Kevin Gallagher, Associated Student Body President, has been appointed to the Board of Trustees of the California State University and Colleges. When named by Governor Brown last Friday, the 25-year-old senior became the second student trustee in the history of the board.

Mr. Gallagher was the choice of the Student Presidents Assn. of the CSUC to represent them on the board. The final decision was made by the governor, however, on the basis of two 500-word essays and a personal interview with Gov. Brown's appointment secretary, Dr. Carlotta Mellon.

The new trustee comes to the governing board with an impressive background. He is currently president of the CSUC Student Presidents Assn. and has attended numerous meetings of the Board of Trustees in that capacity, speaking before the board for the 300,000 students in the system, and working with board members on their committees.

As a trustee, Mr. Gallagher says he will keep himself open to hear the viewpoints of others and keep in mind his responsibility to the citizens of the state. He intends to visit other CSUC campuses to maintain contacts with students.

He will resign his presidency of the association because of possible conflict between that and his new trustee role. He sees no conflict, however, between his new position and his current presidency of the CSCSB associated students, now in an unprecedented second term.
