LARGEST GRADUATING CLASS

Approximately 880 seniors and graduate students will be eligible to participate in the college's 14th annual commencement exercises Saturday morning, June 14. Nearly 500 are expected to take part in the ceremony which begins at 9 a.m. on the lawn south of the gymnasium.

Although there will be some attrition when final grades are computed, the Class of 1980 is expected to surpass the record of 809 graduates for the 1978-79 academic year and the 806 in 1977-78.

Faculty members chosen to participate in the graduation ceremony include Dr. Edward Erler (Political Science), faculty marshal; Dr. Carl Wagoner (Sociology), student marshal and Dr. Margaret Gibbs (Administration), college marshal.

Graduate students will be hooded by the deans of their respective schools. The Alumni Assn. again this year has arranged for a commercial photographer to take pictures of all graduates receiving their diplomas from President John M. Pfau.

A brass ensemble under the baton of Keating Johnson, director of bands, will provide the music. The participating clergyman will be Dr. John Foerester, pastor of the First Evangelical Lutheran Church, Redlands.

Following the ceremony, graduates, their guests and faculty are invited to the traditional reception in the gymnasium and to the student art show in the Art Gallery.

NEED A GIFT IDEA FOR THE GRADUATE? A membership in the Cal State, San Bernardino Alumni Association could be a treasured gift for the 1980 graduate, suggests Lawrence Daniels, president. "It can help keep the new alum in touch with the college and with his former classmates and faculty."

Members of the Association are placed on special mailing lists to receive word of activities occurring on campus; they are entitled to use certain college facilities including physical education and library; they may purchase drama tickets at a special discount. In addition, their membership supports scholarships and loans for present students.

Membership in the Alumni Association is open to all recipients of degrees and credentials. The dues are $7.50 annually and $50 for a life membership. If two members of a family are graduates, they can join for $10 a year and $70 for a lifetime. For further information call the student services office, ext. 7526.

FINAL DAYS FOR SYMBOLISM SHOW If you haven't had a chance to see the 19th century Symbolism show in the art gallery yet, you had better do so soon. The show will close Tuesday, June 10.

One of the most ambitious ever presented at Cal State, the exhibit has been viewed by more than 1800 people during its six-week run at the college. It has also been reviewed by the Los Angeles Times, the Sun and Art Week, a magazine that covers the western United States.

Featured in the show are 47 works by an international gallery of artists, including Gaugin, Picasso, Redon and more.

"It is our hope that this exhibit will lay the groundwork for shows of comparable quality to come," explained Dr. Julius Kaplan, chairman of the art department, and organizer of the show. "Because of the positive response we have received, similar exhibits, involving extensive student participation in planning, design and writing of the catalog are being planned for the future."

The remaining gallery hours will be: today, 9-noon and 1-4:30 p.m.; Saturday and Sunday, 1-4 p.m.; Monday, 9-noon, 1-4:30, 7-9 p.m.; and Tuesday, 9-noon, 1-4:30 p.m.

SENIOR SHOW FEATURES CLAY The senior show of art major George Mieldazis, featuring works in clay, is on display in the glass cases of the Library through June 9.
Dr. Robert West, the founding chairman and dean of the School of Education, and Dr. Harold A. Jambor, who helped develop the college’s human services major, will retire this month.

Dr. West, who started his teaching career 41 years ago this September, came to Cal State in 1966 to found the then Department of Education. He brought with him experience as teacher, principal, director of the School of Education at the University of Redlands for seven years and assistant superintendent of the San Bernardino County Schools for one year.

Under his direction, the college’s Department of Education grew from merely offering preparation for elementary and secondary credentials to a wider range of credentials and eventually to the college’s first graduate degree program, the M.A. in education. Dr. West became a dean in 1972 when the department became the School of Education. Growth continued with a full range of options within the M.A. Dr. West retired from the deanship in 1974 but continued to teach and supervise the administrative services credential program, which he helped to write.

Dr. and Mrs. West, who have homes in San Bernardino and the mountains, will remain in the area but also hope to travel. In addition to consulting in education, Dr. West plans to work part-time with his son in his woodworking business in San Bernardino.

Dr. Jambor, who will be retiring for the second time, claims "retirement is a myth; I'm just getting off the payroll." He was associated with the University of Hawaii for 21 years and was professor and director of continuing education at Portland State University for three years prior to coming to Cal State as lecturer in sociology in 1975.

"We've felt completely a part of Cal State since coming here; our whole feeling has been a warm and wonderful one," he said. In addition to his responsibilities at the college, Dr. Jambor has held offices in the County Council of Community Services and the Inland Counties Health System Agency. Mrs. Jambor has been an officer and worker in the Cal State Faculty Wives Club.

The Jambors will spend the next six months doing "principally family things." They, like the Wests, have a home near the campus.

Jacqueline Snow, a graduate student in education and first-grade teacher in Yucaipa, has been selected as one of the top reading specialist teachers in the state. Mrs. Snow, nominated by the School of Education, was awarded a California Professors of Reading Achievement Award in recognition of high scholastic performance at the graduate level, involvement in the professional organizations, creative development of materials or programs and service to the teaching profession. She will receive her M.A. in education and her reading specialist credential at commencement June 14.

The Registered Student Nurses Association will hold a party to honor the graduates of the Nursing program June 13 from 5-7 p.m. in the Lower Commons. All nursing students, faculty and their families are invited.

LIBRARIAN AUTHORS  At least 98 percent of all the science fiction and fantasy books published in English are cited in a bibliography authored by a Cal State librarian, M.R. Burgess. Favorable reviews are being received for the comprehensive reference work, "Science Fiction and Fantasy Literature," which was published earlier this year by Gale Research Co. of Detroit.

The two-volume work, the 16th book published by Burgess in nine years, took six years to compile. In addition to researching the 19,000 science fiction books in his personal collection, Burgess examined another 7,000 publications. His bibliography thus lists 15,884 English-language first editions of books and pamphlets published between 1700 and 1974 in the fields of science fiction, fantasy and weird, supernatural fiction.

HUMANITIES FELLOWSHIPS  The Rockefeller Foundation announces a program of awards for 1981-82 to support "humanistic scholarship intended to illuminate and assess the social and cultural issues of the contemporary world." Applications will be accepted from writers and scholars in the traditional humanistic disciplines (literature, history, philosophy, etc.). Similar proposals in fields not usually defined as humanistic (political science, anthropology, etc.) also are encouraged if their humanistic implications are substantial. First-stage proposals must be received by Oct. 1, 1980. Further information is available from Florence Weiser (Academic Administration), ext. 7517.
