The Inauguration of Dr. Anthony H. Evans as the second president of Cal State, San Bernardino will take place Tuesday, May 17.

The public ceremony, to be followed by a reception, will begin at 1:30 p.m. in the gymnasium. Chancellor W. Ann Reynolds and a representative of the Board of Trustees will officially invest the president with his office.

Recognizing the budget constraints facing the college and the state, the Presidential Inauguration Planning Committee is planning a simple occasion. An academic processional, with representatives of many area colleges and universities joining Cal State faculty, will add a traditional touch to the festivities. The entire campus community will be invited to attend and invitations will be sent to off-campus dignitaries.

To facilitate faculty having caps and gowns for the occasion, the Bookstore has made arrangements to secure the regalia early enough for the inauguration. It may then be held over until commencement. Orders for rental of caps, gowns or hoods must be placed with the Bookstore by April 8.

Other plans for the occasion will be announced as the committee proceeds with its work. The inauguration committee, chaired by Vice President Gerald Scherba, also includes Dr. Edward Erler (Political Science), Dr. Loren Filbeck (Music), Dr. John Hatton (Dean of Students), Jeanne Hogenson (Activities), Dr. Judith Rymer (Education), Edna Steinman (Public Affairs), Elise Traynum (Associated Students) and James H. Urata (Executive Dean).

Dr. Ackley Resigns as Associate Dean

Dr. Richard T. Ackley has resigned as associate dean of academic administration, effective in September, to return to full-time teaching.

As associate dean since 1974, Dr. Ackley has assisted the dean of academic administration in planning, securing and allocating instructional facilities and equipment and in administering the academic affirmative action program. He joined the college in 1972 as a part-time lecturer and is now associate professor of political science. Dr. Ackley holds a Ph.D. in international relations from USC, M.A. in political science from the University of Hawaii and B.A. in history from USC.

Dr. Ackley has taught courses in the USC doctoral program in strategic studies for 10 years and teaches two undergraduate courses in defense strategy here. A Navy veteran of 20 years, he is a former submarine commander and served two years as attaché with the U.S. Embassy in Moscow. He now is a consultant to the U.S. Government and to Science Applications, Inc.

WEATHER DATA COLLECTED AT NEW WEATHER STATION

The college has consolidated its weather equipment into a new Weather Station. For the past several years, the equipment has continuously recorded wind velocity and direction, rainfall, temperature, percent relative humidity and barometric pressure from various locations on campus.

The new site is representative of the natural environment and conveniently located for Dr. Marvin Frost (Geography), director of the station, and his students, who take several readings a week.

Data collected from 1976 to 1981 has been published in the college's first environmental studies report, available for reading in the Pfau Library. The station now is an official part of the climatic data recording network of the San Bernardino County Flood Control District. Information gathered at the station is used by local water and flood control districts, building and safety departments, and city planners.

SENIOR ART SHOW

OPENS THURSDAY

Students Bertie Lewis, Danny Redfern and Rick Schneblin will open their senior art show with a reception from 7 to 10 p.m., Thursday in the Art Gallery. The free show runs through March 16. Hours are 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. and 7 to 9 p.m., Monday through Friday, and 1 to 4 p.m., Saturday and Sunday.

Ms. Lewis has created a kinetic sculpture. Sandra Ehoff, a professional dance from Long Beach, will perform opening night beside a wooden piece by Ms. Lewis. For the remaining times, the dance will be on video tape. Redfern will display three-dimensional shadow-box paintings with "nearly departed" as the theme. Schneblin sought to recreate the aura of frivolity and excitement associated with the 1920s in his airbrush paintings.

OUTSTANDING PROFESSOR RECOGNITION EXPANDED

To increase the recognition of CSU faculty, the outstanding professor award program has been expanded, Chancellor W. Ann Reynolds announced. In addition to the $1,000 awards provided by the CSU Foundation to the two faculty selected from among the campuses' nominees, $500 will be awarded to all other nominees. The entire group will be honored at a reception at the State University House. Formal presentations of all awards will be made at a Board of Trustees' meeting.

The two outstanding professors will have the opportunity to make a presentation on the topic of their choice to CSU colleagues on other campuses. Each will be released from teaching one class in order to prepare and deliver the presentation on at least two campuses, one in northern and one in southern California. These lectures will be coordinated by the Statewide Academic Senate in conjunction with local campus senates. Other campuses may also wish to invite recipients of the award.

Finally, the names of all those selected as outstanding professor over the years will be engraved on a plaque to hang near the Academic Senate Office in the Headquarters Building.

Dr. Frances F. Berdan (Anthropology) has been nominated by the college for the 1983 award.

The U.S. Department of Education has awarded the Student Assistance in Learning (SAIL) program $125,636 for fiscal 1983-84, enabling the program to continue to provide assistance to disadvantaged students. SAIL operates under a four-year Special Services for Disadvantaged Students grant, with this term ending August 1984. However, each year the college must apply for a continuation of funding.

Support for 1983-84, which is the same as the amount granted for 1982-83, is lower than anticipated, according to Jean Peacock, program coordinator. In addition, the budget for 1982-83 represented a four-percent drop from the previous year. When the four-year grant ends in August 1984, the college will have received $508,978. Ms. Peacock expects to apply for another commitment from the Department of Education to extend the program four more years.

Targeted toward low-income, physically handicapped and/or first-generation college students, SAIL is designed to help them succeed in college. Students receive assistance in study skills, reading, writing and basic arithmetic through tutoring, learning labs and special workshops and seminars. SAIL staff members also provide personal and academic counseling and refer students to services on and off campus when additional help is needed.

The Office of Continuing Education again has compiled an eclectic offering of spring classes. How to stay young, skin dive, write a novel and conduct successful meetings are among the approximately 80 topics. The free bulletin of extension classes is available from the Office of Continuing Education, PL 500, or the Public Affairs Office, AD 117.

Sir Roy Denman, head of the delegation of the Commission of European Communities, will speak on "The United States and the European Community: Can the Telegraph Line be Kept Open Between Washington and Brussels?" at 7:30 p.m., Thursday, March 3 at the Anaheim Marriott Hotel. A bus will depart from UCR at 6 p.m. Cost of the trip is about $6. Reservations may be made by calling the council office (714) 787-5744.

The American Scandinavian Student Exchange is seeking families to host 15 Scandinavian and German high school students. The students are ages 16 and 17, and speak fluent English. Information is available from Joe Long (Physical Education and Recreation), Ext. 7561.

A listing of faculty members interested in exchanging positions with colleagues in other western institutions for all or part of the 1983-84 academic year is available from the Western Interstate Commission for Higher Education (WICHE). The Faculty Senate Office, AD 169, has a copy of the publication.
