MEMORIAL SERVICES HELD
FOR DR. MARVIN FROST

Members of the college community gathered Thursday for a memorial service for Dr. Marvin Frost, who died last week in Belize. The service was held near the weather station which Dr. Frost developed and managed on campus. Thoughts were given by Dr. G.W. Abersold, pastor of Highland Congregational Church; Dr. Ward McAfee, dean of the School of Social and Behavioral Sciences; Dr. Richard Rowland, chair of the Department of Geography; Dr. James Mulvihill, assistant professor of geography; and Bernard Zaleha, an environmental studies and geography major who worked closely with Dr. Frost on his projects.

Dr. Frost, 43, was coordinator of environmental studies and associate professor of geography. He died of a heart attack while on sabbatical to study wildlife in the jungles of Belize. Graveside services were held yesterday in Turlock Memorial Park, about three miles from his parent's home in Denair. Among his survivors are his parents, two children and a brother.

Those wishing to honor his memory may contribute to the Faculty Memorial Scholarship Fund at the Foundation Office or at the Office of the School of Social and Behavioral Sciences.

EIGHT STUDENTS SELECTED FOR INTERNATIONAL PROGRAM

Eight students from the college have been selected to study abroad next academic year under the California State University International Programs. The students were chosen from 825 applicants on the basis of academic record, recommendations and ability to adapt to a different culture. Only slightly over one-half of the applicants were accepted, a major decrease from previous years, according to Dr. Mireille Rydell (French), on-campus coordinator.

To study abroad are Chad Burns, economics and political science major, in England; Janine Fasche, administration, Denmark; Hugo Frech, philosophy, Spain; Susan Hunter, administration, Japan; Michele Marquis, French, Canada; Beatrice Montano, administration, Spain; Scott Lambert, English and liberal studies, England; and Karen Williams, French, France.

STUDENT DESIGNING
MACE FOR INAUGURATION

Under the technical direction of Roger Lintault (Art), art major Mark Petherbridge is designing a college mace to be used during the inauguration of President Anthony H. Evans Tuesday, May 17. The mace, a ceremonial symbol of authority, will have a bronze head bearing the college logo and symbols of education mounted on a staff of maple and rosewood. Petherbridge also plans to craft a mounting plate so the mace, which will be about 32 inches long, can hang in a prominent place.
JOB INTERVIEWING

Workshops Planned

The Career Planning and Placement Center and the Counseling Center are sponsoring job interviewing workshops from 3 to 4:30 p.m., Thursdays, May 5-19 in the Counseling Center, PS 227. The focus of "Asserting Yourself in the Job Interview" is on interview techniques through the use of video taping of mock interview situations. All students, regardless of class level or major, are invited to participate. Alumni of the college also are encouraged to attend. Sign ups are not required, and participants may attend any or all sessions.
