BUDGET PLANNING ANALYST
ADDED TO BUSINESS STAFF

Filling a new position, C. D. (Don) McKenzie joined the college Tuesday as the first budget planning analyst. His responsibilities will involve planning for future years' budgets.

McKenzie, who was extensively involved in the preparation and monitoring of budgets during his 20 years in the Air Force, will share budget tasks with Jim Martinez, college budget officer, announced Business Manager Leonard Farwell. Martinez will handle administration of the current year's budget.

During his two-year tour at Norton AFB, McKenzie was chief of the services division, which primarily handled billeting and food services, and later was management specialist for Air Force Commissary Services in Southern California. He retired Aug. 31 with the rank of major.

McKenzie earned his B.S. in accounting and his M.B.A. in personnel management from the University of Colorado. He has taught off-duty courses for the University of Maryland at two overseas bases.

Faculty, staff and administrators plus their guests from the community are invited to the event, announced Dr. Irving Buchen, dean of the School of Humanities, and Linda Pederson, president of the Cal State Associates, who are hosting the gathering.

The guest presenter will be Dr. Lawrence R. Smith, who joined the English Department faculty as a lecturer this year. Smith, a poet and translator of contemporary Italian poetry, will share the evolution and translation of some poems.

An Italian menu will be served in the Lower Commons beginning at 7 p.m. Reservations for the evening must be made with Dean Buchen, Ext. 7441, by 5 p.m., Monday.

ENHANCED DENTAL PLAN OFFERED TO FACULTY

An enhanced dental program sponsored by California Dental Service will be offered to all Unit 3 (faculty) participants during a special open enrollment period from Nov. 7 through 30. The program will provide a higher level of service and is paid through employer contributions which constitute .2 percent of the salary increase. The plan offers increases in the calendar year maximum benefit from $1,500 to $2,000, in diagnostic and preventative benefits, from 75 to 100 percent and in the "other basic" portion of coverage from 75 to 80 percent.

An information letter will be sent to all eligible participants outlining the available options and covering the differences between the CDS basic and enhanced plans. The changes are the result of a collective bargaining agreement between the California State University and the California Faculty Association.
