Dr. Reginald Price Named First Athletic Director

Dr. Reginald Price, chair of the Department of Physical Education and Recreation, this week was named Cal State's first athletic director, President Anthony H. Evans announced.

Price's appointment to the half-time position, effective Jan. 3, is the first major step in the implementation of intercollegiate athletics on campus. He will continue as chair of the Department of Physical Education and Recreation, a position he has held since coming here in September 1978. In order to accommodate the time-consuming activities as athletic director, he will do a limited amount of teaching.

Dr. Price has a diverse background including varied administrative experience, coaching duties, teaching, and consulting in the construction of a $4 million education complex. He earned six collegiate varsity letters in three sports, wrestling, track and soccer. He was chair of the Department of Physical Education and Athletics and served as athletic business manager at MacMurray College in Illinois prior to coming to Cal State. He also has taught and coached there, at Hiram College and at the Ohio School for the Blind.

One of Dr. Price's top priorities will be the establishment of an on-campus athletics advisory board which will assist in the development of policies and procedures for the selection of part-time coaches. His goal is to appoint the first coaches this spring, so that they may begin recruiting students and preparing for the introduction of athletics next fall.

Appointment of an athletic director is the first step in seeking membership in the National Collegiate Athletic Assn. (NCAA) and the local Division III conference, the Southern California Intercollegiate Athletic Conference (SCIAC). Price will begin developing schedules for 1984-85 for the first sports to be introduced: men's soccer and cross-country and women's volleyball and cross country in the fall, men's and women's basketball in the winter quarter and men's and women's tennis in spring quarter 1985.

Human Development Major Approved

Chancellor W. Ann Reynolds has granted approval for the college to offer a B.A. in human development effective this year. The human development major provides for broad interdisciplinary study over the life span. Majors may concentrate in child development or aging. The program is an expansion of the present B.A. in child development. Students currently in the child development program may complete the old major or may switch to human development. Dr. Charles Hoffman (Psychology) is coordinator of the program, which is appropriate for individuals working with any age level.

An exhibit of high school faculty art work will open with a reception in the Art Gallery Saturday, Jan. 14. The art and industrial arts departments of the 65 high schools in the college's service area were invited to participate.

The reception honoring the artists will be from 7 to 10 p.m., Jan. 14. Gallery hours for this show, which will be through Feb. 4, are 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday and 1-4 p.m. Saturday and Sunday.

CONTINUING EDUCATION
Offers Robot Workshop

An introduction to the realities and myths of the new robotics technology will be offered by the Office of Continuing Education Saturday, Jan. 21. The afternoon workshop, from 1-5 p.m., will be held in the Student Union Multipurpose Room. The workshop will feature live demonstrations of three robots, HERO 1, RB5X and Topo. Fee for the noncredit course is $20.

Frank Slaton, computer center manager, will lead the course which will include guest lecturers from throughout the state.

WINTER QUARTER PLAY
Cast Announced

Senior theatre arts majors William Greeley and Nancy Learmonth will portray George and Martha, the two lead characters in "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?" The theatre arts production opens Thursday, Feb. 23 in the Theatre. Completing the cast will be junior theatre arts major Marc Dietrich as Nick and Tamora Monohan, a sophomore majoring in theatre arts, as Honey.

The play draws its audience into the intense dramatic conflict between George and Martha and their two late evening guests, Honey and Nick. It was first performed at Cal State during winter quarter, 1974. Again directed by Dr. Ronald Barnes, chair of the Theatre Arts Department, the play continues Feb. 24, 25, 29 and March 1-3.

HISPANIC RECEPTION
Set For Jan. 12

A reception for Hispanic faculty, alumni, staff and students will be from 5 to 8 p.m., Thursday, Jan. 12. Sponsored by the Chicano Chapter of the Alumni Assn., the wine and cheese reception will be in the Lower Commons. Sam Garcia, a self-employed specialist in labor and employee relations, will speak. He earned his M.A. degree in business administration here in 1974. Since then, he has been employed at Lockheed Aircraft Corp., Xerox and International Telephone and Telegraph Corp.
KUSHNER NAMED DIRECTOR OF SPONSORED PROGRAMS

A grant and contract development officer from California State University, Fresno, has been named director of sponsored programs. Sid Kushner arrived on campus Jan. 3.

His responsibilities include working with faculty and administrators to produce successful grant applications. Also, he will be actively seeking financial opportunities for extramural funds at the local, state and federal levels.

Kushner said he will do everything from providing basic information for faculty and administrators to following through with editorial support on proposals. His duties also include keeping a liaison with funding agencies.

He holds a B.A. degree from California State University, Northridge, and an M.A. from the University of California, Santa Barbara. Both are in political science. He has completed coursework toward a doctorate at UC, Santa Barbara.

At CSU, Fresno, his responsibilities included all functions pertaining to grant and contract development, program and funding source development and evaluation, and keeping a liaison with federal, state and local funding agencies. He also has taught at UC Santa Barbara and Edinboro State College in Pennsylvania.
