of Illinois at Chicago and New York's New School University, "On the Corner: Day Labor in America" presents findings from a survey of 264 hiring sites in 143 municipalities in 20 U.S. states and the District of Columbia.

The goal was to document a population that, though quite visible on the corners of U.S. cities, is poorly understood by the public and by policy makers," said Nik Theodore, an assistant professor in the Urban Planning and Policy Program at the University of Illinois at Chicago and one of the study's three lead authors. "We hope to inform policy debates so that decision-makers can devise thoughtful and effective strategies for resolving many of the problems that day laborers face."

Three years in the making, the report includes the first ever national count of U.S. day laborers, little-known characteristics of these workers' backgrounds and troubling aspects of their working conditions across five U.S. regions: the West, Midwest, Southwest, South and East.

"Day labor has been thrust into the public consciousness, but we're concerned that the debate has gone on without an understanding of what gives rise to the phenomenon or what the many downsides are to work in this field," said Abel Valenzuela, a UCLA social scientist and study co-author.

Among the findings:

- Wage theft is the most common abuse suffered by day laborers, with nearly half of all workers having been denied payment in the two months prior to the survey.
- Just over three-quarters of day laborers are undocumented immigrants, meaning that the share of American citizens working in day labor is much higher than commonly supposed and that day laborers account for only a small fraction of the estimated 7- to 11-million undocumented immigrants in America today.
- Valenzuela, Theodore and New School economist Edwin Melendez directed teams of interviewers during July and August 2004 as they interviewed 2,660 randomly selected day laborers at 264 hiring sites across the nation.
- Researchers asked about the workers' educational backgrounds, family lives, occupational histories and experiences as day laborers, including injuries sustained on the job and the nature and frequency of abuse at the hands of employers, merchants, police and security guards.
- Using statistical methods pioneered by researchers of another shifting and changin population, drifting into small and rural towns throughout America, including the South and Midwest. Day labor may be widespread, but the total count of these workers is actually one tenth to one-twentieth the size bandied about by anti-immigration forces.
- Wage theft is the most common abuse suffered by day laborers, with nearly half of all workers having been denied payment in the two months prior to the survey.
- Just over three-quarters of day laborers are undocumented immigrants, meaning that the share of American citizens working in day labor is much higher than commonly supposed and that day laborers account for only a small fraction of the estimated 7- to 11-million undocumented immigrants in America today.

Valenzuela, Theodore and New School economist Edwin Melendez directed teams of interviewers during July and August 2004 as they interviewed 2,660 randomly selected day laborers at 264 hiring sites across the nation.

Interviewers asked about the workers' educational backgrounds, family lives, occupational histories and experiences as day laborers, including injuries sustained on the job and the nature and frequency of abuse at the hands of employers, merchants, police and security guards.

Using statistical methods pioneered by researchers of another shifting and changin population, drifting into small and rural towns throughout America, including the South and Midwest. Day labor may be widespread, but the total count of these workers is actually one tenth to one-twentieth the size bandied about by anti-immigration forces.

This is the vivid portrait painted by the first nationwide study of America's 117,600 day laborers. Orchestrated by social scientists from UCLA, the University of Illinois at Chicago and New York's New School University, "On the Corner: Day Labor in America" presents findings from a survey of 264 hiring sites in 143 municipalities in 20 U.S. states and the District of Columbia.

The goal was to document a population that, though quite visible on the corners of U.S. cities, is poorly understood by the public and by policy makers," said Nik Theodore, an assistant professor in the Urban Planning and Policy Program at the University of Illinois at Chicago and one of the study's three lead authors. "We hope to inform policy debates so that decision-makers can devise thoughtful and effective strategies for resolving many of the problems that day laborers face."

Three years in the making, the report includes the first ever national count of U.S. day laborers, little-known characteristics of these workers' backgrounds and troubling aspects of their working conditions across five U.S. regions: the West, Midwest, Southwest, South and East.

"Day labor has been thrust into the public consciousness, but we're concerned that the debate has gone on without an understanding of what gives rise to the phenomenon or what the many downsides are to work in this field," said Abel Valenzuela, a UCLA social scientist and study co-author.

Among the findings:

- Wage theft is the most common abuse suffered by day laborers, with nearly half of all workers having been denied payment in the two months prior to the survey.
- Just over three-quarters of day laborers are undocumented immigrants, meaning that the share of American citizens working in day labor is much higher than commonly supposed and that day laborers account for only a small fraction of the estimated 7- to 11-million undocumented immigrants in America today.
- Valenzuela, Theodore and New School economist Edwin Melendez directed teams of interviewers during July and August 2004 as they interviewed 2,660 randomly selected day laborers at 264 hiring sites across the nation.
- Researchers asked about the workers' educational backgrounds, family lives, occupational histories and experiences as day laborers, including injuries sustained on the job and the nature and frequency of abuse at the hands of employers, merchants, police and security guards.
- Using statistical methods pioneered by researchers of another shifting and changin population, drifting into small and rural towns throughout America, including the South and Midwest. Day labor may be widespread, but the total count of these workers is actually one tenth to one-twentieth the size bandied about by anti-immigration forces.
- Wage theft is the most common abuse suffered by day laborers, with nearly half of all workers having been denied payment in the two months prior to the survey.
- Just over three-quarters of day laborers are undocumented immigrants, meaning that the share of American citizens working in day labor is much higher than commonly supposed and that day laborers account for only a small fraction of the estimated 7- to 11-million undocumented immigrants in America today.

Valenzuela, Theodore and New School economist Edwin Melendez directed teams of interviewers during July and August 2004 as they interviewed 2,660 randomly selected day laborers at 264 hiring sites across the nation.

Interviewers asked about the workers' educational backgrounds, family lives, occupational histories and experiences as day laborers, including injuries sustained on the job and the nature and frequency of abuse at the hands of employers, merchants, police and security guards.

Using statistical methods pioneered by researchers of another shifting and changin population, drifting into small and rural towns throughout America, including the South and Midwest. Day labor may be widespread, but the total count of these workers is actually one tenth to one-twentieth the size bandied about by anti-immigration forces.
Community Action Partnership of Riverside County

CONGRATULATIONS
To the Community Mentors of 2005 of The Riverside County Mentoring Collaborative

PROJECT LEAD
Della Alvarado
Jose Arriale
Rachel Azer
Ruby Carson
Ana Chavez
Herencia Cortes
Tina Holleman
Ray Avie Jr.
Barbara Mckenzie
Kevin Nguyen
Janette Sol
Matthew Pry
Ilana Ruiz
Nativa Marie Olivo
Mary Esther Sherman

PRE-APPRENTICESHIP
Jodie Palmer
Carol Beat
Susan Almanza
Erin Mirchala
Oscar Snow
Teresa Thompson

ORGANIZATIONS
Andrew Armstrong
Jason McMillan
Beth Johnson
Michelle Lupero
Laura Ponce
Sue Wetherbee
Tiffany Undberg
Brian Henderson
Maritza Ornelas
Arlene Stevens
Christie Me Veigh
Antwinette Franklin
Abigail Ocampo
Maria D Rodriguez
Stuart Owens
Taylor Cohee
Josue Martinez
Mariana Mory
Samantha Beau
Andrew Powell
Uzbekh Cortez
Barbara Wilson
Joy Sail
Joshua Sutton
Marcie Rios

2038 Iowa Avenue, Suite B-102
Riverside, CA 92507-2412
Phone: (951) 955-4900

Fundied by: California State Department of Community Services and Development
The San Bernardino City Unified School District is sponsoring a Teacher Job Fair
Saturday, February 25, 2006
9:00 a.m. - 3:30 p.m.
The fair will be held at:
San Bernardino Adult Education Building
1900 North “E” Street, in San Bernardino
For more information & to schedule an interview, please call (909) 381-1298.

Casa De Flores
342 S. Mt. Vernon Ave. San Bernardino, CA 92410
(909) 885-7051
Monday Friday 10:00 a.m. Saturday 10:00 a.m. 3:00 p.m. Sunday - Closed
COMPLETE FLORIST SERVICE
WE DELIVER (Floral Arrangements for all Occasions)
Wedding and Bridesmaid Dresses.
Quinceañeras and Baptisms, and Tuxedo Rentals
Serving our Hispanic Community for over 30 years
VISA, M.C., AMEX Accepted
SE HABLA ESPANOL

Atencion! Atencion!
Casa de Venta
de 4-recamaras y 2-banos
con Lote grande en el
Inland Empire
Se habla Español
Apures!
Se va a vender pronto!
Llame Alma: 562-682-7057

To Stop Smoking
Start Here.

Attention! Attention!
Attention!
FOR SALE
Home in the Inland Empire
4-brdrms + 2-bths
on a huge lot
Hurry! It Will Go Fast!
Call Patrick: 562-964-9506
Call Alma: 562-682-7057

Casa De Flores
342 S. Mt. Vernon Ave. San Bernardino, CA 92410
(909) 885-7051

We treat our pediatrics patients with kid gloves...

Comprehensive services designed to ensure optimum health for every child are available at ARMC's Family Health Centers. There is a Family Health Center near you, with two locations in San Bernardino and one in Fontana.

Services are also available at the Pediatrics Clinic at ARMC.

SAME DAY APPOINTMENTS AVAILABLE FOR YOUR SICK CHILD

"Community College is changing my life." - Yolanda Ureña

Yolanda Ureña is a math major at Valley College and wants to apply her skills in the scientific field. She is a mother and a part-time student. "At first I was intimidated when I started college, but then I learned about all the possibilities at Valley and there's no stopping me now!"

"Enhancing your life with quality education."

(The San Bernardino Community College District consists of San Bernardino Valley College and Crafton Hills College in Yucaipa.)